Mr. Dumble said the only reason was that one member moved it and another seconded it and it was carried. Those who voted for the increase felt that the teachers should have salaries upon which they could live comfortably.

Mr. Cox said he had voted for this motion as he had always thought the teachers had not sufficient salaries. He had not perhaps sufficiently thought of it. Mr. Rutherford's remarks had much force in them, and it appeared some members had their pet teachers. Mr. Campbell, he believed, should have his salary raised to what it was formerly, and thought it would be well to refer the report back to a committee.

Mr. Toole disputed the statement that a few teachers had been picked out for favours. He related the circumstances of the increase of the public school teachers' salaries at last meeting, when it was not asked for except by one or two. It was then understood that the salaries of these two high school teachers would be raised. At one time, when times were hard, he had striven to keep down the salaries, but now that the expenses of living had increased, he believed they should be increased.

Mr. McClelland said this question was up before the board for months. The members had no pet teachers. From the reports of the best examiners the work centred on these two teachers was superior to that of any others. It would be a difficult task to replace either of them, as they were both competent and very efficient teachers. He hoped the report would be sustained.

Mr. Poussette said he was the member of the committee who had moved for the increase. He had no pet teacher in the school—in fact he scarcely knew Mr. McKee. He considered these teachers should have their salaries raised, as the work done by them entitled them to a higher salary. He believed the matter should be disposed of to-night, and not shirk the responsibility by throwing it upon the shoulders of the new board.

Mr. Denne thought if one salary was raised others should also be raised. He was opposed to making any changes in the salaries this year at all; but since others had received increases it was but fair that these two should be dealt with in the same manner.

Mr. Dumble believed in living and letting live. Teachers had to keep up appearances and it was impossible to live comfortably on $400 a year. Then there were ladies who were doing good work and they were entitled to fair salaries. After going over the Public School teachers it was asked why increase the salaries of the staff of one portion of our schools and not raise those of the High School teachers. The intention of the Committee was to grade the rooms and pay the teachers fair living salaries.

Mr. Cox said he had evidently been misunderstood as to his remarks—he had not objected to raising the salaries. If the Classical Master was a competent teacher then he should be restored to his former salary; if he was not a good teacher then let him go. He believed, however, the Classical Teacher was a competent man, and he felt his salary should be raised to its former figure.

Mr. Poussette thought the different rooms should be graded on an equitable basis, and the report now before them carried out this scheme. Let a certain salary be attached to a certain work and let this matter be settled at once.

Mr. Stratton as a young member of the Board wanted to act cautiously in voting away the ratepayers' money, but on looking into this matter he felt that Mr. McKee should have his salary raised. By comparing the salaries paid here with other Canadian towns he found our salaries were as high as any. However, as the Committee on Appointments, comprising as it did the majority of the Board, felt that these salaries should be raised, he would support the report.

Mr. Cox moved in amendment to the motion for the adoption of the report—That the report be referred back to the Committee, with instructions to consider the restoration of Mr. Campbell's salary to its former figure.

Mr. Sawers seconded the resolution.

After a lengthy discussion the amendment was put and lost, and the motion for the adoption of the report carried on the following division:—

YEAS.—Messrs. Dumble, McClelland, Denne, Stratton, Toole, Poussette and Stevenson.

NAYS.—Messrs. Rutherford, Robinson, Best and Sawers.

After passing resolutions arranging for the holding of the election of trustees, and instructing the Secretary-Treasurer to make a demand upon the town for payment of school monies of the year by the 14th of December, the Board adjourned.

POST HOPE.

MAGNIFICENT CAR.—The Midland ds here have just turned out a ment car for the accommodation of of officials. The decoration, which bel of fine art, was the work of Mr. erty. At the rear entrance is the g car, capable of seating five or six with comfort. The structure is p with closets, wash-rooms, heat- rnaces, president's bed-room, and comforts of modern railway accom- modation, in most superb style. Throughout, the workmanship is the best and the material of the finest. The doors are of solid mahogany, the glass in the windows is of the best British plate; the panels are veneered in Hungarian ash and French walnut, with ornamental centre-piece of mahogany; the lining, usually canvas, is of white birch; the lamps are silver-plated; the parlour, which occupies about one half of the car, is commodious and heated by steam pipes. The car wheels are imported and of the Mansel pattern with heavy steel tires. It is furnished with a Baker heater; has a monitor roof, and altogether is very substantial, being built mainly of solid oak. Mr. A. Hugel, the ex-president, is negotiating elsewhere for a complete furnishing in the finest Maroon leather. A week ago last Tuesday the first trial was made, when the President rode to Midland and back. Everything was satisfactory.

ANOTHER WORKS.—The men of the car works are engaged building another set of the said cars, and Wall Car one half to each. It is over fifty feet long, and when built will be one of the best on the road.

Port Hope is said to pay the lowest poor rate-tax of any town in Ontario.

The people along the line of the Midland Railway, between Port Hope and Peterboro' and Lindsay, believe that the Post Office department should arrange for the carrying of the western mails on the afternoon trains, when the G. T. R. is late in the morning for the Midland train to wait. Latterly, when the Grand Trunk has been from an hour and a half to two hours late almost every day, they have had to wait until the next day, for the western papers. The trouble complained of can be remedied by sending the mails by the 4.30 p.m. train. Surely the authorities can give the accommodation asked.

It is said that Dr. W. L. Herriman, late of Port Hope, purposes leaving Orono, and taking up his residence at Lindsay, to take his brother's practice, who is about settling in Dakota.

CONTRACTOR.—Mr. Wheeler has completed his contract for building the line connecting the Toronto and Hamilton with the Midland railway at Woodville junction.

Mr. Ranney, we are informed on the best authority, intends to be a candidate for the Mayoralty, in opposition to all comers.

OUR BARLEY IN OSWEGO.—Up to the 29th of November, the number of bushels of barley shipped from this port to Oswego was 372,235; nearly 100,000 bushels over any other port. The next on the list is Belleville, then Cobourg, and Toronto.

FOOLED ONCE MORE.

MR. EDITOR:—The most of people relish a good story, provided it be a truthful one. Tales of adventure, daring, heroism, dangers of the deep, battles, &c., all have their charms. Who amongst us could read the adventures of Robinson Crusoe half way through, and not have a desire to know the end of it. We confess having the pleas. Now, the first thing we do when we receive our weekly newspaper is to hurriedly glance through it and pick out what we consider the most important items. These are generally distinguished by their headings; but you don't catch us trusting any longer to these glaring impositions. We could laugh at being fooled once or twice, but to get caught a third time is our reason for remonstrating. Two or three weeks since we got to reading what we thought was a very nice story in one of our Toronto weeklies, and towards the end it informed us about St. Jacobs Oil; we only laughed, and said humbug. The week following we noticed another heading, "How Mark Twain Entertained a Visitor." Well, thinking we might learn a little etiquette, in case Mark should take a fancy to send us an invitation, we read it; but by St. Patrick, if they didn't fool us by making Mark interview St. Jacobs Oil. Well, confound it, we exclaimed, but they have got another dose of that St. Jacobs Oil on us again, determined not to be caught so simple next time; but now sir, I admit the corn; along comes our Toronto Mail on Thursday, down we sat, and almost the first thing that caught our eye was the adventures of Captain Paul Boynton; it appeared quite interesting; it told how he had bumped against sharks, &c. At this point we began to feel a little incredulous, because from our knowledge of these gentry, they would relish the captain alive or dead, all the same. However, determined to learn some more of his exploits, we read a little further, when—O, well, it don't matter what we said, you can't find it in any of the dictionaries. I'm—dashed if the captain wasn't oiling himself all over with St. Jacobs Oil, it may be, the more easily to evade the sharks, for we made no further search, our curiosity was satisfied. Now, Mr. Editor, in order to fool us again, it will require to be printed wrong end up. We have made up our mind to look out for anything and everything in the shape of St. or Saint attached to their name.

We are sorry for the readers of any journal to be thus "taken in," so to phrase it, but what can they expect when we editors are caught in the same storm without any protection. Whilst sympathizing with them, we can only admire the ability shown in any enterprise that can thus compel, as it were, the attention of people. When it is considered that only a short time ago St. Jacobs Oil was scarcely known in Canada, and now has so commended itself to the favor of the people of the Dominion as to become the household remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, pains, bruises, chilblains, etc., and all because of its surprising efficacy in these ailments, we think it will be regarded by everybody as a matter of congratulation that we possess, so easily attainable, such a reliable means for the cure of disease. Such is our view of the matter, although we are "fooled," on an average, about five times a week. If St. Jacob can stand it, we've made up our mind to "fight it out on that line, if it takes all Winter."

TRAFFIC RETURNS.—The traffic returns for the Midland and Grand Junction Railways for the week ending Nov. 21st, 1881, were as follows:—

Midland Railway.—Passengers and Mails, $2,964.67; Freight, $3,457.05; total, $6,421.72; as compared with $5,640.34 for the corresponding week of 1880, being an increase of $781.38; and the aggregate traffic to date is $370,066.71, being an increase of $56,959.67 over 1880.

Grand Junction Railway.—Passengers and Mails, $737.85; Freight, $1,435.36; total, $2,173.21; as compared with $1,442.78 for the corresponding week of 1880, being an increase of $730.43; and the aggregate traffic from 1st June to date is $59,676.07, being an increase of $33,225.79 over 1880.

Advice

"Whatever you do, do it Quickly."

This maxim applies to many things, but to none more emphatically than the purchase of a

WINTER SUIT!

People may wonder these frosty mornings why they feel the cold so keenly, and they may continue wondering until they have come and ordered from us a

WARM SUIT and an OVERCOAT!

and discarded the linen duster they have been wearing since summer.

Every man can afford to buy a SUIT from us, because we have them at prices to suit the pockets of everyone.

No establishment gives better satisfaction, with this understanding customers select from our goods and order with the knowledge that if they change their minds afterwards—which they never do—they can bring back the clothes and have their money.

The belief is current, and is warranted by the facts, that if we have not what you want, and at right prices, you cannot secure it elsewhere.

The sale of Overcoats still continues, those in need of one will do well to call early.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Sir John says he would prefer Annexation to Independence. There's loyalty for you!

There is little danger to the Mowat Government so long as Mr. Meredith and the small opposition at his back stand committed to despoil Ontario of territory that rightfully belongs to it.

London Advertiser: Sir John says that the Reform party got into power by "one of the foulest conspiracies that the world had ever seen." We do not just call to mind at present any better description of the Pacific Scandal.

The first volume in English of the evidence taken by the Pacific Railway Commission was issued on Friday. It is one of the most voluminous and useless of official publications yet made in Canada, containing 920 pages and only 14,000 questions and answers. It is being translated into French.

The election in West Northumberland is to take place on Monday, the 19th December, the nomination being on the 12th. At the Conservative Convention in Cobourg on Wednesday, Mr. George Guillet was chosen as the party candidate by a vote of 81 out of the 105 delegates present; the other 24 votes being cast for the Hon. Sidney Smith. Mr. Smith humbly submitted to the dictation of the machine, although complaining of being thus thrown over by his party in his old age.

Hon. Alexander Mackenzie has been nominated to contest East York in the Liberal interests. As Mr. Mackenzie now resides in Toronto, it may be more convenient for him to stand for an adjacent constituency. It is hardly likely that Mr. Mackenzie will abandon his safe constituency in Lambton to try to win back East York, to the Reform field. Mr. Mackenzie represents a perfectly safe constituency now, and he would not be so ungrateful as to desert it when it has shown no disposition to desert him.

Observer, Sarnia: The slight reference that the Tory leaders made to the exodus at the Toronto convention was noted for its barefaced untruthfulness. To assert that the work of repatriation was going on at such a rate as would soon restore to the Dominion every Canadian who had left to find a home in the United States, was to presume to an unparalleled extent upon the credulity and ignorance of the delegates. The report of the U. S. Commissioners shows that during the year ending June 30, 1881, 118,664 Canadians settled in the States—a number greater than the combined white populations of Manitoba and British Columbia.

While the Dominion was paying the travelling expenses of a correspondent of the London Times through the North-West with the Marquis of Lorne, for the purpose of having the advantages of that region spread before the people of Great Britain, the proprietor of the Times was making a tour of the United States. Side by side with the correspondent's pen pictures of the Canadian prairies stand the views of the proprietor, to the effect that the States is the place for the English emigrant to locate in. Who will the English farmer be most likely to believe—the master or the hired man? It is in this way that Canadians are encouraged to build up British power on this continent.

Among the number of representatives from this part who were at the Tory convention not one of them protested against the course pursued by Sir John in regard to the Boundary award. Mr. Carnegie had not the courage to stand up and enter a manly protest against robbing this Province of a large portion of its territory. A few unsophisticated Tories who belong to the Orange order thought of starting a third or distinctively Orange party a short time ago Sir John put his foot on the movement at the convention in a quiet way. The brethren dare not move. Mr. Smith, who is a member of the order, dare not stand up and refer to the order being illegal in the Province of Quebec. They are wholly at the mercy of the man who controls the party. They dare not walk in Montreal. Naturally one would have expected some prominent member of the order would have said something about the matter at the convention. But no. The brethren must suffer and they must not form a third party either. All they are allowed to do is support the chieftain. Nice men these representative Tories are certainly! Sir John is bound to wreak his vengence on the Province because it refused him a seat, and his followers say amen. Probably the electors may give them some new ideas on this subject in the sweet by-and bye.

PROTECTION NO BENEFIT TO LABOR.

The protectionists insist that they are entitled to the eternal gratitude of American labor. But a high tariff does not give the laborer increased comforts or higher wages. The American workman is better off than the workman of Europe, simply because he is enjoying with every other class in the community the advantages of living in a new country of vast natural wealth which is undergoing the process of development and where labor of all kinds is required for that process. That protection does not benefit him is simply shown by the experience of other countries. Wages are higher in England than in France, Germany or Belgium, yet these three are high-tariff countries, while the British artisan is unprotected. The British workman is infinitely better off to-day than he was forty years ago when every article entering into human substance was taxed and protected by a tariff almost as elaborate as our own. But the American laborer is not so well off now as in long tariff days, for if protected industry has benefited him in one direction it has injured him in others, being as it is in the nature of a general levy.—New York World.

FIRST CANADIAN BEET SUGAR.

(From the Montreal Star, Nov., 26th.)

To-day the Pioneer Beet Root Sugar Company, of Coaticook, forwarded the first barrel of beet root sugar manufactured in Canada to the Minister of Agriculture at Quebec. The sugar was forwarded under the official seal of Mr. John Fraser, notary of Coaticook, the seal being fixed in the presence of the municipal authorities. This was done to secure the subsidy of $7,000 per annum for ten years guaranteed by the Provincial Government to the first factory in the Province in operation. The sample, although from the first "jet" made, was nearly a pure white, although containing the impurities of the pipes. A similar barrel was sent to Alderman Hagar, the President of the Company, and will be on exhibition at 4 Hospital street on and after Monday. The pulp from the beets after the sugar is extracted is available for cattle feed. The first car-load arrived in Montreal yesterday, and is finding a ready sale.

A WELCOME TO TRUE ENTERPRISE.

Evidences of substantial prosperity are good to behold. It is a matter of special pleasure to refer to such evidences, as they are indicative of organizing talent and executive ability—none too common even in these days of enterprise and phenomenal activity. These impressions were suggested upon considering the sagacity and energy of the world known house of A. Vogeler & Co., Baltimore, Md., certainly the largest of its kind in the United States, and known most extensively and favorably to the trade everywhere. Established half a century ago and not ashamed of the "day of small things," the house has grown to its present proportions, and attained its enviable status by a strict adherence to the fundamental rules and laws of business, and by persistently hard work, guided by keen foresight and that comprehensive knowledge of the business which is sure to win success in the end. To this old German Drug House success has come and seems to have taken up its permanent residence. We are happy to chronicle these gratifying facts as distinctive evidences of the high mercantile and popular honor in which it is held.

Messrs. A. Vogeler & Co. have recently been in our midst in the person of the managing partner, and established a large branch house in Toronto under the management of Mr. E. H. Wooley. Though the affairs thereof will necessarily be on a somewhat diminished scale, compared with the immense home enterprise at Baltimore Md., the demands of the Dominion will be promptly and fully met with the same care and accuracy as distinguish the transactions of the parent house. Every requisite for facilitating business and rendering absolute satisfaction to their patrons is here to be found in its perfect adaptation.

Then the methods of this house in conducting business with the press is so eminently characteristic, and withal so common-sense and practical, that the journalistic fraternity, without a recognized exception, are its staunch friends. We cannot more fully endorse the firm than to say that our experience exactly tallies lies with that of the papers of the States, from one or two of which we are pleased to quote the following expressions on this important point. The Philadelphia (Pa.) Times says: They conduct their business in the most systematic manner—managing in a way that others may imitate if they could, but which no concern is likely to improve upon. It is a pleasure to deal with a house, which conducts its affairs with such sound judgment, perfect system and praiseworthy promptness as we have found in the transactions of Messrs. A. Vogeler & Co." The St. Paul (Minn.) Pioneer Press observes: "It is indisputably true that all can well learn new lessons from the admirable system of A. Vogeler & Co. Baltimore. Discriminating with the utmost nicety, in every particular, exacting as to every legitimate demand, courteous in everything they say and do, every detail wrought out as perfectly as the machinery of a watch, their operations reaching every civilized language and State on the globe, their capital ample for all and more than any use they have for it—this model house is the ideal advertising customer of reasonable and capable publishers."—Toronto Globe.

SPECTACULAR PREACHING.

Dr. Talmage, the sensational preacher of Brooklyn, succeeds in getting himself advertised over the country in every imaginable way. He is called eccentric by his friends, but there is a wonderful method in all his eccentricities. Every little while he makes a terrible tirade against theatrical representations, but it is hard to conceive of anything more theatrical than the display in his own fine tabernacle on Thanksgiving day, which is described as follows:

The pulpit in the Brooklyn Tabernacle yesterday looked like a section in an exposition. Palmetto trees, cotton plants, sheaves of rice, wheat and rye, stalks of sugar-cane, bunches of milk-white ears of corn with the husks turned back, blocks of mineral, bunches of bananas, grapes, and baskets of fruit almost hid in the pastor from sight. The face of the horse-shoe arch of the gallery was adorned with ears of corn made into the shape of stars, with fan-shaped branches of palmetto, with sheaves of wheat and rye, and the columns underneath were bound with stalks of sugar cane. Baskets of tempting fruit hung from the chandelier, and on the pastor's desk was such a pile of oranges, Malaga and Catawba grapes, pears and apples as to form a temptation to the preacher to eat rather than to speak. The only thing out of season was Mr. Talmage's low shoes.

FOR SEVERE COUGHS AND LUNG COMPLAINTS.—From A. J. Merritt, of Canton, Pa. Gentlemen,—About ten years ago, after having a severe attack of the measles, I was troubled with a severe cough and was threatened with consumption. My father having died at the age of thirty-one with consumption of the lungs, and my aunt having been carried off with the same complaint, it seems to be hereditary in our family. At the time alluded to, I was induced to buy a bottle of DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, and can say conscientiously, I believe it saved my life. I was blacksmithing at the time, and often felt pains in my chest and lungs, which the Balsam relieved. I cheerfully give this statement, and hope that you may have success with so beneficial a preparation. 50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

MORE WEATHER PREDICTIONS.—The New York Herald, which tries its hand at almost everything, has published a forecast of the winter, which is more likely to be correct than those of either Vennor or Otten. It says:—The autumn has been mild and the average temperature east of the Mississippi apparently below the normal. It will not do, however, to count on the continuance of this exceptional mildness, though the humidity of the eastern side of the country, due to the recent heavy rains, will temper the keen blasts of early winter, and may exert a like happy influence on the weather for some time after the winter solstice. After the transient regime of the present high barometer it is likely we shall have another spell of Indian summer weather.

Mr. Sanford Fleming, C.M.G., has taken up his residence permanently in Ottawa. During his attendance at the Congress in Europe, he has attracted the attention of scientific men to his scheme for a common meridian for the world. His proposal has been most favourably viewed, and in a great number of cases strongly supported. It has been decided to hold a Congress of the scientific men of all nations at Washington next July or August when Mr. Fleming's scheme of universal time will be fully considered. It is gratifying to see the sons of Canada occupying prominent positions before the scientific world.

CANADIAN WHEAT.

ITS SUPERIORITY OVER THE AMERICAN ARTICLE.

(Glasgow Herald.)

Chicago is the great centre and export port of the grain trade, and the growers around and the dealers there are now much concerned as to what results shall arise from the development of the British Provinces of Manitoba and Red River. That they have reason to be so the following statistics taken from American sources will show. Let me premise, however that in America the corn trade is not carried on as with us—each holder trying to get the best price he can for his individual lot. There are official experts who grade the wheat into No. 1, No. 2, No. 3, and rejected. Comparing the qualities of American and Canadian wheat we find this result:

	Canadian.	Americas.
No. 1.....	87 per cent.	1 per cent.
No. 2.....	11 "	68 "
No. 3.....	1 "	22 "
Rejected..	1 "	9 "

Besides this general superiority of quality the wheat of Canada makes flour of greater strength than the American. It contains more gluten, while the other contains more starch. The land, too, is more prolific. In Manitoba and Saskatchewan the produce of wheat is 28 bushels per acre; while in Illinois it is 17, in Iowa, Wisconsin and Kansas 10, and in Texas only 8½. The land of Manitoba and the Red River is an alluvial black loam of about 20 inches in depth, requiring no manure; indeed, on some parts wheat has been grown steadily for thirty years without the application of fertilisers. Then, as regards extent, if only one-half of the ground drained by the Red River and its affluents were sown with wheat, the average yield would be 500,000,000 bushels, or more than the entire amount now raised in the United States. Then, as regards cost, the wheat of Manitoba can be raised and delivered at a railroad station at 40 cents a bushel, or, say, 70 cents on board ship at an eastern port, a price with which the most favourably situated portions of the United States cannot compete. The great grain dealers of Chicago seem to anticipate that within ten years Canada will supply the world with wheat, and at prices under those hitherto current.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

A new theory of the so-called fascination of birds by snakes is that the bird mistakes the snake's tongue, which the reptile keeps in rapid and constant motion, for a lively worm, and watches it intently with the anticipation of devouring it.

A Neapolitan gardener, after years of experiment, has produced a camelia with a delicate perfume, and he thinks it probable that these flowers may in the near future be so cultivated as to rival the rose in the fragrance of its odor.

Two Leipic chemists have devised a process for obtaining sugar in a permanently liquid form. This result is said to be effected by adding to a purified sugar solution a small quantity of citric acid, which combines with the sugar and deprives it of its tendency to crystallise.

Some experiments by M. Gautier appear to prove that human saliva possesses, in a milder degree, the same poisonous property as that of serpents. The human saliva injected under the skin of a bird caused death, with symptoms very closely resembling those resulting from serpent bites.

Late investigations of German scientists have shown that the electric light is not only healthier than other methods of illumination in leaving the air purer, but that it increases the power of vision in some respects, especially in distinguishing colors. Red, blue, green and yellow are much more distinct under this light than by daylight.

M. Pasteur has resolved to extend his studies in vaccination to yellow fever, with a view of determining whether or not the disease is due to parasites and can be guarded against by inoculation. A broad field of investigation is open to Pasteur, as it is suggested by his discoveries thus far that all contagious maladies may be due to parasitic growths the virulence of which may be so reduced by his method of inoculation as to render this class of diseases no longer a matter of dread.

Mr. C. Shaler Smith has given the results of extensive observations in relation to the pressure exerted by the wind. The most violent gale recorded by him was at East St. Louis, in 1871, when the wind overturned a locomotive, the force developed in so doing being no less than 93 pounds per square foot. At St. Charles a jail was destroyed in 1877, the pressure required being 84 pounds per square foot. At Marshfield, in 1880, a brick mansion was levelled, the force necessary being 58 pounds per square foot. Below these extraordinary pressures, Mr. Smith instances numerous cases of trains blown off rails, and bridges etc., blown down by gales of 24 to 31 pounds per square foot. In all the examples the lowest force required to do the observed damage has been taken as the maximum power of the wind, although, of course, it may have been higher.

Enthusiasts who make a special study of sun-spots and attendant phenomena believe that the corner-stone of a new science is being laid by discoveries pointing to an intimate connection between solar and terrestrial meteorology. Just what the connection is they are not yet able to clearly define, although electricity is suspected of being the agent through which the effects are manifested upon our planet. It is known that the gaseous envelope of the sun is effected by eruptions of such prodigious magnitude as to be utterly beyond our power of conception, these disturbances appearing to us in the form of rapidly changing spots and protuberances. The eras of the spots—or sun-storms—occur at remarkably regular intervals, a complete cycle of the various stages of activity from maximum to minimum and again to maximum being performed in about eleven years—the so-called "sun-spot period." The sun-spot physicists claim coincidence of the periods of maximum spots and years of great atmospheric and physical disturbance in the earth. The present has been a year of great solar disturbances, while it has been marked by violent storms and earthquakes upon our globe. Further than this, these scientists claim to have recently detected by simultaneous observations minor atmospheric changes as the result of corresponding movements in the sun. Many difficulties attend these observations, but the Astronomer Royal for Scotland and others believe that the state of the sun will some day become an important factor in weather forecasts and like calculations.

"That dog of yours flew at me this morning and bit me on the leg, and now I notify you that I intend to shoot it the first time I see it." "The dog is not mad." "Mad! I know he is not mad. What's he got to be mad about? It's me that's mad."

TEAS! TEAS!

CHINA and JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic use, there is none perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand in the aggregate than TEA.

Notwithstanding the increased demand yet the price of TEAS is lower to-day than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have procured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

FIRST:—A more extended and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea producing countries.

SECOND:—Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and

THIRD:—Increased and closer competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grade, mode, o adulteration, and tests for detection, see "ads" to follow.

SOME PLAIN TALK TO SENSIBLE PEOPLE

!!NEWS!!

Now that the secret's out, we are asked some fifty times daily—"When are you going to Winnipeg?" WE ARE NOT GOING to Winnipeg, for good and sufficient reasons.

We had some time ago made all arrangements to take up a retail trade there and had contracted with property owners to put up for our use one of the finest business places in that city. Owing to alterations in the plans of the capitalists, a block of wholesale buildings are being erected where our retail premises were to stand.

After diligent enquiry, and offering the inducements of an enormous rent, we have been unable to provide ourselves with a suitable location. We have now abandoned the idea of leaving Peterborough at all and shall remain here permanently.

Under the impression that our arrangements with the Winnipeg people were beyond doubt, we concluded an agreement to dispose of the balance of our Stock here on the first of February next, and will therefore have to leave the premises we now occupy. We shall consequently move on that date to our future store, THREE DOORS NORTH of our present stand.

Our old customers, and, we hope, many new ones, will then find us in one of the most convenient and pleasant places to purchase in in town. Our new store (Stethem's old one) will be fitted up in the handsomest manner, with every improvement that experience can suggest. It is our intention to carry on the MILLINERY and MANTLE DEPARTMENTS more extensively than hitherto, and we shall put in a Stock of the freshest and most fashionable kind.

FARM, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD.

Potato Bugs.

A farmer of Monroe Co., N. Y., suggests that the best way to guard against the potato bug is to make provision for them. He says: In every field of early planted potatoes a few rows of some late growing variety should be planted, on which the bugs can concentrate after the early vines have died. It does not need many. The fewer the better, provided they are scattered enough. These hills should be visited twice a day at least for a week or more. In this way a friend of mine last year destroyed literally milk pans of the bugs, from his own and neighbor's fields. Pressing these into hills is preferable to using Paris green, as many of the old beetles would not feed and would thus escape. Another farmer, at Tremont, N.Y., offers the following remedy: Dissolve one pound of saltpetre, two ounces of white arsenic and a half a pound of the cheapest brown soap in three gallons of water, and sprinkle with a watering pot over the growing plants. —Christian Union.

The Cellar for Plants.

Many who have no greenhouse, and cannot afford the room in the dwelling for them, would gladly keep certain tender or half-hardy plants through the winter. For such purpose a cellar answers admirably. Indeed, we know of florists who have constructed cellars expressly for keeping plants through the winter. It is not expected, nor is it desirable, that plants in the cellar should grow. They are merely to be kept—put to sleep, as it were, until the return of spring makes it safe to place them out again. Plants in the cellar, while they should never be wet, ought not to get dust-dry, hence they must be looked to occasionally during the winter months.

A Few Words about Canaries.

All birds at this season require extra food. Canaries should have all through the year German summer rape, Sicily canary and millet seeds mixed in equal parts, and care should be taken to have the seeds fresh and of the best quality. In addition to the seeds, feed canaries daily one-fourth part of a hard boiled egg, both yolk and white, and mix with it one cracker dust as can be taken on a ten cent piece. Fresh water, both for drinking and the bath, and plenty of coarse, washed gravel daily, will usually keep a bird in health. Twice a week give it a piece of sweet apple or lettuce. If the bird has not yet finished moulting, keep him in an even temperature of about 65 or 70 degrees, and let him hang where there is no possibility of a draught blowing on him. If not yet in song, hang a half-inch strip of raw fat salt pork in the cage, and let him pick at it for a week or two. —Golden's Bird Magazine.

Live Stock in Winter.

The farm animals at this season are directly dependent upon the care and attention of the farmer. To pass the winter with profit they must be well kept. Animals are very complicated engines, and must be run by careful engineers. The food they receive is the fuel, and the daily tubbing, cleaning, &c., may be likened to the inspection, cleaning and oiling of the engine. The fuel must be equal to the demand made of the animal engine; also the machinery will be run at a dead mainage, and therefore with diminished profit. When the water is low and the fire almost out, the engine is a source of loss to the owner. On the other hand the fire may be brisk, and the boiler well supplied, but some screw is loose, or a part rubs another too closely and the friction thus produced neutralizes much of the force. So in the animal machine, all the parts must work harmoniously together, or in other words, there must be perfect health to obtain the best results. An animal may have the best of food in sufficient quantity, and still pass a hard winter, and without profit to its owner. Food of the best kind without shelter, is in the animal economy like fuel in an engine that is rusty and loose and out of order. Both are expensive methods of arriving at desired results. It takes too much force to run the machine in both cases. As it is cheaper to have a good engine kept in good order, so it is to have an animal in health and comfort. The thoughtful farmer will see many other points of likeness between the animal machine and the one constructed by human hands, but this is enough to suggest the importance of keeping farm animals in a healthful and comfortable condition by means of warm stables with clean floors and pure air.—American Agriculturist.

Implements 20 to 50 per Cent Loss.

Waggons, plows, harrows, rakes, in short any implement that with good usage and protection will last eight years, will become defective, and generally useless if exposed during four years to dews, rain, and sun. It can not be otherwise. Dew is very destructive to all wood; and sun cracks admit rain and moisture to the interior fibres, to work injury there. To leave the implements thus exposed is a direct loss of 50 per cent., a heavy tax. But, to state it mildly, an implement which, left unprotected, would last say five years, will undoubtedly last six years if always kept dry and in the shade, when not in actual use. This will save one-fifth of its efficiency, or 20 per cent. A few boards, or a straw cover, and attention to having implements always put under, is far more profitable than to "work out" the 20 per cent. to buy new ones.

Woodwork that must be left exposed, will be greatly benefited by a frequent application of paint, or simply a coat of painting oil, and filling up all sun cracks as soon as formed, with such oil. The use of crude petroleum tends to the preservation of wood, and may be applied to all unpainted woodwork of implements. Metal surfaces are saved from rust by a thin coat of lard which has been melted with resin (rosin)—the size of a black walnut to a pint of lard more or less. This forms a sort of varnish, that sheds water and dew. Table knives and forks, and other steel articles to be laid away, if rubbed with the slightest film of this lard-resin mixture will keep bright for a long time. It is easily removed when desired. —Agriculturist.

"ON THE HIP."

This rather inelegant expression, used popularly to indicate that condition of things in which one person holds another obscurely by some circumstance, word or act, finds literal exemplification in the following narrative by Mr. John Rourk, of Ottawa, Canada. Mr. Rourk says: I have been subject to hip disease for 6 or 9 years, and have tried all kinds of remedies, but found nothing to give me any relief until a friend advised me to use St. Jacobs Oil. I tried it, and after using 1½ bottles I am entirely relieved of pain, and have not been troubled since, now nearly six months. This is what people would call getting hip disease "on the trip."

THE QUEBEC ELECTIONS.

As we expected the combined influences of two governments, backed by a militant church system, have carried the elections in the Province of Quebec. Friends of liberty, good government and purity in public life everywhere will regret the result and turn with sorrow from the contemplation of successful political tyranny. Public spirit must be dead in a province where the arts of demagogy, corruption and the open prostitution of power can secure a verdict in favor of such a set of men as comprise the Chapleau administration. No fewer than twenty-two constitutional which in 1878 returned supporters of the Joly Government, returned, avowed supporters of the Government. It is probable that fifty-one assemblies will be found on the Government side of the House, twelve on the Opposition and three Independents, who profess sympathy with the Liberals fighting the Conservatives. This is a larger measure of success than even the supporters of the Government hoped for, and though the completeness of the Conservative victory is a surprise to the Liberals themselves, who were quite cheerful for some time after the polls were closed, they will be better able to ascertain for their own satisfaction the real causes which have operated to produce a result so disastrous to them, but it was quite evident that from the very beginning of the contest the Opposition was for some reason dispirited and demoralized. The Liberals entered upon the struggle disheartened and disorganized, without any hope of victory. There were differences of opinion among the leaders as to the proper course to be pursued by the party. The most prominent leaders had decided to retire from public life. It was only through the cheery, courageous chivalry of their leader, who threw himself into the struggle when he saw that no one else was prepared to take his place, that the Liberals were enabled to make the gallant defence they did. The Government on the other hand entered the struggle confident of victory and with a well-organized company. Notwithstanding the Papal interdict, the clergy did in some places instruct their people from the pulpit to vote for the Government candidates, and interference to a still larger extent was no doubt practised in a less open manner. But in spite of their reversals the Liberals have secured the return of some good men, who, though few in number, can do much in the way of exposing the mal-admistration which they cannot prevent. When we compare the position either side and the principles they represent, we can only account for the success of the Government by the use of money to secure the votes of the needy and indifferent who always hold the balance between parties in contests of this kind. It is gratifying, however, to find that in the most intelligent constituencies the Liberal candidates have been elected. Montreal Centre returned Mr. Stephens, and the West division of the same city Mr. McShane, after a struggle in which the two governments put forth all their strength. Mr. Joly has a Canadian character, who would not stoop to the tricks of the Chapleau Government. In every constitutional country there are two ways of governing. The first was to raise, to elevate the people; the second was to descend to the level of the lowest. The first was the policy of the Liberal party, and the other was that of the Conservatives.

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

The Fenelon Falls Gazette says:—"About twenty delegates from the counties of Northumberland, Hastings, Peterborough and Victoria met at the Queen's Hotel, Toronto, with the object of interviewing Sir John Macdonald, during the sitting of the Conservative Convention, on the Trent Valley scheme. They at once communicated with Sir John, who made an appointment to meet the delegation at 1.30 p.m. on the following day. The delegates attended punctually at the time and place, and waited for a considerable time, but Sir John did not put in an appearance. They then came to the conclusion that the time was not well chosen for interviewing and that Sir John was not anxious to see them. Nothing daunted, however, they followed Sir John from place to place during the whole afternoon, and when they came up with him at dark they were informed that he would give them an audience on Thursday at 11 a.m. As many of the delegates could not wait longer, it was then agreed to put their views on paper and have them presented to Sir John in that shape. In the document that was drawn up they recited the appointment and supposed that the press of business had prevented him keeping it, which they much regretted; that they did not wish to leave the city without making known to him the object of their visit; that the action the Government had taken in surveying the canal route had strongly impressed the people of the counties more immediately interested with the sincerity of their intention to build it; that Sir John's party politics were a secondary consideration to the building of the canal: that if there were any trifling by the Government with the constituencies more particularly concerned, and if the matter should not be vigorously pushed during the next session of Parliament, the delegates gave it as their confirmed opinion that no member representing the party politics of Sir John could be returned for any of the counties lying along the route. The document was signed by all the delegates and placed in the hands of the Hon. D. L. Macpherson, Speaker of the Senate, whose guest Sir John was, and who undertook to personally present it. The document was of such a character as to suggest an answer.

THE SADDEST OF SAD THINGS.—The grey locks of age being brought in sorrow to the grave is now, we are glad to think, becoming rarer every year as the use of Cingalese Hair Restorer becomes more general. By its use the silvery locks of age once more resume their former color and the hair becomes thick and luxuriant as ever; with its aid we can now defy the change of years, resting assured that no Grey Hair at any rate will come to sadden us. THE NEWS FROM IRELAND.

DUBLIN, Dec. 5th.—There have been 55,000 applications thus far to the land court. They are increasing at the rate of five hundred daily. No doubt as soon as the ten commissioners which have been appointed get to work the applications will greatly increase. There have been only 178 decisions as a result of four weeks' work. At this rate it would take over six years to decide the cases already before the court. Before the year is passed there will have been 150,000 applications.

The report of the eviction expedition will shortly be made to the islands along the coast. The most important of these is Divisky, the inhabitants of which are believed to be determined to resist and be threatened with dynamite.

Outrages are evidently increasing in Ireland, both in number and in audacity, and the prospect for the coming winter grows steadily darker. A larger number of arrests were made on Saturday, some on suspicion of murder and others under the Coercion Act. Miss Reynolds, the lady Land Leaguer, who has been making herself so prominent, will appear in Court to explain her conduct.

THE SCHOOLMASTER ABROAD.—The trustees of a school section in North Dumfries received no less than 65 applications for a teacher, some of which were unique and original, and almost all wretched in composition and penmanship. The following is selected by the Galt Reformer as a fair example:—

Verona, Nov. 5th, 1881.

Sir, I am the holder of a second-class certificate, I received my professional training in the Normal School at Toronto. My salary is $168.

My P. S. I. will recommend me if needed. My post office is Verona.

Yours respectfully,
Isaiah Orser.

If you get this please answer soon.

This, at least, possesses the merit of being brief, but that is the sole redeeming feature about it. It is needless to say that the "soul of wit" did not receive the school.

A PUBLIC MEETING should be called of the citizens of every city, town and village in the Dominion, to consider what should be done to prevent the hair from turning Grey—and falling out. If this important question received their earnest consideration they would unanimously decide that science had at last discovered something that would answer this purpose—and furthermore would recommend Cingalese Hair Renewer as being this something for restoring the hair to its natural color, and prevent its falling out. 50 cents per bottle. 47-ly

"There was a sound of revelry by night,"

NOT THE SLIGHTEST AFFINITY exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop and Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, its equal nothing else. It embodies the best results of pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs, when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected) colds, bronchitis and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure Consumption it is the most reliable means of defence against that dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites refurbish the system shattered by the constant tear and wear of disease, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence. In consequence of the combined action of the cod liver oil upon the liver and lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it are all natural components in the construction of the bodily organs, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of these elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it. Prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto and sold by all druggists.

PEOPLE TORMENTED by the many disagreeable sensations produced by dyspepsia, or are thin, nervous and weak, should use the standard tonic—Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine. They will find it agreeable and beneficial. It enriches the blood by aiding digestion and assimilation; soothes and invigorates the nervous system, and imparts a healthful appetite. When used as a remedy for bilious and intermittent fever, it produces the happiest results, if taken between the attacks. Convalescence is hastened, and untimely decay of the physique and constitution is arrested by it. The spirituous constituent, sherry wine, is of the best quality, and the aromatics combined with it renders its flavor additionally pleasant. They who use it gain flesh as well as strength and it exerts a cheering influence upon the mind. It promotes a healthy secretion and flow of bile, sound reposed and regularity in the action of the bowels. If judiciously used it may be taken without apprehension of any ill result by persons of the most delicate constitution. A fair trial is all that is needed to prove the genuineness of its claims to public confidence, and to the truth of the general verdict in its behalf. No article of its class commends its self so strongly to nervous invalids who require building up—none is so well adapted to fortify the system against the dangers which threaten the debilitated. It should not be mistaken for a mere stimulant of appetite, which so many so-called tonics simply are. It so regulates the stomach that it is enabled to perform its various functions with regularity and vigor, and its action is not only thorough but prompt. Ask for the "Quinine Wine of Northrop & Nyman." Sold by all druggists

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

Letter from Dr. G. W. Strathy, so long known in Toronto as a most thorough and accomplished musician:

TORONTO, 20th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,

I remain Gentlemen,

ANDERSON'S

A COOL DETECTIVE.

The rule highwaymen in the mining camps seldom operate upon a stage coach with D. S. M. on it. They know the initials stand for the United States mail, and are a pledge that the whole power of the Government will be used to capture them.

Detectives in the Government service are quiet men, courteous in manner and low in speech. Mr. Hayes tells, in his book on 'New Colorado,' of one of the craft, who wore gold spectacles and looked like a German professor. He quite alone took two mail robbers who rode north of Texas. At one place his friends planned a rescue. He had informed his prisoners that, while his friends would undoubtedly kill him, he might be sure that the first motion they made would send them into eternity. Not a man of the party moved a finger.

Upon occasion a celebrated detective was riding on a stage which was attacked by two masked men. The first he knew was that two revolvers were thrust in the coach windows with the command, 'Throw up, gentlemen.' The highwaymen 'had the drop' on the passengers, which meant in their military parlance the certainty of being able to shoot without being harmed themselves. Under the circumstances, the detective was compelled to give up watch and money. When the robbers left he put his hand down to the 'boot' and to his delight it contained a carbine. Asking the driver to go a little further and then stop and wait for him, he went back alone.

Two men, suspicious of danger, were dividing up the spoils in the middle of the road. This was just what the detective had calculated upon.

'Up, you scoundrels, it's my turn,' he cried covering them with the revolving carbine. 'Throw up your hands or I shoot.'

The robbers, at his command, stepped to one side, holding up their hands, but picked up their revolvers. It was many minutes before the astonished stagecoast saw the two highwaymen quietly walking down the road, the cool detective following. They locked them in the coach and finally lodged them in jail.

The detective was General Charles Fitzhugh, who subsequently went among the Indians alone and secured the release of several women captives from the White River agency.

THE PRICES AND PROVENDER.

Hotel keepers have to face a serious increase in the rise in provisions of all kinds. This rise was not plainly to be seen in the late summer and early autumn, but it is now here and with no promise of abatement till another crop. Indeed, of abatement we may look for an increase, prices for eight months to come. It is plain that boarding contracts, made on the basis of flour, potatoes and other provisions at the late summer price cannot be fulfilled only at a ruinous loss. It is not unusual to have a rise in flour or meats, or some other article, but it is complemented by a fall in potatoes, turnips, parsnips, onions and vegetables generally which reduce the table to reduce the consumption of the high priced articles. But now, when there are meats, lard, syrup, flour and all high, but our commonest and cheapest vegetables are at a figure that almost makes them luxuries For hotel and boarding houses there is only one avenue of escape—the increase of price to meet the increase of cost, and the whole difficulty is faced the better for all concerned. Fuel, too, is high and will remain so, no decline need be looked for the winter, though we may have a readier supply than last winter.

ONTARIO'S SCHOOLS.

Having made inquiry into the alleged excessive nature of the programme now in the public schools the Globe draws the following conclusions:—(1). That the school programme should be revised, (2). That the rigid grading is at best with many disadvantages, and it is advisable that some subjects should be made optional or forced upon only those who have reached a certain measure of thoroughness in such subjects as reading, spelling, arithmetic, grammar, and perhaps history. Were we to pursue the school system would be justly accused of producing superficiality. The time occupied in lessons by the optional or extra subjects could be utilised by the slower pupils or weak and nervous pupils in the limited tasks. This plan would lessen the hours required for home study. Those upon whom that work falls heavily, and it would not interfere unduly with the progress of those of normal quickness or vigorous constitution can bear a larger amount of work. A third reform which appears desirable is that the combined examinations should not cover as many subjects as they do. Papers should be set only in the leading branches which nearly all are required to study. This would encourage the slow, who need encouragement and are entitled to praise for achieving success. The examinations, as a rule, require but little study.

DOCTORS DISAGREE, WHO SHALL DECIDE?

—Nothing is more variable than the different opinions of medical men: what they fail to agree, or to perform in a chronic disease, the patients decide for themselves, and take Burdock Blood Bitters, and speedily realize. It is the grand key to health which unlocks all the secretions, and [illegible] 48-2t

ITS WORK IN STRATHROY.

It often happens that the opinion of an experienced man, an expert, if we may call him, carries greater force than a recommendation of certificates, unaccredited testimony. And then, too, personal experience or observation is so much more convincing than mere assertion. Trained to habits of [illegible] from the very nature of their duty constantly investigating the most positive proofs [illegible] as a class, hesitate very long before endorsing anything of a remedial character unless the virtues have been established through the public press. St. Jacobs Oil, however, is so universally successful and so unvaryingly accomplishes all that it promises that the able chemist, W. J. Dyer, Esq., of Medical Hall, Strathroy, Ont., assists with his friendly recommendation, the following from David Harrison, Esq., 6th Con., Township of Caradoc:—Having suffered with inflammatory rheumatism since last July, and hearing of St. Jacobs Oil, I sent for a bottle of the article on the 15th of October. At that time I was confined to the house, and could not possibly get out of bed without assistance. After four applications of the Oil the pain ceased entirely, and I was able to go about Strathroy in less than a week. I cannot give too much praise to St. Jacobs Oil for what it has done for me, and I believe it to be a most reliable remedy in rheumatism. Its wonderful efficacy should be brought to the knowledge of everybody.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Take in your awnings.

The joyous holiday season will soon be with us.

Muffs of velvet and lace will be much in vogue this winter.

When a man tells a story he thinks is funny and the crowd does not catch on, his face falls naturally. It is affected by the force of gravity.

If a two-wheeled vehicle is a bicycle and a three-wheeled a tricycle, it does not follow that the one-wheeled is an iocycle. It is a wheel-barrow.

Every proverb fails when too arbitrarily applied. Never judge an insurance man by the company he keeps. It is really his company that keeps him.

Another Presbyterian church in Toronto has decided to get in an organ. Why not? The real objection to an organ in church services is when the organ is a poor one or poorly played.

A dastardly fraud is said to have been recently practised upon the inhabitants of the Cannibal Islands by the American Missionary Society. Missionaries with cork legs and arms have been sent among them.

When you are telling a friend a joke poke him in the ribs. He'll be more interested in the yarn, and can put a mustard plaster on the sore when he goes home.

A poor young man remarks that the only advice he gets from capitalists is "to live within his income," whereas the difficulty he experiences is to live without an income.

You should always require a receipt,
For money you lend on the streipt,
For there's many a debt,
Which would never be mebt,
If a chance was discovered to cheipt.

A western coroner's jury returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death from exposure. "What do you mean by that?" asked a relative of the dead man. "There are two bullet-holes in his skull." "Just so," replied the coroner; "he died from exposure to bullets."

A GOOD THING TO KNOW.—Professor Herrmann, the wonderful magician, known throughout the world for his skill, used St. Jacobs Oil for a severe attack of rheumatism in the shoulder, and was cured by it. He considers St. Jacobs Oil a valuable preparation.

Some people's religion is good for ordinary occasions, but it fails in a long drought and a heavy rain. It is like the faith of the old lady who, when riding down a steep hill, trusted in Providence until the breeching broke and then though it was about time for her to take care of herself.

A short road to health was opened to those suffering from chronic coughs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, lumbago, tumors, rheumatism, excoriated nipples or inflamed breast, and kidney complaint, by the introduction of the inexpensive and effective remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

H. F. McCarthy, Wholesale and Retail Druggist, Ottawa, writes:—"I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in doses of five drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use.

MILLIONS GIVEN AWAY.—Millions of Bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, have been given away as Trial Bottles of the large size. This enormous outlay would be disastrous to the proprietors, were it not for the rare merits possessed by this wonderful medicine. Call at Taylor & Macdonald's Drug Store, and get a Trial Bottle free, and try for yourself. It never fails to cure.

If you are suffering with low and depressed spirits, loss of appetite, general debility, disordered blood, weak constitution, headache, or any disease of a bilious nature, by all means procure a bottle of Electric Bitters. You will be surprised to see the rapid improvement that will follow; you will be inspired with new life; strength and activity will return; pain and misery will cease, and henceforth you will rejoice in the praise of Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle, Taylor & Macdonald, Agents.

CARE OF CARPETS.—Carpets should be thoroughly beaten on the wrong side first and then on the right, after which spots may be removed by the use of ox gall or ammonia and water. If paper has been laid under the carpet, all dust may be easily removed with it without raising any. The warmth of floors is greatly increased by having carpet lining or layers of paper under it.

TO DRY APPLES after the manner of dried Normandy pippins: boil the fruit till moderately soft, then take them out and peel them, and place them in an oven heated as for bread. Leave them there for twenty-four hours, or until the oven be very nearly cold. It will be necessary to examine the fruit while in the oven, lest it should be charred. When the moisture has been dried out of them, and they become of a light brown color, press them with the hand until they resemble flat cakes. In this state they will keep any length of time; and when required for use, are restored by immersion for some hours in hot water. Try two or three kinds of apples, and judge them which description answers the best for this drying.—Girl's Own Paper.

The Marquis of Bute is an experienced shipowner. He will run a daily paper in Wales for the Parliament, and cheerfully the enterprise has cost him £100,000 out.

Prefix young lady: "How much is this a yard?" Smart young clerk: "Only one kiss." "It is so cheap, I will take three yards, and grandma will pay you."

ASK YOUR DEALER for "Castorine Machine Oil," and see that the barrel is branded "Castorine," as none other is genuine. 1-ly

Post-office clerk—"Here! your letter is over weight." Pat—"Over what weight?" P. C.—"Its too heavy; put another stamp on it." Pat—"Och, git out wid your foolin. Sure if I put another stamp on, won't it be heavier still?"

USE "CASTORINE MACHINE OIL" for all kinds of machinery. It is also excellent for Harness and Leather, making it water and weather proof. For sale by dealers. 1-ly

MANUFACTURERS of Reapers, Mowers and Threshing Machines prefer "Castorine Machine Oil" to any other. It will outwear Lard, Seal or Elephant, and is guaranteed not to gum. 1-ly

"Doctor," said one of the best young men in society, "doctor, I guess there is something the matter with my brain; I know there is. What shall I do about it?" And the doctor calmly but firmly said he guessed it needed a little exercise as much as anything else; and now the best young man goes round saying the doctor is a fool.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold at 50 cents per bottle. 47-ly

An inquisitive old gent poked his head in a printing office door and asked "Who is dead?" The man at the wheel answered, "Nobody that I have heard of." The old gent asked, "What is that crape on the door for?" The boss went out and found that the "devil" had hung the job office towel on the door knob while he chased a lame pigeon up an alley. Fact.

USE THE celebrated "Lardine Oil" on your machinery. Best and cheapest oil in the market. Does not clog or gum. Has good heavy body and will not thin in summer. Sold in Peterborough by Messrs. McKee & Davidson; and in Lakefield by W. H. Casement. Try it and you will use no other. 25-52t

Jones was always complaining of his wife's memory. "She never can remember anything," said poor Jones; "it's awful!" "My wife was just as bad," said Brown, "till I found out a capital receipe." "What is it!" said Jones eagerly. "Why," said Brown, "whenever there's anything particular I want the missus to remember, I write it down on a slip of paper and gum it on the looking-glass." Jones is now a contented man.

HONESTY.—It is commonly said that you cannot make an honest man believe that white is black and vice versa, but those who have grey hair, by using the "Cingalese Hair Renewer," will find that this apparent difficulty is overcome. For sale at 50 cents per bottle. 47-ly

An old rancher told a Sunday-school missionary, who had penetrated the wilds of Texas in order to prosecute his work where he deemed it to be most needed, that the region thereabouts had already been "herded, lariated and belled by the devil." The good man did not understand this figure of speech well enough to be discouraged by it, and he now has a flourishing Sunday-school there.

A POPULAR REMEDY.—Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is one of the most deservedly popular remedies for the cure of coughs, colds, sore throat, asthma, whooping cough, croup, bronchitis, and all pulmonary complaints. For sale by all dealers. 48-2t

"Have you spoken to pa about that yet," anxiously inquired the oldest daughter of an indulgent mother. "No, my child, not yet. Your father is too busy with his creditors to think of phaetons and russet harness to match just now." "Bother the creditors," was the snappish reply. "That's just what your father is doing my dear. After he has compromised at fifteen cents to the dollar you shall have your turnout."

"WHAT EVERY ONE SAYS MUST BE TRUE."—And every one who has tested its merits speak warmly in praise of Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam as a positive cure for all throat and lung complaints, coughs and colds, sore throat, bronchitis, and incipient consumption. 48-2t

CRIMINAL SNORING.—The magisterial authorities of the county of Elgin have been called upon to decide a very delicate question, whether it is against the peace of Her Most Gracious Majesty, her crown and dignity, to snore in church. They could find no precedent, and so fell back on the old magisterial stand-by, dismissing the case, each party to pay their own costs.

DYSPEPSIA.—That all prevalent disease of civilized life, is always attended with a disordered sympathetic system and bad secretions, and no remedy is better adapted to its cure than Burdock Blood Bitters taken according to special directions found on every bottle. 48-2t

"Do you love me?" "Yes," she answered, "better than anything else in the world. It's a beautiful night for a moonlight drive." A moonlight drive would cost at least three dollars, and as he agitated seventeen cents in his trousers pockets, he surveyed the lunar orb with a knowing gaze, and remarked: "I should do so, happy to take you, but it's a wet moon, and you know you are so liable to catch cold, dear." The next morning the disappointed maiden observed to her mother, "Charley and I are quits. He knows a heap about the weather, but he's a perfect ignoramus about me."

A REAL NECESSITY.—No house should be without a bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, in case of accident. There is no preparation offered to suffering humanity that has made so many permanent cures, or relieved so much pain and misery. It is called by some the Good Samaritan, by others the Cure-all, and by the afflicted an Angel of Mercy. 48-2t

"What's wrong between you and Smythe, that you don't speak?" "Haw! fact is, we were both rivals for the hand of the same young lady, a celebrated beauty, you know! and, well, I don't want to brag, but I got the best of it. Pour Smythe!" "My dear fellow, a thousand congratulations!" "Thanks awf'ly. We both proposed last week, you know, and she accepted—a—him!"

WEAK LUNGS AND HOW TO MAKE THEM STRONG.—Breathe with the mouth closed, have access at all times to pure air, exercise moderately, eat nourishing but simple food, and take that best of all cough remedies, Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, it speedily cures all throat and lung troubles of adults or children. Price 25 cents per bottle. 48-2t

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

A GOLDEN WEDDING.

On Tuesday, the 6th instant, Thomas Fife, Esq., of Otonabee, and wife, celebrated the anniversary of their fiftieth wedding day. A very large number of children, grand-children, relatives and friends were present, the spacious residence being pretty well filled with persons of various ages, from 85 years to that of a few months. A very pleasant time was spent in reviewing and relating the early scenes and events of the eastern section of this county, as several members of the first white families which settled in Asphodel and Otonabee were present, and could well remember when, for several months, they did not see the face of any outside of their own family, except that of an Indian and two squaws, who made them a passing visit, probably for trading purposes.

Mr. Thomas Fife is the seventh of ten sons of Mr. John Fife, who settled with his family in Otonabee in 1820. Crossing Rice Lake in the spring of that year he settled with his family on Lot 22, in the 4th concession, where his eldest son, Mr. John Fife still resides. The whole was then a wilderness, but in that year several Scotch families cast their lot there, many of whom remain there yet, but many have fallen asleep. In the same year, Mr. John Beckett settled in Asphodel, a few miles from Mr. Fife. Mr. Fife had seven sons living, three having died in Scotland. Mr. Beckett had three sons and six daughters, and there appears to have arisen a more than usual neighborly friendliness between the two families, drawn together as they were by early associations, no doubt; but it would appear by more than mere associations, as three of Mr. John Fife's sons loved and wooed and wed three of Mr. John Beckett's daughters—Mr. Thos. Fife being one of those three sons.

Their union for life was consummated on the 6th of December, 1831, and before bachelor or maiden life had had any undue effect on their tempers or dispositions, as he was not yet 21 years, and she was seventeen. The same season they settled on the 200 acres, the present homestead, and he set himself to subdue the forest and to assist in the reduction of the wilderness and make it blossom as the rose, and chiefly to make a home for himself and his then young bride. Like most of his countrymen who settled in Canada, he was industrious and careful, and succeeded beyond his anticipations. He cleared the farm, erected substantial buildings on it, and was cheered with a large family of six sons and six daughters—large families being no uncommon addenda to early settlers, but especially to Fifes and Becketts, as we learn that some of those families now number over one hundred descendants, consisting of sons, daughters, their partners, children and grandchildren.

Mr. Fife became prosperous, in a worldly sense. Gave to each of four of his sons 200 acre farms of excellent quality and in prosperous neighbourhoods not far from him. Dr. Fife, well-known in Peterborough, is his eldest son, whose absence on the occasion was touchingly referred to, he being detained through the illness of Rev. Mr. Fletcher, his father-in-law, who suddenly and unexpectedly was affected by paralysis on Sunday night, but his five children were present. Eight of Mr. Fife's family are living, four sons and four daughters. Two sons and two daughters are dead. A group of 50 photographs, neatly arranged, gave a condensed view of this branch of the Fife family.

Over one hundred persons sat down to a very sumptuous dinner, between 30 and 40 of whom were children and grandchildren, while many of them were unavoidably absent, some residing in Manitoba, and some in Western Ontario.

After fully discussing the good things provided, and after friendly conversation on things past, present and future, the youngest son of Mr. Fife, true to the ancestral annals came into the middle of the assemblage accompanied by a young wife, with a lovely babe in her arms, and as Rev. Mr. Harper was present he performed the ceremony of Baptising it after the manner of the Methodist church. This being over and as the evening was close approaching, when all would have to separate, Mr. Stratton said that all meetings on earth were followed by parting and much as all present would wish to remain and enjoy the pleasure of friendly conversation, we had to obey the general law, separate—but before doing so he moved that Rev. Mr. Harper take the chair, which he did. Mr. Harper then in very happy terms alluded to the cause of the numerous assemblage which surrounded him, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding day of the host and hostess. He said it gave him great pleasure to be among them, and he had spent a very enjoyable time, and he was sure he was expressing the minds of all present in wishing to Mr. and Mrs. Fife a long continuance of the happy years spent together. During his acquaintance with Mr. Fife, he had found him a very honorable, respected and worthy man, and all present were witnesses of the reward of industry, integrity and perseverance. The numerous relatives and extensive friendly associations attest the success of the young couple, who fifty years ago that day plighted their troths for life, and he hoped that they would long live to enjoy the comforts with which they were surrounded and that their numerous offspring would call them blessed.

Mr. Stratton being called on said that he could hardly find fitting terms to express the pleasure it gave him to be present at the Golden wedding of the esteemed host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Fife. His acquaintance of fourteen or fifteen years was a comparatively short one, but as it increased he felt always that Mr. Fife deserved esteem for his sterling honesty of character and purpose, and he could add to the testimony already given, that these characteristics had been abundantly rewarded in his own success, and the success of his children, all in comfortable and respectable positions. He felt sure also that Mr. Fife had left the impress of his character on his family, which would go on impressing future generations, with noble and sterling principles which must be promotive of good for many years after he had slept with his fathers. The scene they had just witnessed in the dedication of a child to God, led him to believe that Mr. and Mrs. Fife had also implanted religious principles in the breasts of their children which would be of untold consequences in the different spheres in which their children and children's children might pass through life. He felt that he could not do justice to the subject, and therefore rather than attempt and fail he would propose the health of Mr. and Mrs. Fife.

Thos. Blezard Esq., M.P.P. seconded the proposal, and in doing so spoke in eulogistic terms of Mr. Fife as a parent and as a neighbour, whom he had known since he knew anybody, and a gentleman who always exhibited the most friendly feeling towards him. He therefore joined heartily in wishing the health of Mr. and Mrs. Fife.

In reply, Mr. Fife gave a very tender account of his fond union, jocularly remarking that he had never been a free man, as he had first bound himself for life, when a boy, but that union he could not now wish to be severed. He hoped it would be coeval with their earthly career. In very touching words he referred to the absent ones, and thanked all present for thus aiding in calling to mind a pleasing episode in his early history.

After three cheers for Mr. and Mrs. Fife, the company sang Auld Lang Syne—when, after a most enjoyable time, many left for their own homes, tendering to their host and hostess their warmest congratulations, and wishing them many more anniversaries of their happy union.

PERSONAL.

Rev. I. Campbell, of Richmond Hill, was in town during the past week.

Mr. A. D. Braithwaite, formerly of the Bank of Montreal here, is in town on a visit.

Mr. John Dixon, of Oshawa, has returned home from Winnipeg, where he has been speculating in land.

Mr. S. A. Marling, Inspector of High Schools, visited the Collegiate Institute here last week.

On Sunday night the Rev. Ashton Fletcher, father of Mrs. Dr. Fife, was suddenly affected by paralysis. As he is in his 79th year many feared that he would not be able to rally after the shock; but we are glad to be able to say that up to our going to press Mr. Fletcher appears to be somewhat easier and his friends more hopeful.

We had the pleasure of a call on Wednesday from Mr. W. T. McIntyre, general manager of the Sun Life Assurance Company for Eastern Ontario, and Mr. A. Waldie. The latter gentleman has been appointed agent here for this popular company and will shortly take up permanent residence in Peterborough and look after the business of the company here. The Sun is a good company, and Mr. Waldie will no doubt receive a share of the life business done here.

Dr. McInnes, who has been in Peterborough during the past week, is mentioned as a probable Senator for Manitoba. In this connection an exchange says:—"We note that Dr. McInnes, M.P. for New Westminster, B.C., writes to a friend in Victoria that he has been appointed to the Senate. It is not believed the new Senator will succeed Senator Cornwall, who was recently appointed Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, but rather that he has got one of the vacant senatorships in the east. He has left the Pacific Province for good, and intends, we believe, to reside in Manitoba. He is represented as having made $80,000 in Winnipeg since he went there last spring.

MR. N. BATES, of Cardiff, writes us, denying that the visitor to his place from the United States brought the infection that is causing the spread of Diphtheria in the northern townships of this county, which has already been referred to by one of our correspondents.

GAUNTLET LOST.—Lost on Wednesday morning, on the Market, a ladies' black leather gauntlet, lined with white fur. The finder will confer a favour by leaving it at this office.

We candidly ask every person, of whatsoever political party, if the cost of living is not greater in Canada now than at any previous time.

OUR IRON BRIDGE.

Some of our merchants are rather wroth over the report that the wooden bridge which connects the two sides of the village is to be taken down next week, just as the holiday trade is beginning to come in. They should have entered their protest before this late hour, as the Toronto Iron Bridge Co. will no doubt suit their own convenience, as long as they can do so within the terms of agreement with the County, and those terms should have been known to our business men if they read the local papers.

CORRECTION.

I notice an item in your last from a Mr. Bates, of Cardiff, in reference to my assertion that a lady visitor, with her children, were means of bringing Diphtheria into Burleigh and Cardiff. He denies such was the case, but coming from the source it does, I will only repeat my assertion, and state for his information, that if he or his friend will re-visit Burleigh they will meet with such a reception as will convince them that there are plenty to back me up in my opinion

QUARRELSOME BAKERS.

Our two bakers are in a continual turmoil as to who shall supply our citizens with the "staff of life." As the winter sets in, when most parties bake their own bread, the rivalry has become more keen. Last Thursday an exciting race took place to see which would supply the Smith customers with bread. Both waggons were close together, but as the leading one crossed the creek in Sutton's Swamp the front axle broke in the middle, and horse and cart ran into the drain in a heap, while our usually quiet friend drove past with yells, which astonished the men engaged cutting wood near by, who now believe that "there is none so blind as those who cannot see."

FORESTERS' ENTERTAINMENT.

The entertainment or social given by the Foresters last Thursday evening was one of the best, if not the best, of the kind ever given in the village. The members of Clementi Lodge, A. F. & A. M., kindly granted the use of their lodge room, which adjoins the Foresters hall, and it was used as a reception room. Over fifty were present, and passed the evening in conversation, &c., until supper was announced, when all adjourned into the hall, where a handsome supper table was awaiting them. After justice was done to the oysters and other good things provided, the company proceeded to enjoy themselves with carpet balls, card tables, and with the following musical programme:—Song, W. Graham; Song, Miss Clarin; Reading, Mrs. W. Graham; Song, Mr. S. Henderson; Recitation, Miss Wood; Song, Miss Clarin. A pleasant evening was closed by singing the Foresters' closing ode, and all parted, trusting to meet again soon, for, as some of the ladies remarked, "it is no wonder that you gentlemen like your lodge room, when it is so bright and comfortable, but all you want to make it perfect is the presence of us ladies." Yes, just so; but then, where ignorance is bliss, &c. The latter is the remark of an old bachelor, just initiated—but we intend to have another soon.

APSLEY STAGE.

An editorial in last week's Review anent the Apsley mail route is unfortunate for its writer, in so far as facts are concerned, and goes little way to prove that the service as now carried on is not a farce, or that a change for the better could not be made. The mail is seldom or never used by Lakefield or Peterborough business men. If a letter is mailed from here by it, it is not delivered until the following day, as the bag is not opened the same night it arrives in Peterborough; while on the other hand the mail arrives here between 10 and 11 a.m., but a short time before the train with the regular mail, and although the Review goes to press on Thursday evening we do not receive it until Friday afternoon, notwithstanding the stage comes up in the morning. The cause assigned, we believe, is that the Lakefield edition would make the mail too bulky for the stage (?); but, as a special favor, the daily edition is sent by that route to subscribers here. As regards the cost, it no doubt pays the present contractor to run it from Peterborough; but it is all nonsense to say it cannot be done for less. A stage cannot be run 9 miles a day for nothing. The people in the back country would receive late papers and letters just as soon as at present, but two hours earlier if the stage left here, while letters for Peterborough would be received but little later than at present. And again, the stage comes up here loaded with freight for the owner's store in Apsley, so that passengers from this point have to wait over or take a private conveyance. Like the Trent Valley, we mean to agitate until we obtain what is due us in Lakefield.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

The time is fast drawing near when another election for new trustees will be held to take the place of those retiring, and of others, who, report say, will resign. In the past the interest taken in School matters by our ratepayers has been very slight indeed, with a few exceptions, and those only on personal grounds. The rule has been to allow any one to be elected without reference to their personal attainments—in fact parties have been elected and compelled to act against their own wishes (owing to the School Law) who felt themselves that they were entirely unfitted for the position, as owing to the want of facilities for education in their early youth they are now unable to visit school and ascertain for themselves the progress made in the different departments, or to grasp the changes required, or the value of the different systems adopted, having to take the opinion of others in place of judging for themselves. Such a course will, in the long run, prove prejudicial to the best interests of the school. The work of visiting will fall on two or three, who will in time either become disgusted with their over-work or will gradually run the management of the school into a groove which will retard its progress and cripple its usefulness. Some of our Trustees have been long on the Board, and who have taken a great interest in the welfare of the School, have taken the trouble to post themselves on the school laws, and to observe by personal inspection how those laws affected the efficiency of the work done. The value of such men on the Board is great, and their efforts should be appreciated, while it is to such a class of men the task of maintaining the future good name which our School now holds should be entrusted. It is not my wish to cast any reflection on any member of the Board, past or present, but rather to stimulate a better interest among our ratepayers into the affairs of that important institution, so that it will continue to be a pride and benefit to our village.

ACCIDENT.

Last week, a man whose home is in county of Hastings, while engaged hewing timber for George Chalmers, at his Jack Lake shanty, managed to sink the broad axe into his ankle in place of the log. He was sent down to Lakefield for Dr. Bell to attend, and expects to be able to return to work in two or three weeks.

CREDITABLE.—Buyers visiting Peterborough say that in no town of its size in Ontario are the stores so handsome and nicely arranged, and Mr. Austin is resolved to uphold the credit of the place. In order to rid himself of his stock, and to make room for his Christmas goods, he has been selling off at a great sacrifice, and has now invested in a most varied and elegant collection of all kinds of fancy goods, Christmas gifts, dolls, toys and beautiful silverware. His goods are of the latest and newest style, of the most substantial form in the different lines, and customers can rely on the good judgment displayed in his purchasing. He also has on hand a splendid collection of Christmas, New Year and Birthday cards. To enable customers, both rich and poor, to invest their Christmas money to good account and at the cheapest rates, he now gives notice that he will sell on every Friday evening and every Saturday, during the Christmas season, by auction, his newly bought stock, and is confident that no one will be disappointed in the cheapness and solidity of their bargains. Read his advertisement.

THE LAST FORTY YEARS OF CANADA.—This is the title of a work being published in Toronto, by Mr. George Virtue. It is by John Charles Dent, and is intended as a history of leading events in Canada since the Union of 1841. From a perusal of the four numbers which have appeared, we look for a readable account of political life for a little more than a generation, at a time when stirring events occupied the Young Canada's minority. Mr. Dent gets credit for being an able and graphic writer, and if he has learned from the histories already published, the foolishness of flattery, and keeps clear of party leanings, the new work will prove a valuable addition to any gentleman's library; but, if on the other hand he falls into the errors of his predecessors, he will commit a grave mistake, detrimental to his own interests, and the interests of his publisher. The first numbers are free from partizan leanings. We have no doubt but that the work will be very extensively read. The agent for the work is now canvasing the town and neighbourhood.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 15, 1881.

Ministerial Efficiency.

It is believed by many that the pulpit is one of the mightiest engines of moral and spiritual power in the world, a means of doing noble work, which, if inferior to any, is second only to the boundless power of the press. Its aim is grand and magnificent, and appeals to the highest qualities of our nature; its theme is the best, the holiest of all, and yet it must be admitted that speaking generally, the pulpit falls far short of its possibilities. The standard of pulpit eloquence ought to be ever on the increase; we believe it is at present greatly below mediocrity. The subject is one which is at present occupying, and deservedly so, the attention of several writers and thinkers. If we can add anything by way of suggestions for the improvement of ministerial efficiency, or point out the causes which tend to lessen the power of the pulpit we shall not be writing in vain. That something is decidedly wrong when men with average abilities who received a careful education, and are supposed to have special qualities for their vocation, fail to rise to any degree of pre-eminence therein—fail at any rate to attract the masses, or to meet with marked success—must be patent to every observer. That this is the case, is, we believe, capable of the clearest demonstration. There are few great preachers, and upon the large body of people preaching has no hold. In London, England, with a population of nearly four millions and a half, two millions never enter a church. In one parish of Manchester where the census showed twelve hundred and thirty-seven families, nine hundred and three never attended a place of worship. In October of this present year, a religious census taken of the worshippers at the various churches in Liverpool, showed an attendance of one hundred and six thousand out of a population of over five hundred and fifty thousand souls.

In the city of Philadelphia which used to have four-fifths of its population church going people, now only one-half go to church. In New York, one-third of the inhabitants never hear the sound of the gospel. We believe returns would show our Canadian cities to be very little better. But are the clergy responsible? Men tell us rationalism and infidelity are on the increase, and that it is a critical time for creeds and old time institutions. Granted, but the heart of the great bulk of the people is sound. If it is a time of unbelief, it is also a time of much excitement in religious thought, much renewal of enthusiasm, much quickening of activity in all departments of work for God. The gospel has not failed, but it has been poorly presented to needy and hungry souls. Men, especially in our cities, will not sit Sunday after Sunday to listen to the veriest platitudes, to constant and painful repetitions, to crude thought and undigested ideas, to commonplace sentiment and silly bombast, uttered in a dreary monotone, shrieked from stentorian throats, or spoken with long drawn features and in solemn tones. Yet these too often mark the oratory of our pulpits both in town and country.

What is wanted to bring people to church is thorough efficiency in the pulpit. Straightforward, common-sense discourses in vigorous language directed against the sins of the day—not dry dissertations on abstract themes to which few listen and none understand—this is the style of sermon to which people will listen and which they will go to hear. We would like to have solid thought presented in lucid order, culture that gleams out from burning words, the subtle humour, the pathetic action, whether of hand or voice or eye, the quiet dignity of one who speaks for the Master, and who has something to say—the glow of righteous anger at sin and meanness and selfishness—in short, the eloquence and power of an indomitable faith, a feeling heart and an instructed head.

But how can all this be had? In the first place the right kind of men are not entering the ministry, and will not until the prospects of the pastors' calling somewhat improve. With other professions open to them, offering at least some important prizes, it is hardly to be expected that our brightest and best youths will offer themselves for the work of the ministry, to lead a life of almost complete self-abnegation and to exist on a scanty pittance too often grudgingly doled out, and which in these days is hardly sufficient to keep body and soul together. Then, the want of permanence in the ministerial life is exceedingly objectionable and keeps many a good man from its ranks. Again, there are we believe serious defects in the training of theological students. Too little attention is paid to composition in our schools and colleges and far too little care to the practice of public speaking. Men are sent out to their various fields of work with little or no practical knowledge of the world, and having had no clinical teaching the wonder is not that so many fail, but that any succeed. Preachers ought to be able to grapple with men's minds and to convince them they are neither fools nor fossils. They should be thoroughly versed in all the science and literature of the day, for if the library of their mind is not well stocked, it will be no wonder should the people prefer straying to starvation. A preacher owes it to his flock to spend much time in his study. As Gurnall says, "if the minister labors not to increase "his stock, he is the worst thief in the parish." But with the multiplication of duties which fall in these days to the pastors' lot, earnest study and meditation are almost impossible. To preach well requires careful preparation. Pastoral visitation, night meetings, social calls, amusements and recreations so fill up the time during the week that preparation is hurried and incomplete and the congregation need not complain if demanding these varied attentions, the oratory of the pulpit on the Sunday is of no very exalted order. Still a good man's life is a perpetual and enduring sermon. Souls are won not only by ingenious dialectics or vivid scene painting, or massive erudition, or pathetic appeals, but also and perhaps chiefly by the awful earnestness of men who are filled with zeal for God, and with serious sympathy for their brethren, whose goodness is the breath of their speech, and their consistency its rhetoric.

Notes and Comments.

The Bishop of Algoma died in Toronto on Wednesday.

Remenyi, the violinist, is now written an iconoclast, having been reported as saying that age does not benefit a violin at all.

Guiteau was in the habit of subscribing for newspapers and never paying for them. Let there be no further sympathy for the villain.

A Western newspaper meekly expresses the hope that if Guiteau can not be hanged for murdering the President, he may at least be fined for carying a concealed weapon.

It is stated that the trial of Guiteau will cost the U. S. Government not far from $150,000. Altogether the assassination of the President has been a costly business to the Republic.

The contract for the construction of a new bridge over the Tay, on the site of the structure which fell with such dire results two years ago, has just been let. The contractors are Messrs. Arrol & Co., of Glasgow.

The Catholic Shield is the name of a new educational journal started in the interest of Roman Catholic Separate Schools in Ontario. It is published at Ottawa, but numbers amongst its contributors Roman Catholic educationists in different parts of the Province.

In view of the failure of the Dominion Government to do anything with the Charybdis, a St. John man now proposes that with some assistance from the Dominion the Local Government might utilize it as a sort of reformatory school. No attempt has been made to carry out the original design of a training ship.

The Ontario Teachers' Association favour the addition of the elements of agriculture to the Public School programme, even though it should necessitate the dropping of other subjects. A good many members of the Legislative Assembly share the same feeling, as was shown by the educational discussion in the House last session.

On Wednesday last the engineer in charge of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway made an inspection of the line between Perth and Moberly. After completing the inspection he stated that he considered that satisfactory progress had been made, and that the work of heavy rock cutting would be begun at once. Some eighty men are employed in the section inspected.

Speaking of the recent Ontario Bank meeting at Toronto, the Montreal Gazette says:—"What is especially assured for the future of the Bank is the confidence of the shareholders, as a whole, in the present General Manager, Mr. Holland, and in the profitable character of the business which the institution enjoys, and the advance in the market value of the shares on Saturday, indicates the satisfaction with which the action of the shareholders at the meeting has been received, and the confidence which exists in the future of the bank."

A Texas editor sets forth in his prospectus that he enters upon his duties with something which he describes as follows:—"An imperious consciousness of a personal committal to the high moral responsibilities incident to a position recognised by intelligence and morality as a representative and formative entity, moulding and vitalizing the intelligent constituency who perpetuates by prerogative its existence." He closes by promising to make his paper "the monitor beacon of the present, and the moral, social, and intellectual formative adjunct of the future."

HAVERN HANGED AT MONTREAL FOR MURDERING A FELLOW-CONVICT.

The sentence was executed at Montreal on Friday last, on Hugh Havern, the murderer of Wm. Salter, a fellow convict in the St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, on May 28th last. Since the sentence was passed he has confessed his crime, but has not given the cause which prompted him to the act. He died giving assurances to his spiritual advisor of his preparation for death. The execution was performed without bungling, and the man died with little apparent suffering. Havern was 28 years of age and was brought up to no business. His parents are Irish, but he was born in Montreal. His mother stated in the witness box that he had never earned a dollar by honest labor. He was convicted twenty-three times for all the offences in the criminal calender, in our local courts. During the brief intervals he was out of prison, his mother stated in court that he was never sober. At the time of the murder he was serving his time for highway robbery with violence upon a man who had previously treated him generously. One of his most frequent offences was assaults upon the police. Physically he was not a powerful man. He stood about 5 feet 9 inches, and was rather slimly built. He had black hair, and eyes of the same hue. His forehead was low, but his countenance was by no means forbidding.

A WELL-KNOWN CITY ADVERTISER SAYS:

"An experience of over 30 years enables me to declare unhesitatingly in favor of newspaper advertising. They are the best read and best printed mediums, and the prominence an advertisement is sure to receive by being brought more directly in connection with interesting reading matter makes a neatly arranged newspaper the very best source, by all odds, that an advertiser can possibly select."

A good advertisement in a live newspaper is the best of all possible salesmen, or, as Lord Macaulay said, "Advertising is to business what steam is to commerce—the great propelling power."

Probably, this year, Christmas will be a big thing, and those dealers in holiday goods who advertise in the EXAMINER heaviest will do the largest business. This is quite right. Naturally the largest advertisers will be the largest dealers in the goods of the season.

Watch the EXAMINER, therefore, for the best information concerning holiday goods. Its information will be reliable. The EXAMINER, the best possible guide to purchasers.

Everybody should make their purchases early. Thus, they will find full stock from which to select, and, at the same time avoid the inevitable rush. Let everybody go early, as they will, by this means, be able to go and come in good order, and purchase only from those who have announced their inducements through these columns. This advice is valuable, and don't you forget it.

NEWS CONDENSED.

Particulars of a terrible calamity in the capital of Austria are at hand. By the burning down of a theatre at least 400 persons have been burned alive. How the fire originated has not yet been made known, but, as usual, it was in the neighborhood of the stage. A panic must have set in at once, for the individual who had charge of the iron screen that separated the stage from the auditorium fled whenever be discovered the outbreak.

Says the Winnipeg Free Press:—The real estate boom in this city is rolling onward with irresistible impetuosity, and prices of lots, not only in the central parts of the city, but in the suburban districts, are going up into the clouds. Real estate agents are as plentiful as mosquitoes in fly time, and all seem to be making no end of money. Staid and steady-going citizens, who are not given to speculation, have found themselves unable to resist the seductive prospects of turning an honest penny, and are being drawn into the vortex by dozens. Clerks, mechanics, capitalists, all are busy buying and selling and heaping up treasure. The daily transactions amount to hundreds of thousands and there seems to be no cessation. Men without a dollar one week find themselves master of thousands the next. There seems to be no limit to the capital which is pouring into the country, and the demand for real estate is probably without a parallel in any city in Canada. Great and small slices of land change hands daily, and each succeeding transaction sends the price booming upwards. The harvest is a rich one, and the reapers are plenty and industrious. This is a great city.

MANUFACTURERS of Reapers, Mowers and Threshing Machines prefer "Castorine Machine Oil" to any other. It will outwear Lard, Seal or Elephant, and is guranteed not to gum. 1-1y

The New Compound, its wonderful affinity to the Digestive Apparatus and the Liver, increasing the dissolving juices, relieving almost instantly the dreadful results of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, and the TORPID LIVER, makes Zopesa an every day necessity in every house.

It acts gently and speedily in Biliousness, Costiveness, Headache, Sick Headache, Distress after Eating, Wind on the Stomach, Heartburn, Paine in the Side and Back, Want of Appetite, Want of Energy, Low Spirits, Foul Stomach. It invigorates the Liver, carries off all surplus bile, regulates the Bowels, and gives tone to the whole system.

Cut this out and take it to your Druggist and get a 10 cent Sample, or a large bottle for 75 cents, and tell your neighbor about it.

TEAS! TEAS!

CHINA and JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic use, there is none perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand in the aggregate than TEA.

Notwithstanding the increased demand yet the price of TEAS is lower to-day than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have procured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

FIRST:—A more extended and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea producing countries.

SECOND:—Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and

THIRD:—Increased and closer competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grade, modes o adulteration, and tests for detection, see "ads" to follow.

Meantime we offer JAPAN TEA at 40c. per pound. NONE BETTER. TRY IT!

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced a remedy so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates the vital functions, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 15, 1881.

The Prospects of Liberalism.

The Conservative journals are not quite so jubilant over the success of the Chapleau Government in Quebec as might naturally have been expected. There are several reasons for this. In the first place the victory is one for Senecal rather than Chapleau, and now that the public all over the Dominion know who and what Senecal is, he can hardly fail to prove a serious dead weight to the Conservatives of Quebec. The Senecal-Laurier libel suit showed that he was a man utterly unfit to be placed in charge of a great public trust like the North Shore railway, and would have shown this still more conclusively had the Judge who presided at the trial not interfered beyond the limits of common decency to save him from exposure.

But beyond this it is quite clear that there is in local politics a strongly marked line of distinction between English and French speaking sections of the people which cannot fail to prove most embarrassing to the Conservative party, whether the contest be for the Provinces or the Dominion. That there is such a line of demarcation is openly acknowledged by some of the Quebec organs, which have been lecturing the Protestant English roundly for the unreasonableness of their attitude. It is quite likely that these people know what they want quite as well as the Tory organists do, and it is also quite likely that lecturing them will have an effect the very opposite of what is intended. There can be no doubt that the principles of Liberalism are naturally more congenial to the minds of the English speaking people of Quebec than those of such Conservatism as is represented by men like the Langevins and the Chapleaus of to-day. These people, prior to Confederation, were as part of the people of Quebec, alienated from the Ontario Liberals by the demand of the latter for representation by population. It has taken a long time to break down the barrier thus created, but the late election shows clearly that it is rapidly breaking down. The fact that in a number of English speaking constituencies Conservatives were successful by a few votes is of less significance than the enormous decrease of their majorities and the cause of the decrease. If the Government organs think they can prevent this tendency to a re-arragement of political elements in Quebec from affecting future Dominion elections they will find themselves before long in a fools' paradise.

An additional fact of some interest in connection with the recent contest in Quebec is the smallness of the total Conservative majority of the popular vote. We have not the data at hand for a full detailed comparison, but from a few statistics given in the Montreal Witness, it appears that 1,600 or 1,800 more Liberal votes distributed amongst twenty constituencies would have given Mr. Joly a working majority of five—his old majority—in the House of Assembly. This, of course, does not alter the fact that Mr. Joly has not a majority, that indeed he is the leader of only a very small minority; but it is sufficient to prevent the Tory organs from hallooing very loudly as if they were already out of the woods. They feel that the amount of support they can calculate on receiving from the British population of Quebec at the next general election is an unknown quantity, and that the margin between the recent Conservative victory and defeat was, in spite of the superficial result, far too narrow to be at all comforting.

The political barometer all over the Dominion will be affected to some extent by the contest which terminates next week in West Northumberland. The Government, no doubt, felt sure of carrying it, or they would not have thrown it open just now; but they may, nevertheless, find themselves mistaken in their calculations. Dr. Waters, the Liberal candidate, has given no uncertain sound on the public questions of the day, and if he is elected in spite of the concentrated influence of the Ministry, the victory will be a real triumph for the cause of good government. The electors of West Northumberland have an excellent opportunity to protest against the outrageous Pacific Railway bargain, which is already fulfilling the gloomiest predictions of the Opposition; against the inexcusable retention of taxes on the necessaries of life while there is an annual surplus of four or five millions coming into the treasury; against the excessive taxation which produces so unnecessary a surplus; against the heavy specific duties on food and clothing, which discriminate so unjustly against the poor; against the unfair treatment of Ontario in the matter of the boundary award; against the mischievous exercise of the prerogative of disallowance in the case of the Ontario Streams Bill, and against its contemplated exercise in the case of the South Eastern railway charter in Manitoba; against the perpetuation of a costly piece of partizan machinery in the Senate, as at present constituted; and against jobbery and corruption of the most scandalous kind in connection with the letting of public contracts. The election of a Government supporter would not, under the conditions at present obtaining in the riding be a very surprising event, but a Liberal victory would correctly be regarded as a significant rebuke of the Government from Ontario.

Liberal Meeting.

A general meeting of the West Riding Liberal Association will, we are requested to announce, be held on an early day in January, shortly to be announced, for the purpose of perfecting the organization, and of making other arrangements in view of the probable holding of the general elections soon after the close of the next session of the Dominion Parliament. Our friends in the East Riding are making arrangements also for a meeting for the same purpose, due notice of which will be given. We have no doubt but that our Reform friends will attend these meetings in large numbers, as every preparation for the coming contest should be made with the least possible delay.

THE FESTIVE SEASON.—In former years the store of Messrs. Long Bros. was always tastefully decorated, and everything that could add to the material enjoyment of the inner man was kept on hand. Not to be behind their former reputation, they are filling their premises with all kinds of dainty pastry and confectionery. They are about constructing a handsome Christmas tree, which will be artistically and heavily laden with toys and gifts of every description. Oysters, cooked to suit the palate, are served at all hours and at a moderate price. No doubt they will do a rushing business if their enterprise is fully rewarded. Those who had the pleasure last season of witnessing the the dozens of Christmas cakes manufactured by the Messrs. Long, prior to their delivery to their customers, cannot but think that this firm are enjoying a good share of the business of Peterborough. We are assured that the order list is much larger than last year, and those who have not already placed their order should do so at once.

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY.

Meeting of Bondholders and Shareholders—The Amalgamation Scheme Unanimously Endorsed.

A special general meeting of the bond and shareholders of the Midland Railway of Canada to consider the amalgamation of the Midland with the various other railways, the names of which have already appeared in our columns, was held on Monday last at the head offices, Port Hope. Among those present were Mr. Geo. A. Cox, President of the road; Messrs. R. Jaffray, W. Gooderham, H. P. Dwight, of Toronto; J. R. Dundas, of Lindsay; W. Cluxton, of Peterborough; Lewis Ross, A. Hugel and Col. Williams, of Port Hope.

After reading the notice calling the meeting, the President delivered a lengthy and comprehensive address, which, owing to the extraordinary pressure of advertisements on our space, we are compelled to hold over until next week. He was followed by Mr. Jaffray, Mr. Gooderham, Mr. Hugel and Mr. Cluxton, after which the amalgamation scheme was unanimously adopted. A full report will appear next week.

THE election of a Liberal candidate for Londonderry seems to indicate that Mr. Gladstone's Irish policy is acceptable to at least thoughtful Irishmen. The Land Leaguers put a candidate into the field, doubtless in the hope that he might slip in between the regular Tory and Liberal candidates. He was withdrawn, however, on the eve of polling day, and the League influence was cast strongly in favour of the Conservatives. In spite of these tactics the Liberal candidate was elected by a large majority, and it is quite certain that the result will be to materially strengthen Mr. Gladstone's hands. Mr. Parnell may be perfectly consistent from his own point of view in throwing his influence in the scale against the only political party from which any ameliorating legislation for Ireland can be hoped for, but he is certainly acting in a way to alienate the moral support of the world—not the Irish World.

POULTRY SHOW.

A meeting of the Midland Central Poultry Society will be held in the room adjoining the council chamber, on Friday evening the 16th inst., at 8 o'clock p. m., to draw up the prize list, and to arrange for the date of the Annual Exhibition, and other preliminary business. An impression has gone abroad caused by a paragraph in the Mail, that the Peterborough Society had abandoned the idea of holding a show this year, which is entirely without foundation. Its present appearances indicate a successful Exhibition, the date of which will be announced as soon as arrangements are completed, in order that the Peterborough show will not interfere with others.

Peterborough Markets.

[Supplied by W. H. Wrighton, Grain and Produce Dealer, and General Grocer, George Street.]

PETERBOROUGH, Dec. 14th, 1881.

Peas are weaker and lower, 70c. to 72c. being about the figures now offering. Oats sell from 41c. to 43c. Hay $9.00 to $10.00.

ON THE MARKET.

The turn-out on Saturday was large. A large quantity of dressed hogs sold from 7¼ to 7¾. Keg butter brought 16c. to 18c.—in limited supply. Fresh sold at 20c. to 22c. BOSTON, 14th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co., Toronto.

DEAR SIRS,—For brilliancy and sympathetic quality of tone, I consider your Upright Pianos unequalled by any made in Canada. The touch is responsive, the treble clear and resonant, so that I can in all respects recommend them.

Letter from Dr. G. W. Strathy, so long known in Toronto as a most thorough and accomplished musician;

TORONTO, 29th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,
I remain Gentlemen,

Bran for Ewes.

Breeding ewes will thrive better upon bran than upon corn. Bran supplies the needed nutriment better than corn. Oats are next in value to bran. Mixed food, however, is the best. One bushel each of corn, rye, buckwheat, oats, and bran mixed combine all the needed and most nutritious food elements. One pint daily will be a fair allowance.

Bitter Milk.

Bitter milk is a matter of frequent occurrence every fall and winter, or soon after the cows are off from grazing. It is caused, first, by bitter herbs in the hay—such as May weed, rag weed, John's wort, etc.,—and also by the use of too much overripe food, such as straw, corn stover, or late cut hay. It never occurs when cows are fed on good food, and are thriving, or even holding their own, and are kept comfortably warm. It can be avoided, first, by correcting the error in feeding and exposure; and secondly, by shaking the milk when it is first drawn, by adding to it a teaspoonful of boiling water till the skin which forms on top is well wrinkled, and then setting it away to cool for the cream to rise. This treatment will drive out the cause of the bitter flavor, and improve the butter and make it easy to churn.

Notes for December.

The work of the farmer during this month may be summarized under these headings, preparation and utilization of the products of the past season; care of his stock; preparing for another year.

The grain crops are all in the barn and granary, or turned into hard cash, and the farmer has had another lesson on the important fact that the thorough cleaning and preparing of wheat or other grain for the market, is well paid for by the increased price. The inferior grain should be fed in the stock yard; in this way only does it pay. The root crops also stored for the winter in the cellar, or root-house or in the pit. We must bear in mind that frost is not the only state we have to guard against. Too high a temperature as well as too low must be avoided; in order to preserve roots in good condition we must keep them from growing. The cooler we can keep them without exposing them to the risk of freezing, the less liable they are to sprout; if the temperature is too high, roots are liable to injury from sprouting; if it be too low there is the certainty of their being frozen; if too dry they are liable to be wilted, while too much moisture rots any roots.

The due care of live stock implies perfect cleanliness, good ventilation with sufficient warmth, good wholesome food, and (for horses especially) moderate exercise. This care farmers cannot afford to neglect.

Prepare your plans for your spring work; each year's experience should make you a better farmer. Be guided by this experience in your programme of work for the ensuing year. Experience is by no means the least important education of the farmer.

Seed Grain.

There is always a demand for good seed grain. Farmers who have clean farms and good samples of wheat they know to be profitable varieties will find it profitable to expend a little more time and thoroughly clean it for seed. Many of our seedsmen supply themselves with grain grown by careful farmers, and are always willing to pay a higher price for a good, well-cleaned sample. We are acquainted with several farmers who sell but little grain on the market or to the grain buyers. Nearly all the grain they grow they sell for seed either to seedsmen or direct to farmers, and always receive a higher price than their less careful neighbors. A very necessary implement on a farm is a good fanning mill, yet it is seldom found. Much of the grain sold on our markets is very badly cleaned. The grain buyer does not loose by this, but the farmer. It is astonishing the difference that can be made in the same sample of grain by careful or careless cleaning. Even if not sold for seed all grain should be well cleaned.

Milk for Fowls.

Since milk is the only article of food known to contain within itself all the elements necessary to the perfection of growth and vigor in an animal, it is not strange that it should be found to be one of the very best egg producing materials that can be supplied to poultry. Given two flocks of fowls, and treatment, location, and original stock being equal in all respects save one, it will be found that those having skimmed milk as a portion of their daily food or drink will give more eggs weekly, and for a longer term of weeks, than those whose treatment is exactly the same, with this single exception. In cases where milk is very plentiful, and only a portion is needed for fowls, it would be well, say once a week or oftener, to give the milk in form of curd, by heating it until the whey separates from the more solid portions. This is very nutritious, and its constituents so nearly resemble the white of the egg, that egg formation must naturally follow its use. Let no one hesitate to take from his waste milk whatever his hens will use, assured that they will yield five times over the returns that swine or any other stock would give for the same amount.—American Poultry Yard.

LOSS OF A LAKE HURON STEAMER WITH ALL HANDS ON BOARD.

The Waubuno disaster has been repeated and under somewhat similar circumstances. The propeller Jane Miller left Meaford on the 23rd November with a heavy load of freight, on her trip to Michael's Bay, Manitoulin Island, and was making for Wiarton. She was last seen on the morning of the 23rd passing Cameron's Point, and bearing for Spencer's Landing, but never reached that place. There was a heavy south-west gale in progress at the time, and the theory is that from overloading or some other cause she capsized, and carried her crew and passengers, numbering about 25 persons, to death with her. It is thought she has gone down at the entrance to Colpoy's Bay, and not a mile from shore. As a blinding snow storm was raging there is no doubt every avenue of escape was closed to the passengers. The Jane Miller was comparatively a new steamer, this being only her third season. She was not considered a safe boat, owing to being top heavy when heavily loaded. A tug was sent on Saturday morning to look about the island for the missing steamer; but was unsuccessful in finding her, although unmistakable indications of her loss was discovered in the shape of articles of various kinds identified as belonging to her. Captain Port and most of the crew were from Wiarton. There were several passengers from Owen Sound and other points whose names are not known.

HUMOROUS GLEANINGS.

A homely young girl has the consolation of knowing that if she lives to be forty she will be a pretty old girl.

TORONTO OIL COMPANY are sole manufacturer of Castorine Machine Oil. Infringements will be prosecuted. 1-1y.

The fowls that are destined to play the part of spring chickens next year are already able to fly to roast.

ASK YOUR DEALER for "Castorine Machine Oil," and see that the barrel is branded "Castorine," as none other is genuine. 1-1y

A Quaker's advice to his son on his wedding day:—"when thee went a-courting, I told thee to keep thy eyes wide open; now that thee is married, I tell thee to keep them half shut."

USE "CASTORINE MACHINE O.L" for all kinds of machinery. It is also excellent for Harness and Leather, making it water and weather proof. For sale by dealers. 1-1y

"Tommy," said a mother to her seven-year-old boy, "you must not interrupt me when I am talking with ladies. You must wait till we stop, and then you can talk." "But you never stop," retorted the boy.

A RELIABLE FACT.—It is an established fact that Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is the best cure for coughs, colds, sore throat, asthma, croup, bronchitis, and all troubles arising from neglected colds. Price 25 cents. 50-2t.

Inexpressible woe—"are you feeling very ill?" asked the physician; "let me see your tongue, please." "It's no use, doctor," replied the poor patient, "no tongue can tell how bad I feel."

SURE CURE FOR A COUGH.—The most reliable remedy for a cough or cold, asthma, shortness of breath, sore throat, weak lungs and all bronchial troubles, is Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Price 25 cents. 50-2t.

For heroic, but vain endeavours to look pleased, says a crusty old bachelor, nothing can equal the facial expression of two girls compelled to dance with each other on account of the scarcity of men.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL is at the head of the list for all purposes of a family medicine. It is used with unprecedented success, both internally and externally. It cures sore throat, burns, scalds, frost bites; relieves, and often cures asthma. 50-2t.

A little son of an evangelical clergyman "wished that he should die and go to heaven." "Why?" asks his grandmother, feeling that he is getting too good to live. "'Cause I want to get some of the pennies I've been giving to God."

The public should bear in mind that Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of the joints and muscles, and sores or hurts, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints.

A farmer, on being asked to write a testimony for a patent clothes-wringer, produced the following:—"I bought your clothes-wringer, and am hugely pleased with it. I bought a jag of wood which proved too green and unfit to burn; I ran the whole load through your wringer, and have used the wood for kindling ever since."

GIVEN AWAY.—We cannot help noticing the liberal offer made to all invalids and sufferers by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. You are requested to call at Taylor & Macdonalds' drug store, and get a Trial Bottle free of cost, if you are suffering with Consumption, Severe Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Loss of Voice, Hoarseness, or any affections of the Throat or Lungs. It will positively cure you.

A boy was absent from school for a day, and on his return being asked the cause of his absence, he stated that his mother was ill, and that the doctor had brought him a nice little brother. The teacher told him that his excuse was a very good one; that no doubt he was a dutiful son, and so forth; The boy tried a like trick on his mother the next day by declaring that the teacher commanded him to remain at home while his mother was ill, as there was danger of his communicating the disease to all the boys in the school.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family medicine. Immediate relief will follow its use. It relieves pain, cures chilblains, frost bites, scalds, burns, corns, rheumatism, neuralgia, &c. For internal use it is none the less wonderful. One or two doses frequently cure sore throat. It will cure croup in a few minutes. A few bottles has often cured asthma. Colic has been cured by a teaspoonful dose. It cures with the utmost rapidity, it is really a wonderful medicine. 50-2t.

There was an old woman who always was tired,
She lived in a house where no help was hired,
Her last words on earth were, "dear friend I am going
Where sweeping ain't done, nor churning, nor sewing,
And everything there will be just to my wishes,
For where they don't eat, there's no washing of dishes.
And though there the anthems are constantly ringing,
I, having no voice, will get rid of the singing.
Don't mourn for me now and don't mourn for me never,
For I'm going to do nothing forever and ever.

HOW AN ARTIST THREATENED HIS VISITOR.

To the Editor of the Salem (Mass.) Register:—I would have accepted your kind invitation to visit you in your new quarters with pleasure before this, had not my old enemy, Mr. Rheumatism, pounced on me so suddenly. He arrived last Friday, and, without stopping to send up his card, rushed in and grasped me by the hand with such a grip that in a few hours my hand and wrist were so badly swollen and painful that I felt as though one of Mr. Hatch's coal teams had run over me. Mr. Rheumatism has been a constant visitor of mine for several years; always swell and puts on a great many airs and makes himself at home, devouring my substance and leaving me poor in flesh and pocket. Last winter he came and staid two months. I then made up my mind that the next time he came I would change his diet, as he has always gobbled down everything set before him. I was somewhat at a loss what to feed him with, but finally concluded to give him three square meals a day of St. Jacobs Oil—morning, noon and night. This fare he is disgusted with, and is packing up his trunk and will leave by to-morrow or next day; says he cannot stop any longer as he has pressing business elsewhere. He is a treacherous fellow, and I have no doubt he intends visiting some of our Salem friends; if he does just give him the same fare that I did and he won't stop long. J. S. LEFAVOUR.

TORONTO POLITICAL NEWS.

TORONTO, Dec. 5.

YOUNG CONSERVATIVES.

After the huge fizzle in the shape of a Provincial Conservative Convention it is not surprising that the small one to organize a Young Conservative Association should also degenerate into a farce. Any movement led by men like Boultbee, Jno. A. Macdonald and a few other U. S. Club lights, must necessarily fail, and the Young Conservative meeting on Saturday night was evidently a prelude to complete a want of success. Some of them "spoke out in meeting" and some curious things were said in consequence. One of the speakers wanted to keep the association unfettered in the matter of British connection. Another wanted to keep it unfettered in its relations to the Conservative party, as the latter might at any time go astray. The answer to this was that it was better to let the "Chief" define what Liberal Conservatism meant and then to support him through thick and thin, and that in point of fact he should be most strenuously supported when he was wrong, because it was then that he most needed backing. This is simply a repetition of what Sir John himself once said. Addressing the electors of his constituency, he told them he would not thank them for returning a man who would support him only when he was right. What he wanted was a man who would support him when he was wrong. He has generally managed to get such men where he gets Conservatives returned at all. As a matter of fact the Young Conservative cake will remain dough in Toronto in consequence of its being made a mere donkey engine for the latter machine. There is some talk here of the expediency of calling to meet some time early in January after the opening of the Ontario session. There is nothing to indicate as yet with any certainty whether such a meeting will be held, but the feeling in favor of it is growing and a week or two may bring the matter to a crisis. That a large and representative body of Liberals could be brought together to meet with their leaders is quite likely, but there are many who doubt whether anything is to be gained by taking so much trouble just now. What is wanted most is thorough organization, and if this is likely to be facilitated by the holding of a convention the present talk may come to something. The Conservatives really did nothing at their meeting but pass a string of resolutions which, under the circumstances, were hardly called for from a party point of view, as no one doubted the intention of the old party backs to stand by Sir John whatever might be the consequences. If he were to propose to carry Canada into the United States, the same crowd that voted the Pacific Railway contract would stand at his back. Liberals are not so easily engaged, and for this reason, as well as because the party leader is of recent appointment, some people want to hold a convention the coming session. If one is held it will probably do work more important than a few resolutions.

A LIBERAL CONVENTION,

EAST YORK.

A good deal of interest is taken here in the nomination of Mr. Mackenzie for East York. Should he accept he will no doubt be elected easily enough, but the nomination was not really unanimous, though it was made formally so. The feeling among the Liberals is far from being what it should be in the riding, but no doubt the difficulty will be cured by the lapse of a little time.

IMMENSE TIMBER SALE.

OVER 1,200 SQUARE MILES DISPOSED OF.

The Ontario Legislative Chamber was in a lively state on Tuesday last. The occasion was a sale, under an Order-in-Council, of timber berths in the Muskoka and Parry Sound Districts. Such a sale had not taken place since the year 1872, when the Hon. R. W. Scott was Commissioner of Crown Lands, and the leading lumbermen of Ontario were gathered together in active competition. Among these such well-known operators as Mossom Boyd, of Peterborough; David Moore, Ottawa; Charles Cameron, Collingwood; McArthur Bros., Toronto; M. Brandon, Toronto; Richard Nagle, Ottawa; J. Murray, Arthur Hill, Rusk Harris, J. C. Miller, P. Cockburn, J. R. Booth and others equally prominent. There were present too, Americans from Bay City, Saginaw and Tonawanda. The speaker's place was occupied by Mr. Couper, Chief Clerk in the woods and forest branch of the Crown Lands Department, who acted as auctioneer. The sale commenced promptly at noon, continuing till 4 o'clock, when seventy-two "berths," containing 1,281 square miles, had been sold at prices which averaged about $600 per square mile, including ground rent and dues. The gross proceeds of the sale will reach the large sum of $717,176. The decided success of this sale and the unprecedentedly high prices realised may be learned by a comparison of the sale of 1872, when the average price reached a little less than $200 per square mile, as against $600 per square mile yesterday. It was undoubtedly the largest and most successful sale of the kind ever held in Canada. Commissioner Pardee was present during the whole of the time and watched the proceedings closely. The bidding was exceedingly lively and very keen. Berths which started at $100 per square mile went up to $1,000 in a very few minutes. One berth with an area of sixteen square miles was run up to $2,525, at which price, or a total of over $40,000, it was knocked down to Mr. J. M. Martin. This is a most remarkable showing, and the significance of the figures will be realized when it is stated that the last sale, which was held by the Quebec Government, the average was only $98.

WORTHY OF PRAISE.—As a rule we do not recommend Patent Medicines, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truly a most valuable medicine, and will surely cure Biliousness, Fever and Ague, Stomach, Liver and Kidney Complaints, even when all other remedies fail. We know whereof we speak, and can freely recommend them to all.—Sold at 50 cents a bottle. Taylor & Macdonald, Agents.

WHAT TO STUDY.—Pope, the poetical philosopher said: "the proper study of mankind is man," and yet, how little is the real science of man studied. If people understood and heeded the laws of health, and if when out of sorts would resort to a common sense like Burdock Blood Bitters, many of the "ills that flesh is heir to" might be effectually remedied. It invigorates and regulates all the secretions to a healthy action. 50-2t.

Notes and Comments.

A RUSSIAN PRINCE, found guilty of murdering a merchant, has been sentenced to exile and deprivation of his title.

Sir John Macdonald formed a Young Men's Conservative Club while at Toronto recently. The average age of the members, according to the World, is 48 years, 11 months, and 9 days.

THE ADMINISTRATION of justice in the Province of Quebec costs the people $422,087. This sum appears enormous, and competent persons tell us it is far too much. In the items we find "sheriff's contingent expenses $185,000."

JUDGE MACKENZIE, of Toronto is severe on those drunken or lazy fellows who neglect their children. At the opening of the quarter sessions there, he said the offence was one that could not be endured in a Christian country. The only remedy for this was the lash, and it would be proper for the Legislature to make it legal to have such criminals flogged.

THE NEW YORK Herald says Sir John in his late speech declared home rule, high tariff and railway syndicate the issues upon which he would appeal to the people, and describes it as a good Jingo platform. It further thinks that building a railway through a wilderness may be a nice thing for the government, but it means a severe pull on the pockets of the people who soon tire of paying for glory.

Now that there is a big surplus in the Dominion treasury, the Government might take the postage off newspapers. Some time ago the postage was laid on the proprietors of the papers, and it materially curtailed the profits, which have been further reduced by reduction in the price of papers of late. A removal of the postage tax, or even a reduction of it, would be a proper and popular move.

The Toronto World urges that every family should bake its own bread, and for these reasons:—"Home made bread is honest bread, honest in weight, honest in ingredients, and honest in taste. It is ignorant of potatoes and alum, and never pretends to weigh several ounces more to the loaf than it actually does, and never puts upon itself a fictitious price. It is bread, not a polyglot combination of comestibles, expanded and enlarged by air cells."

THE TORONTO Telegram says:—The weekly newspapers are crying out, and with good cause against the unjust competition to which they are subjected at the hands of the big Toronto weeklies. The Globe and Mail in their rivalry with each other are not making money themselves, and are making the country weeklies needless sufferers. The fact is that those two papers, both in their daily and weekly editions, are doing their best to destroy legitimate journalism in the country.

We shall see if the detectives of Scotland Yard make a better job of ferreting out the grave robbers who carried off Earl Crawford's body, than the New York detectives did in ferreting out those who carried off the body of A. T. Stewart. This crime is a comparatively new one, and it is as revolting as it is novel. One would hardly think that in an age of civilization like this, men could be found so lost to all sense of feeling as to steal a body for the purpose of making it an instrument with which to extort money from wealthy survivors.

The Coal Trade Journal Nov. 18, 1881, says: There is a great stir in the papers about the tricks of the coal trade. Are they any more disastrous to the public than the tricks played with everything that is supplied by grocers and other trades depending upon the populace for patronage. One man asks the Herald where he will find an honest coal-dealer. If the enquirer will pay a fair price for 2,000 lbs. of coal, he may justly expect to receive it; but twenty per cent. below the market price, will buy twenty per cent. less coal. It is about time the public grasped this idea.

The famous Dr. Thomas heresy case has come to a sudden ending. The General Conference of the M. E. Church at Terre Haute, Ind., have resolved that as Dr. Thomas broke through the regulation of the Church which expressly stipulates that he shall refrain from preaching while under suspension, he is no longer a member of the Church, and they are not called upon to consider the appeal. Dr. Thomas was therefore deposed, from the ministry. It is understood that he will continue preaching in Chicago, and will remain outside the pale of Churches a present in existence. He will, it is said, follow in the wake of Dr. Swing, of that city, Rev. D. McRae, of Dundee, and other clergymen who have been unable to pull with the bodies to which they at first allied themselves.

It may be stated, as the matter has excited considerable local interest, that a proclamation by the Governor-General in Council is not required to make the Monday after Christmas a bank holiday, when Christmas falls upon Sunday. There is a special provision in the Banking Act covering such a case. The following is the extract from the statute:

> 38 Vic., Chap. 3, Sec. 8—
> In all matters relating to bills of exchange and promissory notes, the following and no other shall be observed as legal holidays, or non-juridical days, that is to say:—
> In the Provinces of Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.—
> Sundays, New Year's Day, Good Friday, Christmas Day, the birthday (or the day fixed by proclamation for the celebration of the birthday) of the reigning sovereign.
> Any day appointed by proclamation for a public holiday or for a general fast, or a general thanksgiving throughout the Dominion; and the day next following New Year's Day and Christmas Day, when these days respectively fall on Sunday.

THE story of the failure of the bank of Prince Edward Island is the old, old one of blind confidence of the directors in the cashier. The cashier was a young man who had "given excellent satisfaction" as a junior accountant in another bank, and who was given, not only the position of cashier in the Prince Edward Island bank, but was allowed to do pretty much as he liked with the funds of the bank, without any actual check. Accounts are overdrawn to the amount of six hundred and sixty thousand dollars, a pretty large sum for a bank with a capital of only one hundred and twenty thousand dollars. The shareholders, who are liable to the amount of three times the value of the shares they hold, will suffer severely, and it is to be hoped, in the interests of the general public, that measures will be taken by some of them to bring the directors under law.

An interesting discussion is now going on in the English scientific journal Nature upon the question whether the heads of Englishmen have grown smaller within the past twenty-five or thirty years. Evidence has been obtained from the hatters which shows, apparently beyond doubt, that the hats worn at present average one size smaller than those worn a generation ago. The attempts made to explain this by a change in the style of hats and in the manner of wearing the hat and the hair appear to be unsatisfactory, and some have thrown the blame upon the disregard of physiological laws entailed by modern fashion, especially among women. In connection with the discussion the appended list of the sizes of hats worn by some famous men is given: Lord Chelmsford, 6¼ full; Dean Stanley, 6⅞; Lord Beaconsfield, 7; the Prince of Wales, 7 full; Charles Dickens, 7⅛; Lord Shelborne, 7⅛; John Bright, 7⅛; Earl Russell, 7¼; Lord Macaulay, 7⅜; Mr. Gladstone, 7⅜; Louis Phillippe, 7⅝; the Archbishop of York, 8 full.

POLITICAL NOTES.

WHAT protection has the farmer? What protection has the mechanic or laborer?

At Ottawa, furniture has been made and is now being made, we believe, for members of the Government and certain civil servants at the public expense.

The fact that the Parnellites and the Tories could not, with their combined forces, defeat a Liberal candidate in Dublin, shows that neither Toryism nor the repudiation of rents is making much headway in Ireland despite all that is being said to the contrary.

Mr. Gladstone, who is now in the best of health and spirits, is said to be perfectly satisfied that Mr. Forster can deal with the ferment in Ireland without the assistance of his colleagues. Mr. Gladstone has left London for Hawarden, where he will remain until after the Christmas holidays.

It is a great mistake for the Government to put extensive tracts of country in the North-West into the hands of private speculators. These companies are formed for purposes of speculation, and by getting hold of large tracts of land at nominal prices they are enabled to retard the settlement of the country.

A question for mechanics is propounded by a Grand Haven, Mich., man. He wants to know what the American mechanic gains by a high tariff, when the cheap labor of Europe is smuggled into America free of duty. This Grand Haven man has not learned the principles of protection, evidently. The fundamental principle of it is that labor has no rights as against capital.

The Halifax Chronicle says it has yet to hear the first complaint from the Tory press of Sir Charles Tupper's action in keeping up a "palace car" for his own use. This car was used during Sir Charles' so-called "inspection" of the Intercolonial railway. But when Mr. Mackenzie or Mr. Brydges used such a car the Tory press was unceasing in its denunciations of them. The moral is obvious. It is one that may be found in the action of the Tory press on almost every question. That which they denounce as monstrous when done under Liberal rule, becomes, in their eyes, all right when done by Sir John Macdonald and his followers.

Chief Justice Wood, of Manitoba, is determined that he shall not be traduced with impunity. He has been accused of laxity in administering the law affecting the Indian infant lands in the Province, and a Government Commission was issued to inquire into the allegations circulated. Before the Commission the other day he declared his administration to have been in accordance with the statutes laid down for his guidance, and expressed the opinion that the Commission was illegal, and that it would never have been called into existence but for the ignorance of the Government.

The Globe has information from Ottawa that the Departments of Public Works and of Railways and Canals will be united, now that the construction of a portion of the Canada Pacific Railway has been handed over to a company. Sir Hector Langevin is to remain at the head of the Public Works, sending Sir Charles Tupper over to the Interior Department, and letting Sir John Macdonald take the Presidency of the Council. A new Department of Indian Affairs will be created, thus relieving the Department of the Interior. It was hardly worth while to divide the Public Works Department and then trade back within two years.

The report that the Pacific Railway Syndicate has acquired control of the Credit Valley and Great Western Railways is not unlikely to prove true. It would be merely carrying out the principle of monopoly which the Dominion Government has declared to be a good thing. The effect of it will be that the Syndicate will be in a position in a short time to levy a toll on every business in each province, as they are now enabled to place a rent charge on every acre of land in the North-West, in the shape of freight rates to market. Under such a state of things the people of Canada will be in as bad a condition and as helpless as the peasantry of Ireland were in the hands of the landlords before the passage of the Land Act of Mr. Gladstone. Shall we complain if the measure we dealt out to the North-West is dealt to ourselves by the Syndicate?

Messrs. Northrop & Lyman are the proprietors of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which is now being sold in immense quantities throughout the Dominion. It is welcomed by the suffering invalid everywhere with emotions of delight, because it banishes pain and gives instant relief. This valuable specific for almost "every ill that flesh is heir to," is valued by the sufferers as more precious than gold. It is the elixir of life to many a wasted frame. If you have not purchased a bottle, do so at once, and keep it ready for an emergency. Its cheapness, 25 cents a bottle, places it within the reach of all. To the farmer it is indispensable, and it should be in every house.

A Cough, Cold or Sore THROAT should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an INCURABLE LUNG DISEASE OR CONSUMPTION. BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but ACT DIRECTLY ON THE INFLAMED PARTS, allaying irritation, give relief in ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, CATARRH, and the THROAT TROUBLES which SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS are subject to. For thirty years BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES have been recommended by physicians, and always give perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. Sold at 25 cents a box everywhere. 42-26ins.

Advice

"Whatever you do, do it Quickly."

This maxim applies to many things, but to none more emphatically than the purchase of a

WINTER SUIT!

People may wonder these frosty mornings why they feel the cold so keenly, and they may continue wondering until they have come and ordered from us a

and discarded the linen duster they have been wearing since summer.

Every man can afford to buy a SUIT from us, because we have them at prices to suit the pockets of everyone.

No establishment gives better satisfaction, with this understanding customers select from our goods and order with the knowledge that if they change their minds afterwards—which they never do—they can bring back the clothes and have their money.

The belief is current, and is warranted by the facts, that if we have not what you want, and at right prices, you cannot secure it elsewhere.

The sale of Overcoats still continues, those in need of one will do well to call early.

NORWOOD.

(From our own Correspondent.)

THUMB NEARLY LOST.

On Tuesday of last week, Mr. T. Fitzpatrick, of this village, while doing some carpentering in Mr. J. D. Ackerman's new building, came nearly losing his thumb. He was sawing a board when the saw unfortunately sprung out of the board and went across the thumb resting on the board, cutting deeply close to the nail, inflicting an ugly and painful wound.

TELEGRAPH OFFICE REMOVED.

For some unaccountable reason the Montreal Telegraph office—which has been in charge of Mr. J. A. Butterfield since its opening in this village—is about to be transferred to the store of Mr. P. Reynolds. The change has taken our village by surprise, as there have been no reasons advanced for the transfer. It cannot be on the ground of inconvenience, as both places of business of the parties are in juxtaposition to each other, and it cannot be on the ground of neglect or discourtesy, as Mr. Butterfield and his operator have always been most remarkably attentive and obliging both in this department and in the management of the Post Office. The matter, however, is not likely to rest here, as the friends of Mr. Butterfield intend protesting against the change, with what result is yet to be seen. A petition, signed by nearly all the leading business-men of the village, has been forwarded to the head office of the company, complaining of the injustice done to Mr. Butterfield in this matter, and that the office may still be retained by him.

OUR MUNICIPAL CAMPAIGN.

As the time of our municipal campaign draws near, the interest in the elections for our municipal governors increases. An effort has been made to draw into the field a candidate for the Reeveship against Mr. Pearce, but as yet none seem disposed to test his popularity with him at the past office. Mr. Pearce has been in office since the incorporation of the village, and it is safe to say that no charge of misconduct or mis-government can be urged against him. As Reeve he has been most assiduous in his duties, and always watchful over the interests of our young municipality. He has frequently stated that he has no desire to monopolize the office, and would willingly accede to the wishes of the majority of the ratepayers if they desired him to retire; but this they do not, as an influential party of the electors have definitely expressed themselves in favor of him still retaining the Reeveship. Of the Council, Mr. Askey and Mr. Cope do not seek re-election, so a choice will have to be made to fill their places. Rumor has named several gentleman, but those mentioned certainly have no desire to become martyrs to public abuse and improper censure.

BAD ROADS AGAIN.

Our roads during the past week have become so soft and slushy and so very rough by the alternate thaws and frosts that travel has become seriously impeded, and I may say they never were in such a state before. Lately several vehicles came into the village on three wheels, and other tokens of the destructive state of the roads are almost daily visible. The snow-storm of last week furnished this vicinity with about four inches of "the beautiful," and consequently sleighing has since been indulged in by some who preferred the smooth running of the sleigh to the rough jolting of the waggon.

ANNIVERSARY.

The anniversary of the Methodist Sabbath School here is announced for Monday, the 26th inst. A Christmas Tree is one of the principal attractions provided for this occasion, and will be loaded with presents from the Teachers to the scholars, and from the scholars to the teachers, substantial compliments from the one to the other which are highly appreciated. The children of the school, under the tuition of Miss Kate Buck, are practising suitable pieces of music for the occasion, while, under the Superintendent, Mr. W. H. Stephenson, a number of the scholars are rehearsing dialogues and recitations. Good preparations are going on to ensure the success of the anniversary, and there is no doubt that it will be a successful one.

FOR THE RAILWAY.

A number of farmers in Asphodel and other Townships in our vicinity have been engaged to work upon the Railway, which we hope some day to reach this inland borough. Good wages and winter's employment have been offered them. Railway news is always welcome to the Norwoodites; but the shriek of the Iron Horse would assuredly move in unison with their wishes and prayers.

OUR COUNCIL.

Met last week, but as there was not a solitary item of business to transact, an adjournment was made till next meeting, or to meet sooner if the Reeve found it necessary.

SELWYN.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The hum of the threshing machine may be heard from morn till eve with most satisfactory results. The yield generally being very much above the average. Spring wheat in some cases running 28 bushels per acre, where last year it was but 14.

THE WEATHER seems to come just about as it pleases, quite indifferent as to how many fine weather prophecies are continually being destroyed, and as a result of its changeability the majority of us are complaining of having sore throats, coughs, colds, &c.

TEMPERANCE.—The Good Templars are putting forth every effort to make their annual tea-meeting and entertainment, which is to take place in the Selwyn Temperance Hall, on Monday, Dec. 27th, as complete as possible, and judging from past experience we can safely predict a pleasant and profitable entertainment for all who come.

ORGAN RETURNED.—The directors of the North Smith Presbyterian church have returned the organ used by them during the summer. and perhaps it is better that they have done so, there being so much difficulty in securing the services of an organist that the instrument was only used about half the time.

CLOSED.—The Union Sabbath School held in S. S. No. 7, after a most successful summer's work, has been closed on account of cold weather and bad roads.

An official meeting to consider the advisability of continuing the S. S. under the name of a Union as heretofore, was announced for Thursday evening, on which evening a spirited debate was held showing that present arrangement was most unsatisfactory in as much as one party had done nearly all the work in connection with the Sunday School, while the other had stood off at a respectable distance and shouted why don't you do that some other way. It was therefore resolved that the Union be dissolved; and such being the case, it is to be hoped that the hitherto sleeping partner may awaken to due sense of its responsibility and that next season we may have two flourishing Sunday Schools in our midst as there is plenty of good work to keep them from rusting by idleness.

THE CHEESE FACTORY.—A meeting was lately held to wind up the affairs of the Selwyn cheese factory. The work of the summer was considered most satisfactory, except that some parties were suspected of being too generous to themselves by sending more than simply the product of the cow, which has created some unpleasantness and given ground for somewhat severe remarks.

MISSION COLLECTIONS.—The young ladies collecting for the Methodist Mission were on the war-path last week and succeeded in collecting a very respectable amount. They deserve great credit for attempting a work of the kind, as the roads on account of the recent thaw, were in a most wretched condition. The Presbyterian Church collectors have also been looking after their work.

Mr. A. McKee lost a valuable horse a short time since, cause, supposed to be inflammation on the lungs.

A CASE OF DOG POISONING which occured a short time ago, bids fair to be productive of some further trouble.

CHANGE OF TEACHERS.—We understand there will be a change of teachers in both S. S. No. 7. and No. 9, for the ensuing year, which seems to the cause for general regret, both teachers having filled their responsible positions with credit to themselves and satisfaction to all parties interested. So far we have not learned the names of their successors.

MIDLAND.

(Correspondence of the EXAMINER.)

A large number of the friends and acquaintances of Miss Ada Thomson assembled on the evening of the 6th instant at Mr. W. H. Henderson's to wish her "Good-bye" on her departure from Midland to again take up her residence in Peterborough. A very pleasant evening was spent, and in the course of the proceedings Miss Thomson was presented with an address and a very pretty gold ring. Miss Thomson made a suitable reply, and, after a good supper was disposed of, treated us to some splendid music on the piano, assisted by a good violinist. Everyone regrets very much the removal of Mr. Thomson and his family from Midland.

L. O. L. ELECTION OF OFFICERS.—At the regular monthly meeting of Argyle L. O. L. No. 494, Keene, held in the Orange Hall, on Thursday evening the 8th inst., the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—W. M., Bro. Thos. McIntyre; D.M., Bro. Walter J. Renwick; Chaplain, Bro. Robt. B. McIntyre; Treasurer, Bro. Walter Renwick; Secretary, Bro. Jas. McIntyre; D. of C., Bro. John Baker; Committee, Wm. Dawdell, Thos. Laing, Wm. Wedlock, Jas. Thomson, Jas. Edwards. After other business of importance had been transacted and the Lodge closed in due form, a table was spread with refreshments of the choicest kind and an onset commenced by the Argyle boys, which was kept up with vigor until the wants of the inner man were fully satisfied. Songs and speeches by the brethren followed, and the evening otherwise agreeably spent until after mid-night when all quietly dispersed to their homes very well satisfied with the manner in which the last meeting in 1881 had been conducted.—COM.

A TONIC WITHOUT ALCOHOL.

Dyspeptics and those suffering from chronic diseases should read the following from Rev. John Gregory, pastor of the Wesleyan Methodist Church. at Pittstone, Pa,

MY DEAR SIR,—Having at various times personally, and in my own and other families, tested the great value of the medicine called PERUVIAN SYRUP or Protected Solution of Protoxide of Iron, I most cheerfully recommend it, especially to those who are suffering from dyspeptic and nervous disorders. As a reliable and powerful alterative, it is, I think, unsurpassed; and as a tonic, free from all the objectionable features of alcoholic remedies, it is a most efficient auxiliary to the temperance cause. One of the greatest hindrances to the temperance reform at present is, as I think, the medical use of alcoholic stimulants. Whatever may be argued as to their necessity in certain cases, we have, in the PERUVIAN SYRUP, a safe and efficient substitute for those dangerous remedies. This testimony is given unsolicited, with the hope that some who are not yet acquainted with the valuable properties of the medicine may be induced to give it a trial. Sold by all druggists.

JEWELLERY.—It is the business of every high strung citizen to offer upon the shrine of domestic or social duty an offering of some kind during this generous season of the year. Those who do not, miss both the pleasantness which a kind act confers, and the joy of a contented conscience. To meet the generous impulses of mankind Mr. W. A. Sanderson has specially laid in a tasty stock of Watches of every kind and of every price, chains to suit the most fastidious, new costly jewellry at the lowest profit, both gold and silver, silver ware of every description, and cheap though solid clocks. His stock invites inspection and by its quality, and variety, submits itself to the commendation of all.

OUR TORONTO LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

TORONTO, Dec. 10.

POLICE ADMINISTRATION.

I think the police government of this city is more efficient just now than it has ever been before, but that does not prevent a strong inducement of complaint and a growing determination to make it better still. This part of our administration is in the hands very largely of the board of police commissioners, who are the senior county judge, the police magistrate and the mayor of the city. It is certainly a mistake to have the magistrate acting in that capacity, for the board should be in a position to review and report on his acts. To make matters worse, the meetings of the commission are secret, and when any investigation takes place, the benefit, which publicity would secure, is entirely lost. At present, we have as police magistrate a man of unexceptionable moral character, and for chief of police, one against whom no charge of immorality is correct. But in spite of their respectability it is generally believed that their mode of dealing with the criminal classes is extremely defective. The members of the police force complain that they are snubbed if they show too much zeal in proceeding against certain classes of offenders, and the magistrate is in the habit of imposing ridiculously light sentences. In the case of keepers of houses of ill-fame he has been openly challenged for this by a deputation of prominent citizens, but he is open to similar criticism all round. For instance in the matter of street vandalism, which effectually prevents people from ornamenting their fronts, boyish depredators are too frequently let off with a caution, when a heavy fine or imprisonment would be a perfectly proper infliction. Until our police authorities undertake vigorously the suppression of the evil we shall never be able to boast in Toronto of such handsome gardens, lawns, and boulevards, accessible to the public, as cities of the same grade in the United States display.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

We have during the past few years made quite as much progress in municipal as in criminal administration, but the discontent with the present city council is nevertheless very great. This is, after all, a hopeful sign, and may be the means of getting rid, it is to be hoped forever, of a few municipal dead-beats who still grace the council board. There is a prevalent and increasing desire, and I think I may add a determination, on the part of our citizens, to stamp out the petty grabbing and corruption which have characterised our municipal government for years, and in all probability the resolution to do so will lead to excellent results. The scheme promulgated at the conservative convention for running the municipal election on Dominion party lines will not affect results here appreciably. There is nothing to be gained by either party for our assessment rolls are already made and revised, and the voters' lists will soon be up for revision by the county judge.

THE CITY'S SUBURBS.

There is a growing tendency in both the city and the villages clustered around it, in favor of amalgamation. The extension of the city means the extinction of the villages, but the latter have ceased to dread this fate and will probably before long quietly come in on terms as favourable as they can secure. To the east along the Don, the city extends along the water front for several miles and therefore a village of any importance on that side of the city is out of the question. There is really then no incorporated village at all, but the city is hemmed in on the north and west by three other corporations, the largest of which, the village of Yorkville, is now negotiating for union. Outside of the villages, on the west, the city owns a large park, so that it is clearly only a question of time when Toronto will have very material additions made to her extent and population. As these suburbs are peopled by a very respectable class, the new blood infused by the process of consolidation will tend to improve our civic administration, while the enlargement, coupled with the expansion of trade and railway development, will speedily make Toronto a much more prominent city than it now is in the public estimation.

LINDSAY.

At a recent meeting of the Omemee school board the following teachers were engaged for the coming year: Mr. W M. Elliot as headmaster of the high school at a salary of $700, and Miss Gibson as assistant at $300; Mr. J. H. Sheppard as headmaster of the public school at $450 a year; and Miss Anderson for the junior department at a salary of $180 a year.

The work of putting in plate glass in the stores of Mr. Keenan's block is being pushed through. Mayor Taylor's premises have been so embellished and it is a grand improvement, and of course gives the public a much better insight into the telegraph and express business. The Messrs. Beall are just now the tenants who are the subject.

Mr. J. B. King, of Toronto, the grand secretary of I.O.O.F., held a lodge of instruction in the initiatory work in Lindsay lodge room Thursday afternoon. In the evening at seven o'clock p.m. Mr. King opened a lodge of instruction in degree work. There was a large attendance on both occasions.

Mr. H. Walters, the well-known bridge builder, has just finished a fine queen truss bridge over the Burnt river at Kinmount for the county. It is 136 ft. long, with a 60 ft. approach on one side and 30 ft. on the other. There are two 56 ft. spans in the clear. The centre pier is 36x14 ft. and 27 ft. high. The trusses are sheeted with galvanized iron roof, making a very substantial and durable structure—a credit to the contractor and to the country. It is painted a drab color and presents a fine appearance. The cost was $2,503. The cost for the present is borne by this county, but there is to be a friendly suit with Peterboro, as our county holds that Peterboro should bear one-half. The bridge is on the leading road between the two counties, but diverges a little from the boundary line at Kinmount. Whatever question there may be as to legal responsibility there can be no doubt whatever as to Peterboro's moral responsibility in the premises, as the bridge is a greater convenience to that county than it is to this county.—Post.

Distemper in Colts.

Distemper in a colt takes about three weeks to run its course; all the medicine required is a light dose of Epsom salts, say four to six ounces, and good nursing. Give warm bran mashes, linseed or oatmeal gruel; keep the animal warm, and rub the legs with cloths dipped in hot water; a tablespoonful of mustard in the water would be beneficial if the legs seem to be weak and numb.

TYPHOID FEVER.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—As there seems to be considerable unnecessary alarm in this vicinity, regarding the contagiousness of typhoid fever, a few facts may prove interesting as well as beneficial to your readers. And, as I have been severely censured for "importing" a case "into the very centre of our village" thus placing those contiguous, and ultimately the whole village, in great danger, I should like to say a word in my own defence; for if I have committed so grave an offence I am either guilty of great indifference to the public weal or of greater ignorance of the nature of typhoid fever. On Tuesday 15th Nov., Mr. S—— consulted me at my office, I found him suffering from symptoms of typhoid fever, told him what I suspected, and cautioned him to remain in the house and send for medical aid if more were needed. In a couple of days he felt some better, worked for two days and on Monday the 21st Nov., he again consulted me. I found typhoid fever developed, informed him of the fact, prescribed for him, gave him written directions to Mr. M—— for whom he was working and promised to see him on the next Wednesday. He was unwilling to return and finally said he did not feel able. A gentleman volunteered to ask a lady to take him in. She kindly consented to do what she could for him, provided "he had no friends." I was quite willing to attend him at his home; but did not think it incumbent on me to tell my patient, who had asked for my advice, that he must ride five miles on horseback, with typhoid fever and temperature of 104½ degrees. But I am quite willing to admit that the public have a right to ask if in discharging my duties as a medical man, have I endangered their health and perhaps their lives. But if the opinions of medical men of vast experience, who have investigated the nature of the disease, do not condemn me, then, I think the public should not judge rashly.

For the benefit of those who feel alarmed, I will make a few quotations from standard authors.

Dr. Flint, of New York says: "Although this disease may undoubtedly be communicated in some way from the sick to the well, under ordinary circumstances, it is not diffused by contagion. As a rule it is not communicated to those who come in contact with private patients, nor is it propogated among hospital patients, thus differing widely from typhus fever."

Dr. Tanner says: "The attendants on the sick are rarely attacked."

Dr. Parks, who is an eminent authority on sanitary matters writes: "The grand fact is clear that the occurrence of typhoid fever points unequivocally to defective removal of excreta, and that it is a disease altogether and easily preventible."

The sources which frequently give rise to the disease, according to the authorities on the subject, are bad drainage, causing the sewage to stagnate and ferment, drinking water tainted from sewage, cess-pools, noxious gases rising from water-closets, and in some localities it is endemic.

I have not been able to find on record a single instance in which the disease has been communicated by a nurse or attendant who had not the disease themselves.

Another proof, that it is not as contagious as typhus fever, small pox, scarlatina, diphtheria, measles, whooping cough, which are all epidemics at any season of the year, is, that typhoid is epidemic only in the autumn and first winter months.

Therefore, I think the public might rely on the following: That typhoid fever is not infectious, that is, is not communicated by the well from being in contact with the sick. That with proper precautions it is not communicated from one house to another. That with ordinary care the danger from contagion is very slight indeed. That it is possible, according to our present knowledge, for every family to have typhoid fever generated at its own door by neglecting sanitary precautions. There is therefore no reason to suppose that typhoid fever is going to be propogated in Lakefield by the young man who has been unfortunate enough, entirely among strangers, to be overtaken with so dangerous a disease; and the lady, who kindly took him in, not for gain, but because he was friendless, surely deserves commendation not censure.

Thanking you for your space, and hoping that I have not only succeeded in justifying myself, but in quieting increasing fears, I am, sir,

Yours truly,
WM. CALDWELL.

Lakefield, Dec. 12th, 1881.

MIDLAND DISTRICT NOTES.

Mr. D. B. Robertson is a candidate for mayor of the city of Belleville.

Lindsay is red hot over the establishment of a woodenware factory which, if established will employ some fifty hands.

There has been a want of storage room for grain in Hastings, and it is probable two additional houses will be built next season.

Daniel Davy, of Napance, and Noble Johnston, of Bath, lost their lives by the capsizing of a boat in the Bay of Quinte, on Tuesday last.

The Midland Elevator Company's elevator at Port Hope has been covered outside with patent metallic shingles, introduced into Canada, or this part of the Dominion at least, by Mr. W. Cluxton.

Mr. Hooper, M. P., the defaulting ex-Treasurer of Lennox, is now in Manitoba, but has not yet resigned his seat in Parliament. It is stated that the constituency will be offered to Sir John Macdonald at the next election.

Robert Newberry Esq., clerk of the city of Belleville died at his residence on Thursday last. Mr. Newberry was a genial, whole-souled, and intelligent gentleman, with no enemies but many warm friends. He was appointed City Clerk in 1874, and in adition held several other offices.

The Omemee Herald says:—On Saturday last Mr. S. Lamb killed a heifer which weighed, when dressed, 575 pounds. There was a fine coating of fat from the neck to the tail. The animal was purchased from Mr. Robert McQuade, of Emily, and was only two and a half years old.

USE THE celebrated "Lardine Oil" on your machinery. Best and cheapest oil in the market. Does not clog or gum. Has good heavy body and will not thin in summer. Sold in Peterborough by Messrs. McKee & Davidson; and in Lakefield by W. H. Casement. Try it and you will use no other. 25-52t

NO RISK.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL! WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD. DO YOU KNOW ANYTHING OF IT? IF NOT IT IS TIME YOU DID.

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures cinnamon Sore Throat. One bottle has cured Bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old Standing Cough. One or two bottles cures bad cases of Piles or Kidney Troubles. Six to eight applications cure any case of Excoriated Nipples or Inflamed Breast. One bottle has cured Lame Back of eight years' standing. Daniel Plank, of Brookfield, Tioga Co., Pa., says: "I went thirty miles for a bottle of our Oil, which affected a wonderful cure of a Crooked Limb, by six applications."—Another who had had Asthma for years, says:—"I have half a bottle left, and $100 would not buy it if I could not get no more."—Rufus Robinson, of Nunda, N. Y., writes: "One small bottle of your Eclectric Oil restored the voice where the person had not spoken above a whisper for five years."—Rev. J Mallory, of Wyoming, N. Y., writes: "Your Eclectric Oil cured me of Bronchitis in one week."

It is composed of six of the Best Oils that are known. It is as good for internal as for external use, and is believed to be immeasurably superior to anything ever made. Will save you much suffering and many dollars of expense.

Beware of Imitations.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown in the bottle, and Take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE—Eclectric—Selected and Electrised

THE ALEMBIC OF THE BODY.—The stomach is the alembic of the human system. In it those wondrous chemical changes take place which result in the transmutation of food into blood. When it is vigorous the necessary processes of digestion and assimilation go on uninterrupted, and the system is suitably nourished. When it is feeble or disordered, they are obstructed, and being in consequence ill supplied with blood of a vitalising quality, the physical organism becomes weak and feeble, the nerves suffer, the liver and bowels are semi-paralyzed, and appetite and sleep fail. These disastrous consequences may, however, be prevented, or remedied with the supreme stomachic and aperient, NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY AND DYSPEPTIC CURE, a medicine of rare purity and efficacy, which reforms a disordered and repairs a weakened state of the digestive organs, overcomes biliousness, relieves the bowels when obstructed without straining or weakening them, and promotes the exit from the system of impurities which infect the blood, which cause serious organic maladies. No objectionable mineral contaminates it, and its value is not marred by a subsequent re-action prejudical to the general health. Far perferable is it to the ordinary nauseous drugs used to produce a similar effect, but which are frequently ineffective as well as unpleasant; nor is it a cheap and valueless medicine, puffed into existence. It is used for dyspepsia, biliousness, affections of the blood, kidney complaints, famale weakness, lumbago, &c., and in all blood diseases it is unequalled. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The wrapper bears a fac simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!!!

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth? If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother on earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y.

An order was drawn accordingly. On motion of Mr. Wood, seconded by Mr. Lightfoot, the Council did then adjourn.—Com.

TAKEN ON TRIAL.

THE NEW WRINKLE IN THE MATRIMONIAL MARKET—SAMPLING A WIFE.

The Chief of Police was called on this morning to settle a matter, the particulars of which are as interesting as they are novel. It appears that one Thomas Barnhardt, of this city, has been working during the past season for a farmer residing in the vicinity of Hay Bay. This farmer is the father of a buxom daughter. Thomas looked upon the fair one with amorous glances, and finally told his tale of love. "Barkus was willing" in this case, and so were her parents. Thomas, however, was not so much in love as to be entirely blind. He did not want to bind himself for life, or for years, to a woman who might not be all his fancy had painted her. So he contracted to take the blushing damsel on trial for twelve days. If at the end of that time she satisfied him, he would marry her; if she did not, he would return her to her parents. To this decidedly novel matrimonial arrangement we are told the girl's parents consented, and the two lover's came to Belleville with the intention of testing their connubial qualifications. The twelve days expired last Saturday, when Barnhardt told the girl to return to her mamma as she did not come quite up to his idea of what a wife should be. He, however, kept some of her clothing, and this morning the girl's parents applied to the Chief for assistance to regain possession of the missing articles. They had no particular fault to find with the dismissal of their daughter by Thomas, as he did only what was agreed to under conditions of disapproval, but they objected to his retaining what did not belong to him. While living here the girl, we are told, passed for Barnhardt's wife and resided with him as such. Those who knew the parties, but not the agreement, were considerably surprised when they heard the "wife" had been shipped back home as a "poor piece of goods." This is the latest matrimonial venture, and it is the oddest, too.—Belleville Ontario. As the Times only a few days ago noted a similar case to the above, it may be necessary to warn damsels of a matrimonial turn of mind to fight shy of those over-cautious bachelors, who might find it more profitable existing on "samples" of wife than in actually owning one, under the pretence of "trying before buying." The women samplers must be stamped out at all hazards.—Hamilton Times.

Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

MANHOOD

How Lost! How Restored!

I have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife: pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

The Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Clegg's celebrated flour is as cheap as any other, and makes more bread to the barrel. Try it. 50-4ins.

PERSONAL. Mr. A. Bertram, of Toronto, was in town during the week.

NOMINATION day for municipal officers falls on Monday, 26th December, and polling on Monday, 2nd January.

WITH the advent of cold weather the sparrows again begin to attract the sympathy of kind-hearted citizens.

MILITARY GYMNASIUM.—The military gymnasium at the drill shed in connection with Nos. 1 and 2 companies, is now in full running order and is well attended by the members.

JUST opened, another lot of the celebrated Rock Island hand-made boots, also Russian and German felt boots, moccasins, overshoes, rubbers, slippers, women and childrens' wear in great variety. W. J. WALLACE, Lakefield. 48-tf.

PEDIGREED CATTLE.—We understand that some people are in doubt as to Mr. Henry Collin's cattle being possessed of the necessary qualifications to insure their registration in the Canadian Herd Book under the new regulations, but they need not have the slightest doubt on this point as they all prove to be up to the new standard.

Go to Clegg's for choice pastry flour, only $3.25 per hundred. 50-4ins

CANDIDATES for municipal honors should announce themselves through the press. Votes are often promised by ratepayers who would rather support others were they aware they were in the field.

"DELUDED souls who dream of heaven" appears as the heading for marriage notices in the Cincinnatti Enquirer, and people wonder whether the editor is a bachelor or whether he—isn't.

PROF. HOTCHKIN, the celebrated Springless Truss and Supporter man, will be at the Huffman House, Jan. 31st and Feb. 1st. He has become master of his profession and defies the Hernia he cannot hold. Go and see him.

SCHOOL HOLIDAYS.—The schools of the town will close for the Christmas holidays on Thursday, 22nd instant. The 7th of January is the day set for their re-opening, but as it falls on Saturday they will not open till Monday, 9th of January.

RUPTURES, SPRINGLESS TRUSSES AND SUPPORTERS.—Prof. Hotchkin, of Albion, Orleans County, N. Y., will again visit Peterborough. Prof. H. having had thirty years experience, defies the Hernia he cannot hold. Go and see him at the Huffman House, Jan. 31st and Feb. 1st.

Don t fail to see the bargains offered in all kinds of staple and fancy dry goods, ready made clothing, hats, caps, furs, boots, shoes, rubbers and overshoes, teas and all kinds of groceries, crockery and glassware. W. J. WALLACE, Lakefield.

NEW YEAR CARDS.—The New York papers intimate that New Year's calls will be more fashionable than ever this year. The designs for New Year's calling cards are very elaborate, and those who want something really nice at prices which cannot fail to please should call at the EXAMINER office.

FOR THE HOLIDAYS.—Foot & McWhinnie have on hand a very large assortment of Ladies and Gents Fancy Slippers, in quite new patterns, which will be sold at very low prices during the holidays. Skating Boots and Gent's Fancy Slippers made on the shortest notice. 49-tf.

BANK CHANGES.—We are pleased to see that Mr. W. Manson, formerly manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here, has been again appointed to the charge. During Mr. Manson's former tenure of office here he made many friends who will be most happy to welcome him back.

BAZAAR.—Remember the bazaar this evening under the auspices of the ladies of the George Street Methodist Church, in the lecture room of the church. Tea will be served from 5 to 7, and supper from 8 to 10. The goods offered for sale will consist of useful and fancy articles, Christmas presents, etc. Admission 5 cents.

IT IS ANNOUNCED that in consequence of Christmas Day and New Year's Day falling on Sunday, the Lieut.-Governor will declare the Monday following each of these days a public holiday. This arrangement will be universally endorsed. In store-keeping circles, at any rate, Saturday is too good a business day to shut shop if it can be avoided.

ENTERTAINMENT.—An entertainment will be given in St. John's school house, in aid of "the Women's Foreign and Domestic Mission Society," Thursday, December 22nd, at eight o'clock. Tickets 25 cents each, to be had at the bookstores of Messrs. Wilson & Davis and J. L. Davidson.

PENNY READINGS.—The members of Peterborough Temple have arranged for a series of Penny Readings to be held monthly during the winter season, the first of which takes place on Tuesday evening next, 20th instant, in the Orange Hall. A very interesting and entertaining programme is promised. Tickets 5 cents.

SKATERS of North America are invited to participate in a tournament to be held at Vienna about the middle of January. Canada has already beaten the world at the oar; she should be able to take first honors on the skate, if practice is worth anything. Some of our fancy figurers on the ice should enter.

HOLIDAY GOODS.—Advertising of holiday goods is now fully in order, and it should be borne constantly in mind, the dealer who advertises most sells most. Every purchaser first examines his newspaper to learn where he may find what he wants to buy, and of course, when he sets out to make his purchases, he proceeds by a bee line, to the very place whose advertisement has attracted his attention. This is as natural as "falling off a log.

TOWN COUNCIL.—A special meeting of the town council was held on Friday evening last to consider a request from the waterworks company for an extension of time for the commencement of the work from the 10th of November until the 1st of May. After explanations from Mr. Hatton, a by-law was passed granting the request and also providing that further extension can not be granted without the waterworks by-law becoming null and void. A number of accounts were received and referred to the finance committee, after which the council adjourned.

SUITABLE.—Every person before buying should consider the advisability of seeking out the best place to procure for their friends mementos which recall the giver, and entwine themselves amidst the tender remembrances of the past. Mr. R. W. Muncaster has a most beautiful selection of goods for the holiday season—a selection which could not probably be found in the same space in many of our neighboring towns, and a glance over the stock is sufficient to prove that it has not only been selected with artistic taste, but with consideration as to the pocket as well. Everything is sold at prices which are really amazing and a great comfort to the economic buyer. He invites all to call and see and buy.

TRUE BLUES.—At the last regular monthly meeting of "McWilliams' No Surrender" Lodge, No. 25, True Blues, the following were elected officers for the current year:—W. M., Matthew Jameson; D. M., Thomas Duncan; Treas., Fred. Wear; Sec., Wm. McDowell; D. of C., James Scott; Lecturers, Harry Gray and Joseph Chrowe; Wm. Russell Charles Willoughby, Fred. Minore, Geo. Davidson and Sidney Martyn, Committeemen; I. T., Herbert Sherwood; O. T., Stephen Gaskin.

A TOKEN OF ESTEEM.—Mr. Emmet Kendry, for some time past in charge of one of the departments of the Auburn woollen mills, was, on Saturday evening last, on the occasion of his removal to Campbellford, presented by the weavers and employees of the weaving room, with a handsome watch and an address as a token of esteem and friendship.

S. S. MASS MEETING.—A mass meeting of the children of the town Sabbath Schools will be held in the George Street Methodist Church, on Sunday the 1st of January next. The service will commence at 2.45 p. m., sharp, and close at 4 o'clock. A very interesting programme is under preparation. Besides the singing and responsive scripture readings by the scholars, the Rev. Messrs. Jolliffe, Torrance, Shaw, Bell, Stobo and Workman, will take part in the service.

GROCERIES.—Mr. B. Morrow brings his extensive stock of groceries into notice, confident that their freshness and high quality, together with their very reasonable prices will satisfy the most economical. He has on hand a splendid collection of teas, coffees, sugars, glasswares, canned fruits, wines, liquors and other goods specially purchased for the holiday-time. Everything is bought in the best markets and no goods that are not excellent in quality are sold. To meet the demands of the holiday season, he has increased his stock and the purchasing public cannot do better than invest their cash in his store and go away satisfied. He means business—bring along your cash.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—The following is the order of the special services or Mission, being held this week in St. John's Church, (Episcopal) Peterborough:

Daily.—8.30, a. m., Holy Communion and Address. 12 o'clock, Meditation. 4, p.m., Evensong and Instruction. 7.30, Mission Sermon. &c.

On Saturday.—8.30, a. m., Holy Communion and Address. 12 o'clock, Meditation. 2 p. m., Service for children. 3 p. m., Service and Address to women. 7.30, Mission Sermon, &c.

On Sunday.—8.30, a. m., Holy Communion and Address. 11 a. m. Litany, Holy Communion and Sermon. 2.30 p. m., Children's Service, followed by an Address to S. S teachers. 4 p. m. Address to men only. 7 p. m., Evensong and Sermon.

NEW INDUSTRY.—Messrs. Stapleton & Walsh have started a stock repository somewhat similar to that of Grand, in Toronto. Their premises are situated on Simcoe Street, opposite Phelan's Hotel, in Ryan's old tannery, and since being fitted up are spacious and comfortable. The business of the firm is principally to buy, sell and ship horses; although we think it is their intention to do considerable business on commission. Both of the firm thoroughly understand horse flesh, and purchasers can implicitly rely on their judgment. At present the firm are sending out into this and adjacent counties buyers who pick up every good bargain, and as there is a large demand for good serviceable horses, no doubt they will ply a brisk trade. They have now in their stables a car load of good looking animals which they intend to ship immediately. Those desiring a horse cannot consult their interests better than by dropping into the repository and taking a look around. See their advertisement in another column.

THE REEVESHIP.

Mr. John Finlay is out bold and strong for the Reeveship, and is prosecuting a rigid canvass of the village. There is no doubt Mr. Finlay will make a good run, as he is a popular man on the whole.

FESTIVAL.

The festivals of the approaching Christmas promise to be numerous here. In addition to the many private social gatherings, and the grand affair of the Methodist Sunday School, the Presbyterians announce a festival on as grand a scale. Scioptic views—rather novel here—recitations, dialogues, vocal and instrumental music, &c., are promised. A present, in the shape of bon-bons, is also to be given to all in attendance, both great and small, old and young. The festival promises to be a very entertaining one, and, as is usually the case, will redound to the credit of the Presbyterian friends.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

At the regular meeting of L.O.L. No. 549, of this village, held on Monday the 12th inst, the following brethren were elected officers for coming year. Bro. W. Hutchinson, Master; Bro. J. D. Ackerman, D. Master; Bro. R. M. Foster, Chaplain; Bro. Chas Seawright, Treasurer; Bro. Thos Hill, Secretary; Committeemen, Bros. John Beckett, John Hendron and Fred Copperthwaite.

At the regular meeting of Norwood L.O.L. No. 34, the following brethren were elected officers. Geo. Kirk, Master; John McMillan, D. Master; Rev. W. M. Pattyson, Chaplain; A. W. Dafoe, Secretary; C. Stephenson, Treasurer; Committee-men, Enoch Thistlethwaite. Jas. Leeper, Richard Leeper, John Stinson.

A DECIDED STEP.

At a recent meeting of the Asphodel Township council held in the Town Hall here, it was decided to take a vote of the ratepayers at the ensuing election of that municipality upon the advisability of locating and building a Town Hall for municipal purposes. This has long been a very aggravating question in our mother Township, and the council have adopted this straightforward method of bringing it before the electors and finally settling the matter. If the ratepayers decide in favor of the Hall, a central position will be chosen, but at the same time many of the ratepayers are desirous of selecting Norwood on account of the ample accommodation it affords for both man and beast. The people of the village, however, will not interfere in the matter.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Bristow Moffatt, of this village, on Friday last, received a severe shock of paralysis, from the effects of which he died on Saturday morning. The deceased gentleman was one of the old residents of Norwood, having resided here for nearly 37 years and has watched the growth of the village from its infancy to its present prosperous dimensions. For many years past he lived a retired life, taking very little interest in public affairs; but still he had the interest of the village at heart, and was highly respected by all classes in this community. His funeral took place on Monday morning, and was attended by a large concourse of of sympathizing friends and mourning relatives. A funeral service was held in the Presbyterian church, conducted by Mr. John Gibson, a student of Knox's College, Toronto, and who conducted the Sabbath service of that church here. Having been an active member of Norwood L.O.L. No, 34, his funeral was attended in a body by the members of that Lodge, as well as of L.O.L. No. 549, also of Norwood, the rites of that order being solemnly conducted at the grave of the deceased brother. Mr. Moffatt had been an Orangeman for over 56 years, having been initiated in Ireland when only 16 years of age.

A PERILOUS ADVENTURE.

It is very seldom we are treated near home with a romantic episode such as thrilled the hearts of our countrymen in the days of Dick Turpin and others well skilled in his gentlemanly habits; but it seems the days of gentleman Dick are reviving, as a party residing within a stone throw of Norwood has no reason to doubt whatever. Mr. John Kelly, residing on the Grover's property just outside of the limits of the village, on Tuesday last was engaged to remove the household goods of Mrs. R. Richardson, by team to Peterborough. He safely accomplished this job, and about six o'clock in the evening left for home, and had got a few miles on his journey on the road between the town and Indian River, when he was accosted by a man who at once asked him if he would give him a lift. Kelly assented, and the stranger got into the seat with him. The stranger asked him several questions about his business in town, and was civilly answered. After a short ride he asked Kelly if he had a pipe, Kelly said "No, he did not carry one." He then began to be suspicious of his companion, and kept an eye upon him. The latter fumbled in his pockets as if looking for a pipe, when he suddenly drew his arm at full length towards Kelly and, without saying a word, fired a revolver straight at his face. Kelly, seeing the movement, grasped the would-be murderer's arm, and at the same time flung back his head, the bullet almost grazing his nose while the flash almost blinded him. Quick as a flash he grappled with him, the pistol again exploding in the struggle, which resulted in Kelly tumbling him out of the waggon, and getting rid of his would-be destroyer, who followed his intended victim with two more shots from his revolver. They, too, proved harmless, as the horses took fright, and galloped away with maddening speed. Shortly after bringing his horses to subjection, Mr. Kelly overtook another man, who said something to him, but as his experience with such tramps was not of a very satisfactory kind, he was not inclined to risk the companionship of another, and passed on, being partly convinced that the second person was a confederate of the one he had just escaped from. From the conversation with the first individual, Mr. Kelly inferred that he was in wait for some farmer returning home with the proceeds of a load of grain, but not meeting with the identical person, he determined that Kelly should fall a prey to his evil intentions. Mr. Kelly's escape is a miraculous one, and it is to be hoped will make parties in future travelling at night cautious with those they may meet on the road.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

C. O. F.

The regular meeting of Court Lakefield will be held in the "Union Hall," on Thursday evening, when a large attendance is expected.

IRON BRIDGE.

Our residents have recovered their good humor by the announcement that the old bridge will not be removed until January as that their Xmas trade will not suffer as expected.

SCARCITY OF WOOD.

The want of snow is the cause of our being threatened with a wood famine, farmers not caring to bring it in over the rough roads in waggons, notwithstanding it commands a half more in price to what it would were we to get sleighing.

MASONIC.

The installation of officers of Clements Lodge 213 A. F. and A. M., will be held in their lodge room on St. John's day, Dec. 27th. It was intended to celebrate the day by a social or ball, but owing to circumstances it is left over to a future date.

LAKEFIELD DAM.

We learn that Messrs. Strickland have received instructions from the Court of Chancery, that the Lakefield Dam has to be reduced in height, according to instructions, not later than the 10th January, and it will be done accordingly. We have not time to go into the subject this week but will do so again.

SKATING AND CURLING RINK.

A joint stock company has been formed here to erect and run a rink for the above purpose, they are erecting a building 165 feet by 65 feet near the Midland R. R. Station, and expect soon to have it ready for use in that not only our young people but the old ones as well, especially those from the land of the Heather, will be able to enjoy an hour when time will permit.

SHANTIES.

Work in the different shanties seems to be almost at a stand-still for want of snow and unless it comes soon a number of the men will be discharged. As an example of the mild weather at this time of the year, a woman in one of the shanties mentioned having seen both Bear and Raccoon tracks last week along the creek where lumbermen are working, and none of our large back lakes are yet closed with ice.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

Notice informing the ratepayers that the nomination of councillors to represent them for the coming year, will be held in the council chamber next Monday, 26th inst, are now posted around the village. It is understood that two of the old councillors will retire, and several names mentioned for the honor, and, of an evening, groups can be observed in the street corners and in the stores, discussing the chances of their favorite candidates, of whom a number are in the field.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT.

A Mr. Combie delivered a lecture last Monday evening in the P. C. A. Hall, in the interests of the Y. M. C. A. The attendance was not very large, but, still large enough to be annoyed by the disorderly conduct of boys, many of whom are old enough to know better. A year since or council arrived at the conclusion that the then village constable was remiss in his duty, and appointed a second who has not proved a bit better, in fact, with even our two constables, there have been more inches of the village By-laws during the past year than ever before, and when our new council is elected we trust they will see their way clear to appoint a paid constable and see that he does his duty. The interests of the village demand it, and we trust it will be attended to.

MURDER.

A report comes from the back country (which I give for what it is worth) that a most horrible murder was committed last Thursday afternoon, at one of Gilmour's shanties on Beaver creek, County of Hastings. It seems that the cook, a man by the name of O'Brian, had some words with his "mate" or assistant at the dinner hour. When the men returned in the evening both were missing, the fire out and no supper ready. Search was made but no clue was found until next morning, when the body of the mate (name unknown) was found under a log heap back of the shanty. He had been killed with a blow on the head and the body cut into quarters. O'Brian was missing; but the clothes worn the day before were in the shanty covered with blood. As yet no word has been received of his whereabouts; but no doubt if the story is true he will soon be in custody.

SPECIAL MEETING.

A special meeting of the Lakefield School Board was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday evening the 20th inst. C. J. Galvin in the chair. Present—Messrs. Sanders, Cox, Isbister and Wilson. A deputation of the school boys waited on the board, and presented a petition, signed by over one hundred of the pupils requesting the trustees to extend the time of re-opening school from the 3rd to the 9th of Jan. The boys advocated their cause in such an able and zealous manner and met all arguments opposed to it in such a frank and manly way, that the board succumbed, and Mr. Wilson moved, seconded by Mr. Isbister, that the petition be granted, and on the chairman declaring the motion carried, it was met with three cheers for the trustees, which were given, as only Lakefield boys know how to give. A note from Miss Anderson, tendering her resignation as teacher and requesting that the board would forgo the usual three months notice, was received and after some discussion was accepted on motion of Mr. Wilson, seconded by Mr. Cox. On motion of Mr. Wilson, seconded by Mr. Cox, the secretary was directed to insert a notice in the daily Mail and Globe for another teacher to take Miss Anderson's place, at the same salary. Moved by Mr. Sanders, seconded by Mr. Isbister, that this board do now adjourn to meet at the call of the chairman.—Carried.

Horace Greely's bad penmanship has passed into a proverb. No description of it without a fac-simile of the writing could convey any idea of its illegibility. It is charitable, however, to the old philosopher to suppose that the fault lay with the pens he had been accustomed to use, but what a world of grief and trouble would have been saved to the compositors if he had written his editorials, with an Esterbrook Falcon Pen.

Peterborough Examiner

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 22, 1881.

The Midland Railway.

The scheme for the amalgamation, under one controlling direction of the Midland, Toronto and Nipissing, the Whitby and Lindsay, and the Toronto and Ottawa lines, is of more consequence to Peterborough than to any other point on any of the roads named. This can be seen by a glance at a map of the Midland district, but the significance of the project can be still more clearly shown by reference to a few facts and figures. Geographically, Peterborough is located near the centre of the system. This, of itself, is a decided advantage, and when account is taken of the resources of the large district of which this town is the natural centre, the accident of location assumes a still more important aspect. No place, whatever its natural advantages otherwise, can nowadays be successful in the struggle for pre-eminence, unless it possesses abundant railway facilities and is in this way capable of becoming a convenient distributing point. Heretofore Peterborough has been placed at a disadvantage in this respect, as compared with other towns of no greater population; but if the amalgamation scheme is carried on to completion as we have no doubt it will speedily be there will be little reason for complaint on that score. It will then only remain for our people to avail themselves of the opportunities afforded them in order to distance all competitors.

The most obvious advantage for Peterborough coming to details in the scheme outlined in Mr. Cox's Port Hope speech, is the construction of the two loop lines, or links, one from this place to Omemee, and the other from Manilla to Wick. When this part of the work of construction has been completed, the distance from Peterborough to Toronto will be shortened to 88 miles, that is some half dozen miles less than by way of Port Hope, and 20 miles less than by way of Woodville Junction, There will of course be a corresponding shortening of the distance from Peterborough to Midland, and indeed to all points west of us on the main line or its branches. Another advantage is the assumed continuation of the old Grand Junction line from Madoc to Ottawa. Whatever scepticism there may have been lurking in the public mind on this point will now be dissipated, for on the broader basis afforded by the amalgamation of the lines already in operation, there will be no difficulty in raising the funds necessary to complete the work. In this connection it is worth while noticing the statement recently made public that the Ontario and Quebec company have found great difficulty in locating their line in the vicinity of Sharbot Lake, the Toronto and Ottawa surveyors having taken up the only good line that can be found in that locality. By the completion of the latter line to Ottawa, the distance between Peterborough and the capital will be shortened from about 240 to about 180 miles, a change which will prove of itself a very great boon, to say nothing of the advantage of direct communication as compared with a journey involving changes at Prescott and either Belleville or Port Hope.

Any one who has paid any attention to railway matters will easily understand that the saving in the working of the amalgamated roads will be enormous. Instead of keeping up a separate staff for each of four or five different roads there will be only one staff necessary for the whole combination, and whereas it was formerly necessary to charge monopoly rates at non-competing points in order to compensate for low rates at points of intersection, the management will now be in a position to charge even but moderate rates over the whole of their lines. It will, of course, be possible for the combination to extort money from the public, now that all competition in the Midland district is killed off, but there is fortunately little reason to dread any thing of the sort. The management of the Midland has for some time past been of an enlightened kind, and we fancy that Mr. Cox and his associates, who have the public confidence now, will not easily be induced to do anything to forfeit it. It would be most unwise of them to do so, for any feeling of discontent could only redound to the injury of the Midland by stirring up new projects. What we wish and expect is to see the traffic rates kept down to the lowest point compatible with an efficient transport service, a safe road-bed, and good station accommodation. This will make the line and its management popular everywhere and in the long run will be found to pay better than any other policy.

In these days of large railway projects and combinations it is interesting to notice the extent of mileage covered by the new Midland organization. The present Midland has 142 miles in working order; the Toronto and Nipissing, 115; the Whitby and Lindsay, 48; the Victoria 56; the Grand Junction, 89; making a total of 448 miles now in operation, with aggregate earnings amounting to $865,000 a year. The completion of the loop lines and of the Toronto and Ottawa will largely increase both the mileage and the receipts, and it is confidently expected that the latter road will have a paying local traffic from the start. Not the least important feature of the scheme is the fact that the southern terminus of the Ontario Sault line will be some point on the Midland Railway. The Northern Railway has drifted under Syndicate influence, and therefore Gravenhurst can no longer be a terminus for a road that is a rival to the Syndicate's Sault line. The only southern outlet for the Ontario Sault line will be the Midland, which will form the connecting link between the Grand Trunk and the Northern Pacific. Immediate connection will thus in a short time be established between Peterborough and the North-West by rail, and meanwhile the establishment of a line of steamers between Midland and Duluth will afford an excellent summer connection at once.

Guiteau's Trial.

There seems to be considerable doubt on the other side of the line about Guiteau, and the punishment he deserves for his terrible crime. The matter would soon have been settled among us. That he is a lunatic has certainly not been established by that wretched travesty they call his trial. By the time this reaches our readers we presume the farce will be over. But we have a word to say upon the subject. If he were insane and ignorant of his wrong doing, of course he should escape. To punish him then would be barbarous. But if his depravity and perversity are due to persistence in evil, as no one can doubt, then his inability to know the right cannot now be urged as his excuse. His trial is the most shameful and scandalous proceeding in the name of justice of which we ever heard. It must forever remain a blot on a country, which, while professing to be the abode of freedom, also boasts that she is the abode of law and order. The whole land is disgraced by such a mockery. Justice should be meted out soberly, calmly, sedately; here the stern goddess appears as a clown dressed in motley garb and the pantomine goes on from day to day. No wonder the better portion of the United States press is dissatisfied with the whole affair. The Chicago "Interior" says: "The trial of the President's murderer, instead of being marked by the solemnity which it was supposed would attach to the judicial sequel of the national tragedy, has merged into a brutal spectacle of low comedy. The wretch who lay a limp, cowering heap in the presence of personal danger, takes on the audacity of a practised villian before judge and jury. By persistently interrupting witnesses, quarrelling with his counsel, making wild speeches to the court, and interjecting abortive wit at every point, the prisoner has flung daily insults into the faces of the American people, which judge and bailiffs have been seemingly powerless to suppress."

Editorial Notes.

When Mr. Blake turned upon Sir Charles Tupper at Cobourg with the welting remark that he did not make a British title the gaol of his ambition or the price of his public services, he administered a cutting rebuke to our mushroom aristocracy.

At the Reform meeting in Ayr, on Wednesday, at which Mr. Charlton spoke, the Rev. Walter Inglis followed, and contended with great warmth and effect that the enormous power of the railway and land corporation with which the country was now threatened, involved a great moral issue, inasmuch as it was designed to bring about the same unhappy state of affairs that now existed in Ireland and Scotland. For this reason he believed the pulpit should speak out, and if necessary lead in opposing with all their might the threatened danger doubly dangerous because cold, passionless selfishness was at the bottom of it.

The Monetary Times remains unconvinced by the pleading of the Mail that the United States miner pays the duty on coal. Commenting upon the recent trouble between collector Patton and the Toronto coal dealers, our contemporary says:—

"We trust the question will receive its final settlement by the abolition of the coal duties. The deputation told the Minister that the price of coal would have to go up, unless the bonds were removed; and the dealers would certainly have been put to some cost in the matter. Although these questions might have been settled in favor of the dealers, the price has gone up within a few days. Those who accuse the dealers of making large monopoly profits, on the strength of the conclusion that the importer does not advance the duty, are certainly wrong. There can be no question that they advance the duty and the public pays it. So far as the dealers form a monopoly, they cannot expect to carry public sympathy with them; for all rings which have for their object to make necessaries of existence artificially dear will ever be regarded as inimical to the public weal. But there is no reason why they should be abused on the assumption that they pocket the duties, in the shape of extra price, which they certainly advance for the consumer. Advance, in this connection, does not quite express the fact, for the dealers really advance nothing they only pay the duty after they have sold the coal. They sell less than they would sell if there were no duty; in this way their profits are curtailed, but not otherwise.

NORWOOD TELEGRAPH OFFICE.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

Dear Sir,—In your issue of the 15th instant your correspondent here makes a few remarks regarding the recent amalgamation of the two telegraph offices in this place, altogether misleading in their nature. He avers that there was no reason for the transfer of the Montreal office to the store of P.W. Reynolds, where the Dominion office has been stationed for nearly the past eight years. The inspector who came here to move either the Montreal or Dominion office, a gentleman who has been in the employ of the Montreal Company in that capacity for years, and is thoroughly conversant in all the details of telegraph business, spent nearly a day in interviewing privately all the business men and others whose business requires them to use the wires frequently, and to get their views in perfect confidence as to which would be the best office to retain, also compared the books of both offices as to the amount of business done during the last six months, and found that both public opinion and the record of business done inclined most decidedly in favor of the Dominion office. This is the "unaccountable" reason for the transfer referred to by your correspondent.

The petition which he mentions as being signed by nearly all the business men of the village asking that the decision of the inspector should be reversed, does not amount to as much as he would have your readers believe. Now we are aware no doubt that it is a very easy matter to have a petition of almost any nature largely signed, no person likes to say no, especially to a gentleman whom one meets almost every day. Notwithstanding this, the names of several mere youths not even on the ratepayers' list, had to be secured so as to swell the list.

Your correspondent says the village was "taken by surprise." One would infer that a veritable coup de etat had been effected, when every well informed person knew for months before that either one or the other of the two telegraph offices would soon be closed.

It is the opinion of the parties here that do the bulk of the telegraphing, that the Great North-Western Company in appointing P. W. Reynolds their agent here, have made a very judicious and proper selection.

Now, Mr. Editor, begging pardon for having intruded so much on your valuable space, I remain

Yours,
CITIZEN.

Norwood, Dec. 20th, 1881

Sons of Temperance. At a meeting of the Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance, in Toronto, on Wednesday last, the Executive of the Grand Division was authorized to petition the Ontario Legislature for the following amendments to the Crooks Act:

1. That in all stores and shops licensed to sell intoxicating liquors the sale of all other articles should be forbidden.
2. That no licenses should be granted to so-called hotels which are without the necessary accommodation for travellers.
3. That the sale of liquors to minors should be forbidden by statutory enactments.
4. That penalties for violation of the Crook's Act should be made equal to those attached to the violation of the Canada Temperance Act of 1878, and that the right of appeal should be limited as in that Act.

Farmers and Mechanics.—If you wish to avoid great danger and trouble, besides a no small bill of expense, at this season of the year, you should take prompt steps to keep disease from your household. The system should be cleansed, blood purified, stomach and bowels regulated, and prevent and cure diseases rising from Fall Malaria. We know of nothing that will so perfectly and surely do this as Electric Bitters, and at the trifling cost of fifty cents a bottle. Taylor & Macdonald, agents.

MIDLAND DISTRICT NEWS.

Mr. John Finn, of Fenelon Falls, is about establishing a Skating Rink in that village.

Mr. Jessop, eighty years of age, living in the 2nd con. of Reach, who has been deaf for a very long time, unaccountably had his hearing restored in a miraculous manner the other day.

An Oyster Supper was given at Goulais Hotel in Bobcaygeon, on the occasion of the completion of the brick work of the new Hotel. Mr. John Belcher and Mr. J. W. Alford, the architect and the contractor were present.

L.O.L., No. 149, Bewdley, held their annual meeting on the 6th inst., when they elected the following officers:—W. M., Francis Halloran; D. M., William White; Chaplain, Albert Hannah; Secretary, James Wilson; Treasurer, Joseph Kennedy; D. of C., William Gainer; Committee, Edward Blanchard, William Hannah, John Kennedy, Sylvester Woods, Richard White.

The Lindsay Post, correspondent in Coboconk writes as follows:—"I am sorry to say that our village is losing a large number of its inhabitants, some are going one way and some another. The N. P. does not make any boom here except the moving boom. There are no less than twelve vacant houses in the village with a prospect of two more becoming vacant. If reports are true our popular teacher has secured a school in the township of Reach."

Graham Bros., who have a reputation for being pushing, energetic men in their line, recently threshed with a ten-horse power on the farm of Mr. Thos. Webster, Mariposa, seventy-five bushels of spring wheat, cleaned up the floor, and then threshed 275 bushels of fall wheat, the whole time occupied being short of two hours. This is at the rate of nearly 600 bushels for four hours, and beats the record made by some western threshers recently. Who comes next?

The Port Hope Times in concluding an article on the amalgamation of the Midland Railway with other roads says:—"That the Head Offices of the Midland can remain in Port Hope is doubtful; as treated at present, they are merely so in name, consisting of a few empty offices, sometimes only visited in a couple of months by the Directors for a few hours to hold a Board meeting. The whole staff, however, with the exception of the Superintendent, live in Peterboro'—an anomalous state that will likely not continue, and a change to Toronto, Midland, or possibly, temporary, Peterboro' may be on the tapis. We are inclined to think that the larger city will be given the preference—and no doubt in a great degree, for financial reasons." Sour grapes Mr. Times. Peterborough is the very spot for the head offices and the work shops of the road as well.

APSLEY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

ACCIDENT.—A man named Liscomb, while engaged in the shanty of Mr. D. Anderson, near Apsley, chopping, was accidently killed, last week. The tree, in falling, came in contact with a dead maple, which struck him on the head. He was immediately removed to his home in Chandos, but expired a few days afterwards.

FATAL RUNAWAY ACCIDENT. As Mr. Joseph Kenner, of Chandos, was on his way home from Regan's Mill with a grist, on the 28th November, his oxen ran away, knocking him down, the sleigh passing over him. He died on Thursday night.

YET ANOTHER.—Andrew Young, son of Mr. James Young, of Chandos, was going to work in a lumber shanty last week, in company with another man who had a bottle of whiskey. On the way he wanted Andy to drink, but he refused, and in the scuffle the man with the whiskey fell across Andy and broke his leg. He is progressing favorably under the care of Dr. Shaw, of Apsley.

APSLEY MARKETS.—Lumbermen are paying $10 to $12 dollars per ton for hay, 45 to 50 cents per bushel for oats, 45 to 50 cents per bushel for potatoes, $7.50 for pork, and $5 for beef.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.—As Mrs. F. Woods was crossing Loon Lake, on the 29th of November, the ice gave way and let her into the water. Mr. Tanner, who was shingling a barn close by, saw the position of Mrs. Woods, and made all haste to her rescue, but his daughter, who was ahead of him, got to the spot first, and, while assisting Mrs. Woods, the ice gave way with her and she also got in. At this juncture Mr. Tanner arrived, and he no sooner got there than he was swimming with the others. Mr. Thomas Woods, who was across the lake, took in the situation and ran over to the spot, only to find himself in the same predicament with the other three. Mr. Tanner's little son then arrived and carried down a number of rails, but the ice was so slim it would not bear the weight. Then Mrs. Tanner, who had heard the noise, arrived, and with the boy's assistance knocked some boards off the barn, which enabled Mr. Tanner to get out, who procured ropes, and Mr. Woods tied them around Mrs. Woods, who was then taken out, followed by the little girl and himself. Mrs. Woods expired shortly after being taken out of the water, and Mr. Woods was so completely exhausted that he could not walk. Mrs. Woods was 41 years of age, and was buried at Apsley.

ALNWICK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

At the close of the polling in West Northumberland, Alnwick is always the last township heard from at headquarters and generally gives a small majority in the Tory favor.

The Minister of Railways and Canals has been making a personal canvass in the vicinity of Cobourg for the election of the government candidate.

Mr. Jas. Cameron has just completed a nice addition to his handsome dwelling house which adds to its appearance.

Fenella, Roseneath and other places have been doing a good thing in oyster suppers.

Considerable rain has fallen during the past week making the roads disagreeable for travelling.

Never before has there been such excitement as there has been lately in choosing a candidate to represent our County in the Commons. It has been contested as though the N.P. would continue or fall with its results.

The W. M. church in Roseneath is now nearly completed, when finished it will be a fine village church. It is to be opened on Sunday 25th.

USE THE celebrated "Lardine Oil" on your machinery. Best and cheapest oil in the market. Does not clog or gum. Has good heavy body and will not thin in summer. Sold in Peterborough by Messrs. McKee & Davidson; and in Lakefield by W. H. Casement. Try it and you will use no other. 25-52t

PETEBIBOROUGH, DEC. 22, 1881.

Happy Greetings.

The holiday season is again upon us, and the events of the year remind us that to many they brought sorrow and sadness, while to others came joy and gladness. All have reason to rejoice that this beautiful world was never intended to be the abode of sorrow and melancholy only. The revolvings of time's chariot bring joy and pleasure, true, not unmingled, but free enough from care to assure us that there are summers as well as winters, and sunshine as well as showers. Seasons decked in the gorgeous array of leaflets and flowers, the gaudy trappings of autumnal glories, and the rich fruit which follow in the train of these buds and blossoms, and summer's sun and showers. Our earth was intended to be the home of happiness and pleasure, as the beauty and variety of its scenery abundantly prove. Man's home ought to be a happy one, as nature has done much to make it so in her munificent bestowment of everything calculated to please the eye, strengthen the body, and lead man to the contemplation of the Almighty Creator. It is true that everything we receive for our enjoyment is transitory and changing, reminding us that we are not to look for our greatest good in earthly blessings. Summer flowers and fruit give place to autumn clouds and showers and to winter's snows and biting cold. But this ever varying and fleeting nature of our surrounding meets a want in man's nature of our surroundings meets a want in man's nature, as he is ever looking for the new and the strange. If the summer has its beauties and autumn its gorgeous hues, winter has its festive season for sweet and recreative enjoyment, in gay and loving and friendly associations—so that at no period of our existence need home be the abode of continual sorrow, unless we wish to make it so. Christmas comes with its friendly meetings and happy greetings—and all enjoy these just about as intensely as they do spring showers and summer flowers. They are calculated to render opportunities of making the world happier and better than it would otherwise be—all can do something to this end: in in kind words, or loving and charitable deeds. Kind words are perhaps more needed than kind deeds—all need our cheerful association, all do not our almsgiving. Neither, however, should be forgotten. Let these happy seasons drive away dull care, envy and ill-will, and let our example be the powerful preceptor to lead to a higher and holier and happier life. In doing our part, the greetings of the season teach us the true order of action: kind words, but accompanied by kind deeds. Hoping that our advice may not be lost on ourselves, we set the example by wishing all our readers a Merry Christmas, and a good time generally.

Curious, if True.

The lives of the twelve Apostles and the scene of their labours is a subject on which Scripture throws very little light. We read that the Gospel was, even during the life-time of St. Paul, "preached to every creature under heaven," but of the places where this or that disciple labored we have no certain knowledge. Tradition of course steps in to supply the place of the inspired writings, and many fanciful legends have been woven to depict the end of these holy men, and to give in some measure the history of their toil and sufferings. But, as time passes and new light is thrown upon those dim records of the past, faith weakens and doubts arise, so that there are but a few trustful (or superstitious) souls who can accept these fragments as true. Occasionally, however, a startling verification of legendary lore surprises even the unbelieving, and to the credulous seems "confirmation strong, as proof from Holy Writ." We have lately seen a somewhat bold assertion that to St. Thomas the people of America originally owe their Christianity; that this doubting Apostle even visited the new world, and preached the Gospel in Mexico! If we had our choice we should have preferred to select some other Apostle as our spiritual father. The doubter has at any rate not a few followers on this Continent who like him deny their Saviour—but unlike him, because as yet they have not had their unbelief turned into adoring faith.

The festival of St. Thomas is annually observed by the Roman and Anglican churches, on the 21st of December. Tradition states that he preached the Gospel in Persia and afterwards in India, where it is said he suffered martyrdom. Lately, as we have said, a statement has been put forth that he visited America. Now, the origin of this last named legend, (if it be so,) dates from the Spanish conquest of Mexico and Peru. Previous to that time of course the evidence was not accessible, but only recently has it seen the light. It is well known that at the time the Spaniards visited Mexico they found among that people religious ideas and ceremonies, which, at any rate, bore some resemblance to Christianity. For example, the symbol of the Christian religion—the cross—was reverenced everywhere. Baptism by water was practised and was considered a sign of new birth, and even temples were called by sacred names. The Christian fast in memory of Christ's temptation in the wilderness was strictly kept for forty days. This was followed, we are told, by a great festival resembling Easter, at which bread and wine were distributed to all the people. In Mexican mythology the most sacred personage is one whose name means the Illustrious Twin. (Our readers will remember the Scriptural name of Thomas is Didymus, which means the twin.) This prophet it is said came from the north, and was a white man, whose dress was covered with crosses. He is represented as bearing a staff also, as the symbol of authority. One of his titles signifies "the peacock." Now, it is exceedingly curious that on the tomb of St. Thomas, which is at Meliapore, in the East Indies, there is the same emblem of a peacock with a cross in its bill. This is the groundwork of the story that an Apostle visited Mexico, and the basis of an elaborate argument in its favour by the Catholic World. How Thomas reached here, if ever he did, and how he returned to India, would be, if we had the material, an interesting study, but it is left untouched.

Professor Campbell, of Montreal, identifies the Aztecs of Mexico with the ancient Hittites, and believes he can decipher the Hittite inscriptions. His researches are to be published by the Society of Biblical Archæology. Perhaps in the coming time explorers may bring to light monuments or tablets which may settle this question for ever, but as yet we have nothing to go upon. Of course there is nothing incredible in the thought that the Apostle of India may have visited America. History seems to indicate that before the fifth century there were commercial relations between this country and Europe, as also between China and America. But the discovery of Professor Campbell, alluded to above, would, if substantiated, sufficiently account for the knowledge of Eastern customs possessed by the ancient inhabitants of Mexico, and so this theory of an Apostolic foundation, like many other similar statements, would seem to be consigned to the domain of unsubstantiated traditions. However, the present condition of Mexico—the wonderful revival in religion in progress among the Mexicans, their heroic attempt to cut themselves apart from superstition and idolatry and become worthy of the name of a Reformed Church, are among the most striking events of the present day and at once carry us back to the time of the Reformation, when, by the self-same means, viz., by the study of revealed truth, the accretions of centuries, the errors and idolatries which had dimmed the light of the Church, almost undermined her faith and completely sullied her purity, were for ever swept away.

West Northumberland.

The battle has been fought—the din and smoke have rolled away, and the position of the opposing parties can now be distinctly seen. Mr. Guillett, the Conservative candidate, has been elected, and yet what a victory! Another such contest with another such issue, and the Conservative Administration is doomed. Although all the immense resources of a most unscrupulous Government was brought to bear—although a bountiful harvest had softened the resentment of the complaining farmers—although the high popularity of Mr. Guillett was a great factor in his favor, and the resignation of the late member must have been known beforehand by his fellow politicians, and every preparation made to spring this election upon the public at the most favorable moment, yet, in the face of all these powerful advantages, in the teeth of the Government and in a stronghold which in 1878 had given a majority of 88 to Hon. Mr. Cockburn, the majority of the now victorious member is only 69. The solid band of Reformers who fought the battle with such mighty odds deserve the highest praise. Fortune now looks with smiling face upon the present Government, that their fall hereafter may be the greater. Stronger Ministries than the present have been overthrown, and we can hopefully predict that at the next general elections right will tower over might—that the grand old principles of the Liberal party will again reign triumphant.

The following is the election record of the constituency since Confederation:—At the election which followed that event the Hon. Jas. Cockburn, elected Speaker of the House of Commons on the meeting of the first Parliament of the Dominion of Canada, was returned by acclamation. At the general election of 1867 Mr. Cockburn was again elected by acclamation. At the general election of 1874 Mr. Wm. Kerr, of Cobourg, contested the constituency in the Reform interest, and succeeded in defeating Mr. Cockburn by a majority of 231. Mr. Kerr was unseated on petition in September, 1874, and a new election followed. Hon. Sidney Smith was the Conservative candidate. Mr. Kerr was returned by a majority of 155. At the last general election, September, 1878, Mr. Cockburn opposed Mr. Kerr, defeating him by a majority of 88.

The Globe says:

"The contest in West Northumberland has resulted in a victory for the Conservative party, and Mr. George Guillett is elected member for the House of Commons. Whether he will ever take his seat is another question. The most unblushing coercion was used on the employees of the Car Works. Every possible influence was brought to bear on those engaged in all the manufacturing industries of the town, and already many cases of bribery are known. When our friends called at the car works this afternoon they were refused admission, and the men were not allowed to leave to vote. The men at work at the harbor, where the contractor had failed to pay, were in some mysterious way paid in full a few days before polling, and the little villages in the townships have been in wonderful request by some of the marked men of the opposite party. Notwithstanding all the influences at work the majority of 88 in 1878 was reduced to 69 in 1881, and as meetings have already been called for organization all over the Riding by the Liberal party, it will be changed in 1883. The best of feeling prevails among the members of the party in the Riding, and the utmost enthusiasm for their candidate."

Municipal Elections.

Next Monday the nomination, and the following Monday the polling for the election of our Civic Parliament will take place, and it is not only the pleasure but also the strict duty of all our citizens, who are legally qualified, to go to the poll and cast their vote, and thus let those who will be elected clearly understand that they will be held responsible for their every act and vote, and that the sword of Damocles hangs by a hair, ready to avenge any digression from the path of honor and rectitude. It is incredible how little real interest and competition in local matters has arisen this year. Two reasons might be given. Either the electors have strict confidence in the integrity and economy of our past Council, or they are sunk into apathy and negligence of their rights and duties. Only one new candidate up to this date—Mr. King, in the third ward—seeks election. All the former Councillors are canvassing, prepared to stand or fall by their votes and conduct during the last term. Town Councils are not infallible, nor are they generally gifted with extraordinary prescience or decision, and although we could enumerate several measures in the late Council, which have their broadsides open to criticism, and although the conduct and motives of some of the members on many occasions could not be too severely reprobated, yet as a whole, we can say that we have been satisfied with the general administration of our civic affairs, and can congratulate our High Magistrate and this year's Council on the general success and economy of their term of office, and hope that next year's Council will follow, as a rule, in the well planted footsteps of their predecessors.

Our Xmas Supplement.

Since the last issue of the EXAMINER we have issued our annual holiday supplement and distributed 6000 copies through the town and county. It was very largely taken advantage of by the merchants and business men generally, and while we return them our cordial thanks for the very satisfactory response made to our canvas, we cannot but believe their enterprise will be duly rewarded by largely increased sales during the holiday season.

WE are now balancing our books for the year of 1881 and desire all who have any accounts due to this office for subscription, printing or advertising, &c., to call in immediately and settle up. We do not intend and will not carry over into another year a lot of petty accounts which are owing to us and have not been paid through the thoughtlessness and negligence alone of the parties. It is an exploded idea that a printing office exists, "man knows not from whence," but they require the inevitable amount of solid cash to run the establishment with any degree of comfort and satisfaction. We would request all persons to "pay up" before we send out our accounts, as such an act on their part will benefit us greatly and will not discommode them excessively. As we have heretofore sent out some accounts and sufficient attention has not been paid to them, we now give notice that all such accounts will be placed in professional hands for collection. Such a mode of collection entails considerable expense to debtors and it is only as a last resort we like to make use of such means. We regret that we have had to collect accounts in court. We therefore hope that all will "come down" handsomely and save both themselves and this office unnecessary trouble.

S FOR THE FORMATION AND WORKING OF ASSOCIATIONS.

forming an association the chief to guard against is its remaining simply on paper. To avoid this the test care must be used to select good ers. Only active and energetic men ld be chosen. Filling the offices with figureheads destroys the efficiency any associations. It does not by any s follow merely because a man is a lar and a zealous Conservative that ould make a good president or vice- dent. While such men are useful should not be selected unless they also men of active business habits, strong wills, and who will insist the work being done.

canvassing persons to join the asson every exertion should be taken to in all the young men and lads possible, whether of age and having votes or not. They all have their associations and connections, and when enlisted their energy will be found invaluable in the work of the association. It should be their especial duty to see that Conservative Income Franchise voters and farmers' sons are on the roll and vote.

Attention is called to the necessity of having the assessors do their duty when they are preparing the rolls.

If the Assessor is a Grit, watch him. Their party invariably appoint the most energetic and unscrupulous partizans as assessors. After the assessment is completed (30th April), the rolls should be revised by the Chairman and Committee.

In an event of an appeal to the County Judge in respect to the voters' list, it will be found the best plan is to submit the management of the appeals in the whole municipality to one man responsible for the work. This, however, only refers to seeing that notice is properly given, and managing the cases before the Judge. It is the duty of the chairman of each sub-division to see that his committee ascertain every friendly name omitted, and every vote improperly on, and give every assistance and instruction to the person entrusted with the management of the appeals.

Special care should be taken by each Chairman to ascertain those persons in his division who take no newspapers, and to at once endeavor to get them to subscribe for a Conservative paper. Every effort should be made to substitute a Conservative for a Reform paper.

Each Vice-President should see that the Chairman of each sub-division is provided with voters' lists.

The Chairman and their committees should work up their respective divisions as though they were an association by themselves.

The Vice-President should be particular in requiring reports from the Chairman of the divisions, as that will be found to result in the more careful performances of the work in such divisions.

It will be found useful for each Chairman to have meetings occasionally of the members of the association resident in his section, to discuss matters of interest and to see what is being done.

It is a mistake to give the nomination to a person who will not accept it. It should always be ascertained before a man is placed in nomination that he will stand if nominated. If he declines it frequently deters others from accepting and places the eventual candidate in a false position.

Copies of the Voters' Lists should constantly be kept on hand, revised and annotated.

When a new resident comes into the division his views should at once be ascertained and every effort used to get him to join the Association or pledged to the party.

The Association should never give the nomination to a man until it is definitely known that he will accept and fight it out to the bitter end.

If the party is weak in a constituency the only way to increase its strength is to determine to win it; to keep this object steadily in view, and to fight every election. No Grit should ever be allowed to be returned by acclamation. The Reform majority in Glengarry in 1872, and for thirty years previous, was over 1,200, but by dint of work it was turned into a Conservative majority of 62 in 1878.

It should be the duty of the chairman of every convention for the nomination of candidates to impress upon the delegates the nature and responsibility of their duties. The question before them is, who is the strongest and most available man of the party? They should approach this question in a judicious spirit. Personal likes and dislikes should be abandoned and sectional jealousies should not be entertained. A man may be strong and popular in his township and vicinity, but unknown and perhaps unpopular in others. Each delegate should ask himself the question, who is the strongest and most available man to contest this constituency, and for that man it is his bounden duty to vote, even if he does not know or dislikes him personally. Upon the impartial decision of the delegates must in almost every instance depend the success of the party.

HINTS TO LIBERAL-CONSERVATIVE ASSOCIATIONS AND ELECTORS.

The attention of the Conservative electors throughout the Province is called to the following points:

It is probable that the next general election for the House of Commons will take place on the voters' list of 1882, which will be prepared from the assessment rolls to be made during the coming winter and early spring, and possibly the election for the Legislative Assembly may take place on the same lists.

Our friends are therefore earnestly requested to attend carefully to the matter of their own assessment, and to notify those voters whom they know to be friendly, in order that they also may see that the assessor places on the roll all such names as are entitled by law to be on.

We have unfortunately too much reason to believe that in townships where assessors, partizans of the Reform party, are appointed, grave and deliberate injustice is done to our friends, and even where the assessors are Conservatives our friends should give their personal attention to the matter, as the assessor may be unwilling to attend to what the voter himself neglects. It is often Grit policy to use Conservative township officers by supporting them for the purpose of preventing appeals, etc.

(From the Orbisonia Despatch.)

At a singing school at Three Springs the other night a young man was bragging about the strength of his lungs, and invited a girl in the company to hit him in the breast. She said she was left-handed, had been washing that day, was tired and didn't feel very active, but at his urgent request let go at him. When his friends went to pick him up he said he thought he would die easier lying down. He had lost all recollection of having any lungs, but the young woman consoled him by admitting that she didn't hit him as hard as she might have done, because she rather liked him.

THE HEWSON-MACDONALD EMBROGLIO.

Gen. M. Butt Hewson has a very lively rod in pickle at present for Sir John Macdonald, and is doing the best he can to make things hot for the "Chieftain." Quite a number of papers are publishing the General's grievances, and for the purpose of showing how Sir John in 1878 tried to capture the Catholic vote we will give a short and succinct history of their scheming, and what became of it.

This General Hewson came to Canada some thirty years ago, and was employed as a railway engineer on various enterprises. He fought hard for Sir John and his colleagues during the troublous times of the Pacific Scandal, and as he professed to be a Catholic, and thought he would be able to "deflect" the Catholic vote by writing for the Irish Canadian during the election of 1878, he was engaged for special work by Sir John.

We now quote from the Toronto (Catholic) Tribune.

"It was in 1876 that the General agreed with Sir John Macdonald to abandon for a while civil, and enter on the more devious paths of political, engineering and the consideration was no trifle—$6,000 a year for three years. But it had a condition attached which only a brave man would have ventured to accept—if the Conservatives were beaten at the general elections his services were to go for nothing. However, the elections of 1878 were all the party could desire, and like the Roman captain of old, the general could say—'I came, I saw, I conquered!' But hold! We see in our mind's eye, the strongly knit frame and the classically chiselled features of Mr. Phipps, rising up pamphlet in hand, to dispute the General's honors! However, the General's bargain was for payment by results, and the results whether brought about by himself, or Mr. Phipp's, turned altogether in his favor. Then followed two years of patient or impatient waiting, and at last General Hewson placed the case against Sir John in court. This proceeding made the facts here stated matters of public notoriety, but it is necessary to repeat them in order that the public may exactly understand the issue between the two. Both the General and Sir John underwent examination touching the matter in dispute, and the case was set down for trial at the Spring Assizes at Ottawa, this year. At the last moment, it was referred to arbitration; John Shields, Esq., of this city, acting for Sir John, and James Cotton, Esq., of Ottawa, acting for the General. The arbitrators failed to agree, and by mutual consent, the Hon. Senator Howlan, P. E. I., was appointed to make a final award. He did so, and it was accepted on both sides, and the case withdrawn from court. The award gave the General a considerable money payment down, ($2,500), which was promptly handed over, and also a certain valuable con-sid-er-a-tion, which was to have been forthcoming in six months. The latter was due in October, but we learn on good authority that it has not yet been given; and that the aid of the courts will perhaps again be invoked, either to compel Sir John to produce this valuable consideration, or to pay the balance of $12,000, still due to the General for his three years of political engineering, as editorial writer for the Irish Canadian, and occasional contributor to some other Tory papers throughout the country. To show that the case was deemed of some importance, when last before the courts, it may be stated that Mr. Mosgrove was attorney for General Hewson, with Mr. O'Gara as counsel; and for the defence Mr. Hugh Macdonald, and Mr. Dalton McCarthy. Should it again come before the courts the public will naturally be anxious to know what consideration was to be substituted in lieu of the money payment of $12,500. Doubtless if the arbitrators are put into the witness box, they will a tale unfold that will show the strange and crooked ways of partyism, and perhaps make even patriotism itself look blue."

The first reflection on reading this is the audacity of Sir John Macdonald and his henchman Hewson in seeking to capture the Catholic vote by means so corrupt; and the second is the ineffable meanness of Sir John in trying to sneak out of the hargain after he had got all the work he could out of Hewson. The general verdict will be, that as a pair, they are well matched and fit for any kind of political scoundrelism, and our hope is that they will fight it out to the bitter end and continue to show up the despicable means Sir John employs to carry out his ends.

BEHIND THE SCENES.

BY MRS. ADOLPHUS HELL.

"Is Harold out again to-night?" asked Mr. Oakburn, as he entered his cozy dining-room one winter's evening, where his wife was seated before a cheerful fire, and the table was in readiness for their six o'clock repast.

"Yes," she answered, with a despairing sigh, and looking straight into the blaze, "although I hinted to him this morning that in all probability the Hewetsons were coming in to have some music. For my part, she added, rising, at the entrance of a small-waiting-maid, bearing on a tray some covered dishes, "I am heartily sick of his obstinacy. Any other young man of his position would be enraptured at the idea of marrying an heiress."

Mr. Oakburn's only reply was a dissatisfied grunt; the sharp frosty air, and a long day's tramp, had given him an appetite; and all disagreeables with regard to his son were immediately forgotten at the sight of a tempting little roast loin of pork which was now displayed to his view. If there was anything Mr. Oakburn enjoyed in this world it was a good dinner, and providing one to his taste was the only sure way of putting him into an amiable temper on his return from business.

He had been a struggling man all his life, as his father had been before him; but by keeping up a tolerably "grand" appearance he had managed to move in high-class society, and had trusted to his son—his fine, handsome, much loved son, to make a good match, by marrying a daughter of wealthy parents. In fact, this one idea had become the dream of his life, and had strengthened, moreover, in its growth when he saw how great a favorite Harold was with the fair sex—not for his looks alone, but for his pleasing, courteous, and gentle bearing.

But Harold of late had been absenting himself from the parental roof more than was altogether pleasing, especially as Laura Hewetson and her mother had become frequent visitors there, and occasionally spent one evening in the week enjoying a little music, or a game of cards, in the Oakburns' drawing room. Miss Hewetson was not altogether pretty, but she was an heiress, indeed, her father had settled a fortune upon her, of which she was to become the possessor on her marriage day; and this with Mr. and Mrs. Oakburn was everything. She must be none other than their son's wife. But Harold, at present, had shown very little inclination to conform to their wishes; and if we follow him on this all important evening, on which our story opens, we shall be better able to judge for ourselves whether or not there was any chance of their ever being realized. He had been introduced, some few weeks back, to a young actress—the leading star of the season—who was no less renowned for her personal claims than for the talent she displayed in her profession. She had not been very long before the public, not yet having completed her nineteenth year. Very little was known of her by any of the company, except that she lived alone with her invalid mother, whom she entirely supported.

Already Harold had declared the passion he had conceived for her, and she had not only refused to become his wife, but kept herself aloof from him as much as possible, until the poor young fellow was driven well nigh to distraction.

And yet she did not seem totally indifferent to him. Her color heightened at his approach, and her lips parted in their sweetest smile; but there was a sad half-timid air about her, for which he could never account.

The only member of the company he ever found her conversing with, or upon whom she appeared to bestow any attention, was the ugly old prompter, Earl Kirkland, who had filled that office for years at the theatre where Mildred Garston had made her debut. But this evening, on which we have followed Harold thither, the old prompter was ill; and Mildred, strange to say, was in a most gracious mood, as she had been once before when he was absent.

"Are you here again to-night?" she said, giving Harold her hand. "How sad you look! Why do you come if the sight of me only distresses you?"

"Because in time I hope to win your love, sweet Mildred," he replied, still retaining her hand.

She was playing the part of "Lady Teazle," and Harold had never seen her look more captivating before.

The eyes that were raised to his face said more than her lips, it would seem, dared utter; and she trembled slightly as she said:—

"Mr. Oakburn, I wish for my sake you would go away and never seek me any more."

"And why do you wish so cruel a thing dear Mildred?" he asked her.

"Because—because I never can be your wife," she replied, falteringly, her eyes drooping. "I should be saying what was untrue if I even hinted that you were indifferent to me. I regard you with the sincerest and warmest friendship, but for more than that there is a barrier between us that never can be destroyed."

"Oh, do not tell me that!" burst forth Harold, agitatedly. "If you love me, as I am presumptuous enough to believe you do, why should we not both wait and hope?"

She shook her head and tried to break away from him.

"It is impossible, Mr. Oakburn: utterly impossible." she exclaimed.

"Well, one word more," said Harold, quickly. "Why is it that you have granted me even this brief interview to-night, when on former occasions you have scarcely addressed a word to me?"

The blood rushed like a torrent to her face, and she turned away from him.

"Oh, I don't know. I cannot tell you now, Mr. Oakburn," she answered. "Good night. You must let me go, really."

"Very well. Good night. I may come and see you again, I suppose?"

"As you please, of course," she said not very graciously, as she swept past him in her brocaded dress, just as the call-boy shouted her name.

Harold quitted the green-room, glancing at her for a moment as she stood gaily awaiting her cue, then left the theatre and walked home in the falling snow. Mildred Garston was decidedly a mystery; and as such even Harold Oakburn now began to regard her.

He was not quite pleased either with himself for caring for her so much, or with her for her apparent coldness and indifference, and angry feelings rankled within him for more than a week against the woman he loved.

He dined at home every night during that time, re-establishing himself in his parents' good graces, and even showed more than ordinary attention to Laura Hewetson.

But only for a week—then he hungered for a sight of Mildred—longed to see her again, if only from a distance, and to hear her voice, even though she might not grant him a word.

He reached the theatre one evening, in company with a friend, and met old Karl Kirkland, the prompter, in the doorway.

If there was a creature Harold Oakburn detested in this world it was the aforesaid individual, who had more than once interrupted him while conversing with Mildred in what appeared to him a most insolent and interfering manner.

He was a wretched-looking, wizen-faced man, with a limping gate and sharp, piercing eyes.

"O, it's you, is it?" he said, surveying Harold from head to foot. "Well—er—I don't think Miss Garston will see you to-night."

Harold colored angrily.

"What business is it of yours?" he asked hotly. "Did Miss Garston send you to deliver that message?"

"Well, not exactly," said old Karl, hesitating, and looking at Harold as though he might have said a great deal more than he chose. "But still I—I—"

"Stand back, then, and let us pass," he interrupted him indignantly. "What right have you to deliver messages from Miss Garston without leave?" and pushing away the old prompter, Harold led his companion away to the green-room.

Old Carl stood chuckling and rubbing his withered palms together, and then went off, grumbling to himself some inaudible words, among which Mildred's name was the only one intelligible.

She was in her usual reserved and pensive mood—acknowleged the introduction to Harold's friend with perfect grace, but showed no inclination to enter into conversation with either.

The latter, who had come to witness the performance, left them shortly afterwards to take his seat in the stalls and thus, for a few moments, Mildred and her lover were once more alone.

The annoyance old Karl had caused him by his impertinence was for the time forgotten in the pleasure he felt at being again with Mildred, who, however, showed no sign of pleasure, and remained cold and silent beside him.

"Are you offended with me for coming again, Mildred?" he asked her at length.

"By no means. It is your own affair entirely, Mr. Oakburn," she answered him, without lifting her eyes.

"What is the matter, then, with you to-night?" he asked, again.

"Nothing more than usual."

"Won't you favor me with your confidence?" Harold inquired. "You told me, last time I saw you, that you regarded me as a friend. Give me a proof of it, then—tell me what this sorrow is, Mildred, and I will do my utmost to advance and help you."

A sickly smile passed over her lovely features, and she looked timidly round as if to assure herself that they were alone. Suddenly she turned and seized Harold's hand, while she spoke in a hoarse whisper.

"You love me. You have asked me more than once to be your wife, and I have told you how impossible it is. Listen, then, and I will tell you more—what this barrier is that exists between us. Swear, first, that you will never reveal it—swear solemnly, by all you hold most dear—for it is a secret, and one which I dread to reveal. Quick—quick—lest we are interrupted," she added, wildly.

"Mildred, I swear by the love that I bear for you, nothing that you may disclose to me to-night shall ever be revealed," rejoined Harold with almost passionate emphasis.

"Bend your head then—lower still—that I may whisper it in your ear," murmured Mildred," "and when I have told you, go, and never let me see your face again."

He obeyed her, and bent his head to a level with her lips; then, uttering a few short words, she drew back to witness the effect upon her hearer

For a moment he looked perfectly aghast, then muttered an imprecation which terrified her.

"Hush! O, Harold, don't; I did it for my darling mother's sake," said Mildred.

"But you don't understand—no, no, I see you do not—and it would take too long to explain now. He—"

"Thank you, I have heard enough," interrupted Harold, curtly.

And he left her, standing alone in the deserted green room, with pain and suffering depicted upon her agonized face.

How long she stood there, with her hand pressed to her aching heart, she never knew.

The prompter thrust his ugly head in at last.

"Has he gone?" he asked, with a grin and a chuckle.

"Yes, he has gone, Karl," she said, gently, without looking up.

"Did you tell him?"

"Yes; I told him."

He gave a grunt which was peculiar to himself.

"Revenge is sweet," he muttered. "I thought I'd pay him off for the airs he's shown to me."

She passed him without a word or glance, but he never knew how deeply she had been wounded, or how dearly she loved the man she had dismissed from her that night—perhaps for ever.

She went through her part as "Lady Teazle," and acted it to perfection; then went home to her invalid mother, laden with trophies of her evening's triumph, and strove her utmost to be cheerful and happy, so that Mrs. Garston might never suspect she was otherwise.

Months passed, but she saw no more of Harold Oakburn, either among the audience or in the green room; and she was still the same sad, pensive-looking girl she had ever been, holding herself aloof from those around her, and bravely, cheerfully earning her mother's bread.

But, ere the spring had given place to summer, that mother died; and for a time Mildred, well nigh crushed by the blow, was too ill to appear at the theatre. Old Karl Kirkland came and went like a ghost in those days. He never stayed a moment longer than his duties compelled him. Mildred grew better at last, and reappeared in some minor part, her health not being sufficiently strong to undergo any great exertion; but she was sadder and more silent than ever, they all thought; the sweet, but transient, smile had wholly vanished, and she seemed to grow paler and thinner with each succeeding day.

One night towards the end of the performance, Karl Kirkland was standing in his accustomed place, when suddenly Mildred saw him fall. Immediately she hastened to his side with several others, and bore him into the green-room. He was speechless. A fit of apoplexy had seized him, and he died that night.

And now the time had come for Mildred to publish her secret to the world; and in the presence of the whole company, on the following day, she told them all.

How, nearly three years ago, she had met Karl Kirkland, formerly a friend of her father's (once an actor), and from whom she had gathered fragments of his history. That he had likewise been an actor of no small reputation, and, having lived a miserly life had hoarded a considerable fortune, for the last five-and-twenty years, and when too infirm and weak, from ill-health rather than age, to play any longer—yet loving the stage too well to leave it—he took the post of prompter, which he had maintained ever since. She told them that he had not only brought her forward in the theatrical world, but fell in love with her, and had the audacity to offer his hand and heart. How, at first, she coldly and haughtily refused him; and then, never dreaming that she herself might some day ascend the ladder of fame, and seeing her poor, suffering mother wanting, at times, even the common necessaries of life, she consented to wed the repulsive looking man, on condition that it might be kept a secret from those at the theatre. How that she had married him for his wealth alone, although she had striven her utmost to be a good and faithful wife. That they had not always lived together, for fear of arousing suspicion, and she could not bear the world to know that she had married an old, ugly, shrivelled man for the sake of his gold. She did not speak of her love for Harold Oakburn, but she never said one word disparagingly of him who had been her husband. He had been kind to her in his own peculiar way, and she had never given him cause for jealousy; he loved and trusted her, and tried, poor old man, to make her happy.

This was the whole of her young life's history, told not without tears; but a few words in addition are yet required for the benefit of the reader.

When Old Karl discovered that Harold Oakburn was in love with his beautiful wife, feelings of jealousy were naturally paramount; but when he found how coldly she received his addresses, and, anxious to be revenged for his haughty and imperious behavior towards him who was her lawful husband, he persuaded Mildred to reveal to him her secret, which she did—as much to free herself from his painful importunities as to comply with her husband's wishes.

* * * *

When the will was read they found that he had left everything to his wife and Mildred Garson never went back to the stage again: but she met Harold Oakburn a few months later, and subsequently became his wife.

The fond wish of his parent's heart was fulfilled at last; for their son married a woman of wealth, after all; and in these happy years that followed, when a small tribe of grandchildren clustered around their knees, they could only look back and feel thankful that Harold had won the wife of his choice—even though he had courted her "behind the scenes."

A RELIABLE FACT.—It is an established fact that Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is the best cure for coughs, colds, sore throat, asthma, croup, bronchitis, and all troubles arising from neglected colds. Price 25 cents. 50-2t.

PEOPLE TORMENTED by the many disagreeable sensations produced by dyspepsia, or are thin, nervous and weak, should use the standard tonic—Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine. They will find it agreeable and beneficial. It enriches the blood by aiding digestion and assimilation; soothes and invigorates the nervous system, and imparts a healthful appetite. When used as a remedy for bilious and intermittent fever, it produces the happiest results, if taken between the attacks. Convalescence is hastened, and untimely decay of the physique and constitution is arrested by it. The spirituous constituent, sherry wine, is of the best quality, and the aromatics combined with it renders its flavor additionally pleasant. They who use it gain flesh as well as strength and it exerts a cheering influence upon the mind. It promotes a healthy secretion and flow of bile, sound repose and regularity in the action of the bowels. If judiciously used it may be taken without apprehension of any ill result by persons of the most delicate constitution. A fair trial is all that is needed to prove the genuineness of its claims to public confidence, and to the truth of the general verdict in its behalf. No article of its class commends itself so strongly to nervous invalids who require building up—none can be well adapted to fortify the system against the dangers which threaten the debilitated. It should not be mistaken for a mere stimulant of appetite, which so many so-called tonics simply are. It so regulates the stomach that it is enabled to perform its various functions with regularity and vigor, and its action is not only thorough but prompt. Ask for the "Quinine Wine of Northrop & Nyman." Sold by all druggists

NOT THE SLIGHTEST AFFINITY exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop and Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, itself, and nothing else. It embodies the best results of pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected) colds, laryngitis and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure Consumption it is the most reliable means of defence against that dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing emollient action of the cod liver oil upon the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of those elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it. Prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto and sold by all druggists.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—As every effort is being made in this township, Dummer, to capture a certain vote in the coming municidal election in favor of Mr. D. Rose, as against our own popular and esteemed Reeve, Mr. A. R. Kidd, on other than municipal grounds, will you be good enough to give me space to request that, in the event of Mr. D. Rose becoming a candidate for the Reeveship, the honest electors of this noble township turn out and cast their vote against corruption and in favor of Mr. Kidd. This township and county has had sufficient of Mr. Rose, and I wish that insignificant clique at Norwood, who have been doing their utmost for some time past to entrap this township, to understand that Dummer is quite capable of looking after her own affairs, without the would-be King of Norwood poking in his nose and endeavoring to introduce politics into municipal matters, as directed by his chief, at Toronto. The business of this township is being exceedingly well and honestly conducted, and I, as a large ratepayer, hope that it will remain so.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER.

Advice

"Whatever you do, do it Quickly."

This maxim applies to many things, but to none more emphatically than the purchase of a

WINTER SUIT!

People may wonder these frosty mornings why they feel the cold so keenly, and they may continue wondering until they have came and ordered from us a

WARM SUIT and an OVERCOAT!

and discarded the linen duster they have been wearing since summer.

Every man can afford to buy a SUIT from us, because we have them at prices to suit the pockets of everyone.

No establishment gives better satisfaction, with this understanding customers select from our goods and order with the knowledge that if they change their minds afterwards—which they never do—they can bring back the clothes and have their money.

The belief is current, and is warranted by the facts, that if we have not what you want, and at right prices, you cannot procure it elsewhere.

The sale of Overcoats still continues, those in need of one will do well to call early.

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY.

At the meeting of the Boa... Shareholders, of the Midland ... to consider the agreement that had ... entered into for the amalgama... Midland with the various ot... which have already been ... Port Hope, recently, the Pr... above railway, Mr. Geo. A. C... ed the position in the follo... speech :—

"The notice which has ... read by the Secretary and ... solidation scheme agreed ... has been laid upon the table, ... ent to show the extent and ... of the business that we have ... transact. As the interests of ... stors of the Midland and other ... are so largely involved, and as our ... to-day cannot fail to affect to a ... able extent the welfare of the ... ties served by the various railw... extend, I will endeavour to ... you the nature and object of the ... tions which your Directors have ... deavouring to bring about ... past few months, and which we ... the pleasure of submitting for ... proval. In order to make myself ... stood by the large number of ... prietors who do not reside in this ... try, and with whom we have not ... good fortune to meet to-day, I will ... lyreter to the various railways as ... now stand, and to the extensions ... links proposed in order to complete ... system and place it in a condition to ... with the greatest economy, ... with efficiency, and will endeavour ... show what we expect will be the ... power and advantages to be ... such consolidation, both to ... and to the proprietors of the various ... panies. The agreement itself, which ... in the hands of, or accessible to all ... erested parties, will show the ... basis under which it is proposed to ... the different companies into the ... posed consolidation. You will find ... the table before you a small map ... ting, perhaps somewhat roughly, ... general outline of the Midland ... as it will be if our proposals are ... by you to-day, and you will notice ... the different lines which it is now ... ed to consolidate are so located as to ... or less interfere injuriously the one with ... the other whilst under separate ... ment—and that some of them are ... as to make the burden of separate ... agements unprofitable—whilst a want ... unity has been a serious drawback to ... efficient train service and car supply ... the lines as they now stand. The Mi... land Railway has a mileage of 189 ... and I am very pleased to be able to ... form you at this stage that its earning ... power is increasing in a very rapid ratio ... and that our most sanguine estimate ... the earnings for the year 1881, in spite ... of one or two serious drawbacks, is now ... almost certain to be realized, which will ... that we shall have a gross revenue ... over $400,000, and a net revenue quite ... sufficient to pay all our interest obligations ... of every description. The Toronto ... Nipissing Railway runs from Toronto to ... Coboconk on the main line, and the trains ... under lease from Stouffville to Jackson's ... Point, on Lake Simcoe, making a total ... mileage for that railway of 115 miles, and ... during the past few years it has averaged ... a gross earning power of about $300,000 ... per annum. The Whitby, Port Perry ... and Lindsay Railway runs from Lindsay ... to Whitby, a distance of 45 miles, and its ... earnings under the pool with our company ... were $90,298 for 1880 and will be about ... $105,000 for 1881. The Victoria Railway ... runs from Lindsay to Haliburton, a distance of 35 miles, and its gross earnings ... since its extension to Haliburton have ... been between $42,000 and $45,000 per ... annum. The Grand Junction Railway ... runs from Belleville to Peterboro', a distance of 66 miles, with a branch from ... North Hastings Junction to Eldorado of ... 23 miles. It has not yet been fully in ... operation for one year, but will probably ... make a gross earning of about $118,000 ... between the first of June, 1881, and the ... first of May, 1882. This gives a total ... completed mileage of 431 miles, on which ... we find a gross earning of $865,000 per ... annum. An effort is being made to complete the system. It is proposed to carry ... on the construction of the Toronto & Ottawa Railway from Madoc to Ottawa, ... and there to connect with existing lines ... to the seaboard, and also to make a connecting link between Peterboro' and ... Omemee and between Manilla and Wick. ... The Toronto & Ottawa Railway is already ... under construction, and a large number ... of men are employed on it at the present ... date. The line runs through a section of ... country which will undoubtedly give it a ... remunerative local traffic, section by section, as each section is completed. The ... line between Peterborough and Omemee ... is required to shorten the distance from ... Ottawa to Toronto, and in fact from ... points on the Toronto and Ottawa, Grand ... Junction, and Midland Railways to points ... of the Midland, north of Toronto, and ... Nipissing and Victoria divisions, including the city of Toronto. The same remarks also apply to the link required between Manilla and Wick, and to the ... business interchanged with Toronto and ... principal places on the Midland, South ... Whitby, Grand Junction, and Toronto and ... Ottawa divisions. The links will be 16½ ... and 6½ miles long respectively, and when ... completed will reduce the distance between Peterborough and Toronto to 83 ... miles, whereas the present distance by ... our own route is 117 miles, and this saving of 29 miles will be effected on the ... whole of the traffic passing between the ... principal points on the new system. The ... proposed Ontario and Sault Ste. Marie ... line, starting from Kirkfield or Atherly ... on the consolidated system, will afford ... most important connections, and add ... very largely to our earning power. I ... have given you the general outline of ... what, in the opinion of your directors, it ... is desirable the Midland Railway should ... be made by consolidation and otherwise. The agreement now submitted for ... your approval shows the financial basis ... under which it is proposed to bring the ... various interests into harmony under one ... system and provides the necessary funds ... for the immediate prosecution of the new ... works and the thorough equipment of the ... entire line in keeping with the largely increased traffic that it will be sure to have. ... The construction of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, or rather the extension of ... the Midland to Ottawa, you will see, is to ... be pushed forward with all possible speed ... from our present eastern terminus. Our ... train service will be extended over the ... new line as it is completed in sections, and ... your directors are confident that these ... sections will become self supporting from ... the outset, even before the line is completed to the city of Ottawa and makes ... its eastern connections at that point. The ... net earnings for the most part of the different lines which it is now proposed to ... consolidate, while to some extent working in opposition to each other, have been ... sufficient to pay the interest on the ... amount that they now represent in the ... consolidation. This, taken in connection ... with the largely increased earnings and ... reduced working expenses that must ... necessarily result from a fusion of interests ... under one management, places the new ... company at once upon a highly satisfactory financial basis as regards its dividend-paying ability. I may mention that one ... of the reasons why your directors are so ... sanguine of large additional earnings is ... because the Midland Railway in the past ... has had no proper outlet of its own to the ... city of Toronto, which is the commercial ... centre of Ontario, in consequence of which ... the trade of that city has been forced off ... our line into the hands of competing ... routes, or we had to divide up the earnings on the Toronto and Western trade ... with either the Grand Trunk, the Northern or the Toronto and Nipissing Railways, ... but the latter being a narrow gauge railway necessitated a transfer which practically discouraged traffic over it in the ... face of other lines being able to offer ... through facilities which we will now be ... able to offer. As the Toronto and Nipissing has completed its change to the ... standard gauge during the present month, ... this facility will give an immense impetus ... to both our passenger and freight trade ... from the northern end of the Midland ... Railway. It will also materially assist us ... in developing the large through trade ... from points situated on the upper lakes ... from 30 to 50 per cent. of all rates earned. ... The same remarks apply not only to the ... Midland, but to all the lines now proposed to be consolidated, whereas in the ... future the whole of those monies will be ... earned and retained as our own system, ... and will be largely augmented by our extension eastward. The recent completion ... of our elevator and docks at Midland, the ... commencement of the through grain trade, ... the erection of new mills, and the generally increased activity in lumbering operations on the Midland division, as well ... as the activity in the mining interests and ... extensive developments of new ore beds ... on the Grand Junction division, all afford unmistakable evidence of increased ... traffic, and you will observe in our financial arrangements we have made ample ... provision for the additional rolling stock ... that will thus be required to give prompt ... and efficient service to the public.

While we have been so earnestly engaged carrying on the negotiations here it is gratifying to know that the proprietors have not been indifferent to the matter, as is made evident by the fact that out of a total of 107,590 votes no less than 87,727 are represented here to-day either in person or by proxy." Mr. Cox closed by moving a resolution confirming the agreement.

STEAMERS TO BE PLACED ON THE UPPER LAKES.

Mr. Jaffray in seconding the resolution for the confirmation of the agreement, said that it was scarcely necessary to say any more on the subject. The scheme for the amalgamation of the lines proposed had been spoken of very fully by the general public, and the best evidence of the popularity of the scheme was to be found in the fact that few, if any, objections had been taken to it. The public realized that under the new order they would have largely increased privileges in connection with the subject of the North-West trade. He stated that next summer there would be in connection with the Midland Railway system three first-class steamers placed on the upper lakes to connect Midland with Duluth and Thunder Bay. The steamers referred to would be of a class that so far has never been seen on the lakes. With the steamers from Midland the most direct route to the North-West would be opened and the whole Midland District would be brought into direct connection with the North-West, and the traffic that would be secured by the Midland Railway through the steamers referred to would greatly augment the receipts of the various lines brought under one management by the amalgamation scheme they were now asked to vote on. The scheme had been favourably received by the press, thus affording evidence of the favour with which it was received in the various districts now served by the amalgamating lines. One of the most promising indications, however, was the favour with which the scheme had been received by the proprietors of the Midland Railway. The manner in which they had regarded it was shown conclusively by the amount of proxies lying on the table in favour of its ratification. The amalgamation proposed would be most advantageous to Ontario. Toronto would benefit very largely under the new management. It would secure a new connection with a new district, gaining a great trade thereby. He believed they would all have abundant reason to be proud of the undertaking they were about consumating.

A MOST IMPORTANT CHANGE.

Mr. A. Hugel, ex-President of the Midland Railway, said that the move proposed was a most important change for the present Midland Railway. The scheme commended itself in the highest degree to everyone interested in the railway system of the Province. The amalgamation was one of the most thorough, and would be one of the most satisfactory that had ever taken place. The securing of a connection with Toronto would prove exceedingly beneficial. He thought that the amalgamation would benefit Port Hope particularly. The preference of all local claims would be done away with under the new system, and the most direct geographical route would be adopted. The natural facilities of Port Hope would then come to the fore as they never had done. The proposition of the scheme and its successful carrying to the present stage manifested the talent of those interested. He closed by congratulating the Board on the success that had attended the negotiations.

ONE OF THE HEAVIEST CARRIERS OF THE TRADE OF THE NORTH-WEST.

Mr. Gooderham said that the more the public learned of the scheme the better they would be pleased with it. The public would be better served in every particular than formerly. They were forced to believe that the Midland Railway would be one of the heaviest carriers of the trade of the North West. He would do his best to secure the success of the scheme in every particular.

THE TORONTO AND OTTAWA.

Mr. Cluxton said that as one of the early supporters of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway he regarded with a good deal of satisfaction the proposed amalgamation. It would prove a benefit not only to the railways interested, but to the country at large. The country could not do without the Toronto and Ottawa road, and he was glad to hear that all the necessary arrangements had been made to secure the immediate completion of the line. The Board would not only have his good will in the new undertaking, but could depend on his efforts towards securing success to the amalgamation.

THE AMALGAMATION CONFIRMED.

The resolution confirming the amalgamation was then adopted, as also the authorizing of the President and Board to secure all necessary power from the Local Legislature to sanction the agreement between the various companies.

THANKS.

The President then thanked those present for their attendance. He was pleased with the hearty response they had met with from the London directors. The deep interest they had taken in the consolidation was evidenced by the large number of proxies that had been sent out from the English proprietors.

The meeting then adjourned at the call of the President.

VARIETIES.

"Ask no woman her age," says a recent writer on social ethics. Of course not. Ask her next best lady friend.

ASK YOUR DEALER for "Castorine Machine Oil," and see that the barrel is branded "Castorine," as none other is genuine. 1-ly

For heroic, but vain endeavours to look pleased, says a crusty old bachelor, nothing can equal the facial expression of two girls compelled to dance with each other on account of the scarcity of men.

SURE CURE FOR A COUGH.—The most reliable remedy for a cough or cold, asthma, shortness of breath, sore throat, weak lungs and all bronchial troubles, is Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. Price 25 & 50 cts. 50-2t.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold at 50 cents per bottle. 47-1y

USE "CASTORINE MACHINE OIL" for all kinds of machinery. It is also excellent for Harness and Leather, making it water and weather proof. For sale by dealers. 1-1y

Assorted reflections. The distance between a fool and a wise man is greater than the latter thinks it is. We wish to be loved by others for what there is in us, and yet we only love them for what we can get out of them. There are some people to whom roses are more indispensable than bread.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL is at the head of the list for all purposes of a family medicine. It is used with unprecedented success, both internally and externally. It cures sore throat, burns, scalds, frost bites; relieves, and often cures asthma. 50-2t.

Excellent reasons exist why Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil should be used by persons troubled with affections of the throat or lungs, sores upon the skin, rheumatic pain, corns, bunions, or external injuries. The reasons are, that it is both speedy, pure and unobjectionable, whether taken internally or applied outwardly.

HONESTY.—It is commonly said that you cannot make an honest man believe that white is black and vice versa, but those who have grey hair, by using the "Cingalese Hair Renewer," will find that this apparent difficulty is overcome. For sale at 50 cents per bottle. 47-1y

It is possible for a man to begin a sentence like a philanthropist and end it like a tyrant. "I like to hear a child cry," said an Abbe Morold, and at once the company, consisting largely of ladies, thought him a model man. "Yes," he said again. "I may say that I always like to hear a child cry, because then he is sure to be sent out of the room."

WHAT TO STUDY.—Pope, the poetical philosopher said: "the proper study of mankind is man," and yet, how little is the real science of man studied. If people understood and heeded the laws of health, and if when out of sorts would resort to a common sense like Burdock Blood Bitters, many of the "ills that flesh is heir to" might be effectually remedied. It invigorates and regulates all the secretions to a healthy action. 50-2t.

O. Bertito, of Manchester, Ontario Co., N.Y. writes:—"I obtained immediate relief from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. I have had Asthma for eleven years. Have been obliged to sit up all night for ten or twelve nights in succession. I can now sleep soundly all night on a feather bed, which I had not been able to do previous to using the Oil."

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT, superceding as it does all other modes of illumination, and rivalled only by the glorious sunshine, will not be hailed with greater joy by mankind, than is Burdock Blood Bitters, which is as far superior to all other blood purifiers and tonics as the electric light is superior to the old fashioned tallow dip. Burdock Blood Bitters cures scrofula, and all foul humors and impurities of the blood. 50-2t.

The minister asked the Sunday school: "With what remarkable weapon did Samson at one time slay the Philistines?" For a while there was no answer, and the minister to assist the children a little, commenced tapping his jaw with the tips of his fingers, at the same time saying, "What's this—what's this?" Quick as thought a little fellow, quite innocently, replied:—"The jawbone of an ass, sir."

FREE OF COST.—All persons wishing to test the merits of a great remedy—one that will positively cure Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs—are requested to call at Taylor & Macdonald's Drug Store and get a Trial Bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, free of Cost, which will show you what a regular dollar-size bottle will do.

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL will be found invaluable for all purposes of a family medicine. Immediate relief will follow its use. It relieves pain, cures chilblains, frost bites, scalds, burns, corns, rheumatism, neuralgia, &c. For internal use it is none the less wonderful. One or two doses frequently cure sore throat. It will cure croup in a few minutes. A few bottles has often cured asthma. Colic has been cured by a teaspoonful dose. It cures with the utmost rapidity, it is really a wonderful medicine. 50-2t.

A clergyman one day sat watching his little boy and girl at play, when the former angrily marched away from his sister, saying:—"If she does that again I will certainly heap coals of fire on her head." "My son," said the father, "how will you do that?" "Oh," said the little fellow, "I shall get 'em in the stove." "That is the way, observed the clergyman, in relating the anecdote, that many an elder child would like to obey the Scripture injunction."

A PUBLIC MEETING should be called of the citizens of every city, town and village in the Dominion, to consider what should be done to prevent the hair from turning Grey—and falling out. If this important question received their earnest consideration they would unanimously decide that science had at last discovered something that would answer this purpose—and furthermore would recommend Cingalese Hair Renewer as being this something for restoring the hair to its natural color, and prevent its falling out. 50 cents per bottle. 47-1y

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung disease by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medical properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent by letter, and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souviele's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. 48-1y

TEAS! TEAS!

CHINA and JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic use, there is none perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand in the aggregate than TEA.

Notwithstanding the increased demand yet the price of TEAS is lower to-day than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have procured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

FIRST:—A more extended and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea producing countries.

SECOND:—Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and

THIRD:—Increased and closer competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grade, modes of adulteration, and tests for detection, see "ads" to follow.

Meantime we offer JAPAN TEA at 40c. per pound. NONE BETTER. TRY IT!

THE BEST REMEDY
FOR
Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency, and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is of acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it. The test of half a century has proven its certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

SUPPER.—Mr. Alex. Elliott entertained the members of the Philharmonic Society to a supper at the Caisse House on Wednesday evening of last week, at which a very pleasant time was spent.

OIL PAINTING.—There is on exhibition at present at Messrs. Wilson & Davis Store a very artistic and life-like portrait of Mr. J. B McWilliams. The work reflects the highest credit on the painter, Mr. Workman of this town.

FOR THE HOLIDAYS.—Foot & McWhinnie have on hand a very large assortment of Ladies and Gents Fancy Slippers, in quite new patterns, which will be sold at very low prices during the holidays. Skating Boots and Gent's Fancy Slippers made on the shortest notice. 49-tf.

THE MIDLAND DIRECTORS.—The Canadian Directors of the Midland Railway of Canada as consolidated are Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, President and Manager, W. Gooderham, J. D. Edgar, H. P. Dwight, R. Jaffray, of Toronto; Lewis Ross, of Port Hope, J. R. Dundas, of Lindsay, Thos. Kelso, of Belleville, H. M. Henshaw, of Montreal, and J. M. Ferris, M.P.P., East Northumberland.

Clegg's flour still unequalled. Order it at Clegg's Warerooms, Geo. St. 50-4ins

JUST opened, another lot of the celebrated Rock Island hand-made boots, also Russian and German felt boots, moccasins, overshoes, rubbers, slippers, women and childrens' wear in great variety. W. J. WALLACE, Lakefield. 48-tf.

CANADA FIRST.—We have before us the first copy of a new paper of the above name with its motto, "Canada first, last, and always." It is published by the Canada First Publishing Company at Montreal. It is a double deny 24 column paper, neatly printed, and judging from the first number, the management desires to develop and foster native-born literary talent.

INTERESTING SERVICE.—A sacred oratorio, of a very simple character, illustrating the birth and early years of our Saviour, will be rendered by the Sunday School pupils of St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, on Sunday next (Christmas Day), at 3 o'clock p.m. The service consists of a great number of very pretty hymns and carols, and is interspersed with Scriptural readings, and organ solos from the greatest musical celebrities. The public generally are invited to attend.

POULTRY EXHIBITION.—At a late meeting of the officials of the Midland Central Poultry Association, the date of the annual exhibition for 1882 was fixed for Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, January 24th, 25th, and 26th. The prize list, which will be issued in a few days, is considerably larger than usual, and there is every prospect of the show this season being even more successful than former ones.

BANK CHANGES.—We regret to learn that Mr. A. H. Macdougall, for many years accountant of the Ontario Bank in this town, has been removed, owing to the general reduction in officials and expenses now being made by the management of that institution. His removal will be much regretted by the customers of the branch here, by whom he was universally esteemed for his obliging disposition and courteous attention to all with whom he came in contact. We believe his place will be filled by Mr. G. M. Stewart, formerly teller in the Lindsay branch.

HOLIDAY GROCERIES.—Housekeepers generally will find it to their advantage to read the advertisement of Messrs Rush & Elliott, on the 1st page of the EXAMINER. The very extensive trade which this firm is doing is, in legal parlance, prima facia evidence that they only offer the most reliable goods to their customers, and as they purchase very largely and for cash, and consequently much more advantageously than smaller dealers, they can give their customers better value (and at the same time reap as fair a profit) than less extensive dealers. Remember and pay them a visit when laying in your holiday supplies.

THE TORONTO THROUGH TRAIN.—On Thursday last the first through Midland train over the Nipissing ran from Peterborough to Toronto, with the Directors' Coach attached. The President and a number of prominent railway men were on board. The trip to and from Toronto was made to the satisfaction of all, and all expressed themselves well pleased with the general condition of the road-bed. It is probable, however, that the new route will not be brought into requisition so far as Peterborough is concerned, until the "missing links" or connections are constructed, when the time occupied in the trip will be reduced to nearly three hours less time than it now takes.

SHANTY SLEIGHS.—Mr. T. F. Fitzgerald and Messrs. Fitzgerald & Stanger, carriage makers, have had quite a bonanza in shanty sleighs this season, the former gentleman having an order for the manufacture of one hundred and thirty sets, and the latter firm an order for twenty sets. They are for the Messrs. Rathbun, of Deseronto, and Messrs. Gilmour, of Trenton. The fact of these firms receiving orders like these from a distance speaks loud for their reputation as manufacturers. Good work, like a good life, has its reward, and the work turned out by both of these firms can stand comparison with that from any part of the Dominion, and as a consequence their trade is largely increasing.

IMPORTANT.—Christmas is almost on hand, and gifts and presents are the order of the day. Nothing acts like surprise, and surprise will add a charm to every gift. Mr. Menzies has on hand a specially large and splendid stock of books, inkstands, unique and handsome, toys of every manufacture. A choice selection of Christmas cards and other goods and articles which will well reward the visit of any person. He has invested in a number of beautiful ladies' work-boxes, which make a useful and pleasant present. His stock of books is the largest, best assorted, and most thorough-going in the town—consisting of all the latest works—in fact, fiction and philosophy. To meet his customers half-way, he intends during the holiday season to make such reductions as will suit the times, and hopes that all will favor him with a visit.

OBITUARY.—Mr. James Jack, of Smith, died on Sunday 18th instant, in the 78th year of his age. Mr. Jack was a native of Scotland, came to Canada and settled in Smith just 50 years ago, when the settlement was in its infancy. He never married. Having only the care of himself he found time for reading, spending much of his leisure in reading newspaper literature. He possessed a very retentive memory and became a pretty accurate historian of the leading political events since he came to Canada, as well as all leading events in Scottish history. He was an ardent and earnest Reformer, taking a great interest in all political questions during the last half century. Being a warm admirer of the late Honorable George Brown, both as a Scotsman and Liberal, he kept early copies of the Globe, and indeed of all newspapers published in this county and in Canada. A brother resides at Mount Forest and a sister in Winnipeg. He was always a quiet and inoffensive neighbor and citizen. His remains were interred on Tuesday in the Little Lake Cemetery, followed by a large funeral cortege.

THE TWO CONTINENTS.—As will be observed by reference to our advertising columns, a very interesting entertainment will be given in St. Peter's (Roman Catholic) church, next Thursday evening, 29th instant. The entertainment will consist of a grand exhibition of the principal places of interest on both continents, and embraces the highest studies of Nature and of Art. Both the American and Canadian press speak in the highest terms of it. The Montreal Gazette says:—"The European views could not be surpassed, and brought one back to the very localities illustrated." The Toronto Globe in closing a critical notice of the illustrations, says:—"To see this exhibition, in fact, is to glean and garner up much of the instruction and pleasure of travel in foreign lands, without partaking of an atom of the trouble."

PICTURESQUE CANADA.—The first part of this beautiful Canadian work, published by the Art Publishing Company, of Toronto, under the supervision of Mr. O'Brien, President of the Canadian Academy of Arts, and Professor Grant, of Queen's University, has been placed before us, and fully carries out the promises made by the publishers. It is a thoroughly Canadian work, and must commend itself to Canadians generally. By its admirable illustrations it must serve to make all who peruse it much more interested in the grandeur and magnificence of Canadian scenery. The wood cuts are in the finest style of the engraver, and compare favourably with steel engraved plates. It is printed on fine toned paper, in clear, legible type, and when completed will make a work which should be found in every library in the Dominion. The agent is at present making a canvass of the town, and, as might be expected, is meeting with gratifying success.

ONCE MORE IN HIS GLORY.

Jim is Back to his Old Stand again, and is going to make it Hot for the Boys for the next Six Weeks.

James Dolan last week terminated one of the most successful sales ever held in the Town of Peterborough. On the 1st of February he goes into an entirely different line of business, but in the meantime to keep moving, he has bought out the balance of stock held by T. Dolan & Co., in their old store, Burnham's Block, and has also effected the purchase in Toronto of several bankrupt stocks. He has placed the entire lot in the corner store and will sell at prices never before heard of in Peterborough. He feels confident that he can give goods 10 per cent lower than the lowest quotations of uptown dealers. Recollect the sale is a thoroughly honest one, as the goods must be sold, close buyers will find it worth their best attention to call and inspect. Remember the corner, Burnham's Block, corner of George and Simcoe Streets. A full staff of salesmen are engaged for the occasion, so that all customers will be properly waited upon. Store will close every day from 12 to 12.30 o'clock, to give the staff time to have lunch. 51-2t

OUR TORONTO LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

TORONTO, Dec. 28.

OVERLAPPING SESSIONS.

It is now certain that the state of affairs so long and frequently complained of with respect to the sessions of the Dominion Parliament and the Ontario Legislature, will be repeated this year. The latter body will not meet till near the end of the second week in January, and the former will meet probably about the end of the first week in February. This will give the Ontario Assembly about three weeks for the despatch of business before the Dominion Parliament meets, which might have been lengthened to four by calling the Ontario Legislature together about the fifth instead of the twelfth of January. The proper remedy, however, is to commence the Dominion session in November, or early in December, and then all the Provincial Legislatures, which usually assemble in the early months of the new year, might hold their sessions without any overlapping by postponing them till February.

THE WORK OF THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

This year promises to be light in so far as Government business is concerned. The Mowat Administration will be able to make a much better financial showing than they have been in a position to do for some years past, owing chiefly to the revival of the lumber industry and the exceptionally high prices realised by the sale of timber berths. The Assembly will probably be asked to pass a measure authorizing the erection of a bureau of agricultural statistics and embodying a scheme for collecting and collating them. It is not yet decided whether the Government will revive their last year's resolution about allowing general legislation only in alternate sessions. A much more sensible proposal would be to hold sessions of the Legislature only in alternate years, a plan which is becoming somewhat popular in the United States and which would effect a great saving here under the head of "legislation" in the public accounts. The objections are: 1. That the interval of two years would be too long to allow the expenditure to run without an enquiry into it by the members of the assembly; 2. That necessary legislation would have to be sometimes postponed; and 3. That the information contained in the departmental reports would be kept back from the public for too long a time. The only one of these objections possessing any force is the first, but the difficulty could be largely overcome by breaking through the red-tape rule, which prevents the public accounts and other departmental reports from being given to the public until after they have been laid before Parliament. These reports would get a much better sifting and do far more good if circulated as soon as they are ready, than they can possibly do by keeping them until the house meets and then bringing them down altogether. Whatever force there is in the second objection could easily be neutralized by a provision for calling a special session whenever it was found to be absolutely necessary in the public interest to do so. Per contra it may fairly be urged that annual sessions are mischievous by causing a good deal of pottering and tinkering at the School and Municipal Acts which would be better left undone.

RAILWAY AMALGAMATION.

The Midland combination is regarded favourably here since it strengthens the position of Toronto, as compared with Montreal, in competition for the trade of the Midland district. The Credit Valley absorption by the Great Western is less favourably regarded, as it will destroy the independence of the former line, to which Toronto paid a very liberal bonus, and leave us in precisely the same position, so far as competition is concerned, as if it had never been built at all. The only redeeming feature of the affair is the prospect of getting the Ontario and Quebec line put through by the aid of the Great Western and thus obtaining a winter line to compete with the Grand Trunk. Should the North Western send a spur into Toronto, as is now possible, we shall have another road added to the number of those which radiate from this city. The indications at present are that the approaching session of the Legislature, will, like the last, be a busy one in the railway committee, and that the only important question on the tapis relating to municipalities is that of market fees.

MILITARY.

The name of Sergeant F. H. Brennan, of No. 5 Company, 57th Battalion, has been forwarded to Ottawa to be gazetted as Lieutenant of that Company in the place of Lieutenant R. E. Birdsall, promoted to the Captaincy of No. 4 Co. Sergeant Brennan takes a great interest in the military profession, and no doubt will make a good officer.

HYMENEAL.

On Wednesday the 28th, Mr. William Buck, son of Thos. Buck, Esq., led to the hymeneal alter Miss Annie Burgess, eldest daughter of Mr. Robert Burgess of Belmont. The happy couple were united in the bonds of matrimony by the Rev. Mr. Sanderson, and at the close of the ceremony quite a number of invited relations and friends congratulated them and wished them all manner of happiness and conjugal bliss. Mr. and Mrs. Buck, jr., take up their residence upon the old homestead.

DIVISION COURT.

The regular sittings of the Norwood Division Court took place on Wednesday, 21st. His Honor, Judge Dennistoun presiding. The calendar was a light one, though the sitting, on account of the number of witnesses examined, was a protracted one. The following are the cases disposed of:—

John Keleher vs. Stewart.—In this case about a dozen witnesses were examined for the prosecution. Keleher sought to recover the sum of $80, damage sustained upon his premises through bush fires from the farm of Defendant. Judgment was given for the Plaintiff for $15, the litigants to pay their own costs.

Thos. Fallon vs. J. P. Brown—Plaintiff sued for $33 which he alleged was due him for wages by Defendant. Verdict for Defendant.

E. McIlvena vs. Thad Ackerman—Verdict for Defendant.

PRESBYTERIAN FESTIVAL.

The festival given in the Presbyterian Church on Monday evening was a decided success, both as regards the attendance, the financial result, as well as the merits of the entertainment. The dialogues and recitations were of a superior tone, and well rendered by the young people of the Church. The rendition of some select pieces of vocal and instrumental music was particularly enjoyed by the audience. A pleasing feature of the festival was the scioptic views, exhibited by Mr. J. Cameron, of Peterborough; and another worthy of mention was the distribution of bon-bons, a treat which gave all present much pleasure and amusement. On the whole the entertainment was of a high character, and reflected great credit upon those who had the management of it on hand. Proceeds amounted to $30.

VACATION.

On Thursday last our Schools closed for their Christmas holidays. The entrance examinations of the Public School proved that the teachers, Miss Anderson and Miss Keele labored diligently and successful during the past term, as some more scholars have been passed from the room of the former teacher to that of the latter, and about the same number from Miss Keele's to Mr. Dutton's, a greater number than has ever been promoted before in these departments at one examination. Miss Keele on retiring from the school as a teacher, was the recipient of a numbers of valuable and handsome presents from her scholars.

THE METHODIST ANNIVERSARY.

The anniversary and Christmas Tree of the Methodist Sabbath School was a remarkably successful affair. The church was literally crowded, sitting room being hard to obtain. The Christmas tree being the great object of attraction, the reflection of the various bright and costly presents adding considerably to the picturesqueness of the animated scene. There were three trees, all nearly laden with valuable articles of every description, all of which were highly appreciated by the recipients. The musical and literary part of the programme was highly entertaining, the various dialogues and recitations being well rendered and intensely enjoyed by the audience; while the singing of the scholars, under the able tuition and gniding hand of Miss Kate Buck, was all that could be desired, and highly appreciated by all. The proceeds amounted to $30.00 from a 15 cent admission fee.

NORWOOD NOMINATION.

The nomination of candidates for municipal honors took place in the basement of the town hall on Monday last. As a good time was expected there was a large attendance of the ratepayers, who, as well as the leaders of the parties brought out, were bound to take advantage of the moment to enjoy a literary feast. They got it: for never before at gatherings of this kind here were the literary attainments of some of the speakers so forcibly conspicuous. Villification, recrimination, the introduction of dead issues and other topics in no way bearing upon the matters under consideration, were the order of the day. The names of the candidates for election will be found in another column.

THE ASPHODEL NOMINATION.

The nominations for Reeve, D. Reeve, and Councillors took place in the upper room of the Norwood Town Hall. There was a large muster of the ratepayers of the Township, and the proceedings were characterized by the utmost good order and good feeling, there being an utter absence of complaint and abusive language. The nominations will be found in another column.

BELMONT NOMINATIONS.

The following are the nominations made for the Township of Belmont:—For Reeve, Wm. Burgess and John Brown. For Councillors, James Wilde, Robert Anderson, J. Vansickle, E. D. Boyd, D. M. Burnie, R. Johnston, H. Copperthwaite.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 29, 1881.

Social Morality.

The social evil has assumed such alarming proportions in some of our Canadian towns and cities, that the question of how to deal with it is becoming a matter of some importance not only to our urban legislators, but to the general public. Conferences on the subject of public morality have been recently held in the city of Toronto, and some most important information has been elicited thereby. We hope the discussion of this subject will result in some practical and effective remedy in the way of suppressing disreputable houses, and in dealing with what must be entitled one of the greatest blots on our boasted christian civilization. The matter, we have said, is of general interest, for prostitution, t must be remembered, is a terrible factor in the production of disease and mortality. Its fearful results spread far beyond those victims who are themselves criminally guilty, and who but reap the reward of their deeds. Its ravages extend far and wide, so much so, indeed, that a well-known medical professor said as far back as 1874, that "out of a population of forty millions in the United States nearly two millions were infected with the syphiltic virus." The proportion is at least as great in Britain and Ireland. Though there are no reliable statistics to bring forward, the actual mortality from this and kindred diseases must also be very great. But apart from these saddening facts, apart altogether from the medical aspect of the question, or the physical evils produced through this sin, there is another phase in which we are compelled to view it. The moral and religious side thereof must not be overlooked. Our country is a christian one and our law-makers are bound to use every legitimate effort to suppress vice and lessen crime. Licentiousness grows and spreads like a cancer and eats into the very vitals of a nation. Moreover, this particular sin is always accompanied by other dread crimes. Public attention therefore should be plainly directed to the subject. For our part we are pretty well convinced that when public sentiment shall have been stirred, public opinion will demand the complete suppression of this horrible evil. It is simply astounding that any one could be found who would frankly advocate the licensing of such an iniquity. This might lessen disease, but it would largely increase the number of frequenters of both sexes in houses of ill fame. To carry such a suggestion out would be to really encourage vice by making it safe—in other words,—doing evil that good might come. No compromise must be made with such an accursed, soul-destroying vice. The fullest measures must be employed to root out the horrible pest; the existing laws must be observed and if these are insufficient, additional legislation must be demanded until the evil is completely eradicated and its terrible results as far as possible mitigated. There is no doubt whatever that those in high places often wink at irregularities. Toronto has a number of brothels variously estimated at from fifty to one hundred and sixty. They are as well known to the police as the first class hotels or the chief places of business. The authorities have the power to make raids on these dens of iniquity. City by-laws, vagrant acts and statutes exist for the suppression of such houses; for the punishment of their keepers and frequenters, and complete machinery is at hand which might accomplish this much desired result. But what do we find? Not in Toronto only, but throughout the country, the authorities permit these dens of iniquity to remain untouched, and to carry on their nefarious practices in defiance of all law and order. We assert that in our town, (and we have no doubt our neighbors are similarly situated,) the laws are persistently broken, and the authorities know, and could largely prevent it if they chose. Stringent measures pursued in for one short week would drive out all the loose characters from our streets, and effectually close their accursed haunts. But it is only in cases of larceny, or when the disturbance in bawdy houses becomes a public nuisance that the police seem to care to interfere. So that practically the evil has become licensed through the neglect or supineness of the civic authorities. Now, we fully believe in the "stamping out" process, in taking the severest measures to eradicate this monstrous iniquity. We consider that all such offences should be punished by imprisonment without the option of fine; that the names of all proprietors, inmates and visitors should be made public, and that the police should have full power at all times to enter suspected houses and arrest the inmates. But we also believe the present laws should be put in force; we know that through the power vested by them in the authorities, this evil can be greatly reduced, and we call upon our citizens of every class to demand that this be done fearlessly and at once. If our town fathers do not enforce the law, then we must choose men who will. The next step will be to take measures to diminish the supply of new recruits, to thin the ranks of future prostitutes, but on this we shall have something to say in a future issue.

Agrarianism in Ireland.

No true friend of Ireland can look upon the increase of agrarian crime in that unhappy country without alarm for its future. The "potting" of landlords from behind hedges might fairly be offset by the brutal eviction of the sick and dying from the hovels to which they were bound by every tie of home and kindred; but there can be no possible excuse for the murder of farmers who choose to pay their rent. The obvious intent of those who ply the bludgeon in defence of the "no rent" policy, is to so terrorize the tenantry willing to pay rent that a universal concert of action will be apparent. They desire to make it appear that the whole Irish people are opposed to pay rent. Brutal agencies of this sort will have the contrary effect from that intended by their originators. They may succeed in coercing the Irish tenantry into a half-hearted support, but what is of infinitely more consequence to the success of Irish agitation, the moral support of mankind will be lacking. Worse than this, a continuation of these outrages, unrebuked by the official heads of the land league, will deepen the impression already prevalent that the moving spirits in that organization are simply using it for what money it will bring them, and not for the deliverance of Ireland.

The question of "no rent" can in no sense be made a national one, least of all by the murderous means disclosed by the daily despatches by cable. From every possible outlook it is personal only. The rents are contributed by individuals, not assessed en bloc on communities. And it is also a question of individual volition, whether the rent is paid or withheld. To treat a rent-payer, therefore, as a traitor, and maltreat or kill him because he chooses to do that which his neighbors does not, is to do violence to the spirit of the present agitation in Ireland, and if persisted in and winked at or encouraged by the leaders of the land league, will inevitably terminate in the overthrow of the organization. Irishmen are the best friends of Ireland; and every beating given for the payment of rent alienates a friend from the cause of Irish amelioration.

THE GOVERNMENT'S NORTH-WEST LAND REGULATIONS.

(From the Manitoba Free Press.)

"Ever since Sir John Macdonald's accession to power the North-West has been cursed by the most vacillating, ill-considered, unjust and unwise series of land regulations that the ingenuity of our greatest enemy could devise. The very frequency of the changes in the regulations has proved a source of serious embarassment and often of actual loss to intending settlers. A man might leave Winnipeg any day to select a homestead under certain regulations then in force, and return to find that he could secure the land he had selected only by conforming to a very different set of conditions. The settler has had no assurance ever since Sir John became Premier of any stability in the land regulations. They have varied like the kaleidoscope and, in nearly every case, the variation has been for the worse. It was Sir John who invented the outrageous eighty acre homestead regulations, of which his organ of this city is now ashamed that it would fain forget having ever defended them. It was Sir John who issued the edict forbidding squatting in advance of survey, thus preventing the hardiest and best class of pioneer settlers from aiding in the development of the country. Yet, while prohibiting squatting in advance of survey, Sir John delayed the opening of land offices in the only district where lands could be entered until by that one act alone many hundreds of settlers were lost to the North-West. Under Sir John's administration it has become a fixed and settled matter that no maps, guide books or other means of information can be obtained by immigrants at the various land offices. Especially has care been apparently taken to keep the Winnipeg offices totally destitute of these requisities. It is Sir John who is responsible for the abortive attempts to throw upon the market for sale by public auction the farms occupied by school land squatters together with the improvements resulting from years of toil.

HONESTY.—It is commonly said that you cannot make an honest man believe that white is black and vice versa, but those who have grey hair, by using the "Cingalese Hair Renewer," will find that this apparent difficulty is overcome. For sale at 50 cents per bottle. 47-1y

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Dominion Parliament meets on the 7th of February. It is expected that the session will be a lively one, but shorter than last year. Let us hope so, at least.

A protective tariff is intended to make the protected article dear. Things are dear only when they are scarce, and cheap when they are abundant. The natural effect of a protective tariff is to produce scarcity, and the effect of free trade is abundance. It should not be hard for people to decide whether they prefer protection and scarcity or free trade and plenty.—Detroit News.

Maritime province journals supporting the Government are in a tight place. After boasting of the wonderful things that would result from the construction of the Pacific Railway in bringing the traffic of the North-West to St. John and Halifax, they are now forced to admit that the chances are strongly in favor of Portland, Boston and New York becoming the termini of the great Canadian highway. They are therefore calling lustily for a united effort to compel the Syndicate to bring the trade to Canadian seaport cities. It is plain, however, that they are doomed to disappointment. The Syndicate will go where it suits them best and where they can make most money.

General Hewson does not regard Sir John Macdonald as a great man, and he wonders that Conservatives permit their leader to handle them like so many chattels. Their boasted unity is a unity of obedience. No man dares to have an opinion on a political subject till Sir John has spoken, and Sir John speaks without consulting anybody. An instance of his exercise of the one man power is recorded in a letter contributed by General Hewson to the Port Hope Guide:—"W. Horton was elected for Centre Huron in September, 1878. On the 5th of the next following month the Mail issued the following ukas:

'We are AUTHORISED to say that if Mr. Horton is appointed Collector of Customs at Goderich to make a vacancy for Mr. Cartwright in Centre Huron, the appointment will be promptly cancelled by the incoming Administration.'

From the figures before us, showing the state of the poll, we fine that Dr. Waters secured a majority in all the agricultural districts, but was beaten by the Cobourg vote, which means that the farmers are against the National Policy, and the manufacturing interests in favor. If, therefore, the voting in West Northumberland be accepted as a sign as to how the general election will go, the Conservatives must be prepared to lose Ontario in the next contest. But even as matters stand they have real cause for alarm. They had been preparing for the battle for months, had selected their own ground, and it is quite true that the election was sprung on the Liberals. Under these circumstances, although as a general rule we do not believe in moral victories, the result of the contest in West Northumberland must be scored as one for the Liberal party.—Montreal Post (Irish Conservative.)

That utterance came, of course, from Sir John Macdonald. Weeks before he had been called on to form a Government, weeks before he had made overtures to members of Parliament—his equals in law—to accept places in it, he dared in the above authorization to speak for that Government and those members as for creatures of his individual will! Not this only; but the right honorable gentleman made in that authorization the insulting announcement that these gentlemen couldn't accept membership in his Cabinet save subject to his public declaration that they would act as his subordinates to the extent of giving effect to his hatred of Sir Richard Cartwright by an act of contemptible vindicativeness! A very despotism—identified in this instance as such by its audacity, its malice and its meanness—having been declared thus openly at the head of the Conservative party, who shall say that it is not high time to discuss the actual qualities of this Sir John Macdonald, whose vast powers of "statesmanship," as it is called, are an equivalent to five millions of free people for all that is genuine in responsible government?"

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY AMALGAMATION.

(From the Lindsay Post.)

By arrangement Mr. Geo. A. Cox, Midland of the Midland Railway, met Special Committee and Councillors on day night last, to consider the position Lindsay regarding the proposed amalgamation. The attendance was not as large as it should have been. Several members of the Committee pointed out Liberal aid granted by Lindsay to the ...eral projects, especially the Midland, the town was now an important railway ...tre, and care should be taken that the ...ditions and restrictions in the several ...ms by-laws or bonds should be incorporated in the new legislation required ... the company. It was the duty of ...dsay to see that its position was not ...ured by the amalgamation. Mr. Cox, ...e course of his remarks, expressed ... surprise that there should be any opposition in Lindsay to the amalgamation, ... of all points on the line Lindsay ...uld receive the most benefit. He ...inted out the great natural advantages ... the town, and said he hoped to have ... assistance to obtain the required legislation. There had been no intention to ...vance grain and other freight and passenger freights. On the contrary the ...algamation would have a tendency to ...wer rates. He could not give any ...omises as to the location of the workshops of the company, to which some reference had been made. He intimated ...at while the Company desired legislation they could do without it. The whole question was discussed in a general way ...d the meeting closed with the understanding that it would receive the careful ...ttention of the Special Committee.

MR. BEECHER ON FREE TRADE.

The Rev Henry Ward Beecher deliver..., one evening last week, in the First ...ptist church of Brooklyn, the first of a ...ries of lectures on free trade, under the ...uspices of the Brooklyn Revenue Reform ...ub. In the course of his address he ...id:

"In addition to what every citizen ...ows, I, as a moral teacher, feel zealous ...o say that the protective system not ...nly is impolitic and unjust, but wrong ...n fundamental morals. (Applause.) In ...s principles and results it is directly ...pposed to Christian ethics. It is opposed to the ethical organization of society. Men are organized on principles ...f equity and justice in fellowship, and ...hose who violate these, in the long run, ...come to destruction; while obedience to ...hem leads to success. In direct contradiction to Christian morality and the ...ospel of Christ is a protective tariff, for ...t is organized immorality. (Applause.)

"Every American b t should beat for liberty. He cost ages and blood to ...ain individual liberty. By revolutions, ...acks, and penal prisons liberty of conscience was gained. At last liberty, except where it impinges the liberty of ...thers, exists in all directions, and goes ...o this land with universal intelligence. ...Liberty in all relations, social, religious, ...nd individual, is best for man. Men ...an choose their own church, their own ...alling; can use property as they please ...nd their own market, and find the world ...wide open to get what tempts the eye ...nd attracts wealth; but they may not ...ring it home. The United States will ...ot let a man bring it in unless he pays ...he penalty. He may get his pictures in ...Italy, silks in Lyons, wine in Bordeaux; ...ut the government says you must buy ...t home and not abroad. If it is not ...roduced here you must wait till it is. (Laughter.) This is the liberal feed, so ...ar not only as luxuries, but as necessaries are concerned. Liberty! No homesick traveller can come into his native land by permission of the government except with his skin and its covering. His trunks are opened and his person searched for gems. He cannot bring in what he can buy cheaper than at home. We are shorn of our liberty in the commerce of the world.

"It is contrary to morals and the spirit of our fathers to put commerce in bondage. Commerce is to the nation what blood is to the body. It equalises the zones. Its white wings are the gospel of the world. Since the time of Paul every ship has been an ocean pulpit, with as much harmful stuff as other pulpits. Before the rebellion our ships led the commerce of the world. But now the ships are sold and the yards are silent. Commerce is in chains—a prisoner at the heels of manufactures. Instead of being an eagle it is a mere dunghill fowl. Now ships want a bounty to keep on the ocean. There should be important and omnipotent reasons for this. All tariffs are taxes to support the government, directly or indirectly. All taxes should be certain and direct; but tariffs on imports are uncertain and indirect. They add to the cost to consumers of articles, but are hidden in the price. Direct taxes tend to economy in government. We are now in danger of having too much money for government purposes."

After showing that protection made most men think it was no crime to cheat the government, Mr. Beecher said:

"What is protection doing now? It sees the surplus revenues of government, and says that taxes must be lower; but it would not take off any duties. It is proposed to send the whole question to a commission of nine to consider the subject for three years, and then report to congress—which will lay it on the shelf. But before that time free trade will flood the country. Truth is on our side, men believe in it, the gospel of Christ is for us and all the principles of humanity, and we shall not fail."

THE CAUSES OF PROSPERITY.

SPEECH BY HON. DAVID MILLS, AT CHATHAM.

At no time since the Union was the emigration from Canada so small as it was during the period of the late administration. Though Canada, in common with all Christendom, was suffering from a stagnation of trade, she was, compared with other countries, prosperous. The United States, at that time, instead of being an inviting field for the merchant, was one of the very worst. The number who left the Republic in 1876 for Europe was more than the number who went thither from European countries. Her industries were in a deplorable condition. He said while the Reformers were in power that Canada was more prosperous than the United States, although the United States had just such a tariff as the Tory leaders said would bring prosperity. How could a policy which served only to aggravate the misfortunes of the people of the Republic operate differently in Canada? He said the reason given for the depression of trade in Canada was that it was made a slaughter market, yet the Tory papers now tell you that the country never got their goods, their cottons, their hardware as cheap as now. Which statement was to be believed? He said neither was true. In 1873 the country was never so prosperous. The importations were nearly $40,000,000 more than in 1876. He asked how the number was could drive the Canadians out of their own market, while the larger number left them prosperous. He declared that the cause of depression was not foreign competition, but the want of the usual foreign markets. He discussed this question in detail. He showed that it was the mercantile and not the manufacturing classes who had suffered. He went into details as to the extent of our manufacturing industries for the purpose of showing that any large increase of the number would bring disaster upon them. He said that there was no unusual increase in the number, because the Finance Minister had seized the capital which had been accumulated, and locked it up in the public treasury. He said that the moment commerce had revived abroad the times became more prosperous. It was the revival of commerce and not the restrictions placed upon it that had improved the times.

THE ROBBERY OF THE LATE EARL CRAWFORD'S REMAINS.

Full details have now been received of the robbery of the body of the late Earl of Crawford and Balcarres from the marble mortuary chapel attached to the Dunecht House—his late mansion, and one of the most princely in Aberdeenshire. The details recall minutely the outrage perpetrated at St. Mark's Church in 1878 upon the remains of the late A. T. Stewart. On Thursday morning, December 1st, a laborer passing the spot on his way to his work observed that the ground on the top of the entrance to the mausoleum had been disturbed, and that the slab opposite the first step of the stairs was standing on its side, supported by a stick. He communicated with the servants at the house and with all persons in the locality, and although the worst suspicions were entertained, it was decided not to enter the vault until the arrival of the commissioner and police officers from Aberdeen, who were at once summoned. When they arrived they decided to enter and examine the mausoleum. For this purpose another slab had to be lifted, and two persons entered. They were horified at the sight which met their view. Strewed upon the ground were pieces of wood and sawdust, and the coffins in which the remains of the late Earl had lain were lying on the shelf in a state of wreck. The wooden casation placed in front to protect the coffin had been torn away, that the guilty parties might the more readily accomplish their task. They had then unscrewed the lid of the outer coffin, but the others were not treated so respectfully. These they cut with chisels or some sharp tools, and after making an opening in the end large enough to admit of their doing so, they pulled the remains of the noble Earl out by the feet and carried them away. The silver mountings of the coffin were untouched, which led to the belief that the main object of the robbers was ransom money. The audacity of the robbery is apparent when it is known that the spot at which the excavations were made is in full view of the windows of the mansion, and so close to the rooms in which the servants resided that the slightest noise, especially in the night-time, was likely to arrest attention. From the fact that the slabs were of immense weight it is certain that at least three or four persons must have been concerned in the act. The footprints of at least three persons have been traced upon the soft earth near the mouth of the crypt, and one of the prints is that of a large shoe heavily hobnailed. Since the death of the Dowager Countess and other members of the family have resided at Dunecht, the present Earl, resident there for the shooting season, having left it only three weeks previously. —*N. ENGLAND'S INCREASE OF WEALTH.

Dr. M. G. Mulhall, in the Contemporary Review for December, in an article on national wealth and expenditure, gives some interesting statistics of the average wealth of the British people. In estimating the increase of wealth during the two decades, 1860-70 and 1870-80, the accumulations averaged £350,000 a day during the first and £500,000 during the second, or an average saving of about fourpence a day per inhabitant. The advance made in building is set down as follows:—

	No. of houses.	Value.	Value per house
1850	5,394,000	41,128,000,000	£213
1870	6,815,000	1,899,000,000	275
1880	6,971,000	2,216,000,000	229

In other words, the English people have built 1,500,000 new houses, have rebuilt or replaced 800,000 old ones and are 50 per cent. better lodged than in 1860. The average rent of each house is £43 per annum in London, £15 in the rest of England, nearly £15 in Scotland and a little under £4 in Ireland. He finds that each inhabitant was worth £180 in 1860, nearly £220 in 1870 and about £250 in 1880. The ratio of paupers was 4 per cent. in 1870 and 3 per cent. in 1880.

THE FATE OF THE JEANNETTE.

After long suspense word has at last come with respect to the fate of the Arctic exploring steamer Jeannette. The first news from St. Petersburg appeared to indicate that both boat and crew were safe, but later information is that the boat was crushed in the ice on June 11, in lat. 77°, long. 157°, and that the crew embarked in three boats, two of which have reached the mouth of the Lena, but the third has not yet been heard from.

PETERBOROUGH, DEC. 29, 1881.

A Happy New Year.

Ere we again have an opportunity of addressing our readers, the new year will have been ushered in with all its anticipated pleasures, as well as its gloomy forebodings. It is strange indeed, that nothing connected with earthly things is free of sorrow, real or imaginary. It would be well if we could bear our part so as to be able at all times to accept the inevitable without anxiety, but we are not all so constituted; some weep, and some, perhaps, laugh, when they should not. In pleasure, and toil, and laughter, time passes, and year on year follows, while loved ones, aye, and those not loved, leave us to attend to life's cares and amenities. The approaching year will be one of no common concern to us all. Who knows what is to come to light in its unfoldings? Kings and kingdoms may pass away before we have read its 365 pages. Long cherished friendships and associations may be snapped before its dawn. But in pouring over the sombre margin of its anticipations or forebodyings, we are apt to induce melancholy, instead of enjoying its pleasant associations. We would therefore, anticipate as much good as the world will be likely to apportion us. We advise all to act their part well, to fortify themselves against all appearance of evil by living the new year by the day, as it is never given in a lump, only by piecemeal. The EXAMINER will continue to provide for its readers, things profitable, instructive and amusing, as in the year gone by, we will make the world tributary to us for their benefit. We have however, mutual responsibilities, but we rest assured that these will be duly attended to in their order. We feel that we have much for which we have to thank our patrons, which we do now sincerely, promising that we shall not be unmindful of their welfare, and trust that in our good intentions there will be the same mutual responsibilities and good feeling. Bearing of this, we wish our readers all the compliments of the season, and a wholesome happy year.

Mr. Blake and the Tariff.

Sir Charles Tupper, in his speech at Bowmanville, endeavored to make some capital out of Mr. Blake's expense by contending that the latter had practically given up opposition to the tariff to such an extent that the difference between him and the Government in their fiscal policy was only one of degree. Mr. Blake, he said, had promised not to take away what protection the manufacturers have just now, and had contented himself with pointing out how the tariff should be amended in some of its details, and both Sir Charles Tupper and Sir Leonard Tilley, as well as Sir John Macdonald himself, have over and over again said they were willing to make such amendments in the tariff as experience might show to be necessary. We propose to show (a) that Mr. Blake's attitude towards the Tilley tariff has been quite misrepresented, (b) that the Ministerial promises to remove the objectionable features of that tariff are not to be depended on, and (c) that the position of the Liberal party on this question is the only fair one that can possibly be taken at the present juncture. We shall not stop to argue whether the difference between the two parties on the tariff issue is one of principle or one of expediency. It is of little practical consequence to the public which it is, but it is of great practical consequence to know how far apart the positions of the two parties on the question really are.

Mr. Blake in all his public speeches during the present recess has adopted one line of criticism in dealing with the tariff, and has invariably adhered to that line. He gave at his banquet speeches in Montreal and Toronto the key-note, and in his Maritime Provinces, West Durham, and West Northumberland speeches he supplied the details. In all his speeches he has admitted (1) the necessity of raising a large revenue by means of customs duties on imports; (2) that under any possible tariff which can be imposed in Canada a large amount of protection will be afforded to certain home manufactures; and (3) that in any tariff changes which may be proposed the interests of those who, on the strength of the present duties have invested capital must be respected. On the strength of these admissions Sir Charles argues that Mr. Blake's position does not differ materially from the position of the Government. Let us see. In his various speeches Mr. Blake has always contended (1) that the tariff is far too high and that the duties as a whole should be reduced; (2) that all duties on necessaries of life, more especially on fuel and breadstuffs, should be entirely removed; (3) that there should be no duties placed on raw materials of manufactures such as coal and pig iron, and that the duties on partly manufactured goods which are the raw materials of other manufactures, such as bar iron, steel, paints, varnishes, reaper and mower knives, &c., should be as low as is compatible with raising absolutely necessary revenue; and (4) that specific duties, which bear more heavily on the poor than on the rich, should be abolished.

Ministers may say that they are willing to make such changes as are shown to be expedient, but as a matter of fact they do not admit a single one of them to be so, and in all their speeches they practically contend that the tariff, as it is, is perfect. By going a very little into detail we shall see still more clearly the vast difference between their position and that of Mr. Blake. They not only approve of overtaxing the people to a large amount each year, but boast of a surplus of five or six millions as if it were the highest possible tribute to financiering skill. He says the surplus taken out of the people's pockets should be as small as possible and that when the tariff is found to be taking too much it ought to be reduced. As the surplus this year is expected to be at least six millions—equal to about one-third of our whole revenue from customs—it follows that Mr. Blake's proposal is really to cut down the tariff generally to something like that extent, and even that amount of reduction would leave it a higher tariff than any we have had since Confederation. This great fundamental difference between him and his opponents is increased by his other contentions. They are firmly resolved to maintain the duties on coal and breadstuffs, though they are thus compelling the people of Ontario and the North-West to pay about half a million of dollars a year by way of a tax on fuel, and the people of the Maritime Provinces to pay an additional 30 to 40 cents on every barrel of flour or corn meal they consume. The coal and breadstuff duties Mr. Blake would sweep away absolutely, while the Ministry regard them as the very key-stone of their fiscal arch, which being removed the whole thing would tumble to the ground. Mr. Blake recognises the enormous importance of free iron, not merely to the consumer of manufactured goods but to the manufacturer himself. The Tilley tariff imposes a duty of two dollars a ton on pig iron and has largely increased the duties on iron which is partially manufactured, and so far from these duties being lowered or removed there is a strong probability that they will be increased. Mr. Blake, on the other hand, would remove absolutely the duty on pig iron like the duty on coal, and would make large reductions in duties on partially manufactured goods, which are themselves the raw materials of other manufactures. In this way he would effect an important reduction in the cost of producing, for instance, all agricultural implements and all lumberer's tools, and do something to remedy the gross injustice that has been inflicted by the tariff on our two leading industries. And, in the last place, Mr. Blake would abolish those specific duties which compel the poor man to pay so much more for nearly all he uses than the rich man does in proportion to the value of the goods he purchases. The duty on woollen goods is partly as much a pound, and as cheap, coarse goods weigh more than costly fine ones the poor man is thus compelled to pay a larger proportion of the revenue than he ought to be asked to pay. It is precisely the same with cottons, only that the specific duty is so much a yard, which makes an enormous difference in the rate of duty as between cheap and dear cotton cloths. The same principle is applied to the taxation of dried fruits: the poor man, who can afford only the cheaper kinds of raisins or currants, having to pay more in proportion than the rich man who can purchase the finer varieties. And, not to dwell on this aspect of the tariff, the same principle is applied to musical instruments; the man who can afford to purchase a costly Steinway, or Chickering, or Knabe, or Weber piano, has to pay far less in proportion by way of duty than the man who can afford to purchase one only half the price of those named.

It will be said that in all these cases the object of the specific duty is to encourage the home manufacture of the less costly classes of goods, and no doubt they have that effect, but the encouragement given is of the nature of a bonus taken out of the pocket of the consumer by the tariff and paid over to the manufacturer to enable him to do what would otherwise be a losing business. This is proved by the fact that foreign woollens, foreign cottons, foreign pianos, and other commodities produced abroad still come into Canada and are displayed in our warerooms alongside of Canadian commodities of the same classes, and offered at the same prices. These foreign goods have, of course, paid the duties, and therefore the consumer pays the duty to the merchant, whether he buys the home or the foreign made article, the only difference being that when he buys the latter the duty is added to the revenue, and when he buys the former it goes into the pocket of the manufacturer. Now, as we understand Mr. Blake's position, he would abolish all these unjust specific duties, partly because they are unjust to the poor consumer and partly because they operate as a means of robbing one class of the community to favor another. Of course it is out of the question to expect the Government to abolish them, because they were deliberately imposed by Sir Leonard Tilley at the instance of the manufacturers themselves. If any of our readers fail to see the difference between Mr. Blake's position and that of the Government on the question of tariff reform we can only hope that a little reflection will make that difference as clear to them as it is to ourselves.

Bank Speculation.

...ious danger to guard against in ... Dominion during prosperous times, ...especially in the present day, is the ...ual inflation existing in all branches of ..., especially in bank stock, and ... curious amount of speculation which ...e going on in such securities. The ...ion is one deserving the attention of ... Government and the people, and it ...d cause little surprise, if, owing to ...ent developments, the subject is now ...ceiving to it considerable interest. ... Government's action in requiring of ... banks full particulars of the securities ... which loans have been advanced, has ...used intense excitement. The banks, ...ourse, characterize it as unnecessary, ...d as interfering with the public busi... ; but we believe the public will look ...on it as timely and wise. It is argued ...t through the information thus obtain... the whole of their business is disclosed. ...t the banks know this knowledge ...ght be called for at any time ; and they ...ve also that these returns are looked ...on as private and confidential by the ...vernment. The experience the public ...ve had with the Consolidated, Exchange, ...ques Cartier, Mechanics' and Prince ...ward Island banks is of such a nature ...d anything done to ensure confidence ...n banking institutions, and to check ...ulation ought to meet with general ap...oval. Sir L. Tilley not long since ...stly boasted about a boom in bank ...ck, and construed this into a sign of ...sperity. But this should have been ...ther a subject for deep concern, and ...ve apprehension on his part, as he ...ust have known the increased value of ...nk shares was clearly due to the facili... afforded by the banks to brokers for ...rrowing on stocks, and that such un...althy inflation must unquestionably ...sult in collapse and disaster. That ...s is the case, and that the recent ...flation was illegitimate is proven by the ...apid decline in the market when the ...overnment circular was received. Bank ...ock immediately fell from one to seven ...er cent. on the receipt of the circular ...hich sought information regarding ...urities on loans. Not one prominent ...ock escaped, and those banks which ...ere apparently the strongest suffered ...ost. We can hardly wonder at these ...sults when we are reminded of the fol...wing facts : Banks are requested to ...ld in reserve 33⅓ per cent. of their ...culation for the redemption of their ...es. Returns show that the entire ...ank reserve is less than seven millions, ...hile the bank circulation exceeds thirty-...wo millions ! More than twelve mil...ons is out on investment on stock col...aterals, and one institution is represented ...s having nearly one-third of its capital ...as invested, possibly in its own stock ! ...ccording to law, banks are allowed to ...ssue at interest three dollars of paper for ...very dollar of gold in their possession. ...In other words, assuming the rate of bank ...interest to be eight per cent., they are ...allowed to obtain twenty-four per cent. ...on the actual money they loan ! This ...would seem sufficient for the most ...avaricious; but it is asserted that not ...content with this, the banks have illegally ...dilated their note issue to over five times ...the amount of their gold reserve, thus ...enabling them to obtain fully forty per ...cent on their actual invested capital. ...We would not be considered alarmists; ...but in this age of rash speculation, when ...many in high positions are weighed ...in the balance and found wanting, and ...an apparent respectability and fraud ...often go hand in hand, we would warn ...the public against placing too implicit ...confidence in the statements put forth by ...banks, and we trust this matter will form ...the subject of a searching enquiry and ...thorough investigation at the approaching ...session of the Dominion Parliament.

Trent Valley Canal.

...If the present Government at Ottawa ...have so large a surplus as they assert, ...and if, as Sir Charles Tupper said at Pe...terborough, the Government intended to ...build the canal as soon as the finances of ...the country would admit of the expendi...ture, and if the ministry are not striving, ...(as we believe they are) to mock the ...people and corruptly dangle the work be...fore the eyes of the electorate—the ...time has now arrived to 'give us deeds ...and not empty words—to take active ...measures to commence an undertaking ...fraught with so great and so lasting bene...fit to the country at large and so mater...ial to our immediate prosperity, and ...further to step out under their true colors ...as "subroses" opponents of the undertak...ing or by a liberal grant out of their $6,-...000,000 surplus at once give a start and ...decided impetus to the work. The sur...veyors have already gone over the pro...posed route and filed their reports of the ...probable cost. The work has been pro...nounced as highly practicable and bene...ficial, and that too at an expense small ...and disproportioned to the profit to be ...derived. The coming session of the Do...minion Parliament is almost at hand. If ...in the present Government do not ...do at their coming session some solid ...proof of their good will towards the ...project by granting a substantial appro...priation out of their surplus to a project ...laudable and beneficial, we will con...sider, and this county will consider, that ...the Conservative Government are ene...mies and opponents of the scheme. For, ...when circumstances are so favourable ...and so suspicious, when there stands a ...fund out of which to draw the sum re...quired, the present Government do not ...one down handsomely, what can be ex...pected from them at more ruinous times ...when surpluses are less plentiful. If ...the Government do not build this pro...jected work at once, Mr. Blake and his ...party will. We await the issue.

MASONIC HALL TRUSTEES.—W. Bro. R. P. Boucher, M.D., was elected Trustee for Corinthian Lodge, and Bro. J. R. Stratton, Trustee for Peterborough Lodge.

PRESENTATION.

Immediately after the installation ceremony had been concluded, Worshipful Master Bro. R. S. Davidson, on behalf of Peterborough Lodge, read and presented W. Bro. Toole, who had efficiently filled the office of Worshipful Master of that Lodge for the past two terms, with the following address and a very handsome Past Master's apron and jewel.

To Worshipful Bro. Toole :

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER.—The officers and brethren of Peterborough Lodge, No. 165, G. R. C., being desirous of showing you some mark of their respect upon your retiring from a position which you have held for two years with so much pleasure and profit to the Lodge, and of tendering you some tangible proof of their hearty appreciation of the manner in which you have discharged your arduous duties as their Worshipful Master, have, through a Committee appointed for the purpose, procured you a Past Master's Apron and Jewel. It is now my pleasant duty, on behalf of the officers and members of this Lodge, to present you with the same, along with their earnest wishes that you may long be spared to enjoy as you do now, the hearty good will and esteem of the brethren.

R. S. DAVIDSON.

Past Master Toole thanked the members of the Lodge for their beautiful present, in a neat address.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES AT ST. LUKE'S.

At St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, the festal services on Christ's natal day opened with a celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 o'clock. The attendance was large and the music very impressive. At 11 o'clock the church was crowded, the worshippers entering very unitedly and heartily into the stirring services of the day. The sermon was preached by the Incumbent, the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, and was most attentively listened to by those assembled. The text was from the first lesson for the day, being the words of the Prophet Isaiah : "Unto us a Child is born ; unto us a Son is given." At 3 o'clock the children of the Sunday School, numbering about 140, met in church and sang with great spirit and precision a very simple and pretty oratorio, entitled "The Child Jesus," which illustrates the birth and early years of our Blessed Lord. At the conclusion of the 1st part, Mr. Bradshaw addressed them in simple and forcible language from St. Matt. II, 2, conveying to their minds some very appropriate and striking Xmas lessons. The offertory presented by the children was for the Sunday School Library.

At 7 o'clock the church was again well filled and the music, if possible, better than in the morning. The choir rendered the familiar Christmas anthem—"Behold I bring you good tidings of great joy," with fine effect. The Rev. C. H. Marsh, curate of Otonabee, read the evening service, and Mr. Bradshaw again preached, taking as the basis of his theme, St. Luke II, 11. The offertory was as usual presented to the Incumbent, and was the largest ever made in the church.

The church was beautifully decorated and, with some decided improvements in the chancel arrangements, looks better than ever. An exceedingly well-executed illuminated text now surrounds the chancel arch, and will remain there permanently. Choir seats and pulpit are appropriately decorated with the tasteful evergreen, and sacred monogrames are fastened to the walls. The font received special attention, and with its pure white lily in full bloom, attracted considerable attention.

Two memorial windows have just been erected in the west end of the church, and they add greatly to its appearance. They are the work of McCausland, of Toronto. One was given by Mrs. C. B. Orde to the memory of her husband ; the other is a memorial of the late Mrs. R. D. Rogers, and was contributed by members of the family.

THE SADDEST OF SAD SIGHTS.—The grey hairs of age being brought with sorrow to the grave is now, we are glad to think, becoming rarer every year as the use of Cingalese Hair Restorer becomes more general. By its use the scanty locks of age once more resume their former color and the hair becomes thick and luxuriant as ever ; with its aid we can now defy the change of years, resting assured that no Grey Hair at any rate will come to sadden us. Sold at 50 cents per bottle. 47-1y

"Extraordinary Sale of Dry Goods," is the new Advertisement of the well-known firm of W. Fairweather & Co., and from the conversation we had with one of the firm, we understand that they are to make a Clean Sweep of their whole stock, and at such prices as cannot fail to be an object to all purchasers of such goods. We were told that their Black and Coloured Silks, Velvets, Millinery and Mantles, with their whole stock of Clothing, would be made a Special Inducement.

Fancy Goods of all kinds, to clear off, will almost be given away. Such a large stock as $30,000 worth of first-class goods thrown into the market at such prices cannot fail to be an object to every cash buyer of Dry Goods and Clothing, &c. Embrace the opportunity and get the bargains.

THE MUTUAL TELEGRAPH SCHEMES.

The pamphlet, which the promoters of the above enterprise have called forth from Mr. Erastus Wiman, is thus referred to editorially by the Canadian Spectator :

"The pamphlet which Mr. Wiman has issued for circulation among his friends in the Dominion, gives a series of decidedly opportune sketches of the principal promoters of the Mutual Telegraph Company, which certainly is one of the most gigantic swindles recorded in modern times. It is as interesting and sparkling reading as the Arabian Night's Entertainment. Those who wish to get a true insight into the manner in which the public is fleeced out of its hard earnings by the machinations of opposition telegraph enterprises, will have their eyes opened by the startling facts which Mr. Wiman has embodied in the biographies of the schemers whose histories he has limned with consummate terseness and ability. Of course Mr. Wiman's main object in appealing through this pamphlet to men, many of whom have known and esteemed him for the past forty years, was to vindicate his character, which has never had a stain upon it during a long and active public life. That he has more than vindicated it by the new documents alone he has submitted to the public in the appendix to his pamphlet, and the logical application he has made of all the facts, no honest and impartial reader will fail to appreciate. Upon all the facts in connection with the Mutual Telegraph schemes the pamphlet sheds a flood of light, supported by the most absolute and convincing proof. In the whole matter Mr. Wiman has achieved a legitimate triumph. It is true that the pamphlet is only small in size, but it contains a greater amount of information than is found in many a larger volume, simply because the contents have been well digested and condensed, so as to occupy the smallest possible space. In the latter respect, Mr. Wiman's early journalistic training and experience are clearly discerned. We will return to the subject ; it is one in which the public is deeply concerned, and as the pamphlet contains chapters full of the highest interests to Canadian investors and capitalists, we will lay all their salient features before our readers hereafter."

SUNSHINE AND STORM.

They stood upon the shore, the summer breeze
Rippled the bosom of the deep blue sea,
And whispered gently o'er the distant trees,
Where the birds warbled love songs gay and free:
And on the shore the waves broke playfully,
Kissing the golden sand beneath the feet
Of three now met to part—a loving three,
Brave husband, wife so fair, and child so sweet,
Parting with fond regret, never again to meet.

The tear adown her cheek did gently glide
As fondly to his loving arm she clung,
While tenderly he clasped her to his side,
And kissed the babe, as round his neck it hung.
Such holy love was by God's angels sung
When new-born earth echoed the happy lays
That first in Eden's smiling garden rung;
While godlike men, in those unclouded days,
With hearts by sin unstained, "hymned the Creator's praise."

. . . . . .

But now his ship has sailed across the main.
And for Old England sets her sails once more,
He thinks to see his loved ones soon again,
To meet them happy as they were before;
But as he nears the dearly wished-for shore,
The evening sky, erstwhile so free of clouds,
Begins to darken and the wind to roar;
Wave upon wave in angry tumult crowds,
And darkness like a pall the autumn landscape shrouds.

Stout hearts grew faint upon that storm-tossed ship.
Yet there was no wild terror or dismay;
But earnest prayers trembled on many a lip,
That God—the widow's shield, the orphan's stay—
Would guide their dear ones on life's weary way.
Their waiting wives stood weeping on the shore.
What could weak woman do but hope and pray
That God, amid the wild waves' deafening roar,
Would speak and calmly bid the ocean roar no more.

And so in sorrow passed the dreary night;
But day can weeping hearts with no hope fill.
The rising sun breaks through the cold gray light.

OVER FEEDING WITH HAY.

Now that cows are about going into winter quarters, a hint about feeding hay may not be out of place. We often hear dairymen talk as if the height of skill in taking care of cows in the winter, was to get all the hay down that it is possible to cram into them. "I give my cows all the good hay I can get them to eat," is the boastful remark often heard from a spirited and aspiring dairyman, though in doing so he is wasting good provender without promoting the best welfare of his animals. It is a good thing to feed cows well, and to be sure that they have food enough to sustain them fully, but it is neither wise nor economical to crowd them with a great bulk of hay of any quality. It is not wise to crowd any animal with a great bulk of coarse food. A horse will do more work and do it easier, on moderate feeds of hay, than he will to crowd him with all that can be got down him. It is burdensome for him to move or exert his muscles with an over distended stomach, and the too large ration will not be digested so well as a smaller one. These objections are more emphatically true with cows. It is the nature of ruminants to hurry down large meals when opportunity occurs, and to lie by a long time to grind it over, a cud at a time, till it is well pulverised. If palatable food is offered to them, they will take one meal after another, in such quick succession, as to give very little opportunity for remastication, and the successive meals of half-ground food will be crowded out of the rumen, one after another, imperfectly digested for the want of being properly pulverised. In this course of feeding the double loss from discomfort and imperfect digestion is forcibly felt. Cows should have no more hay than they have time to remasticate, and if this is not enough for their necessities, they should have some easy digesting concentrated food along with it. The quantity of hay given should never exceed what they will eat up clean, and twice a day is often enough to give time for properly ruminating.

WHEN TO FEED GRAIN TO HORSES.

Horses are provided with an unusually large development of the salivary glands, and an enormous quantity of saliva is secreted during the eating of a feed of grain or hay. This copious supply of saliva is amply sufficient to moisten and dilute the food, so that it can be digested perfectly without the help of water. Water is absorbed by the coats of the stomach and enters the blood with such rapidity that a thirsty horse will drink more water than the stomach will contain at one time, and the water begins to pass off through the kidneys in such a case, after the lapse of a very few minutes. So that, knowing these facts, one may naturally infer that a horse may be watered a few minutes before feeding with greater advantage than soon afterward, because in the former case the water has been absorbed before the food is swallowed, and digestion cannot be interfered with by the presence of too much water in the stomach, as might happen in the latter case. The best practice is that usually followed, namely, to give the horse a very little water on starting out to work after feeding in the morning; to water on coming in at noon, and in the evening, before unharnessing and feeding. This gives time for the absorption of the water before the food enters the stomach.—Ex.

COWS FOR THE DAIRY.

It would not pay to buy costly cows for dairy purposes; that is, as a business. If a person for his own gratification will ignore the earning of interest on his investment, he may be paid in that way for the keeping of a herd of choice pure-bred Jerseys or Ayrshires, but he will not get one cent more for the milk or butter in the market. A grocer won't give a cent for the pedigree of the cows which produce the butter he buys. Quality is all he wants, and common cows, well selected, will yield just as good butter as any pure-bred cows, and as much on the average. Therefore, for profit, one should pick up a herd of the best native cows he can find at the common market price, feed them well and manage his business in the best manner, and he will have the same income as he could get from the same number of cows that would cost him five times as much.—Am. Dairyman.

THE TARIFF STRIPPED NAKED.

Stripped naked, an imposition of a tariff for protection simply means the levying of a tax upon the farmer and other consumers for the sole benefit of the manufacturers of the articles upon which the tariff is imposed. And, mark you, a tariff always increases the price of an article—reduces it, never! Kansas City Times.

DECREASE OF ENGLISH ACREAGE.

In a recent address before the London Statistical society, of which he is president, Mr. James Caird said that in the ten years ending with 1881, 928,000 acres of grain land and 228,000 acres of green crop land in Great Britian had been converted into permanent pasture, and that an annual return of £8,000,000 formerly derived from these crops had thereby disappeared. Mr. Caird attributed the agricultural depression, not to American competition, but to bad seasons. He considered that the burdens, difficulties and uncertainties of American agriculture would always place it at a disadvantage with British agriculture in the British market.

VALUE OF EXPERIMENTATION.

The man who drives ahead with his experiments is the man for the times. He is the man that all should honor, for he is risking his money and his labor for the general good. We should encourage him in his work, bearing in mind that the most crude experiments, made by even unthinking persons, have often been known to develop most astounding results for good. The field is wide, and, as yet, the laborers are comparatively few, especially in the country, and more especially in that portion of it now quite commonly mentioned as the south. The north has had a better working at the hands of agricultural and horticultural experimentists, the south is awating her turn.

THE UNITED STATES TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

Hon. Thomas B. Price, U. S. Treasury Department, Washington, D.C., U.S.A., recommends St. Jacobs Oil as the most wonderful pain-relieving and healing remedy in the world. His testimonial is endorsed by some of the head officials of the Treasury Department, who have been cured of rheumatism and other painful complaints by it.

From Rev. H. L. Gilman, of Glover, Vt. "I have been troubled for several years with a difficulty of the heart and lungs, have applied to several physicians for help, and have tried almost every remedy recommended, without receiving any assistance; but had been growing weaker and weaker, until, hearing of Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry about a year since, I commenced using it, with immediate relief. It has not only restored my lungs to a sound state, but I am entirely relieved of the difficulty or disease of the heart. I have no hesitation in saying that it is the best lung medicine before the public; and I cheerfully and conscientiously recommend it to all persons suffering from pulmonary complaints." Fifty cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by dealers generally.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung disease by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medical properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent by letter, and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souviele's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aids Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. 48-1y

How Lost! How Restored!

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

ONE OF THE SADDEST LETTERS EVER WRITTEN.

[Utica Observer.]

A child of Mrs. Courtney, who keeps house in the jail, interested Edward Earl, the condemned wife-murderer, and inspired him to write the following a day or two before his execution:

"As I sit at my window and look out on the beautiful earth, things seem changed—different from what they were a month ago; the people seem more kind; the sun shines brighter; every mouthful of fresh air tastes sweeter, and is breathed with a thankfulness I never felt before. No—it is not that I have changed; those leaves, a month ago, were green. Now they are falling to the earth, and I know that before the last one drops I will fall and lie lower than they.

"That little five-year old playing opposite my window is changed—a month ago she would not speak to me; now she is using all her little arts to attract my attention, and will cry when we are separated. She lives in the house with me, and every fair day she seats herself on the grass beneath my window, and we play 'keep house:' 'she makes believe she is my little girl come to visit me; I 'make believe' she is, but it's a sad play for me.

'To-day she has been telling me that Pinkey (her doll) is very sick—teeth bother her—but its September now; when its gets to be October Mary Pinkie will be well again, then I must come down and swing, and that will be, oh, so nice. I promise to be there; she laughs, thinking I am 'making believe.' We both laugh, there is music in her laughter—a tear in mine, but, when it is erected, I will be there—and swing.

"EDWARD EARL."

DOMESTIC DIFFICULTIES.

"Say, Mister. I want a warrant right quick!" exclaimed an irate woman, as she dashed into the police headquarters yesterday afternoon.

"What do you want a warrant for?" asked the sergeant.

"For my servant girl. Has she any right to chase me round the house with a clothes-pole?"

"Certainly not."

"That's what I thought. Which of us has the right to eat at the first table, she or me?"

"Why you of course."

"So I supposed. I want to know if I have got to sleep on the back fence with cats four nights in the week while she gives parties in the kitchen?"

"Assuredly not. Why don't you discharge her?"

"I can't get near enough. Say, does the law justify her in using my false teeth to draw carpet tacks and making me shine around with nothing on but a hairpin and a sore throat, while she wears my clothes to a wake?"

"I don't believe it does."

"So I concluded. Give me a warrant."

"Can't get any warrant here. You'll have to go before the judge in the morning."

"Will, eh! Well, I won't. If you think I'm going to waste any more of my time lawing with that girl you're daft. To-morrow morning the oil can will be left along side the stove, and if you find a job lot of legs and a backbone around your precinct, you may make up your ideas that the girl is out of a job and I'm busy collecting insurance. You hear this twittering?"

And she left the sergeant wondering if dynamite would have any effect on a girl who could get the best of that woman.

THE SOCIETY BOY.

(From the Brooklyn Eagle.)

The other evening there was a little company up on Dayton street, and during the entertainment the hostess dragged her little boy to the front to "speak a piece."

"Come, Johnny, like a good boy, and speak 'Mary's Little Lamb' for the ladies and gentlemen."

Johnny knew that there was remuneration in the back ground, and the preliminaries having been arranged in an undertone, she slicked his hair and he commenced:

"Mary had a little fleece,
Its snow was white as wool,
And every time that Mary lambed
That fleece would go to school."

"Now, now, Johnny," said his mother, "you know that isn't right. Say it just as you did this afternoon, and I'll"—here she broke into a maternal whisper, and the boy commenced again:

"Mary had a little lamb,
Whose white was snow as fleece,
And everywhere that Mary went,
The lamb would go a piece."

"Johnny! Johnny!" chided the mother, "that isn't right. Speak it right this time. The ladies and gentlemen never heard it. Now go on."

Once more the little fraud went at it:

"Mary had a little snow,
Its fleece was lined with white,
And everywhere the lamb would go,
Mary was sure to bite."

"What a naughty boy!" exclaimed the proud mother, who had been training the child all the afternoon for this display. "Now speak it right, or mamma won't kiss you when you go to bed."

Thus prepared, the boy perpetrated himself once more:

"Mary had a little wool,
Its fleece was lined with snow,
And every one that Mary fleeced,
The white was sure to show."

"I'm ashamed of you Johnny, that you don't speak right! You must do it this time, or mamma will have to punish you."

"I won't!" bawled the little urchin.

But his mother promised him some additional candies or buns, or something that had the great social advantage of lying heavily on his stomach, and the little wretch began:

"Mary had a little school,
Its snow was fleece as lamb,
And everywhere that Mary went,
You'd surely find that ram."

Then the guests very properly interfered, and said it was a shame to torment the sweet child. He had done nobly, and should have his pay right off.

He had the candies and buns, and his mother packed him off to bed, while the company found solace in the reflection that before morning he would probably be crying with the stomach-ache and writhing under the nightmare.

Fun in the family: Snickerson came into the house last evening with a three inch and a half smile playing upon his countenance. "Huldah," said he, "when was beef the highest? When the cow jumped over the moon. Ha! ha! ha!" "There, there," said his wife, "just hold that expression a minute. It reminds me of your great grandfather's looks when he had to laugh at that self-same joke." Snickerson simply retaliated by referring to his wife's "good memory for one who likes to be thought young," and dropped the laugh.

TEAS! TEAS!

CHINA and JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic use, there is none perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand in the aggregate than TEA.

Notwithstanding the increased demand yet the price of TEAS is lower to-day than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have procured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

FIRST:—A more extended and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea producing countries.

SECOND:—Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and

THIRD:—Increased and closer competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grade, modes o adulteration, and tests for detection, see "ads" to follow.

Meantime we offer JAPAN TEA at 40c. per pound. NONE BETTER. TRY IT!

Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

IT is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

THE "POST'S" HOLIDAY NUMBER.—We have received the holiday number of the Lindsay Post, and must congratulate our friend Barr on the large advertising patronage extended to him by the enterprising and wide-awake business men of Lindsay. No better medium could be used than the Post, and its advertising supplements.

HIGH SCHOOL TRUSTEES.—We have been requested to call the attention of the Mayor and town council to the following clause in the school law:—That the town council shall appoint two trustees to fill the vacancies caused by the annual retirement of that number of trustees from the high school or collegiate institute board, at the last meeting to be held in the month of December.

OUR HOLIDAY NUMBER.—The Lindsay Post in noticing our holiday supplement says:—The Christmas edition of the Peterborough EXAMINER is to hand. It is a fine large sheet, with a goodly proportion of reading matter appropriate to the season. What the merchants of Peterborough don't know about advertising can be easily and well learned by applying to the EXAMINER.

CONCERT. The concert given in aid of St. John's S.S. last Thursday was financially a good success. Although the evening looked somewhat disagreeable, there was a large and appreciative audience. The programme which was long and varried, was in itself a model of neatness. The principle performers were the Misses Roper, Mrs. Blackwell, Mrs. R. H. Dennistoun, Miss Haultain, Miss Tate, Miss Wallis, and Messrs. Belcher, Brown, Haultain, Elliott, Davis and Heathfield. Perhaps the most happy selection on the programme was a piano duet from William Tell, by Miss Wallis and Mr. Heathfield.

AN OLD SETTLER GONE.—Mr. Wm. Forster, one of the oldest settlers in North Monaghan, passed away on Sunday last in his 81st year. Mr. Forster was a native of Northumberland, England, and was born in 1801. He came to Canada in 1832, and settled on the farm where he died. At eighteen years of age he became a member of the Methodist church, and in the early history of this county he was one of the local preachers. He was a very industrious and careful citizen and a civil and respected neighbour, as was shown by the large number of people who attended his funeral. He leaves four sons and four daughters. He was a warm supporter of the present Dominion Government.

TEA MEETING.—A very enjoyable tea meeting was held last Monday, in Fraserville, by the Methodist church—Mr. Manning, pastor, presided. There was a very large attendance. A numerous crowd from Peterborough took advantage of the chance to relieve the monotony of the town and had a jolly time. Tea was served from 3 o'clock p.m., until about 7 p.m. All the delicacies of the season in the shape of Christmas cakes, tarts, pies, &c,. were well represented, and disappeared with amazing rapidity. After the several parties had tea they adjourned to the church where a musical and literary entertainment was given. Mr. Smith, of Mt. Pleasant, the Messrs. Hutchings, Mr. Strike, the Messrs. Walsh, Mr. Anderson, of Millbrook, and Mr. Guillet favored the audience with choice selections. Rev. Mr. Workman, of Peterborough, and the Rev. Mr. Bennett, of Springville delivered short and pithy speeches. The meeting broke up about nine o'clock, and reflects high credit both on the pastor, Mr. Manning, and the members of his church who worked so well and so successfully.

NOMINATION DAY.

Monday last was nomination day, and although a public holiday very few of the ratepayers attended the places appointed in the different wards in town to hold the nominations and elections, and as a consequence the proceedings passed off without any excitement. For some time past it was generally thought that all the old representatives would be returned by acclamation, and with the exception of one or two cases no new names were mentioned. However, the calls for nominations were amply responded to in the different wards, and from the list of candidates, as will be seen from a perusal of the names, the ratepayers will have no trouble in choosing "good men and true" from those nominated.

THE MAYORALTY.

One of the best proofs of a satisfactory stewardship was shown Mr. Mayor Smith by his re-election, without opposition, to the chief post of honor among the municipal offices, and it must be extremely gratifying to that gentleman to know that his actions during the year of his incumbency as Chief Magistrate was such as to merit a renewal of the trust reposed in him. He was proposed by Mr. William Logan and seconded by Mr. John Lynch, and at the expiration of the hour for receiving nominations, no other having been proposed, he was declared by the Returning Officer, Mr. C. D. Macdonald, Town Clerk, elected Mayor for the year 1882.

Mr. Smith, on rising to return thanks for the honor conferred upon him, alluded to the principal questions of interest which had come before the Council during the past year, particularly the matter of the bonus to the Toronto and Ottawa railway, which the town had got relieved from paying; the subject of market tolls, upon which legislation would be passed during the coming session of the Ontario Legislature; and the important question of the establishment of a town park, or suitable place for agricultural, cricket and lacrosse grounds. He gave an extended financial review of town affairs during the past nine years, and compared Peterborough's assessment—the lowest by a large margin—with a surplus of $2,000, to those of other towns and cities of Ontario. He spoke of the necessity of earnest endeavor to secure for Peterborough the location of the Midland Railway workshops. Other towns were using every endeavor to secure them, and as their location meant the employment of from three to four hundred skilled mechanics, whose earnings would be spent here, the citizens should allow nothing to be undone to secure them. He favored the filling in of Spaulding's Bay, and thought a portion of the work might be undertaken this year and completed hereafter. The property thus acquired could be easily disposed of, and while doing away with what was now charged as being the cause of so much malarial fever, would benefit the town financially. After alluding to some minor matter he again thanked the electors and took his seat.

A PUBLIC MEETING should be called of the citizens of every city, town and village in the Dominion, to consider what should be done to prevent the hair from turning Grey—and falling out. If this important question received their earnest consideration they would unanimously decide that science had at last discovered something that would answer this purpose—and furthermore would recommend Cingalese Hair Renewer as being this something for restoring the hair to its natural color, and prevent its falling out. 50 cents per bottle. 47-1y

ONCE MORE IN HIS GLORY.

Jim is Back to his Old Stand again, and is going to make it Hot for the Boys for the next Six Weeks.

James Dolan last week terminated one of the most successful sales ever held in the Town of Peterborough. On the 1st of February he goes into an entirely different line of business, but in the meantime to keep moving, he has bought out the balance of stock held by T. Dolan & Co., in their old store, Burnham's Block, and has also effected the purchase in Toronto of several bankrupt stocks. He has placed the entire lot in the corner store and will sell at prices never before heard of in Peterborough. He feels confident that he can give goods 10 per cent lower than the lowest quotations of uptown dealers. Recollect the sale is a thoroughly honest one, as the goods must be sold, close buyers will find it worth their best attention to call and inspect. Remember the corner, Burnham's Block, corner of George and Simcoe Streets. A full staff of salesmen are engaged for the occasion, so that all customers will be properly waited upon. Store will close every day from 12 to 12.30 o'clock, to give the staff time to have lunch. 51-2t

Advice

"Whatever you do, do it Quickly."

This maxim applies to many things, but to none more emphatically than the purchase of a

WINTER SUIT!

People may wonder these frosty mornings why they feel the cold so keenly, and they may continue wondering until they have come and ordered from us a

WARM SUIT and an OVERCOAT!

and discarded the linen duster they have been wearing since summer.

Every man can afford to buy a SUIT from us, because we have them at prices to suit the pockets of everyone.

No establishment gives better satisfaction, with this understanding customers select from our goods and order with the knowledge that if they change their minds afterwards—which they never do—they can bring back the clothes and have their money.

The belief is current, and is warranted by the facts, that if we have not what you want, and at right prices, you cannot secure it elsewhere.

The sale of Overcoats still continues, those in need of one will do well to call early.

MASONIC.

After the installation of the Masonic officers the members adjourned into the Foresters Hall, which had been granted for the occasion, and proceeded to partake of a supper laid out in Mrs. Baptie's best style. After justice had been done to the good things provided, a couple of hours were spent in music, songs and toasts, which was enjoyed by all present until the Junior Warden's toast, "Happy to meet, sorry to part, happy to meet again," warned all present that the evening had come to an end, but before leaving all united in singing "God Save the Queen."

X-MAS TREE.

An X-mas tree, under the auspices of the Methodist Church Sunday School, was given in the P. C. A. Hall last Friday evening. The first part of the evening was spent with music readings, songs and dialogues, which were above the average, and were appreciated by the well-filled hall; but, in regard to the X-mas tree, we regret we cannot say so much. An X-mas tree is usually understood as being meant for the children, but here it has for the last year or two degenerated into a vulgar means of giving several of our wealthy families a chance to try and rival each other in their gifts, and to exhibit to their less wealthy neighbors, articles only afforded by well-lined purses, causing heart-burnings and jealousy among the older ones, and disappointment and dissatisfaction among the younger, who cannot understand why the gifts from the tree should not fall to the lot of all alike.

X-MAS.

Monday was generally observed as a holiday in the village. As there was no sleighing things were not as lively as is generally the case. Skating, shooting for turkeys, calling, and attending the nominations passed the day; some parties even went up the lake in their canoes for a sail, it was so mild—rather unusual, especially as Vennor predicted a stormy X-mas.

THAT MURDER CASE.

We have been unable to obtain any further particulars in regard to the reported case of murder in the back country, other than that it did not take place in the shanty at Beaver Creek, but one further back, and that the murdered man's name was Sid Aker.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE ELECTION.

The annual meeting for the election of School Trustees for the Lakefield School Board was held in the Council Chamber on Wednesday the 28th instant, at noon. Mr. Wm. Cox had resigned, and Messrs. Sanders and Clarin were the retiring Trustees, Mr. Clarin declining to stand again. Moved by Mr. Isaac Watson, seconded by Mr. Doman, that Mr. Sanders be re-elected as Trustee for the ensuing term. Moved by Mr. Clarin, seconded by Mr. J. C. Sherin, that Dr. Caldwell be a trustee for the ensuing term. Moved by Mr. R. Graham, seconded by Mr. Wm. Cox, that Mr. W. G. Wallace be a Trustee for the ensuing term. Moved by Mr. Sanders, seconded by Mr. Doman, that Dr. Armour be a Trustee for the ensuing term. Moved by Mr. Galvin, seconded by Mr. Isbister, that Mr. J. Clarin be a Trustee for the ensuing term. Motion withdrawn. Moved by Isaac Watson, seconded by Dr. Bell,—That Mr. Robert Graham be a Trustee for the ensuing term. Motion withdrawn. Very little interest was taken in the proceedings, only 11 ratepayers being present, but some good men are standing and there should be no difficulty in making a choice. The elections yesterday resulted in Mr. Sanders and Dr. Caldwell being elected.

VILLAGE STATISTICS.

The following is the return of births, deaths and marriages registered in the Clerk's office for the past half year. Some parties have not yet registered births, and can only blame themselves if they are called before one of our J. Ps.:—Births, 15; deaths, 5; marriages, 9.

NEW COUNCIL.

The election for Councillors to represent the village during 1882 took place in the Council Chamber on Tuesday, Mr. W. C. Sanders being Returning Officer, and Mr. Charles Payton, Poll Clerk. Not very much interest was taken in the election, still 135 votes were polled, which is large considering the number absent in the shanties. At the close the vote stood as follows:—Wm. Cox, 106; John Hall, 97; John McWilliams, 73; Richard Hill, 66; T. G. Nelson, 53. It will be seen that Mr. McWilliams is the only old Councillor returned, Messrs. Garbutt and Horner declining to stand.

SPECIAL MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD.

A special meeting of the Lakefield School Board was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday evening, the 3rd instant. Present,—Messrs. Cox, Sanders, Clarin and Isbister. Moved by Mr. Sanders, seconded by Mr. Isbister, that Mr. Cox be allowed to withdraw his resignation.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Sanders, seconded by Mr. Isbister, that Miss Keele, of Peterborough, be and is hereby engaged as a teacher for the 4th department at a salary of $300 per annum.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Clarin, seconded by Mr. Cox, that the Board do now adjourn.—Carried.

ENTERTAINMENT.

An entertainment was given by members of the English Church, in the P. C. A. Hall, last Thursday evening, for the benefit of the church funds. The programme consisted of songs, readings and concluded with a farce, entitled "Domestic Economy." It passed off very well, being on the whole up to the average of usual village entertainments.

NEW YEARS DAY

passed off as Christmas did, in a very quiet manner. Very few people were in from the country, the only thing to cause any stir being the Municipal election, and the ballot has taken away all chance for excitement. Private parties in the evening, with skating by moonlight, brought the day to a close.

The traffic returns of the Midland and Grand Junction Railways for the week ending Dec. 7, 1881, were as follows:—

MIDLAND RAILWAY.—Passengers and mails, $2,517.50; freight, $3,279.83; total, $5,797.33, as compared with $3,853.03 for the corresponding week of 1880, being an increase of $1,944.30; and the aggregate traffic to date is $382,522.37, being an increase of $80,488.50 over 1880.

GRAND JUNCTION RAILWAY.—Passengers and mails, $727.26; freight, $926.09; total, $1,653.95, as compared with $903.73 for the corresponding week of 1880, being an increase of $750.22; and the aggregate traffic from 1st June to date is $83,973.10, being an increase of $34,774.96 over 1880.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

MASONIC.

At the meeting of Norwood Lodge A. F. and and A. M., No. 223, held on the festival of St. John, the Evangelist, the following brethren were duly installed into office:—

W. Bro. W. E. Roxburgh	W.M.
Bro. S. J. Griffin	S.W.
" Thos. Rorke	J.W.
" Rev. W. A. Pattyson	Chap.
" Thos. Burke	Sec.
W. Bro. Stephenson	Treas.
Bro. S. P. Ford, M. D.	S.D.
" A. McMillan	J.D.
" Thos. Fraser	D. of C.
" P. W. Reynolds	S.S.
" W. H. Minaker	J.S.
" John Harper	J.G.
" J. Powell	Tyler.

In the evening, on the close of the Lodge, the members adjourned to one of the ante-rooms, where, under the supervision of stewards P. W. Reynolds and A. McMillan, an ample spread of oysters and other inviting condiments were prepared for the refreshment of the brethren. After partaking plentifully of the luscious bivalves, a couple of hours were pleasantly spent, as members of the mystic tie only know how to do such things. During the evening, the departure of Bro. Archibald Fowler was feelingly alluded to, and the hope expressed that he would reach the top rung of the ladder of prosperity in the Prairie Province, whither it is his purpose of removing. The members separated with the old Masonic maxim, "Happy to meet, sorry to part, and happy to meet again."

THE ELECTION.

Our great municipal election, which was expected to revolutionize our great and unostentatious borough, is over, and things remain just about as they were. Truly, some new blood has been diffused among the old councillors, but the head and body of the old council board remains intact and unshaken. The men who received the most abuse have received the fullest approbation of the ratepayers on their past conduct in office, by obtaining the largest number of votes; and although our six-foot sidewalks require six-foot ladders to climb upon them, still the people want more of the walks which have been the cause of much abuse and criticism. Verily, it is hard to please the multitude. However, the questions which have agitated the public mind here for the past couple of weeks, will furnish the new council with plenty of food for their studious digestion, and give them plenty of work to do during their municipal meditations. The close of the poll stood thus:—For Reeve, J. B. Pearce, 78; John Finlay, 50; majority for the former, 28. For councillors, S. J. Griffin, 87; D. Foster, 73; John McMillan, 65; D. Askey, 63; Jas. Starr, 56; H. Reynolds, 53; Denis Mahony 39. The first four named being the councillors elect; not a bad choice either. As soon as the state of the ballot was announced, much enthusiasm prevailed; and after the several candidates had thanked the electors for their kindness in returning and not returning them, the whole adjourned to other quarters to further discuss the topics of the day.

THE ASPHODEL ELECTION.

Norwood was also the centre of attraction of the great municipal battle, hotly waged, in our mother township, and the skirmishing, hither and thither, through out the day, indicated the heat and strength of the contest. The main struggle was between the east and west of the township, but the centre having thrown heavy reinforcements into the east during the afternoon, the latter, after a tough struggle, proved victorious, and at the close of the poll it was found that Asphodel declared in favor of its former Reeve, Mr. T. Rorke, by a majority of 32 over his opponent, Mr. F. Birdsall; while Mr. John Walsh headed the poll over his opponent, Mr. C. O'Rielly, for the Deputy-Reeveship, by a majority of 185. There was an hilarious time spent in the evening, and so great was the enthusiasm of the township electors that they nob-nobbed fraternally with those of the village. A huge bon-fire brilliantly illuminated our principal square, and other demonstrations of joy were brought into requisition to feed the exultations of the victory. At the election it was decided to hold, permanently, the meetings of the Council in Norwood, the ratepayers deciding in favor of this measure by a majority of twenty-two. This result also added to the enthusiasm of the hour.

BELMONT ELECTION.

Mr. William Burgess has been elected by a majority of 63 over his opponent, Mr John Brown. The Councillors elect are John Anderson, J. E. Wilde, John Bonar and E. D. Boyd.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY.

A happy time was spent on Monday evening at Mr. Thomas Parker's, about a mile east of the village, on the occasion of the first anniversary of the Sunday School there. This school, by the kindness and zeal of Mrs. Parker, was only commenced about a year ago, with but few scholars, and in one small room in her house. Now, she has placed at the disposal of the officers of the school an adjacent building, which they have, with an enterprising spirit and zeal for Sunday School work, worthy of them, improved and furnished with the necessary requisites for carrying on their good work. The evening was devoted to recitations, readings, dialogues, &c., the musical part of the programme being efficiently presided over by Miss Katie Buck. The programme was a good one, and ably and satisfactorily rendered by all the participators.

RESTORED TO HIS USUAL HEALTH.—From James Mitchell, a well-known manufacturer at Springfield, Vt. "Several years ago I was attacked with a severe lung difficulty, which was quite alarming. I had severe night sweats, and all the premonitary symptoms of consumption. After having tried several remedies and the skill of physicians without benefit, I was induced to use Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, the first bottle of which afforded immediate relief; and a continuance of its use soon restored me to my usual health. For twenty-five years past it has never failed to afford entire satisfaction in all cases of colds, or any throat and lung difficulties. I know of no medicine its equal." 50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by dealers generally.

Munro & Alexander will have the Nicest Millinery Room in Peterboro', when in their New Store. Mantles and Mantle-making will receive a very large share of their attention.

A lad about 17 years of age, son of Samuel Jackman, of Bowmanville, was out shooting the other day in company with another lad. The gun of the latter was in some way accidently discharged and the whole contents were lodged in Jackman's back. The boy at present is in a fair way to recover.

A man named Humphreys started from Monmouth to come to Haliburton and lost his way in the woods. For three days he wandered through the forest without food and exposed to the inclemency of the weather. When found he was on the point of perishing. Another night in the woods would have terminated his existence. He was brought in and carefully cared for and next day was greatly recovered.

Mr. S. Barclay, of Ops, has purchased from Mr. W. Isaacs, of Rice Lake, a magnificent three-year old bull, which was imported as a calf from Scotland. "Statesman I," was bred by Mr. J. Campbell, of Kinellar, Aberdeenshire, and is of a beautiful dark red color, with one or two white spots. He is of fine bone and remarkably symmetrical form. Mr. Barclay's enterprise in improving stock deserves, and will no doubt receive, liberal support from the farmers of the neighborhood.

The man Johnston or Tower, at present in gaol at Cobourg, charged with an attempted indecent assault upon a young girl at Campbellford recently, has a horrible record. It is said that his real name is Townley, and that he hails from Belleville. If this identification is correct, he has been in gaol twice already for the same kind of crime, and on one occasion he received twenty lashes, and on the other a second and severer application of the cat-o'nine-tails. It does not appear to have done him any good. Once he attempted an assault upon a young woman on Baker's Island, and but for the darkness, which aided his escape, he would have been lynched. Hanging would do him a great deal of good.

Excellent reasons exist why Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil should be used by persons troubled with affections of the throat or lungs, sores upon the skin, rheumatic pain, corns, bunions, or external injuries. The reasons are, that it is speedy, pure and unobjectionable, whether taken internally or applied outwardly.

O. Bortle, of Manchester, Ontario Co., N. Y., writes:—"I obtained immediate relief from the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. I have had Asthma for eleven years. Have been obliged to sit up all night for ten or twelve nights in succession. I can now sleep soundly all night on a feather bed, which I had not been able to do previous to using the Oil."

FREE OF COST.—All persons wishing to test the merits of a great remedy—one that will positively cure Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, or any affection of the Throat and Lungs—are requested to call at Taylor & Macdonald's Drug Store and get a trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, free of cost, which will show you what a regular dollar-size bottle will do.

Scotchmen in Canada are receiving deservedly high encomiums from Royalty. At the St. Andrews celebration in London, the Duke of Albany spoke of Scottish enterprise and energy in Canada, evidences of which he had personally witnessed. The Duke of Edinburgh also referred to Scotch enterprise in the Dominion, and regretted the absence of the Marquis of Lorne from the celebration—an absence caused by domestic bereavements.

FARMERS AND MECHANICS.—If you wish to avoid great danger and trouble, besides a no small bill of expense, at this season of the year, you should take prompt steps to keep disease from your household. The system should be cleansed, blood purified, stomach and bowels regulated, and prevent and cure diseases arising from Spring malaria. We know nothing that will so perfectly and surely do this as Electric Bitters, and at the trifling cost of fifty cents a bottle.—Exch. Agents—Taylor and Macdonald.

The Princess Louise has been ordered by her physician to visit the south of France for her health, and the Marquis of Lorne will convey her there before starting in January for Canada. The Princess has contributed a sketch to a series of illustrations for an article on the revival of lace-making at Venice, which will appear next year in the "Century Magazine." The other sketches of the series are by Miss Clara Montalba, one of the strongest contributors to recent exhibitions at the Groevenor Gallery, in London, and a personal friend of the Princess.

MAD COMPETITION.—The publishers of the Globe are trying to crush out the country weeklies by offering a twelve page dollar weekly for an average price of 70 cents a year, not the actual cost of the white paper at the mill. The proprietor of the Mail is trying to crush out the daily press of the towns and cities of Ontario by sending out a one cent reprint of the Mail at 30 cents a hundred copies, also a less price than what the paper costs at the mill. And all the time the proprietor of the Mail is playing this cut-throat game he is selling, or trying to sell, the blank paper from his mill to these provincial dailies at a price greater than he sells the reprint of the Mail to the news agents. No wonder then, that the independent provincial daily and weekly press, irrespective of politics, are resenting the endeavor of these two journals to live and not let live.—Toronto World.

Farmers and Manufacturers.

The turn which the late election in West Northumberland has given to the discussion of the tariff question is full of significance. Some of the Conservative journals are candid enough to admit that the increased Conservative majority in the town of Cobourg, and the increased Liberal majority in the rural districts seem to indicate a tendency to the division of the community into two great classes, each actuated by self-interest in its attitude toward the tariff. In other words, they evidently dread the consequences to the Government if the farmers take it into their heads that the tariff is injurious to them, knowing well that the manufacturers and all the voters they can control will be of little avail against the strength of the farmers if the latter rise up in their might as a class against them. The amount of support the Government will be able to count on from the towns at the next election, will depend on circumstances, which may then tell as much against them as for them. If the cost of living goes on increasing as it has been doing under the present heavy rate of taxation, the whole wage-earning class may not unreasonably be expected to cast their votes in favor of reducing burdens, which the present enormous annual surplus shows to be to a large extent unnecessary. The town vote is therefore an unknown quantity, and, so long as this is the case, any appearance of defection amongst the farmers is viewed by the Conservative organs with great uneasiness.

That they are beginning to be thoroughly alarmed is manifest from their persistent efforts to convince the farmer, that the tariff is a decided benefit to him. He is told, when he is thought to be sufficiently stupid to believe it, that the grain duties have in some way brought him better prices for what he has to sell. When this piece of deception is not attempted, he is asked to believe that the effect of the tariff has been to increase the manufacturing industry of the country, thus affording him a better home market for his produce. But the day is now past when the farmers of Ontario can be humbugged in this way. They have learned pretty thoroughly the lesson that for all they have to sell of wheat and cattle, the prices of those staples at Liverpool regulate the prices they can obtain here, and the most inveterate Tory farmer knows perfectly well, that the price of Ontario barley is regulated by the demand for it in the United States. The duties on wool have been carefully arranged so as to allow the woollen manufacturer to import all the wool he wants free of duty, while the Government have perpetrated the farce of putting a duty on the kinds our farmers have to sell. With the exception of a few fruit-growers in Western Ontario, and a few market gardeners whose business is interfered with by the free importation of perishable products from the other side of Lake Ontario, there is no part of the agricultural community protected directly by the present protective tariff. The great bulk of the farmers are worse off on account of it even in what they have to sell.

On the other hand the tariff tends to render dearer almost everything they have to buy. The duties on cottons, woollens, sugar, dried and preserved fruits, agricultural implements, furniture, coal oil, and a host of other articles, including all manufactures of iron, tend to render them dearer and in the aggregate they add materially to the cost of farming and housekeeping. The duties on coal and iron have to be paid by every blacksmith, and he must either stand the loss himself or fix prices so that the farmer will bear it, and if any one thinks the loss thereby falls between the consumer and manufacturer, he is grossly unenlightened. All sales, merchants and mercenants who pay the duties on imports in the first instance, compel the farmer to pay them in the long run, and what the farmer does not pay the other labouring classes do. For all practical purposes the position of the lumberman is identical with that of the farmer. His axes, chains, camp blankets, oxen and all other articles belonging to his special outfit, are heavily taxed and thereby increased in price, while the price of his product, lumber in all its forms, is regulated by a foreign market, over which he has no control. If the farmers, as a class, have good reason to unite against the tariff, the lumberers, as a class, have just as strong a motive for joint action in the same direction, and it is the fear of what may result from such class combinations that is now rendering the Government and their organs uneasy.

There is a disposition in some quarters to blame the Liberal party for trying to set class against class in this way, but Liberals have a good right to retort that the making of class distinctions is not their doing. The farmers and other non-protected classes were told before the election of 1878, that they would be protected, and many of them believed what they were told. Times had been hard for them for several years and many of them favored the N. P. in a possible measure of relief. They have a good right to feel aggrieved now at the manner in which they have been treated. The effect of the tariff has been to add to the cost of almost everything they have to buy, and either leave unchanged or cut down the price of what they have to sell. They have not only not been protected, but money has actually been taken out of their pockets to be handed over to certain classes of manufacturers who have undoubtedly benefitted enormously by the tariff. Those who created this jug-handled state of affairs, not those who expose it, are responsible for setting class against class, and the longer the present iniquitous tariff is in force, the more marked will become the distinction between the farmers and lumberers on the one hand, and the manufacturers on the other.

Church Attendance.

In an editorial lately we drew attention to the large numbers in several English towns and in some of the cities of the United States, who were not regular attendants at any place of worship. Since then further returns have come to hand, showing, if possible, a still more unsatisfactory state of affairs. For this census of religious worship, which has been taken with great accuracy and completeness, we are indebted to the local press in the places named. It would be interesting and suggestive also if a like work were undertaken by the Canadian press. We assume that Canadians are, as a whole, a church-going people. Perhaps such statistics would open our eyes to the extreme heathenism of many towns, and stir up the clergy everywhere to greater zeal and efficiency in their important duties. It cannot be said even yet that the gospel has reached the masses and machinery seems still wanting to bring the male population to church. We subjoin the results of the census so far as they have come under our notice, merely explaining that the numbers given embrace all denominations. The present population of Sheffield, England, is 284,416, and it possesses 189 buildings for public worship. On the day the census was taken the total number of worshippers was 83,849. Leicester has a population of 122,000 with 85 churches, accommodating 49,800 persons. The attendance numbered 47,488 on the day the census was taken. Hastings has 47,616 inhabitants, 57 buildings and a total attendance at the morning and evening services of 21,958. Northampton has a population of 51,226; the total attendance was 21,934. Since 1851 the Independents and Baptists have not increased 10 per cent., while the Wesleyans have decreased 3 per cent., although the population has increased from 28,657 in 1851, to 51,226 in 1881. The Gloucester Journal says the total accommodation for a population of 36,310 is about 22,000 sittings, 10,055 being at church of England places of worship and 7,570 at non-conformist chapels. Bath has a population of 57,790, with 70 places of worship and 35,051 sittings. The number in attendance was 35,885. Cheshire returns show that out of a population of nearly 60,000 only some 12,000 persons attended the evening service and a less number were at church in the morning. There is accommodation here for about 22,000 persons. Warrington has a population of 40,960. It possesses 29 churches and these have accommodation for 13,650 persons. Only 11,476 attended any place of worship when the returns were made.

We forbear adding any remarks to the above array of figures. They are a sometwhat sad commentary on the enlightenment of the nineteenth century and to the enquiring and thoughtful mind must furnish food for grave and serious reflection.

COMING TO ITS SENSES.—The County Council of the County of Wellington is clearly coming to a sense of the eternal fitness of things when we find the following as part of its first day's proceedings:—Moved by Mr. Harcourt, seconded by Mr. Rudd, that the institution known as the Warden's supper be discontinued, as it has outgrown its usefulness. Mr. Leslie thought that the motion was out of order, and interfered with the liberty of the subject, and moved, seconded by Mr. Waters, that each member of the County Council be requested to go to bed every night at 9 o'clock, and no tramping be allowed. The motion was lost.

Notes and Comments.

Irish landlords are anxiously waiting the decision of the courts in the matter of the appealed rent cases. So long as they remain undecided the tenantry generally refuse to pay rent.

Liberalism in politics is on the increase the world over. The recent election in Brazil give the Liberals twenty-five majority over the Conservatives in the chamber of deputies. The cable reports that two of the defeated candidates were cabinet ministers who at once resigned their portfolios.

The Senior judgeship of the County of Hastings which has been vacant for some months, has just been filled by the promotion of Judge Lazier, the junior judge, to the position. From a party point of view, he fairly earned this promotion by counting out Mr. Aylsworth, the Liberal candidate, who defeated Mr. John White in East Hastings in 1878, dealing in the most extraordinary manner with the irregularly marked ballots in order to accomplish the feat. It is true that his decision was to some extent overruled by the Election Court, but only so far as to deprive Mr. White also of the seat, thus giving him the chance of contesting the constituency at a by election and with the Government influence in his favour. It will now be in order for the government to get the senior judge of Northumberland to retire, so that Judge Clark may reap, as soon as possible, his reward for the manner in which he has managed the Pacific Railway investigation.

The accounts from Ireland continue gloomy but the tenants cannot for long maintain their "no-rent" attitude. To do so would injure themselves eventually more than the landlords while it cannot settle the land question. If half the money now spent in trying to prevent the Land Act from being properly enforced were spent in taking surplus Irishmen over to America the difficulty would soon settle itself. They would soon do well here and that is what they never will do in their own country. Meanwhile the times are in favour of Mr. Gladstone's government which will probably turn its attention this session to the internal reforms. Franchise must be liberalised in the English counties and also in Ireland, and some measure of home rule should be granted to the latter country. Anything like complete legislative independence for Ireland is not likely to be conceded, but some control over local affairs might be granted to a home legislature with advantage to both countries, and to a reform of this kind Mr. Gladstone has already declared himself favourable. If he can do something to federalize the British constitution, and thus relieve the plethora of work in the Imperial Parliament he will fittingly crown a remarkable political career.

THE NEW LAND REGULATIONS.

The Government have issued new land regulations for Manitoba and the North-West. A new classification of the land is adopted, which may be stated briefly as follows:—A., lands within 24 miles on either side of the C. P. R. or its branch lines; B., lands within 12 miles of projected lines other than the C. P. R.; C., lands south of the main line of the C.P.R. not included in A. and B.; D., lands other than those in A., B. and C. The pre-emptions in class B. are within 12 miles of any projected line, instead of 24 miles as heretofore. Two plans of colonization are proposed under the new regulations, the second plan being for persons who desire to purchase larger farms than the first plan will allow to be purchased from the Government. Under the old regulations, half-price was to be paid for the lands thus sold, the penalty being the payment of the full amount in case the terms of sale were not complied with. By the new regulations, the full amount is to be paid and a rebate of one-half granted when the terms are complied with. Under the first plan, as before, two settlers have to be located on every section, and under the second the same principle is carried out, the number of settlers being 64 in each township. The provision for the purchase of wood lands is practically unchanged. The clauses regarding pasturage lands provide as before, that the leases shall not be for more than 21 years, and shall not cover more than 100,000 acres. A new provision is inserted, however, providing for the survey, at the cost of the lessee, of unsurveyed territory. The rental of these lands is placed at $10 per 10,000 acres, instead of $10 per 1,000 acres as heretofore. The conditions as to the placing of cattle are unaltered. The annual rental for the farm station property is placed at $2 per acre instead of $1.25. Where there is competition for any particular land tenders are to be invited, instead of its being put up at auction as the former regulations provided. An addition to the exceptions to these general regulations is made of lands required for town plots and mining lands.

With the new year, Ayer's American Almanac makes its customary appearance. It is a welcome visitor in every family. Its pages are replete with crisp medical advice, refreshing humor, and much information not usually found in such a work. Its astronomical calculations have a high reputation for accuracy, and they are adapted, in the various editions of the Almanac, to all parts of the globe. While a large portion of its pages are devoted to an elaborate advertisement of the medical preparations of this house, it is a noticeable feature that many prescriptions are freely given for the benefit of the sick, irrespective of Ayer's medicines. These preparations are universally used and appreciated for their valuable and reliable qualities. The almanac describes the application of these medicines to the diseases they are intended to cure. It can be obtained free of charge of any druggist or dealer in medicines.

The Napanee Express states that a bold attempt was made by a number of medical students to capture the body of the man Sterling, who died at Odessa a couple of weeks ago. They did not wait until after interment, but entered the house where the body was laid out, and attempted to carry it away by force. They had got the body outside of the house when some persons interfered and compelled them to relinquish it.

TEAS! TEAS!

CHINA & JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic consumption perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand than TEA.

Notwithstanding the present demand yet the price of TEAS never was lower than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have occured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

FIRST:—A more extensive and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea planting countries.

SECOND:—Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and THIRD:—Increased and fair competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grades, tests of adulteration, and tests for determining "value" to follow.

Meantime we offer JAPANESE at 50c. per pound. NONE BETTER TRY IT!

OUR TORONTO LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

TORONTO, Jan. 2

TORONTO CUSTOM HOUSE.

Mr. Patton, the Toronto collector, is a very honest and appreciable, but narrow-minded man. Unlike his predecessor, who made a very good collector, but not a very honest one, he can be trusted implicitly to render a strict account of all moneys passing through his office, but is forever obstructing work and getting into hot water on account of his red-tape proclivities. He put his foot in it by seizing goods well known banks ostensibly on the ground that they were obscene, but really because they were blasphemous and infidel in their character. The Government stood by him then, but will no doubt find some way of allaying the discontent amongst the freethinkers by tying his hands in the matter. Soon afterwards he fell out with the coal dealers, by holding them to the letter of their bonds on warehoused coal, instead of allowing them to pay duty on it only when they sold it, as they had always been accustomed to do. The dealers sent a deputation to Ottawa and the Minister of Customs granted their request, thus snubbing the Toronto collector. He has proved himself a thorough martinet in his office, and his conduct in this respect culminated in a refusal to allow the clerks a holiday on the Monday after Christmas, though it was well known that on account of its being a public holiday by proclamation no business would be done. The subordinates appealed to head-quarters, and, as the result, the custom house is closed to-day and the members of the staff are enjoying themselves like other people instead of kicking their heels in the office and cursing the collector. It is safe to predict that Mr. Patton will soon be superannuated though his appointment was made only a few months ago.

PREPARING FOR THE SESSION.

Some small repairs have been made in the interior of the Assembly Chamber and other parts of the Parliament buildings. Additional shelving has been put in the library and the post office has been enlarged. Dr. Harkin, who died of apoplexy last session, will be replaced in Prescott by Mr. Albert Hagor, ex-M. P., and Mr. Paxton, of North Ontario, by Mr. Medill, a change of political complexion in both cases. Mr. Moses Springer's genial face has disappeared and Mr. Snider's will appear in its stead, while "honest" John Rozevear is succeeded by Dr. Brereton, the new members in these two cases being of the same political complexion as the old ones. The precise nature of the change produced in the representation of West Peterborough, as the result of Mr. Scott's death, is not quite clear up here; perhaps your readers know more about it than we do. In any event the Government strength remains unimpaired as the result of the by elections. Railway matters bid fair to take up a large amount of attention during the session, and it seems to be settled that opposition to the Midland consolidation will be offered from some points, and especially from Lindsay. The project will be carried through, however, if the projectors desire it. On the other hand there will be a stern fight over the proposal of the Credit Valley and Toronto, Grey and Bruce, both Ontario lines, to amalgamate with the Great Western, that is if the parties owning these roads seek legislation to enable them to accomplish their ends. The chances are that they will prefer to fall back on some working arrangement and thus get rid of the difficulty. Some curiosity is felt as to the fate of the bill passed last session to relieve the county of York in the matter of a steam tramway on the Kingston road. A petition has been put in for its disallowance by the Dominion Government, and if Sir John wants to insure the election of three Liberals for the three Yorks at next election, he could not do better than sit on the bill.

MISCELLANEOUS.

For a session or two past the Public Accounts' Committee have been nibbling at the expenditures connected with the education depository without making any progress in developing their true inwardness. Disgusted with the evident unwillingness of some one to have doubtful matters closed up, several Liberal members of the assembly towards the close of last session waited on Mr. Crooks and asked him to have the accounts of the depository thoroughly investigated by a commissioner. He consented to do so and Judge Senkler, of Lincoln, has been appointed for the purpose. He begins his labors to-morrow at noon in the education department.

The weather, which was very soft and mild up to the close of the week, has become quite severe, but there is no sleighing. Business, however, is booming, and the importers are doing a splendid trade. The effect must be to largely increase the surplus and make it more of a burning question than it is even now.

Nothing has yet been decided about the Liberal candidature for East York. Mr. Mackenzie appears disposed to be guided by the action of his Lambton supporters who meet in convention a few days hence. The prevailing impression seems to be that he will run in East York.

Rev. Dr. Thomas, the Chicago expelled Methodist, has formed a People's Church and is preaching to twice as many people as before, for twice as much salary. The only creed the new organization holds is the Ten Commandments and the teachings of Christ.

LAW OF GENERAL COMPENSATION.

Mr. Vennor writes as follows, over date of Dec. 24th, 1881, to the Montreal Witness:—

The following may be of interest to those of your readers who watch the weather. It is an illustration of the manner in which the law of general compensation in our yearly weather log is fulfilled:—

The year 1875 entered cold and with plenty of snow; it went out mild and rainy.

The year 1876 entered mild and wet; it ended with heavy snow-storms.

The year 1877 entered snow and storm; it ended with mild and no snow.

The year 1878 entered cold and bare; it ended with plenty of snow.

The year 1879 entered plenty snow; it ended with mild and rainy.

The year 1880 entered mild and wet; it ended with cold and deep snow.

The year 1881 entered cold and deep snow; it ended with mild and no snow.

Thus 1882 entering, probably cold with but little snow, is likely to close with heavy snow-falls and bluster. In such a manner do I get at the first outlines of the weather in advance and consequently catch at the outline of the whole year by comparisons of a like nature too numerous to mention here. I would further remark that I changed my mild prediction for this December at the last moment and after the absence was in form, because I thought there were indications of the weather sliding into last year's groove, and because I inferred from the great and prevalent storms on the Atlantic and gales in the Gulf of St. Lawrence that December would give us rapid transitions from southerly to northerly winds. In this I was mistaken. You will now notice that the year will terminate or New Year enter with a fairly "cold dip," but their will be rains and slush in January again as in 1878.

HOW TO SHAKE HANDS.

(Nye's Boomerang.)

There are only two or three people now living who can successfully shake hands. There is a good deal of hand shaking done through the country, especially at this season of the year, but only a small per cent. of the shakers and shakees know how to do it so as to get the entire amount of exhilaration out of it. Some grab the hand of an adversary in a quick, nervous manner that scares the victim nearly to death, while others slide the cold and clammy paw at you so that you feel the same as when you drop a cold and raw oyster with vinegar on it down your back. If you are shaking hands with a lady, incline the hand forward with a soft and graceful yet half timid movement, like a boy climbing a barb wire fence with a fifty pound watermelon. Look gently in her eyes with a kind, pleading smile, beam on her features a bright and winsome beam, say something that you have heard some one else say on similar occasions, and in the meantime shake her hand in a subdued yet vigorous way, not as though you were trying to make a mash by pulverising her fingers, nor yet in too conservative a manner, allowing her hand to fall with a sickening thud when you let go. Care should be taken also not to hang on to it for more than half an hour in public, for passers might make remarks. This is now considered quite outre and mandamus.

A SENSE OF DOUBT.

How is it that whenever we are thrown into the company of a usually polite—an over polite—person we almost immediately distrust him? There comes to you, acting upon the nervous part of you, of which you know little, a sense of doubt.

You are not averse to good bearing and manners—nay, you like them; you even find it pleasant to receive compliments so readily and glibly offered to you; to see the amiable smile to watch the bowing head; and there is something in the scene of reverence and respect as expressed towards yourself by flattering to your amour propre. And yet in spite of it all you are not sure of your companion's honesty. You are inclined to suspect that there is something cynical behind that smile; something hollow at the back of the compliment, something unreal in the look of regard. And you do not know in the least why you have this feeling, only you feel it. At the same time you find it so agreeable to be made much of, to find your opinions suddenly of value (or assumed value) in the eyes of your fellow, that a lull to rest the spirit of doubt will rises within you, and resolve to have your new friend an exceedingly good and very delightful man. And I not say he is not. Home Journal.

CHRISTMAS ON SUNDAY.

It may be interesting for those who are fond of abstruse calculations wherein the dominical letter has a prominent part to be reminded that the occurrence of Christmas upon Sunday takes place four times in every twenty-eight years, after the expiration of every five, six, eleven and five years, respectively. Take, for instance, the year 1859 as a starting point. In that year Christmas came upon Sunday. The succeeding twenty-eight years during which Christmas has come and will come, upon Sundays were 1864-70, 1881 and 1887. Since we last celebrated a Christmas Sabbath eleven years have elapsed. In six years from this Christmas we will have another, and there will not again be an eleven years' skip until between 1910 and 1921. Owing to 1900 not being an actual leap year (though divisible by the figure 4, from 1872 to 1910 Christmas (and, of course, New Year also) falls on Sunday regularly every six years.

A LADY'S EXPERIENCE.

Mrs. T. A. Gist, No. 1,204 Walnut street, Philadelphia, Pa., writes:—"I had inflammatory rheumatism very badly. In one foot and ankle it seemed to have taken hold with the determination to stay some time; and the morning I obtained the St Jacobs Oil I could not put my foot down to the floor, even for an instant. I used it that evening for the first time, and the next morning for the second time, and that afternoon put my foot down for several minutes. On Sunday following I could stand up and walk a few steps. On Tuesday could walk about my room, and went down stairs by holding on to the bannisters. Now I can walk quite well, and there is very little pain left. Just think! one bottle and a half and I am almost free from pain. It is a wonderful medicine.

NO RISK.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL! WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD. DO YOU KNOW ANYTHING OF IT? IF NOT IT IS TIME YOU DID.

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common Sore Throat. One bottle has cured Bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old Standing Cough. One or two bottles cures bad cases of Piles or Kidney Troubles. Six to eight applications cure any case of Excoriated Nipples or Inflamed Breast. One bottle has cured Lame Back of eight years' standing. Daniel Plank, of Brookfield, Tioga Co., Pa., says: "I went thirty miles for a bottle of our Oil, which affected a wonderful cure of a Crooked Limb, by six applications."—Another who had had Asthma for years, says:—"I have half a bottle left, and $100 would not buy it if I could not get no more."—Rufus Robinson, of Nunda, N. Y., writes: "One small bottle of your Eclectric Oil restored the voice when the person had not spoken above a whisper for five years."—Rev. J Mallory, of Wyoming, N. Y., writes: "Your Eclectric Oil cured me of Bronchitis in one week."

It is composed of six of the Best Oils that are known. It is as good for internal as for external use, and is believed to be immeasureably superior to anything ever made. Will save you much suffering and many dollars of expense.

Beware of Imitations.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown in the bottle, and Take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE—Eclectric—Selected and Electrised

THE ALEMBIC OF THE BODY.—The stomach is the alembic of the human system. In it those wondrous chemical changes take place which result in the transmutation of food into blood. When it is vigorous the necessary processes of digestion and assimilation go on uninterrupted, and the system is suitably nourished. When it is feeble or disordered, they are obstructed, and being in consequence ill supplied with blood of a vitalizing quality, the physical organism becomes weak and feeble, the nerves suffer, the liver and bowels are semi-paralyzed, and appetite and sleep fail. These disastrous consequences may, however, be prevented, or remedied with the supreme stomachic and aperient, NORTHROP & LYMAN'S VEGETABLE DISCOVERY AND DYSPEPTIC CURE, a medicine of rare purity and efficacy, which reforms a disordered and repairs a weakened state of the digestive organs, overcomes biliousness, relieves the bowels when obstructed without straining or weakening them, and promotes the exit from the system of impurities which infect the blood, which cause serious organic maladies. No objectionable mineral contaminates it, and its value is not marred by a subsequent re-action prejudical to the general health. Far preferable is it to the ordinary nauseous drugs used to produce a similar effect, but which are frequently ineffective as well as unpleasant: nor is it a cheap and valueless medicine, puffed into existence. It is used for dyspepsia, biliousness, affections of the blood, kidney complaints, female weakness, lumbago, &c., and in all blood diseases it is unequalled. Price, $1.00. Sample Bottle 10 cents. Ask for NORTHROP & LYMAN'S Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. The Wrapper bears a fac simile of their signature. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Rest and Comfort to the Suffering.

"BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA" has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures Pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. It will most surely quicken the Blood and Heal, as its acting power is wonderful. "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixir or Liniment in the world, should be in every family, handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 6-1y

NOTICE.

WE are now balancing our books for the year of 1881 and desire all who have any accounts due to this office for subscription, printing or advertising, &c., to call in immediately and settle up. We do not intend and will not carry over into another year a lot of petty accounts which are owing to us and have not been paid through the thoughtlessness and negligence alone of the parties. It is an exploded idea that a printing office exists, "man knows not from whence," but they require the inevitable amount of solid cash to run the establishment with any degree of comfort and satisfaction. We would request all persons to "pay up" before we send out our accounts, as such an act on their part will benefit us greatly and will not discommode them excessively. As we have heretofore sent out some accounts and sufficient attention has not been paid to them, we now give notice that all such accounts will be placed in professional hands for collection. Such a mode of collection entails considerable expense to debtors and it is only as a last resort we like to make use of such means. We regret that we have had to collect accounts in court. We therefore hope that all will "come down" handsomely and save both themselves and this office unnecessary trouble.

Value of Leisure.

General Garfield delighted to dwell upon the thought of the value of leisure. Not idleness but the opportunity to improve the mind by self culture. His estimate of the value of leisure reminds us that there is a general failure to appreciate fully the advantages of winter, with its short days and long nights, and opportunities for study and culture at home. As a rule, through this season, the mechanic and farmer, the employer and employee, have more leisure than during the remainder of the year. All this spare time might be most profitably employed. Cheap books, periodicals and libraries, are accessible to all. A prearranged plan for home reading and study will be found as profitable and economical as in any other enterprise. If it is found that one or two hours daily, while the long evenings last, can be spared for general reading, it will be well to settle definitely beforehand the proportion of historical, scientific and light reading to be taken up, and then to select the authors in each branch. The farmer who would thus employ his leisure this winter in gaining information in horticulture, drainage, fertilizing and kindred subjects, would find himself amply rewarded not only in the pleasure afforded, but in the increased returns of his next crop. The mechanic will not find his time wasted who spends his evenings in study and experiment. To young men especially is this leisure a priceless opportunity. Many who are denied the chance of a liberal education in the schools, might yet secure at home what would be of equal value. And at no other season of the year is there as much unoccupied time or are the circumstances so favorable for study as during our long winter nights.

The Orillia Packet says:—A meeting of business men and others interested was held in Peterborough lately, to discuss the question of establishing car works in that town. One present mentioned having been in Orillia not long since, and noting the surprising growth of Ramsay's carriage works, an industry which must be of great benefit to the town. Another who claimed to travel to some extent, said that vehicles turned out from that establishment were to be seen everywhere. This compliment to Orillia enterprise was paid with no expectation of its gaining publicity.

Railroad Crossings.

Hardly a week elapses that the press is not called upon to chronicle the account of a serious and fatal accident having occurred at some railroad crossing in the Dominion. The number of victims thus swept almost into the eternity must be great even in one short year, and as the country is steadily increasing its network of iron roads the proportion is likely to become still larger. Of course some of these accidents are the result of carelessness on the part of those killed; in many cases, also, they are due to intemperance; in others to intractable and fiery horses. We do not believe that the train officials are to be always blamed, nor that even in a minority of the cases these unfortunate tragedies can be the result of carelessness or recklessness on their part. The crossings are often most unfortunately situated in places where danger can scarcely be avoided at times, even when the utmost care and vigilance is exercised. Sometimes scarcely any notice can be given until it is almost too late to escape a passing train. In proof of this we need only refer to those hair-breadth escapes in our own neighborhood, of which our readers have full cognisance.

Another sad accident occurred only last week to swell the total for the year 1881. A man and his wife were killed while crossing the Grand Trunk at the Kingston Road. The unfortunate woman, whose name was Valentine, was instantly killed; her husband only survived her a few minutes, and before his death suffered the most excruciating torture. In this case, it is alleged, neither the engine-driver nor the deceased saw the danger in time to avert it. The dying man declared he did not hear the engine coming nor any signal.

The spot where the accident occurred is a particularly dangerous one, since it lies just at the foot of the Scarborough grade, and trains bound east are compelled to rush down the incline at a very high rate of speed. More than a dozen persons, it is said, have been killed at the place, and yet there are no gates as at other dangerous crossings, and no night watchman.

Of course there will be an enquiry, and as a matter of justice the train officials, if blameless, will be exonerated. But will it also follow as a matter of course that steps will be taken to prevent a like occurrence in the future? Will the really blameworthy person be discovered? Will the railway or municipal authorities take proper means to guard against the impossibility of such a shocking tragedy being again enacted? We greatly doubt it.

Indeed, we believe such terrible occurrences will continue to take place throughout the Dominion until the railway authorities are compelled by law, to run all trains either under or over the ordinary carriage way, as in Britain. Matters will exist as now, and children will be made fatherless and wives widows, until the railroad companies are forced by legislation to take, in the way we have indicated, the best precautions to render their crossings absolutely safe. We should be glad to hear of an enquiry being made in Parliament respecting accidents at railroad crossings, and still better gratified if some friend to humanity would introduce a Bill compelling railroad authorities, at least in future, to erect bridges or construct tunnels where the municipal or county authorities demand that such a precaution is absolutely necessary.

Since writing the above we notice the Globe has an article on the same subject. In it the ground is taken that the Consolidated Railway Act provides sufficiently for the safety of passengers at crossings, and that all that is wanted is, to put existing laws in force. It is argued that railway companies would prefer to pay heavy damages occasionally, rather than be obliged to erect gates at crossings, and employ guards, so as to protect the general public, and that this is really the cause of their negligence. The Government, too, it is asserted, have authority by the above Act to specify what precautions shall be taken, and to require the railway companies to execute such works as they may consider necessary, on the report of any competent engineer. Whether this be so or not, it is certain that definite legislation, such as we have hinted at, would be beneficial, and that until such changes are made, the travelling public cannot count upon any degree of safety, especially in the vicinity of our large cities and towns.

Car Works.

We are glad to learn that a number of our townsmen are endeavouring to form a company to construct railway cars. We know of no place in Ontario better situated for such an enterprise, and we are confident that if the works are started and backed up with sufficient capital they will be a financial success. There are only two car shops in Ontario, one at Cobourg which employs 260 men, and one at London employing 400 men. Of course the employment of such a number of skilled mechanics implies the support of three or four times that number of persons. It is stated that a capital of $100,000 is required. Peterborough can easily supply that amount of capital if the men who have the means will so invest it. No town in Canada has made steadier or more substantial growth than Peterborough, and we know of no town with a better or more constant trade than ours; but, when we say this, we hesitate to speak as to the future. It is certain that the destiny of the town now rests with the citizens. So far, the development of the country has given growth to the town, but having reached our present dimensions, what is there to justify us in standing still and waiting for a development and growth which we have done nothing to produce? The time is opportune. The increased railway extension in the older Provinces and in Manitoba will take all the cars we can make. One successful enterprise leads to another. If they are profitable and successful in Cobourg and London, why not in Peterborough? By all means let us give to this new effort our best support. We hope a new era of prosperity will be ushered in by the starting of this new industry, and we commend those of our townsmen who are willing to put in their money. We believe the establishment of works of the kind, employing several hundred men all the year around would be the precursor of many more, and that our town with a little encouragement may become an important manufacturing centre. The North-west lies open to us. By the Midland railway we will be put on the line which will form the great through route to the west, and we are splendidly situated to command the trade. "Up then and to it," and let not other towns by their promptness and spirit take from us a prosperity which lies within our reach, and which only our own supineness can withold.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

(Bobcaygeon Independent.)

There seems to be very good reason for believing that Sir John Macdonald, when the Trent Valley Canal delegation waited on him in Toronto, treated the delegation with the greatest contempt, persistently and successfully evaded them, and having fooled them to the top of their bent, sent them home without their having exchanged words with him, or indeed without having so much as set eyes upon him. The facts appear to be beyond dispute, though but little is publicly said about them, Sir John's political friends endeavoring to keep the whole matter a secret from the public, fearing the political consequences to the perpetrator of this gross insult to the people's representatives. But this journal is not subject, in the slightest degree, to political influences, and it cares no more for Sir John, than it does for Mackenzie, or indeed for Conkling, or Parnell, or Bismarck. We want to know the exact truth of this matter, and to what extent Sir John is fooling the people of this district about the Trent Valley Canal. We understand that when the delegation deluged and bemuddled by the Great Canadian Flabbergaster, were about to return home, Mr. John Burnham, M. P., of Peterborough, drew up a memorial, and left it with somebody to present to Sir John. Now Mr. Burnham is a gentleman who is far above the average of Sir John's supporters, and whatever Mr. Burnham may say we shall accept as truth. We now ask Mr. Burnham for a copy of the memorial he drew up, and a statement as to what was done with it, and what reply it elicited. If Mr. Burnham would give a statement of the exact facts connected with the deputation, it would give great satisfaction, for the reason already assigned,—that it would be believed. There were persons on that delegation who are so infatuated with party, and with the Great Flabbergaster, that if he were to point out to them a white horse, and say it was a chandler's shop, they would accept it as such, and be ready to swear that every hair on its hide was a tallow candle. These men are too contemptible for notice of any kind from this journal, but Mr. Burnham is a gentleman in whom good faith and confidence may be placed, and it is to be hoped that he will let the public know the real facts connected with the fiasco of the deputation in question, and how far Sir John is hoaxing this district in regard to the Trent Valley Canal.

Munro & Alexander will have the largest stock of Dry Goods, Mantles, Millinery, Dress Goods Silks and Fancy Goods, that they have ever held, when they open out in their new premises.

A couple sat beside the fire,
Debating which should first retire;
The husband positively said:

"I never will," she quick replied;
"I did it once and nearly died."
"Then I will not," replied the spouse,
With firmer tone and lowering brow,
And then a war of words arose.
Continuing till they nearly froze;
When each grew mute and hovered nigher,
Around the faintly glimmering fire.
They trembled o'er the dying embers,
As though ague had seized their members;
Resolved like heroes ne'er to yield,
But force each other from the field.
And thus the fond and loving pair
In silence shook and shivered there.
Till midnight faded into morn,
And chicks were crowing for the dawn
When all at once the husband said;
"Wife, hadn't we better go to bed?"

ENTERTAINMENT AND PRESENTATION.—On Monday evening last, December 23rd, Mr. W. H. Hill, Teacher, S. S. No. 1, gave an entertainment in the Grange Hall here, on the occasion of his leaving this section, to take charge of his former school at Bridgenorth.

The entertainment consisted of songs, readings, recitations, dialogues, &c., given by the pupils of the school; and, the manner in which they acquitted themselves showed that Mr. Hill had not been idle during the time he had taught here. Vocal and instrumental solos were also given by Misses Logan, Brailey, and Douglas, who brought ringing encores from the audience.

At the close of the entertainment Mr. Hill was invited by the chairman, Mr. Brailey, to come forward, when the pupils of his school presented him with a handsome Bible, and read the following address:

To Mr. W. H. Hill, Teacher, S. S. No. 1., North Monaghan.

DEAR SIR:—Having learned with much regret that you were about to leave us, we felt that we could not allow you to do so, without expressing in some way the esteem in which we have always held you. In addition to our high sense of your good qualities as a teacher, it is the opinion which we entertain of your personal qualities; your unwearied assiduity in all that concerns our welfare; the friendly feeling existing between you and us, as well as the Section at large; and your consistent and honest labours to promote our advancement, that have called forth this expression of our feelings. But words, empty words, in such circumstances, have been compared to bubbles upon water which expand upon the surface, become attractive to the eye, collapse, and vanish, leaving not a trace behind to mark the spot whence they arose, or the causes which gave them birth.

This token which is now before you, and which we are about to present to you, is composed of lasting material and forms the best answer to such a question. It is the spontaneous effusion of the grateful hearts of your pupils. We now ask you to accept this Bible, and let not its value, but the spirit in which it was given, constitute its chief merit as a token of the esteem, and respect which we entertain for you.

In conclusion, we wish you a Merry Christmas, and many of them, and that the blessing of health and happiness may be extended to you, wherever your lot may be cast.

Mr. Hill made a touching and eloquent reply, thanking the pupils for the handsome present of which they had made him the recipient, and the Section generally for the many kindnesses which he had experienced at their hands during the three years he had spent amongst them.

Bargains are to be had at Munro & Alexander's during all this month, as they will open out in their New Store on the First of February.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

SCHOOL EXAMINATION.—The public school examination of school section number one, Douro, was held on Wednesday, 21st of December, 1881. Mr. Francis Cleary teacher. There was quite a large number of persons from the section present, who expressed themselves well satisfied with the whole examination. In the forenoon the junior classes were examined and showed good advancement for the past year or two. The reading was good, all answers being given promptly and correctly. In the afternoon the teacher examined the reading and spelling of one of the lessons in the first book for the benefit of persons who attempted to teach children at home before they come to school. This was done in a very lucid manner, and showed that every person is not capable of imparting those simple lessons correctly. The senior classes were examined and they too showed satisfactory progress. The arithmetic was good and the grammar, especially the analysis and parsing, was highly pleasing to all. After this a number of recitations and dialogues were given, which excited the admiration of those present to a still higher degree. The examination was brought to a close by the pupils presenting the following address to the teacher:—

DEAR FRIEND AND TEACHER:—It being now on the eve of your departure from our midst, we the pupils of this school, cannot allow the occasion to pass without expressing to you our unfeigned regret on learning the same.

We feel fully aware that in you we are losing not only an efficient teacher but a generous friend and bountiful benefactor.

For the past two years you governed us, not with "the rod of iron" but with justice, invariably tempered with kindness, old and young we all know that this has been your aim, to govern by power of kindness, you have made the school-room what we think it ought to be, a place for education, and the play ground you have made a play ground in earnest, with you in our midst.

Since you came here we have always found it a pleasure instead of an intolerable task to come to school, because when we came we did not feel ours lives shut up in a prison, but in a school room in its most enlightening form.

But if it is a source of grief to part with you it is also a great pleasure to us to see you rising in the estimation of your fellowmen, and to see you taking that stand which you so well deserve.

We have now only to bid you farewell, and hope that in your new field of labor you will meet with as true friends as you did here, and be more beneficiently rewarded for your arduous task.

(Signed) JAMES C. BORLAND.
PATRICK SMITH.

On behalf of the pupils.

Mr. Cleary in reply said he was highly pleased with the conduct of scholars both in and out of school ever since he came amongst them, and that he was sorry to part with so many young friends. He closed by advising them to persevere in their studies and hoped they would show the same kindly feeling to his successor as they had done to him.

OYSTER SUPPER.—On the evening of the 27th ultimo, Mr. Cleary was entertained at a complimentary oyster supper by his late pupils, at "the Neebing Hotel." A number of invited friends were present and a very enjoyable evening was spent. Mr. Cleary has been teaching in this section for the past two years, and has endeared himself to all with whom he came in contact, as well as his pupils, and the above kindly evidences of good will and friendship must be extremely gratifying to him.

APSLEY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Now that the municipal elections are over everything is peace and quietness.

Snow is very badly needed in this part. Lumbering is almost at a stand-still for want of it, and we find it almost impossible to go to Peterborough to do our business. The merchants may expect to see a number of us down as soon as sleighing arrives.

Thomas Tanner, of Chandos, almost severed his foot with an axe, while engaged last week in the lumber shanty of Mr. W. Hales. Dr. Shaw is attending the sufferer.

A young man by the name of Turk was severely injured last week in Rathbun's shanty, Chandos, by a tree falling upon him. It was thought that it was impossible for him to recover, but under the skillful treatment of Dr. Shaw he is progressing as rapidly as can be expected.

ASPHODEL.

PRESENTATION.—At the close of the term the pupils of S. S. No. 9, Asphodel, presented their teacher, Mr. MacNaughton, with a beautiful writing desk, accompanied with the following address:

TO MR. MACNAUGHTON:

DEAR TEACHER.—As you are about leaving us, we, the scholars of your school, embrace this as a favourable opportunity of offering you an affectionate fare-well, and of asking your acceptance of this Writing Desk as a small token of our esteem and gratitude for the patience you have had with us, for the kindness with which you have treated us, for your endeavors to promote our best interests.

We all unite in hoping you may be successful in all your future undertakings, and that your life may be long and useful.

Wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Signed on behalf of the school { Lillie Elliott, Jennie Kirk.

Mr. MacNaughton, who was wholly taken by surprise, acknowledged the presentation in a neat address to the school. The best of feeling has existed in the school between the teacher and pupils, and the best wishes of the whole section and children are with him in his career at Collingwood.

KEENE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The review of the Sabbath school lessons for the past quarter took place in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening, the 25th of last month. The service was conducted by the Rev. F. Andrews, pastor, in an able and profitable manner. The church was well filled by an appreciative and attentive audience. The choir was ably led by Miss S. Moore. Miss Bessie Read presided at the organ. A collection was taken up at the close in aid of the Sabbath school library.

On Wednesday evening of last week the congregation of the Keene Presbyterian church were the recipients of a rich treat from Prof. Gregg, of Knox College, Toronto. The subject of his lecture being, "Rev. Dr. Chalmers." The Rev. Lecturer began his discourse by giving a few reminiscences of the boyhood days of Dr. Chalmers, then his conversion and call to the ministry. He then entered into a lengthy argument upon the description of the church of Scotland, in which Dr. Chalmers played a prominent part, and also his career as a college professor, then closed his lecture by giving a beautiful description of the closing scenes of the life, works and death of the renowned Rev. Dr. Chalmers.

On the 1st of February, Munro & Alexander will have the best lighted and most convenient Store in Peterborough.

"We are convinced that when the superiority of Lindsay's productions in many particulars are fully understood that giving bonuses to bring people to locate here will be a secondary consideration. A young lady from Peterborough, too, gives as her unqualified opinion that the men folks of Lindsay wear, take them on an average, more elegant and fascinating moustaches than the masculines of any other town can show. This is evidence that true merit will tell always, and when the alluring fact is spread abroad we shall have heiresses seeking Lindsay as an objective point for marriageable charmers. The Peterborough girl has good taste. Excellent taste. None better."—Post. We don't begrudge Lindsay young men their elegant and fascinating moustaches, highly dyed and false, perhaps though they be. Peterborough gallants do not rely on such mock hair-(oic) means to ensnare the fluttering hearts of the sweeter sex, but rely on solid, intellectual, high and ennobling "culcher." Well can they disdain the simple and unaesthetic allurements of Lindsay's rustic gentlemen charmers.

"Extraordinary Sale of Dry Goods," is the new Advertisement of the well-known firm of W. Fairweather & Co., and from the conversation we had with one of the firm, we understand that they are to make a Clean Sweep of their whole stock, and at such prices as cannot fail to be an object to all purchasers of such goods. We were told that their Black and Coloured Silks, Velvets, Millinery and Mantles, with their whole stock of Clothing, would be made a Special Inducement.

Fancy Goods of all kinds, to clear off, will almost be given away. Such a large stock as $30,000 worth of first-class goods thrown into the market at such prices cannot fail to be an object to every cash buyer of Dry Goods and Clothing, &c. Embrace the opportunity and get the bargains.

A Cough, Cold or Sore Throat should be stopped. Neglect frequently results in an INCURABLE LUNG DISEASE OR CONSUMPTION. Brown's Bronchial Troches do not disorder the stomach like cough syrups and balsams, but ACT DIRECTLY ON THE INFLAMED PARTS, allaying irritation, give relief in ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, CATARRH, and the THROAT TROUBLES which SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS are subject to. For thirty years Brown's Bronchial Troches have been recommended by physicians, and always give perfect satisfaction. Having been tested by wide and constant use for nearly an entire generation, they have attained well-merited rank among the few staple remedies of the age. YOUNG FOOLS THAT MARRY.

A RATTLING LECTURE FOR THE BENEFIT OF THOSE SO INCLINED.

(From Peck's Sun.)

These sparkers are looked upon by parents generally as a nuisance, and often they are right. Nine-tenths of the sparking is done by boys who haven't got their growth, and they look so green that it is laughable for the old folks to look at them. They haven't generally got a second shirt, and they are no more qualified to get married than a cow is to preach. And yet marrying is the first thing they think of. A green boy without a dollar, present or prospective, sparking a girl regularly and talking about marrying, is a spectacle for gods and men. He should be reasoned with, and if he will not quit it until he is able to support a wife, and to know whom he loves, and the difference between love and passion, he should be quarantined or put in a convent, erected on purpose for such cases. Nine-tenths of the unhappy marriages are the result of green, human beings allowed to run at large in the society pasture without any yokes on them. They marry and have children before they do moustaches; they are fathers of twins before they are the proprietor of two pair of pants, and the little girls they marry are old women before they are twenty years old. Occasionally one of these gosling marriages turns out all right but it is a clear case of luck. If there was a law against young galoots sparking and marrying before they have all their teeth cut, we suppose the little cusses would evade it in some way, but there ought to be a sentiment against it. It is time enough for these bantams to think of finding a pullet when they have raised money enough by their own work to buy a bundle of laths to build a hen house. But they see a girl who looks cunning, and they are afraid there are not going to be girls enough to go round, and then they begin to get in their work real spry; and before they are aware of the sanctity of the marriage relation they are hitched for life, and before they own a cook stove or a bedstead they have to get up in the night and go after the doctor, so frightened that they run themselves out of breath and abuse the doctor because he does not run too: and when the doctor gets there he finds that there is not linen enough in the house to wrap up a doll baby. It is at about this time that a young man begins to realize that he has been a consecrated fool, and as he flies around to heat water and bring in the bath tub and goes whooping after his mother or her mother, he turns pale around the gills, his hair turns red in a single night, and he calls high heaven to witness that if he lives till morning, which he has doubts about, he will turn over a new leaf and never get married till he is older. And in the morning the green-looking "father" is around before a drug store is open, with no collar on, his hair sticking every way, his eyes bloodshot and his frame nervous, waiting for the clerk to open the door so he can get some saffron to make tea of. Less than a year ago he thought he was the greatest man there was anywhere, but as he sits there in the house that morning, with his wedding coat rusty and shiny, and his pants frayed at the bottom, and his coat patched at the elbow, and the nurse puts in his arms a little roll of flannel with a baby hid in it, he holds it as he would a banana, and as he looks at his girl wife on the bed nearly dead from pain and exhaustion, and he thinks there is not provisions enough in the house to feed a canary, a lump comes into his throat and he says to himself that if he had it to do over he would leave that little girl at home to grow up with her mother, and he would wait till he had six dollars to buy baby flannel and ten dollars to pay a doctor.

SEEING THE NEW YEAR IN.

The custom of sitting up on the last night of December to see a new year in is not confined to any particular locality or country. It is very general. But, of course, it is not desirable for children to be out of bed on any occasion till midnight; and that was the reason that the boy spoken of—or rather the boy who speaks for himself—in the following lines was sent to bed on a New-Year's Eve while older people sat up waiting and watching:

NED'S SOLILOQUY.

They are all a-sitting up to see the New Year in.
And to send me off to bed was a shame
And a sin.
I shall never go to sleep, I am so mad.
And the stupid year has gone and I is glad:
For such a horrid time as I have had
To just mean.

Been to bed every night at half-past
Eight, have I.
And at dinner I can never have but one
Piece of pie;
And once I had to stay in bed all day
Just because I mocked Old Deacon Grey—
"T'was a mean thing to do," I heard mother say—
Don't see why.

If I whistle in the house, such a row
As they make.
If I slam a single door, oh, dear me,
How they quake!
And 'cause I grabbed Bridget's feet unaware
As she was carrying the tea-tray upstairs,
She vowed she'd find my father, spite my pra, ers,
And she'd "spake."

Have to study so hard, I've no time for play
Oh dear, dear.
That folks ever want an education
Is so queer.
When I ran away from school, ma shook her head
And groaned. [illegible]m, and then my grandmother said
You will never be a smart man, oh Ned.
We all fear.

There! the bells begin to ring for the new year
Coming in.
What a horrid acting feller, I declare
I've been.
I made half a mind now to sneak my ways
I believe, on the whole, doing right pays—
And New-Year's Day is the time, mother says,
To begin.

LETTER FROM MR. PETER RYAN.

HE IS OPPOSED TO SECTARIAN UNION FOR POLITICAL PURPOSES.

Alderman Ryan writes the following letter, under date of December 20th, to the Irish Canadian:-

Anonymous letters, and reference therein to myself, have not heretofore received from me more attention than occasionally reading them; and the letter of your correspondent "Verax" in your last issue would have failed to provoke any remarks from me were it not for your editorial, in which you disclaim responsibility for my appearance in East Northumberland against the candidature of Mr. Kennedy, the Tory nominee, and leaving me to account for my conduct in so doing on some future occasion, which would imply that I had committed an offence entailing on me a form of opposition in public life to which I have not hitherto been subjected.

You are aware that I am a Liberal in politics, and was a short time ago the Liberal candidate in West Toronto, when I obtained the warmest support of the Reform party and its leaders. The question with the Liberals was not the religion Mayor Beaty or myself professed, nor was it their business or concern, but the political principles we represented, and on that issue the battle was fought, which, though not resulting in my election, nevertheless succeeded in bringing out a larger vote than was ever before cast for a Reform candidate in the constituency. The Reformers only did their duty on that occasion, and neither deserve nor desire any special thanks; I merely mention this in contrast with the election in East Northumberland, where I know Mr. Kennedy received a large number of catholic votes which had on previous occasions been given on the Reform side, yet failed to get a general Conservative vote, and so was defeated where he surely would have been elected by a large majority if the Tories had been true to their nominee.

Your correspondent complains that I took part in that contest, for he says that "an individual named Alderman Ryan, professing to be a Catholic, worked in the Riding against Mr. Kennedy, and claimed to have defeated him." Permit me to say I never claimed to have obtained one vote for the Liberal candidate, but have always given the credit, so far as it was due to one man, to Mr. Paterson, M.P., whose speeches on the Syndicate contract moved the constituency to record its condemnation of the Government. Mr. Paterson, who is a Protestant, spoke in my behalf, though my opponent was a Protestant also; yet I never heard of any Protestant finding fault with him on that score. Then why should I be looked upon as censurable for pursuing the same conduct? In the palmiest days, when the Catholic League was on a "boom," I was never a member, nor did I ever sympathize with its objects, believing that any religious combination for political advantages or the spoils of office would be injurious to the good and confidential feeling which ought to obtain amongst all denominations. I also thought that combinations on the part of Catholics must lead to like action on the part of Protestants who had never before combined, and which would have become necessary on their part if we obtained and used the balance of power, as some foolish men believed we could accomplish, and which I think you have advocated. If we had any sectarian issues involved in Canadian politics I could make allowance for organised sectarian action, but in this country, wherer no religious disability afflicts us, where the same law governs Catholic and Protestant alike, where we have no State Church to support, where the highest offices in the Dominion are open to members of every religious denomination, and where we have, as the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie said, "not only religious toleration and freedom, but religious equality." I look on any attempt to organize any religious body for political purposes as an act of folly and of positive injury to the body so combining. I therefore state for the information of those whom it may concern that I am not, nor never was, a sympathiser of Catholic representation or the recognition of the right of any religious body to representation in the public affairs of this country. When the party candidate happens to be a Catholic, or heathen if you will, he should receive the support of the party whose nominee he is, no regard being paid or attention called to the faith he professes; while on the other hand his co-religionists who differ from him politically should be free to oppose him without incurring any strictures for so doing.

I acted on this principle in going to East Northumberland, not considering what were the creeds of the candidates, recognizing only the principles of the Tory, as opposed to the Liberal party. I do not regret that step, but on the contrary would do the same under like circumstances, and am prepared to accept all responsibility of that action at any moment, not fearing my ability to justify myself should I be called upon to do so. No more indefensible cry can be raised by the Catholic people of this country, than a demand for Catholic representatives in Parliament or the Cabinet. Should a Catholic display statesmanship of a high order, and if either party have within their ranks one whose ability and fitness for office is recognised, and whose admission to the Cabinet is desirable in the interest of the country, his religion should be neither a barrier nor a recommendation. Sectarian representation has been pandered to by both political parties as an expedient.

Candidates should be chosen for the principles they represent and the ability they possess to advocate them, and the Cabinet composed of the wisest and ablest of the party in power, without regard to the Provinces they come from or the religious opinion they entertain. Such are the principles I shall always advocate; and though your journal may advocate religious concerted action in the politics of this country, and though every Catholic in Canada combined, I would still hold myself free to discharge my whole duty as a member of the Liberal party and a citizen of this free Dominion.

PERCHERON HORSES.

THE BREED THAT SELLS BEST.

It is a generally accepted fact that the breeding of what are termed fancy horses, cannot be successfully done by the ordinary breeder. With rare exceptions, breeding for speed is so uncertain, even when those engaged in the business are possessed of the very choicest animals adapted to that purpose, that it is only those that have a fortune, and are able to pursue the object as a matter of pleasure, that can successfully pursue the business for any great length of time. The mania that for years has possessed our people for breeding fast horses is rapidly leaving them, and they are beginning to realise that if they are to make any money in breeding horses of any kind, it must be in producing animals that will have a specific value in themselves, whether trained or untrained. It is not necessary to enlighten the people as to the class of horses that sell the most readily at the present time. Every one knows that good-formed, large-sized, vigorous, hardy draft horses are in active demand, and that the buyers are searching the country in every portion where those horses can be found in any considerable numbers, and paying large prices, $200 to $250, for animals that weigh from 1,300 to 1,600 pounds.

How to produce this class of horses is something that interests every farmer throughout the country. A few years since, when there was no pure bred, large sized stallions to be found here, it was a practical impossibility to do so with any degree of certainty from our ordinary sized mares, but latterly, the importation of heavier classes of stallions from foreign countries, and especially the admirable Percherons, that are being imported from La Peroche, France, has made the hitherto unattainable object easy of accomplishment.

Nearly all classes of large horses have been tried, the English draft, the Clydesdales, the Belgians, the Boulonnais, a coarser specimen of the French horses, sometimes in this country improperly called Normans; but none have seemed to "nick" so well with our ordinary stock as the smooth-built, clean-limbed, powerful-muscled, vigorous and active Percheron horses of France. Since 1872 several hundred of these stallions have been imported and sold to nearly every State in the Union, and wherever found they are held in the highest estimation. Quite a number of both imported and graded stallions have crossed the mountains and are doing the country valuable service. This is very flattering to the close-sightedness and perseverance of our breeders, and we cannot too strongly urge the continuance of such a worthy enterprise, as every one of these animals that are brought to our State will add greatly to its future wealth.—American Rural Home, Rochester, N. Y.

EXPERIMENTS ON CATTLE FEEDING IN ILLINOIS.

The Agricultural College of Illinois is prosecuting some experiments on cattle feeding which are in line with those carried out by Prof. Brown at Guelph, an account of which appeared in the EXAMINER some weeks ago. At the Illinois institution eight young steers were purchased in the spring of 1880. Two were full blood Ayrshires, two seven-eighths Devon, two half Hereford, one a full-blood Shorthorn, and the other three-quarters Shorthorn. The whole of the cattle were put out to pasture until October 1, when they went into an open yard where they were wintered on inferior, unthreshed oats, threshed timothy straw, corn stalks, and toward spring a little corn. The next summer they all spent at pasture, receiving a full feed of corn daily until September. Then they have new corn in the ear, about half a bushel a day each. In August one of the Ayrshires met with an accident which necessitated slaughtering it. In November all the others were shipped to the Chicago fat stock show. At the end of the show they were all slaughtered in the presence of a committee of butchers. The table below shows the results of the weighing:

	Age in months.	Weight at Slaughter.	Gain since purchase.	Weight of dressed meat.	Per cent to live weight.
1. Ayrshire.	26	1,220	615	733	60.00
2. ¾ Devon	21	1,175	685	707	60.00
3. ¾ Devon	19	1,135	640	677	59.63
4. ½ Hereford.	26	1,545	790	965	62.45
5. ½ Hereford.	15	1,250	710	750	60.00
6. Shorthorn.	20	1,400	765	880	62.85
7. ¾ Shorthorn	21	1,300	575	815	62.69

The butchers who pronounced upon the quality of the meat placed the animals in this order:—Shorthorn, Ayrshire, ¾ Devon, ¾ Devon, ¾ Shorthorn, ½ Hereford, ½ Hereford. This is an interesting result, and one that will be especially satisfactory to Shorthorn men for the reason that their favourite breed of cattle is by some persons supposed to be unfitted for "roughing it" in the style indicated above. It will be observed that the butchers, judging from the quality of the meat only, placed the animals exactly in order according to the proportion of improved blood in them.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

SANDERSON'S

A Lovers Quarrel.

I could not hear all that they must have said,
But as I sat beside the little stream
I watched them part with just one angry word.
She passed me quickly with a down-drooped head,
Red cheeks, eyes flashing with a scornful gleam,
A hasty step as by deep passion stirred;
She did not turn nor look back where she stood,
But vanished quickly in the thick green wood

I watched him sigh, then noted how he gazed
At her retreating form; he whistled low
And softly to himself, in deepest thought
He whispered: "Is she vexed?" then was amazed.
Then 'twas, in truth, she really meant to go
He looked once more, as if indeed he sought,
To bring her back; but on she went that day
Then he went, but—but 'twas the other way.

They met'er met again but oft I see
The girl a woman grown, come by this seat
And gaze into the stream with tear-worn eyes:
And then I wonder why such things should be!
If she had turned her head or stayed her feet
Life would have altered, love's bright sunny skies
Shone o'er her ever! 'Tis but things like this.
That form our lives, and make our woe or bliss!

All the Year Round.

CHRISTMAS—AN ACROSTIC.

Christmas is coming, remember the poor;
Hungry and ill-clothed they stand at your door.
Remember the Saviour, who said inasmuch
I will reward you for succoring such.
Send from your richly filled tables a share;
Twill lighten hearts nearly sunk in despair.
Many who plead not in public have striven
And failed to obtain gifts sent you from heaven;
Seek them and save them, regardless of fee,
And the King will at last say
You did it for Me.

ROBT. S. MOIR.

THE MODERN CLERGYMAN.

WHAT HE SHOULD DO AND SHOULD NOT DO—WHAT HE DOES AND WHAT HE SHOULD NOT DO—BOUND TO BE DONE FOR IN ANY CASE.

An American exchange says; The clergyman, is probably the most curious specimen in our collection. His whole business consists in an endeavor to make men good, not thinking, apparently, that if all were good he would have to go out of business.

The clergyman has other duties, such, for instance, as engineering affairs, making oyster stews and lemonade, and curing love-sick people by joining them in marriage.

A clergyman is also expected to make the rounds of his parish weekly. This is not a very enormous task. It does not take all of his time. He has a few hours each week for sermon writing and sleep.

As the flock sleep while the clergyman is preparing his sermon, they think it no more than fair that they should sleep while he is reading it.

It must be said, however, to the credit of the ladies that they seldom go to sleep in church. They generally keep their eyes open during the service. New bonnets are worn to church.

The clergyman is paid for praying for people who would never think of praying for themselves. They know how much praying for they need, probably, and shrink from undertaking the task.

The clergyman is supposed to know everything, and yet everybody in the congregation thinks he knows more than the clergyman.

If the clergyman sticks to religion, pure and simple, the congregation complains that he gives them nothing new; if he touches upon living questions, they accuse him of preaching politics.

If the clergyman does not visit his parishioners every day or two, they say he is a very poor pastor: if he makes his visits regularly, they soon discover that he is a very poor preacher.

If he extemporizes they complain that his discourse is rambling; if he preaches from notes, they say any fool can do that.

If a clergyman says but little at a funeral, he is called cold and unsympathetic, if he says much, he is accused of gushing.

The clergyman is the last person many a man would help support, and he is the last man many ask a favor of. He is not called in till the funeral is appointed.

A man who never helped pay the clergyman while alive cannot be expected to give him anything when dead.

If a clergyman does not keep abreast of the literature of the day, the congregation say he is behind the time; if he gives them an epitome of the best thoughts of the best writers, they accuse him of of plagiarism and stealing.

If a clergyman preaches short sermons, he is accused of laziness; if he preaches long sermons the people vote him tedious.

If he dresses like other people, his appearance is said to be unministerial; if he dresses in sombre black, or dons a white choker, he is charged with affectation.

If he busies himself at the fair and social, it is said that he had better put more time in his sermons: if he gives his whole time to his sermons, he is said to be a poor worker.

The clergyman, it is said, lives on his ignorance of mankind. If this be true, he should have the best of living; but a good living is a difficult thing for a clergyman to get.

When you grow up, children, if you would be rich, you should all be clergymen; but it would be better to try something else first.

A young lady who graduated from the High School is now teaching. A bashful young gentleman visited the school the other day and was asked by the teacher to say a few words to the pupils. This was his speech: "Scholars, I hope you will always love your school and your teacher as much as I do." Tableau—Giggling boys and girls and a blushing schoolmistress.

VARIETIES.

There are twenty-one preachers in Rhode Island who can't collect their back salaries.

HAVE HOPE.—Before you despair of curing a troublesome cough just verging on consumption try Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam; it has cured others, why may it not cure you? All dealers sell it. 52-2t.

Philadelphia is not only the City of Brotherly Love, but the Brothers Love to steal each other stone blind.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold at 50 cents per bottle. 47-1y

A recent writer says that conversation is the very life of literature, because it is probably the most effective advertisement in selling a book.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM cures coughs, colds, asthma, croup, whooping cough, sore throat, bronchitis and all lung complaints that lead to consumption. Price 25 cents. 52-2t.

An exchange wants to know "whether our colleges turn out gentlemen." Certainly not; the gentlemen are allowed to go in and graduate.

SORE THROAT.—Apply Hagyard's Yellow Oil and take inwardly according to directions. Yellow Oil is the best remedy for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Bruises, Burns, Frost Bites and all lameness, inflammation and pain. No household should be without it. 52-2t.

The days will now begin to lengthen. The old proverb runs thus: "As the days begin to lengthen, the cold begins to strengthen."

USE THE celebrated "Lardine Oil" on your machinery. Best and cheapest oil in the market. Does not clog or gum. Has good heavy body and will not thin in summer. Sold in Peterborough by Messrs. McKee & Davidson; and in Lakefield by W. H. Casement. Try it and you will use no other. 26-52t

Said the irate creditor who had been kept waiting in the hall: "I'll have you know, sir, that time's money." Replied the languid debtor: "I'll pay you, then, in time."

HONESTY.—It is commonly said that you cannot make an honest man believe that white is black and vice versa, but those who have grey hair, by using the "Cingalese Hair Renewer," will find that this apparent difficulty is overcome. For sale at 50 cents per bottle. 47-1y

Love is like a bed of quicksand. You take the first step and gradually sink in over your head. Sometimes you are lucky and are saved, but sometimes you are married.

A CURE FOR CROUP.—Apply flannel saturated with Hagyard's Yellow Oil and administer the Oil internally on a little sugar as directed on the bottle. Yellow Oil cures Rheumatism, Burns, Scalds, Chilblains, Lameness, and all flesh wounds. All dealers supply it, price 25 cents. 52-2t.

"America," says an Englishman, "is a country where a man's statement is not worth two cents unless backed up with an offer to bet you ten dollars." Hit us that time.

INGENIOUS INVENTION.—Some shrewd Yankee has invented a key that will wind any watch; it is a neat attachment to a charm, and it is said to work like a charm. So does that grand Key to Health Burdock Blood Bitters, the greatest discovery of the age. It unlocks all the secretions, and cleanses and invigorates the entire system. Sample bottles, 10 cents; large size, $1.00 of all medicine dealers. 52-2t.

A millionaire, who was looking at a level tract of land which he had just bought at an extravagant price, said to the agent who had sold it to him, "I do admire a rich, green flat." "So do I," significantly replied the agent.

WHERE IGNORANCE IS BLISS 'TIS FOLLY TO BE WISE.—Dr. Bliss, if not a success at probing for bullets, was highly successful in despatching bulletins; but the grandest bulletin of success is that which heralds the wonderful cures performed by Burdock Blood Bitters, that matchless tonic and blood purifier which acts at once upon the bowels, the Skin, the Liver and the Kidneys, while it invigorates and strengthens the whole system. 1-2t.

"Father, did you ever have another wife beside mother?" "No, my boy. What possessed you to ask such a question?" "Because I saw in the old family Bible where you married Anno Domini in 1835, and that isn't mother, for her name was Sally Smith.

THE SADDEST OF SAD SIGHTS.—The grey hairs of age being brought with sorrow to the grave is now, we are glad to think, becoming rarer every year as the use of Cingalese Hair Restorer becomes more general. By its use the scanty locks of age once more resume their former color and the hair becomes thick and luxuriant as ever; with its aid we can now defy the change of years, resting assured that no Grey Hair at any rate will come to sadden us. Sold at 50 cents per bottle. 47-1y

The editor of a city agricultural journal, who knew less about farming than he did about anything else, told a subscriber who wrote, asking "How to get rid of stumps," to go to any respectable dentist, and not to take gas unless his lungs were sound and his heart was all right.

A PUBLIC MEETING should be called of the citizens of every city, town and village in the Dominion, to consider what should be done to prevent the hair from turning Grey—and falling out. If this important question received their earnest consideration they would unanimously decide that science had at last discovered something that would answer this purpose—and furthermore would recommend Cingalese Hair Renewer as being this something for restoring the hair to its natural color, and prevent its falling out. 50 cents per bottle. 47-1y

Daughter (home from sch ool): "Now papa, are you satisfied? Just look at my testimonial—'Political economy, satisfactory; fine arts and music, very good; logic, excellent.'" Father—"Very much so, my dear—especially as regards your future. If your husband should understand anything of housekeeping, cooking, mending and the use of the sewing-machine, perhaps your married life will indeed be happy."

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung disease by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medical properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent by letter, and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souviele's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. 48-1y

NEWCOMBE PIANOS

BOSTON, 14th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co., Toronto.

DEAR SIRS,—For brilliancy and sympathetic quality of tone, I consider your Upright Pianos unequalled by any made in Canada. The touch is responsive, the treble clear and resonant, so that I can in all respects recommend them.

OTTO BENDIX.

Letter from Dr. G. W. Strathy, so long known in Toronto as a most thorough and accomplished musician:

TORONTO, 28th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,

I remain Gentlemen,

Your obedient humble servant,

RESIGNED.—The Rev. E. J. Stobo, has resigned the pastorate of the Baptist church in this town.

SCHOOL BOARD,—There was no meeting of the school board last Tuesday evening—no business of importance being ready for consideration. We believe the Board will be called together for next Tuesday evening.

PROF. HOTCHKIN, the celebrated Springless Truss and Supporter man, will be at the Huffman House, Jan. 31 and Feb. 1. He has become master of his profession, and defies the Hernia he cannot hold. Go and see him.

Two hundred pounds of Clegg's flour will make eight to twelve pound more bread than the same quantity of ordinary flour, only $3.00 per hundred. Orders left at Clegg's Furniture Warerooms receives prompt attention. 50-4ins

JUST opened, another lot of the celebrated Rock Island hand-made boots, also Russian and German felt boots, moccasins, overshoes, rubbers, slippers, women and childrens' wear in great variety. W. F. WALLACE, Lakefield. 48-tf.

RUPTURES, SPRINGLESS TRUSSES AND SUPPORTERS.—Prof. Hotchkin, of Albion, Orleans County, N.Y., will again visit Peterborough. Prof. H. having had thirty years experience, defies the Hernia he cannot hold. Go and see him at the Huffman House, Jan. 31st and Feb. 1.

UNIVERSITY.—We are pleased to see that at the Michaelmas Examination at Toronto University, J. L. Gilmour took first-class honors in classics, and W. Sanderson first-class honors in mathematics. The remaining students from Peterborough had no examination.

FOR THE HOLIDAYS.—Foot & McWhinnie have on hand a very large assortment of Ladies and Gents Fancy Slippers, in quite new patterns, which will be sold at very low prices during the holidays. Skating Boots and Gent's Fancy Slippers made on the shortest notice. 49-tf.

NEARLY A FIRE.—The bake shop in the rear of McComb's yard had a narrow escape from fire on Tuesday evening through a defective flue. Fortunately the fire was extinguished before any damage was done, and although the brigade was called out their services were not required.

THE RINK.—The cold snap of the past few days has enabled the management of the skating and curling rink to provide excellent ice for both skaters and curlers, and both rinks are now ready for use—the ice being in splendid condition. Scale of prices for skater's tickets will be found in our advertising columns.

SEPARATE SCHOOL TRUSTEES.—The vote at the close of the contest yesterday evening, for Separate School Trustees stood as follows—Messrs. Hourigan, Muncaster, and Griffin, leading the poll in the different wards:—T. Kelly, 25; Dr. Hourigan, 32; R. W. Muncaster, 16; Dr. O'Sullivan, 9; J. C. Sullivan, 0; Joseph Griffin, 2.

GRANGE LECTURES.—Mr. S. W. Hill, P. M., of the Dominion Grange, is delivering free lectures within the range of Rose Valley Division Grange, Victoria county this week. Why do not the enterprising grangers of this county take action and receive the services of Mr. Hill to deliver a course of lectures. He is an able and interesting speaker and farmers would do well to hear him.

LIVE DEER FOR MAYOR GRACE.—Mr. W. L. Russell, of Lindsay, shipped the other day to Mayor Grace, of New York, a couple of beatiful live deer—a buck and a doe—for the Mayor's park on Long Island. They were obtained, one in Somerville, and the other near Haliburton, and will add not a little to the numerous attractions of his worship's fine residence.

ST. CATHARINES NURSURIES.—We call the attention of our readers to the liberal offer of two new grapes made by Mr. Beadle, of St. Catharines, in our advertising columns. We know of no person whose opinion upon the merits of a fruit can be more confidently trusted. He has been in the business now for nearly fifty years, and enjoys a reputation for sending out first class fruits that is unsurpassed.

CURLING.—Two silver cups have been given by the Marquis of Lorne for competition amongst the curling clubs of Canada, one for iron and the other for stone playing. Clubs competing must play match games between the 2nd and 3rd of January inclusive, and returns sent in to Lieut.-Col. DeWinton not later than 10th of February, giving particulars of play, notices of the state of the ice, whether played with granite or iron stones, and whether played on open air ice or in covered rink. The rules and regulations under which the matches are to be played are quite lengthy.

The Result of Monday's Vote.

Clegg's flour still unequalled. Order it at Clegg's Warerooms, Geo. St. 50-4ins

HYMENEAL.—On Monday last Mr. Geo. S. Ostrom, formerly of the firm of Hall & Ostrom, of this town, but now of Chicago, was united in "the holy bonds of wedlock" to Miss Susie V. McKinnon, of Toronto. The ceremony was performed in that city by the Rev. Mr. Lewis, of Grace church, Toronto, and was witnessed by a large number of the friends of the contracting parties. After a wedding breakfast the happy couple took their departure for their new home followed by the will wishes of a host of personal friends. We wish them every prosperity.

THE TWO ORPHANS.—No drama has enjoyed a greater popularity than this intensly interesting play, and no company has been more successful in presenting it than the Madison Square Combination which are to appear in Bradburn's Opera House on Friday evening, the leading part, that of Louise, being taken by one of the most promising actresses of the American stage—Miss Helen E. Jennings, who comes to us highly recommended by the New York press. A St. Alban's journal speaks of her in the following flattering terms—"Miss Jennings, the beautiful young emotional actress, appeared with the Madison Square Co. last evening. Miss Jennings possesses rare beauty and a full, rich voice, which she uses to the best advantage, showing the result of excellent training. In some of the more intense passages she gave a beautiful rendering of the lines which won for her enthusiastic applause." Elegant costumes are furnished by Rosener of Union Square, New York, and scenery is painted expressly for the company. Crowded houses are sure. Book seats early.

FLOUR BY TELEPHONE.—Placards with this heading have adorned the walls of the town for some days. Recently old Mr. M—— was seen walking down George street. The old man is of the old school. He is somewhat of a character—short, old, a prominent crooked nose, brass spectacles, a short waisted, long tailed grey coat, a good walking stick, a snuff box and a broad Scotch accent. He is a strong Grit, a positive man and God-fearing. Well, the old gent caught sight of the new yellow placard with the strange word on it, so he drew up to the wall and faced it. First, he drew out a large red handkerchief and by way of clearing his eyes, blew his nose, then, wiping his spectacles, he squared himself to read it, when he was heard as follows: Flour by tel-e-phone. Eh! what's that? and the old man drew up a little closer. Tel-e-phone! Gude Lord! But this is something new. Tel-e-phone! Wonderful. Its blasphemy. We have been taught to ask for our daily bread, and if in answer to prayer and faith we got it, we should be thankful. But this new way. Weel, weel. There is no knowing to what irreverence the world is coming; and the old man drew out his snuff box, and after replenishing his hungry nose hobbled on his way, muttering tel-e-phone—flour at Rogers' mills by telephone.

NEW YEAR'S BALL.—The grand New Year's ball under the auspices of the Fire Brigade Band, held in the Opera House on Monday evening last, was the most successful affair of the kind held in town for many years, and the management have every reason to feel satisfied with the result of their efforts. About 100 couples were present. Dancing commenced at nine o'clock, and the "light fantastic" was tripped till early the next morning, to the inspiring music of the new orchestra, which is now in connection with the band. The excellence of the music was much commented upon, and all were loud in their praise of it. Everything passed off in the most agreeable manner, and if we mistake not, the band ball will be looked forward to in future years as one of the events of the season. One of the features of the evening was a prize waltz, the committee having provided a handsome silver jewel case, to be awarded to the best lady waltzer. The competition was so close that the judges were unable to decide,—the issue being between Miss Frankland and Miss Lerone. A referee was called in, who gave the decision in favor of the first named young lady. Mr. T. Rutherford acted as floor manager and master of ceremonies and discharged his arduous duties to the satisfaction of all.

Munro & Alexander will have the Nicest Millinery Room in Peterboro' when in their New Store. ☞Mantles and Mantle-making will receive a very large share of their attention.

PERSONAL.

Professor Macoun, of Belleville, has been appointed Dominion Naturalist.

The Rev. Dr. Harper was in town on Tuesday last. His many friends here were pleased to see him and wish him the compliments of the season.

Mr. Robert R. Hamilton of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba Railway, has been in town during the past week visiting friends.

Rev. T. S. Glasford and wife returned from Brockville on Saturday, where they were assisting Rev. Dr. Elliott, of Kingston, at a marriage ceremony.—Ottawa Citizen. That was a hard knot to tie. We should like to know what special part in the ceremony was taken by Mrs. Glasford. Will the Citizen explain?

Mr. J. H. McFaul, for some years head-master of our public schools, and principal of the county model school, has accepted the position of principal of the public and model schools of Ingersoll. He leaves town on Monday evening. Mr. McFaul is an advanced and thorough-going educationist, a successful teacher and an estimable citizen. We wish him success in his new home.—Lindsay Post.—All of which we echo. Mr. McFaul's many friends in this county will be pleased to hear of his success.

We have to congratulate Mr. F. C. Taylor upon his being elected the second time Mayor of our sister Town, Lindsay, and we must also shake the corporation upon their good fortune in securing his services for another term. The Post says the honor is well deserved for Mr. Taylor has given careful attention to the town's affairs, which have been economically administered during his term of office. His election ensures another year of careful economy, which will result no doubt in reduced taxation."

Messrs. Geo. A. Mitchell and Charles Walsh, two old Peterborough boys, who for the past three years have been carving out their fortunes in the Prairie Province, returned home on Friday night last on a visit for a few days. They look well and hearty, and speak in glowing terms of their adopted homes, where, we are pleased to learn, they have realized handsomely on their real estate investments. Both are enterprising and industrious, and take front places in their respective callings. They return in a week or so.

☞Don't forget that Munro & Alexander will be found Three Doors further North after the First of February.

LATE ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS.—In the list handed us last week an error in the addition of the marks of the candidates left and some of those who were successful was made. The following is a corrected list:—

In Geography, 6 failed; in composition, 7; in parsing, 8; in arithmetic, 22; in dictation, 12; in fourth book and spelling, 6; history, 23. The short term of only 3½ months will account for so many of the failures. And perhaps the difficulty of some of the papers will account for the remaining failures, as well as the ages of the candidates, several of whom are of too tender years to fully grasp the meaning of complicated questions. The arithmetic, grammar and dictation papers, we understand, were more than usually stiff, and the history paper covered more ground than the pupil could reasonably be expected, in so short a term, to go over.

TRUSTEES.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. McNaughton,—That Mr. R. Weir be appointed High School Trustee.—Carried.

A short discussion took place with reference to the appointment of Mr. D. W. Dumble as High School Trustee, during which several members of the Council regretted that he had refused to contest the Ward he had so ably and efficiently represented during the past term. By his retirement the Board has lost a valuable member.

Moved by Mr Paterson, seconded by Mr. Yelland,—That Mr. Poussette be re-appointed High School Trustee.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Menzies, seconded by Mr. Richardson,—That Mr. James Kendry be appointed High School Trustee.

After some discussion Mr. Kendry, who was present, requested the gentlemen who moved and seconded his appointment to withdraw the motion and allow Mr. Poussette to take the position unopposed, which was done.

GAS LAMP.

Moved by Mr. Yellaud, seconded by Mr. Douglas,—That a gas lamp be placed on McDonnell street, between George and Aylmer streets.—Referred to the Fire, Water and Gas Committee.

The Council then adjourned.

A GOOD EXAMPLE.—We clip the following from the Port Hope Times:—Thos. McMahon, the young man who raised the disturbance in the Music Hall the evening Holman's Opera troupe performed, was fined $10 and $4 costs, or in default of payment of same, one month in jail. The young gentleman "skipped" before the trial came on and he was tried in his absence. So far nothing has been heard of him, and it is supposed he will keep shady for some time. This will undoubtedly serve as a valuable and needful lesson to many others." It is a great shame that steps are not taken to prevent the usual disturbance that occurs in our Opera House on every occasion of a public entertainment. If a few of the principal disturbers were brought before the Police Magistrate by one of the Constables, we have no doubt but that it would be in the interests of the general public.

Flour and mill feed of all kinds may be ordered at Clegg's Furniture Warerooms. Prompt delivery. 50-4ins

ONCE MORE IN HIS GLORY.

Jim is Back to his Old Stand again, and is going to make it Hot for the Boys for the next Six Weeks.

James Dolan last week terminated one of the most successful sales ever held in the Town of Peterborough. On the 1st of February he goes into an entirely different line of business, but in the meantime to keep moving, he has bought out the balance of stock held by T. Dolan & Co., in their old store, Burnham's Block, and has also effected the purchase in Toronto of several bankrupt stocks. He has placed the entire lot in the corner store and will sell at prices never before heard of in Peterborough. He feels confident that he can sell goods 15 per cent lower than the lowest quotations of uptown dealers. Recollect the sale is a thoroughly honest one, as the goods must be sold, close buyers will find it worth their best attention to call and inspect. Remember the corner, Burnham's Block, corner of George and Simcoe Streets. A full staff of salesmen are engaged for the occasion, so that all customers will be properly waited upon. Store will close every day from 12 to 12.30 o'clock, to give the staff time to have lunch. 51 2t

Advice

"Whatever you do, do it Quickly."

This maxim applies to many things, but to none more emphatically than the purchase of a

WINTER SUIT!

People may wonder these frosty mornings why they feel the cold so keenly, and they may continue wondering until they have come and ordered from us a

WARM SUIT and an OVERCOAT!

and discarded the linen duster they have been wearing since summer.

Every man can afford to buy a SUIT from us, because we have them at prices to suit the pockets of everyone.

No establishment gives better satisfaction, with this understanding customers select from our goods and order with the knowledge that if they change their minds afterwards—which they never do—they can bring back the clothes and have their money.

The belief is current, and is warranted by the facts, that if we have not what you want, and at right prices, you cannot secure it elsewhere.

The sale of Overcoats still continues, those in need of one will do well to call early.

OUR TORONTO LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

POLITICAL MATTERS.

In Toronto, as in many other parts of the Province, thanks amongst other things to the late Conservative banquet, there are symptoms of a stir in the Liberal ranks. The Executive of the city Reform Association held the other day the first meeting it has held for months and steps will at once be taken to complete the party organization.

Mr. Mackenzie indicated pretty plainly, in Lambton, his intention to accept the East York nomination, but if Lambton is to be divided under the coming reconstruction bill, one half of it may yet be found more suitable for him than East York which will require as strong an effort to carry as Lambton will. Mr. Mackenzie's health is far from good, but he will probably be able to take his part in making the coming session at Ottawa a lively one. The fourth act in a five-act play is usually the culminating one, and the fourth session of the present Parliament will probably be found to hold the same relation to the other four.

The election of a Conservative for South Simcoe is of course a foregone conclusion as the riding is at present constituted, unless the local aspirants quarrel amongst themselves. Amongst the changes talked of under the census reconstruction of the constituencies is one which would divide North Simcoe into two and add enough of Conservative votes from South Simcoe to each of them to make all three divisions safe for Conservative candidates. Meanwhile, however, there will soon be an election on the present boundaries and it will probably be by acclamation.

There are not a few Liberals in this city who would like to see the tariff question allowed to rest, and the contest with the government fought out on other lines. They will hardly have their wish, but as Mr. Mackenzie, in his Lambton speech, declared that in his opinion there could be no immediate lowering of the customs duties and that vested rights under the tariff should be respected, the fiscal issue will certainly recede to some extent into the back ground, unless between this and the general election there should be a recurrence of times sufficiently hard to cause general discontent. Meanwhile, under the surface of the present somewhat sufficient agitation of the trade question, there is in progress a deep-seated process of division of the community into those who favour out-and-out protection, and those who favour the complete commercial independence of Canada with power to negotiate for free trade with the United States. The latter contend that the condition of Canadian trade under the present highly artificial tariff is one of unstable equilibrium, and they are waiting till depression creates a desire for change, to commence in earnest an agitation which will rapidly assume formidable proportions.

NORTHWEST SPECULATION.

If the object of the government in its Northwest land policy is to encourage speculation, that policy must be pronounced a triumphant success. Every few days we have a new city thrown on the market here, and the lots find ready purchasers at auction. Many who buy these lots will find themselves bitten, but the craze to own land in the Northwest is too strong to be resisted. There will be a general rush for the formation of colonization companies under the new regulations, and the process will be over-done, but meanwhile the excitement is kept up and this is probably what the government want. It will be strange if the regulations do not come in for a good deal of notice during the coming session at Ottawa.

THE "CATHOLIC LEAGUE."

Not much has been heard for some years about this once celebrated body, but for two weeks past it has again been before the public as the result of a discussion in the columns of the Irish Canadian. Mr. Peter Ryan, who ran a few months ago as the Liberal candidate for West Toronto, was denounced by a correspondent of that journal, because he took part in the canvass in East Northumberland against Mr. Kennedy, and in rejoinder he took the bold ground, that though an Irish Catholic, he had no sympathy with the movement which seeks to unite all Catholics, irrespective of political leanings with a view to securing increased representation. This called forth a letter from Mr. John O'Donohoe, who was charged by the Conservatives with lending the force of the League to the Liberal party in 1871 and 1872, and who openly opposed the Liberals in 1878 because Mr. Mackenzie declined to take him into his Cabinet. All the efforts of Mr. O'Donohoe have not succeeded in uniting the Catholics of this city, and if he has not made more progress in other places he will be a venerable politician before he has the honor of leading a Catholic contingent of any consequence in the House of Commons.

IN GENERAL.

Though not much has been heard recently about the "social evil," those who have the crusade in charge are not resting on their oars. They are quietly and humanely making provision for the reception of abandoned women into institutions where they will be cared for and when this is done they will again urge on the authorities a more vigorous policy of suppression of houses of ill-fame. They can make it very uncomfortable for the police magistrate and commissioners if the time-honoured plan of tolerating the evil is not abandoned.

The return of "Jimuel Briggs," the Globe's Irish special, is to be signalized by a banquet, the movement being largely supported by those who sympathise with land league views, but having its origin with members of the city press, amongst whom Mr. Thompson is a general favourite.

Railway matters continue lively. The Midland amalgamation scheme will be accepted by the Legislature without much difficulty, though the Railway Committee of the Assembly may impose some conditions as to periodical revision of freight tariffs, seeing that the amalgamation will have the effect of billing off competition. The Toronto, Grey, and Bruce will be the subject of a double application to the Legislature. The Hendrie party who are now in possession, will ask for a repeal of the restriction which prevents them from amalgamating with any other road unless by consent of the Ontario government, the object being to consolidate with the Great Western and Ontario and Quebec. The Grand Trunk party will ask for an interpretation of the provision in the Act of last session giving the "shareholders" alone the right to vote on a proposal for amalgamation. Mr. Hendrie and his friends obtained control of the road by means of the bonds not the shares. The entrance of the Ontario and Quebec into the city will have to be by the rear. It is expected to run back of Toronto till it strikes the Credit Valley line along which it will, if the proposed amalgamation is carried out, have right of way.

Old Mr. Capreol, the original projector of the Northern Railway, is now a monomaniac on the Harontario Ship Canal question. He tried last week to secure the endorsation of the Board of Trade, but the Council of that body "sat on" his scheme and declared it unworthy of being prosecuted. This will not keep Mr. Capreol down however, for he is the living embodiment of the saying, that "hope springs eternal in the human breast."

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Your Norwood readers will be glad to learn that Mr. A. Fowler has consented to remain some time longer here, a renewal of engagement at the last moment having been effected between him and Mr. Fraser.

RESIGNED.

Owing to ill-health, and acting upon the advice of her physician, Miss Emma Waters has been compelled to resign her appointment as teacher in the Norwood Public School, which thereby loses the services of an excellent teacher. The trustees are now endeavoring to obtain another suitable teacher for the primary department of the Public School.

RUNAWAY.

As two daughters of the Rev. W. A. Pattyson, of this place, were driving in a cutter a short distance in the country about a week ago, the horse, taking advantage of the little sleighing off the road, went into the ditch and upset the cutter, which of course capsized, throwing out the young ladies; but, without sustaining any injury. The horse took fright, and bolted, leaving the cutter (minus the shafts) as well as the occupants behind him. The cutter was pretty well wrecked.

TRUSTEES' ELECTION.

The election of trustees to fill the vacancies in the Norwood School Board caused by the retirement of Messrs. Jas. Jotcham and Alex. Kempt, took place here on Wednesday of last week. The candidates were Jas. Jotcham, Rev. W. A. Pattyson and Thos. Fraser. There was a spirited contest, and the first time in Norwood so much interest was manifested in an election of this kind. At the close of the poll the vote stood: T. Fraser, 87; James Jotcham, 70; and the Rev. Mr. Pattyson, 59. The villagers rejoice upon the election of Mr. Jotcham, as it is conceded that that portion of the section not within the limits of the village is entitled to a voice in the School board; and, even granting this, he is a worthy member of that corporation, and consistently discharges his duty to the ratepayers of the school section generally.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATION.

The examination for entrance to the High School has been a little disappointing as far as the Norwood Public School is concerned. The result has shewn that only two candidates, Matthew Elliott and Jennie Mahony—have reached the figures on each paper entitling them to pass into the High School from the Public School. Another from the Norwood school, Ida Pattyson, has been recommended for promotion, and the probabilities are in favor of her succeeding. It is very satisfactory to know that all the candidates from the Norwood school were exceedingly well up in their work, and that the marks recorded in their favor on the whole exceeded those from any other school. The candidates who passed from the neighboring schools were Annie Nicoll, Alfred Nicoll and Johanna Mahony.

SMANTYING.

Owing to the want of snow the saw-log shanties in our northern townships are being considerably retarded in their operations, as a few parties who have large contracts of logs to get out have been compelled to curtail the number of hands in their employment, and have been prevented from conveying to the front those they have already skidded. A large amount of saw logs have already been cut in this district and are awaiting a further instalment of snow for shipment to their destinations.

FOR WARKWORTH.

Our band has been engaged to play at Warkworth on Friday evening, on the occasion of the opening of a large skating rink there. The popularity of our band has secured them many remunerative engagements from home; and as that village always secures the services of this band at all large gatherings it is quite evident the Warkworthites must be highly pleased with their playing. The more credit, therefore, is due the bandmaster, Mr. W. Mullens, for his untiring efforts in bringing our musicians up to their present high standard of efficiency.

LIES DON'T TELL TWICE.

Sir Charles Tupper said the other day, "I can dress as well as I or any other Minister of the Crown need wish—I can dress in comfort and luxury without contributing one farthing to the revenue of this country under the policy of the day." We would like to hear how it could be done. Our hats, gloves, ties and tweeds all cost more than they did before the protective tariff was "the policy of the day." It is all right to tell us that protection has done good in broad grounds, but there is no use telling us that we can buy our hats or our gloves at the same price that we could before the last elections. It is statements of this kind that make the people sceptical of everything that politicians say, for no man in his senses can believe that Sir Charles was right when he said that he could dress becomingly without contributing a farthing to the revenue of this country under the policy of the day.—Montreal Star (Protectionist.)

Six different women were fatally burned this fall while making soft soap. How much safer and better to rub the children's faces with a brick.

Midland District Notes.

Clipped, Compiled and Condensed from County and other Convenient Contemporaries.

The Emily town hall in Omemee has been sold to Mr. Thomas Stephenson for $300.

Mr. Walter Elliott, teacher in S. S. 8, Emily, was presented by his pupils with a complimentary address and a handsome album at the close of the term.

On Friday morning about eleven o'clock, Jeremiah Twohey, an old man over sixty years of age, was found dead in bed, in Toronto, and his wife lying in a drunken stupor across his feet.

There were twenty-seven new buildings erected last year in Campbellford. Several other houses are partially built, and many more are in contemplation for next season's work.

Mr. Lewis Ross, of Port Hope, was re-elected Trustee by a majority of 35 over Mr. Gibson, on Wednesday of last week. As usual the Tory element of that town introduced politics into the election.

Several men from Durham county, who took up free grant lands in the Souris district, North-West territory, have been informed that the land they occupy is syndicate land and now they must pay $2.50 per acre for it.

Petitions are being circulated in Belleville, asking for the amendment of the law of evidence so as to permit of the affirmation of unbelievers being received under the same conditions as evidence taken under oath.

The barns and stables of Mr. Jasper Locke, who resides in Seymour, were destroyed by fire on Wednesday night. The buildings contained about fourteen thousand bushels of grain besides a number of farm implements. The loss is estimated at $6,000; there is an insurance of $600.

The election of members for the Emily municipal council resulted as follows:—For reeve, Mr. John Bailey, 231; Mr. Thomas Stephenson, 155. Deputy-reeve, Mr. Wm. Miller, 222; Mr. J. J. Mitchell, 157. Councillors, Mr. W. S. Graham, 151; Mr. Julius Lowes, 184; Mr. T. H. McQuade, 155; Mr. Dennis Scully, 217.

Tenders have been asked for the construction of Pogue's bridge, over Pigeon creek on the boundary between Ops and Emily. Think of it, a boundary between two townships like the above, 15 years impassable for want of a bridge which may be constructed entirely and well for $500.

Two cars of the Grand Junction morning train from Madoc ran off the track near Foxboro' on Thursday morning. The baggage and smoking cars were thrown down an embankment and almost demolished. The passenger car was also thrown off, but none of the passengers were hurt. The cause of the accident was a broken rail.

Mr. S. N. Church, an old and well-known resident of Port Hope, was killed on Thursday last on the Wabash R. R. at Reddick, about fifteen miles west of Chicago. He was working in the yard, and in making what is known as a "flying shunt," missed his footing and was crushed by the cars.

A man named Harry Simpson was missed from Bobcaygeon early in November and was believed to have gone to Harvey, but on Saturday week his body was found lying in shallow water against one of the abutments of the iron bridge Bobcaygeon. No one knows how long it has been there, and it was thought by the numerous persons who saw it to be an old trunk, until a man who was passing under the bridge in a boat discovered what it was.

Mr. Howson, Reeve of Bobcaygeon, has received a letter from Mr. Cox, President of the Midland Railway, in which he gives the assurance that as soon as his company has obtained Parliamentary powers legalizing the amalgamation, the company will be quite ready to carry out the arrangement suggested by Mr. Cox for the construction of the Bobcaygeon branch. That suggestion was that the municipalities and persons interested should purchase the right of way and grade the road, and the Midland would then furnish all material, lay the rails, and work the line. This is all we can reasonably expect. It is noticeable that the Midland Railway are now advertising for tenders for the construction of the Peterborough and Omemee link. Independent.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 12, 1882.

Cheaper Postage.

We believe it is capable of substantial proof that all measures affecting the general welfare of the people, and showing enlightened and progressive legislation, have emanated from the Reform party. Their proposals have been conceived in a wise, broad, liberal spirit, and have often been adopted by their political opponents when the din of controversy has passed away. Ordinarily, your Tory sets himself against change until public opinion demands it—nay, compels it. Knowing this, perhaps we are too sanguine in expecting those now in power to take up the matter of cheaper postage. With a surplus in the Treasury, however, which which has been extorted by means of excessive taxation, it would seem well to press upon the authorities some changes in the obnoxious tariff. Sir Leonard Tilley, with that lack of true statesmanship which is most surprising, has succeeded in paralyzing the tea trade by the announcement of his intention to abolish the tax on tea and coffee. Doubtless, other, and perhaps more important, modifications in the existing tariff will be made during the approaching session of Parliament. But before the question of re-adjustment comes up, before any changes whatever are enacted, we should like to see the press take up the question of a reduction in the present rates of postage. Surely on such a point there can be a general agreement. Whatever may be our views as regards protection, (and we have not been slow in upholding them when required,) or whatever may be the views of others, we think it is in the public interest for the Dominion press to advocate at present a reduction in postal charges on letters and newspapers, and to agitate until their wishes are carried out.

There can be no doubt that the primary and legitimate function of our postal service is to transmit intelligence and diffuse knowledge at the cheapest possible rate. The aim of the Government should be, not to act simply as carriers, but as educators. Letters, newspapers, magazines, and all similar kinds of literature are the direct means of realizing this end. It is hardly too much to say that now and here, the press is a greater power than either the pulpit or the platform. If so, an enlightened government ought to acknowledge this, and so reduce postal charges to the lowest rate consistent with an efficient service. The very broadest, best and cheapest facilities should be afforded for the free, large and frequent intercourse of our people with each other. Every reduction made in the past as respects letter postage has been wisely made. They have not only been productive of good, but have also been the means of increasing, rather than diminishing, the revenue. We would none of us care to go back willingly to the days of exorbitant letter rates. When railroad communication was unknown, of course high rates were a necessity, but that day has passed.

We would suggest a still further reduction of letter postage from three cents to one cent throughout the Dominion, and a corresponding reduction in newspaper rates. Why do we advocate this? Because, first, the benefits which would accrue to the people through its adoption would be very great. These advantages do not require enumeration. Secondly, because we are certain the Government could carry out such a measure without entailing any great loss. This seems feasible from the following considerations: We are now supplied with printed post cards—the Government purchasing the paper, printing the card, and carrying it anywhere we wish through Canada or the States for one cent. We can despatch printed circulars or any other printed matter in open envelopes for a like sum. These are both excellent ideas, and have proved immensely useful and popular. Why should not the plan be extended? If the sender provides paper and envelope, surely the Government can carry the letter at as low a rate as they can supply and forward the post card or circular. If this has been done hitherto, as we believe, without loss, the adoption of the uniform rate of one cent, for letters, is quite practicable also, and would, we are convinced, largely augment the receipts without entailing a corresponding increase of cost. We commend the suggestion to our confreres of the press, and respectfully ask for it the attention of members of Parliament. That its adoption would meet with general approval and prove of immense service to the people must be admitted by all.

In all countries there is, we believe, generally speaking, a slight deficit in the postal accounts. The net revenue for the Dominion, accruing during the year ending 30th June, 1880, was $1,720,838.31, while the total expenditure was $1,818,271.05; but the deficiency is comparatively trifling, and should not be looked upon as any bar to a reduction in the postal rates. We understand the United States postal service shows a total deficit of over two millions of dollars. But, the Postmaster-General explains that the greater part of this deficiency is owing to the low rates charged for the carriage of common merchandise, and that the railways receive too much for their services. Should these defects be remedied as he proposes, he declares it quite possible to reduce the rates of letter postage at least to two cents. We see no reason why a uniform rate of one cent is not quite practicable, and we hope to see it adopted before many years. At any rate it is quite time some one, other than the printer, paid the postage on newspapers.

Editorial Notes.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD will be 68 years of age next month.

SIR LEONARD TILLEY has modified the terms of his circular to bankers, so that the latter are now satisfied.

THE name of Hon. John Carling is mentioned as the successor to the late Hon. David Christie in the Senate.

THE Civil Service deputation told John A. to his face the other day at Ottawa that the price of living has increased.

CHICAGO claims to be the only city in the world whose health department supervises the erection of every house built within the city limits.

TENDERS are called for the erection of the new Parliament Buildings at Toronto. Two sets of plans and specifications are to be tendered on, and time is allowed till February 16th for contractors to get ready.

THE death is announced of W. C. Little, M.P., who has represented South Simcoe in the Commons from 1867 to the the date of his death. In politics he was a staunch Conservative.

GUITEAU says his lecture on "Hell" failed because, while people were willing to pay fifty cents to hear Ingersoll prove there is no hell, they are not willing to pay one cent to hear a lecture sustaining the idea of hell.

A CLAMOR for an increase in the tariff is now in order, for if excessive imports from the United States ruined Canada in 1878 something should be done to avert ruin in 1882. Surely Sir Leonard Tilley will not allow the intention of the N. P. to be defeated.

WHO says the exodus is dying out? The Port Huron Times states that during the month of November there were 5,437 Canadian emigrants entered at that port as permanent residents of the United States. Of these 5,393 were from Quebec and Ontario.

THE fact that the Government will not burn coal at Ottawa except it comes from the United States, shows how utterly hypocritical is the pretence that they wish to force the consumption of Nova Scotian coal. The coal tax is an odious sectional impost, and the Government are impostors.

THE Ministerial candidate for the Commons in New Westminster, in place of Dr. McInnes, will be Hon. W. J. Armstrong, who was formally Finance Minister under the Walkem Government, and at present one of the three members representing that district in the British Columbia Legislature.

THE tragedy in Annapolis county, N.S., where a pretended deaf mute attempted to murder the two children of a woman who had just given him a shelter for the night, appears to be surrounded with a good deal of mystery. No motive whatever is given for the commission of the crime, which appears to have been an act of pure wantonness.

A NEW campaign in favor of an Englishman marrying his deceased wife's sister is about to open on an increased scale in England. It will also open in Canada at the ensuing session of Parliament, and it is expected that a Bill carrying out the improvement will be passed by both Houses. The Commons has already endorsed the innovation, but the Senate declined to countenance the change.

THE Minister of Education has ordered an investigation into the management of Education Depository at Toronto and Judge Saubler of St. Catherines has been at work on it for some days. Unfortunately for himself Mr. Crooks has chosen to hold the inquest with closed doors and this will prevent the evidence from reaching the public. It is a very great mistake for the government to make a mystery out of a matter of this sort. The reputation of Dr. May is in question of course, but if he is innocent publicity cannot hurt him and if he is guilty of the charge made against him he has no right to the protection of secrecy. The submission of the evidence to the Assembly, and even its publication amongst the sessional records, is a poor substitute for the ventilation the management of the the Depository would have received at the hands of the press, as a matter of news.

IT SEEMS by a recent judicial decision that in the Province of Quebec marriages between Catholics and Protestants, if not celebrated by Catholic ecclesiastical authorities, may be set aside by the Catholic Church as illegal. It would not require a very great stretch of imagination to fancy a case where this law might lead to unpleasant complications. The remedy lies with the Local Legislature of the Province.

THE Minister of Public Instruction again calls the attention of teachers to the provisions of the Public School Law in respect to the use of text-books. Public School Inspectors are required to see that no unauthorized books are used in the Public Schools. Trustees who permit such will loose their share of the Public School Grant, and Teachers substituting any such book for an authorized Text-Book is liable to be convicted and fined for such offence.

THE Reformers of the Province are acting on the advice given them by the leader, and are organizing in many municipalities. Those who have not done so cannot take united action in preparation for the forthcoming contest too soon. There were three gatherings of Reformers last week—one at Waterford, another at Mitchell, and the third at Orillia. The South Perth Reform Association was re-organized at Mitchell, and a resolution was passed expressing the fullest confidence in the principles of the Opposition in the House of Commons under the leadership of the Hon. Edward Blake, also entire confidence in the Government of the Province of Ontario, under the leadership of the Hon. Oliver Mowat. At Waterford, addresses were delivered by Mr. J. B. Freeman, M. P. P., and Mr. Charlton, M. P. The latter delivered a two-hours' address, fully exposing the manner in which the farmers, not benefitted by the N. P., had been imposed upon by the party now in power. He showed that the surplus was due merely to largely increased taxation, and that the improvement in the times was due to a general improvement throughout the world, to better harvests, a better foreign demand, and a great boom in the lumber trade.

The London Free Press thinks it a good thing to raise a large surplus each year by taxation as by that means we are saved the necessity of borrowing money for the construction of public works. The Free Press will find it difficult to get the taxpayers to adopt this view. Suppose a county wishes to improve its roads and that in order to carry out an adequate scheme it must expend a hundred thousand dollars. The Free Press would have the ratepayers raise the whole amount by taxation in one or two years instead of borrowing the money and spreading the repayment over a long term of years. The public works of Canada, including the Canada Pacific railway, are of a permanent character. The next generation will derive more benefit from the expenditure in connection with them than the present generation will. Why then should the people be taxed so heavily now in order to lighten the burdens of those who are coming after them? The true policy is to raise only revenue enough to meet the ordinary expenditure of the year, including charges on the public debt, and when the tariff does meet more than this it ought to be lowered.

Munro & Alexander will have the Nicest Millinery Room in Peterboro', when in their New Store. ☞Mantles and Mantle-making will receive a very large share of their attention.

ONTARIO PARLIAMENT.

(Bobcaygeon Independent.)

Next week our Local Parliament will assemble, and the collective wisdom of Ontario will proceed to discuss various subjects, and will continue the discussion for the couple of months which usually forms a session. They will perform a fair share of real business, and that business they always perform very efficiently, but it is probable that the most marked feature of the session will be the absence of anything of an exciting or even of an interesting character. Our Province is admirably governed. We have the best of laws; the Government is cheap, is responsible, and is readily reached; we have liberty in its widest and broadest form; we have reasonable security for both person and property; and the whole Province is steadily advancing in its material prosperity. What then can we expect from the Provincial Government except a careful and judicious expenditure of the Provincial revenue? That is all they have to do, in addition to easing off and fitting the laws to the altering exigencies of the times. All this our legislators do very well, and when some silly and unthinking people raise a little cry for cutting down their indemnity, or reducing their numbers, or for holding less frequent sessions, we take no heed of the cry, and patting the Legislators on the back bid them continue to be good boys and fear no ill consequences. What is most noticeable is this: party politics have been almost entirely eliminated from the Provincial Chamber. Mr. Meredith, it is true, still continues to represent a Tory opposition, but it is of the most vague character, and is so shadowy as to be almost phantasmagorical. Mr. Mowat, on the other hand, is by no means a Grit of the Howling persuasion. He is one of the most prettily behaved of Premiers, and it is chiefly to him that we owe the exclusion of party politics from the Provincial Parliament, and the fairness and justice that has marked the Provincial legislation.

TEAS! TEAS!

CHINA and JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic use, there is none perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand in the aggregate than TEA.

Notwithstanding the increased demand yet the price of TEAS is lower to-day than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have procured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

FIRST:—A more extended and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea producing countries.

SECOND:—Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and

THIRD:—Increased and closer competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grade, modes o adulteration, and tests for detection, see "ads" to follow.

Meantime we offer JAPAN TEA at 40c. per pound. NONE BETTER. TRY IT!

A GOOD LISTENER

We know a lady who is the envy of her sex, because she is popular with young and old men and women. Some one asked her the secret of her popularity, "I am a good listener," she modestly said.

This lady has what a Frenchman calls "a great talent for silence," a rare gift, by the way, which implies both wisdom and self-control.

She also listens well, because she listens with mind, soul and body. An observer would say, "she's all attention." Her mind is fixed on what the talker is saying. Her eyes never wander nor stare vacantly, and her attitude is of respectful interest.

She is silent, but not dumb, for her manner speaks so sympathetically, that even poor talkers become interesting, when conversing with her. The diffident leave her presence thinking well of themselves, but more highly of the good listener who has coaxed their best out of them. She is not a passive recipient, for she has made herself an educated woman by listening.

"He who speaks, sows—he who listens, reaps," says some thoughtful observer. The young love to talk, and are, therefore, poor listeners. But if they only knew how much of wholesome discipline and education may be gained from listening to conversation, they would try to become good hearers.

One of Henry Clay's gifts was the ability to listen. It made him the idol of society. Even children loved him, he seemed so charmed with their prattle.

Daniel Webster impressed men for he was a good talker. But he was an indifferent listener, and sometimes his friends were oppressed.

But the most impressive of talkers and the poorest of listeners was the late M. Thiers. His friends used to say that he would listen to them only when he was shaving. A man is not likely to be personally popular whose monologue ceases only when he fears he may gash his throat by talking.

Good breeding, and this is a fact the young should know, leads to good listening. A gentleman or a lady is modest, and, therefore, society is more eager to learn than to teach. A low-bred person views the company as so many beggars upon whom it is charitable to bestow the alarm of his small-talk. Sometimes he is so conceited that he plays the part of one who throws pennies into a crowd of ragamuffins, expecting them to scramble for them.

Of course there are gabblers whose talk will bore the good listener. "But if the sermon should be poor," says pious Simeon, "then God takes the text and preaches patience from it." The gentleman, or the lady, is always equal to the emergency which calls for self-denial.

MUNICIPAL REFORM.

The municipal excitement which prevailed in the city of London has been watched by many outsiders with more than ordinary interest. Disgusted with continued mismanagement the Board of Trade of the city, assisted by other prominent citizens took the bull by the horns and went to work with a will and determination to have much needed reforms effected. Not only did they put a strong ticket in the field on nomination day; they also had submitted to the electors a series of questions of a somewhat radical kind. Eight of the candidates nominated by the citizens were returned at the head of the polls with a number of the old aldermen who had shown capacity for good municipal work. The matter, however, which concerns outsiders is that the city seems to have gone strongly for radical changes in the mode of governing the city. The abolition of ward appropriations was carried by a vote of 965 against 152. There is no mistaking what that vote means. The appointment of a permanent engineer to superintend public improvements was carried by a vote of 1,111 to 29. That means that the people of London are tired of throwing money into mud holes. By a vote of 719 to 359 it was decided that the number of aldermen should be reduced, and by a vote of 528 to 426 it was resolved to reduce the number of wards. One thing is clear: London has pronounced the municipal law a failure so far as that city is concerned. London is not alone in that opinion as a little time will show.

The worst kind of rheumatism is the spare roomatism. Many an unhappy guest has been crowded in between its icy sheets and died of it.

WHAT IS RESPECTABLE SOCIETY.

We heard a man, otherwise intelligent enough, lately sneer at another "because" said he, "one never meets him in respectable society!" The speaker did not mean, however, that the person he affected to look down upon was immoral, but merely that his circle of intimates were not composed of the fashionable and rich.

This notion of what constitutes respectable society, is quite a favorite one with that class of individuals whom Thackeray happily significantly called "snobs." Empty pretense always makes its own characteristics a standard by which it strives to measure the respectability of persons at large. In a community of mere money-getters wealth is the test of respectability. Among the proud, narrow minded, effete nobility of the Fauburg St. Germain respectability depends upon being descendants from ancestors who have married their cousins for so many centuries that neither muscles nor brains are left any longer to degenerate descendants. With the dandy officers who constitute a considerable portion of the American navy respectability consists in having sponged on "Uncle Sam," in wearing gilt buttons, and in jilting tailors. Every conceited fool thinks himself in like way the only man really weighty, the only person who is respectable.

But true respectability depends on no such adventitious circumstances. To be respectable is to be worthy of respect; and he deserves respect who has most virtue. The humblest man who bravely does his duty, is more worthy of respect, is more truly respectable, than the covetous millionaire among his money bags, or the arrogant monarch on his throne.

The fine lady who backbites her neighbor is less worthy of respect than an honest wash woman. The profligate noble, though he may wear a dozen orders, is often not really as respectable as the shoeblack who cleans boots. That which exalts "the world" exalts the one and despises the other; but it does not make them respectable according to the real meaning of that word. Their respectability is but a hollow sham, as they themselves frequently feel, and those who worship them bow down to a Fetish, a thing of feathers and tinsel. The selfish, idle drone, who wastes life, in his own gratification, and dissipates the fortune of his progeny, is not and cannot be respectable, but the hard-working self-denying father, who wears out his life to bring up his children, is, even though he be but a day laborer. Nothing can make Dives fit to lie upon Abraham's bosom, while Lazarus is welcomed there, even with the sores the dogs have licked.

This false view of life, which would measure respectability by a conventional standard is totally at variance with our republican institutions. It creates an "imperium in imperio," for, while the law declares all citizens equal, it erects a social standard which endeavors to ignore that great truth. The coarse, brutish, knavish profligate, criminal—in short, all who fall short of their duty to themselves and their fellow-men—are those who are not respectable; and this whether they are rich or poor. While those who live honestly, and strive to do what they can, constitute in reality the respectable class, irrespective of the fact whether they eat with silver forks or steel ones.

HOW THE WOMEN OF FRANCE ARE LOVED.

The Provencal women are the stateliest, most queenlike specimen of their sex that I have ever seen. Tall, well-formed, strong, with piercing black eyes and bronzed faces, they charm the eye and attract the heart of the lover of the beautiful. There is ever, too, a smile upon their lips, a reflection of the sun's rays from their pretty faces, as they chatter in their old Provencal dialect.

In any other country but France these faces would photograph themselves upon the hearts of men and rouse a passion which only its return could soothe. Men would love, live, fight, or die for the women of Provence—at least Englishmen would—but such things are unknown in France, I do not say unknown here only, but unknown in France. The Paris exquisite may affect a taste in women as he does in horses. He may even spend his time and money in their pursuit, but as a nation, and with rare exceptions, the love of women as women does not exist in France.

To the Frenchman the woman is everything except his heart's love. She is his business partner, in fact, the managing partner of the business while he lives in his case. In the country she is his laboring man, his purse-keeper, his adviser, often his master. To the professional man she is the mother of his children, the bringer of a certain dot to the family store. In politics she is the center around which men congregate; in religion, the deputy and representative of all mankind at church; but in the heart of a Frenchman she has no place and no home.

What I say generally of France I say particularly of this place and all country places—marriages are made as business partnerships are made, with a due regard to business arrangements on all sides and without any reference whatsoever to the impulses of the heart. Only a few days ago one of our handsome young fellows gave up one of the prettiest girls, whose parents are rich, because the sum of hard cash to be handed over to him on the day of the marriage was not equal to his demands. He will now, of course, look for another wife as he would look for another farm, with a sole regard to its income-bearing prospects.

A YEAR OF PEACE AND GOOD WILL.

The New York Tribune remarks that "1881 ought to have been a year of peace and good will, for it witnessed the completion of a great religious work—the revision of the King James Version of the New Testament. Yet the annals are stained with blood. In two capitals there has been dastardly assassination; in two weak States there has been active military campaigns—one of them a wanton act of foreign aggression, and the other the humiliating expiation of a national crime; and in the unhappiest quarter of the globe, distracted Ireland, the olive branch of remedial legislation has been thrust aside and the conspiracy against rent paying has been aggravated by midnight murders and the worst forms of agrarian crime. Washington has been the point of commanding interest to which the eyes of mankind have been directed during the year. The assassination of the President of a free people, more atrocious in itself than the murder of a despotic Czar, was rendered more memorable by an agonizing struggle for life and the prayers and sympathies of all nations."

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 12, 1882.

NOTICE.

Parties having accounts against the EXAMINER Office will oblige by forwarding them at once, in order that we may get our books closed up to January 1st. We are now balancing our books for the year 1881, and desire all who have any accounts due to this office for subscription, printing, or advertising, etc., to call in and settle up. We do not intend, and will not carry over into another year a lot of petty accounts which are owing to us and have not been paid through the thoughtlessness and negligence alone of the parties. It is an exploded idea that a printing office exists, "man knows not from whence," but they require the inevitable amount of solid cash to run the establishment with any degree of comfort and satisfaction. As we have heretofore sent out some accounts, and sufficient attention has not been paid to them, we now give notice that all such accounts will be placed in professional hands for collection. Such a mode of collection entails considerable expense to debtors and it is only as a last resort we like to make use of such means. We regret that we have had to collect accounts in court. We therefore hope that all will "come down" handsomely and save both themselves and this office unnecessary trouble.

Railway Competition.

The Hamilton Spectator, replying to the arguments of the Winnipeg Free Press in favour of allowing local rivals to the Pacific Railway to be constructed, says:

It is a little singular that none of these enterprising friends of the Free Press never thought of building independent lines until the Government by a liberal expenditure of money had encouraged a large increase in the population there and made railway traffic profitable, when they want to go in and reap the harvest the Government has sown. Why did not some of them go in and build the first line, and save the Government that expense? There would have been no trouble about the charter then. But do the sc ritics ever reflect that in that case they would have been no nearer to competition than they are now? For if the private parties had constructed the road certainly the Gov rnment would not have done so. The only difference would have been that whereas the syndicate will be compelled to make a tariff of rates to meet the views of the Government, the independent company would have made a tariff to suit themselves, and that would have corresponded to the traffic on other frontier roads, say ten cents a mile for passengers and five cents per ton per mile for freight.

More insufferable rubbish than this was never written on the question. The Canada Pacific Railway is no more a government railway now than the Grand Trunk is, and therefore its welfare is of no more interest to the people than is that of any other large railway corporation. Nothing is more certain now than that the Northwest would have been amply supplied with railways by private competition had the government not created the Syndicate at all. The very men who have received so excessive a bonus in money and land would have penetrated the country in search for their Minnesota line and the Northern Pacific would have done the same. That there will yet be competition is just as certain. No government will be allowed to trifle with the interests of a free people by handing them over to a soulless and grasping corporation, and if Sir John Macdonald ventures to act on the advice so assiduously tendered him by his organs he will make the greatest political blunder of his career.

SCHOOL BOARD.

The last meeting of the Board of Education for 1881 was held in the Board Rooms on Tuesday evening last. Present,—James Stevenson, Esq., Chairman, and Messrs. Burnham, McClelland, Stratton, Wrighton, Rutherford, Deane, Dumble and Poussette.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were presented, and having been certified to were ordered to be paid:

Peter Connal & Co	2 04
Adam Hall	4 31
Lockhart & Chowen	1 20
John McKee	1 48

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the Minister of Education, a circular in reference to the use of Text Books.

From the Principal of the Public Schools, a statement of the attendance at the schools during the month of December, as follows:

	On Roll.	Average.
Central School	496	433
South Ward	231	203
West Ward	154	133

From J. Braden, Principal of the Public School, stating that the Public Schools opened on Monday, 9th instant, with a large attendance, there being in the Central School 521 pupils, in the South Ward School 207, and in the West Ward 143, making a total in all of 871.

The Secretary presented and read his financial report and statement for the year 1881, which, on motion of Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Deane, was received and adopted, and ordered to be published in the EXAMINER, Review and Times.

EXAMINATIONS AND SCHOOL OPENING.

Moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Dr. Burnham,—That the Secretary be instructed to notify all the teachers that the Board desires that the examinations, usually taking place at the close of each term, be held on the last two or three days of the term, so as to avoid the inconvenience to pupils and loss of time consequent on holding them from one to two weeks before a term terminates; also, that the teachers be notified that their presence is required on the first day of the opening of the schools after vacations, so as to allow work to be proceeded with at once without any unnecessary delay.—Carried.

In moving the resolution Mr. Stratton said it was a common practice in the High Schools to hold the class examinations for promotions, some eight or ten days previous to the close of each term. After the result of these examinations became known the pupils were indifferent about attending, and the consequence was that so few attended that the rooms were closed generally about a week earlier than they should. It has also been a habit with some teachers to remain away one or two days after the date fixed for the opening of the schools. Through this cause much time was lost to the pupils before the rooms became organized.

NUMBER OF CHILDREN ATTENDING SCHOOL.

Moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Rutherford,—That the Chairman of this Board be instructed to confer with the Mayor and Town Council, with a view to having another column added to the assessment roll, and having their assessor instructed to place in said column the number of children between the age of 7 and 12 years in each family, in the town, so as to afford definite information as to the attendance at school of children between said ages, making the distinction usual as to religious faith of parents, so that the Board may be in a position in future to enforce the school law where it is not being complied with.—Carried.

EXPRESSION OF GOOD FEELING.

Moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. McClelland, that the Board cannot allow the retirement of D. W. Dumble, Esq., and W. Toole, Esq., to take place without placing on record the feeling of deep regret felt by all the members. They have been both trustees for a number of years, and have been regular in their attendance and constant in their devotion to the best interests of education in the town, always enjoying the confidence of their fellow-trustees, who take this opportunity of expressing their deep felt regret on account of their absence from the deliberations of this board.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

"Extraordinary Sale of Dry Goods," is the new Advertisement of the well-known firm of W. Fairweather & Co., and from the conversation we had with one of the firm, we understand that they are to make a Clean Sweep of their whole stock, and at such prices as cannot fail to be an object to all purchasers of such goods. We were told that their Black and Coloured Silks, Velvets, Millinery and Mantles, with their whole stock of Clothing, would be made a Special Inducement.

Fancy Goods of all kinds, to clear off, will almost be given away. Such a large stock as $30,000 worth of first-class goods thrown into the market at such prices cannot fail to be an object to every cash buyer of Dry Goods and Clothing, &c. Embrace the opportunity and get the bargains.

TOWN COUNCIL.

A regular meeting of the Town Council was held last Monday evening. Present,—His Worship the Mayor, and Councillors Cahill, McNaughton, Paterson, Chamberlain, Yelland, Douglas, Rutherford, Menzies, Hartley and Richardson.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

THE MCCOMB FIRES.

The Mayor stated that, owing to several attempts having been made to set fire to the premises of George McComb, he had been requested by Mr. McComb and others to take steps to enquire into the cause of the same. He had directed Mr. McGhee to enquire into the matter, which that officer had done, and had handed him the following report:

To H. H. Smith, Esq., Mayor:

SIR,—At your request I have made a thorough examination of the bakery in Mr. George McComb's yard, alleged to have been set on fire on the evening of the 3rd instant, and find that there have been three separate attempts made to burn the bakery, and two attempts to burn the stables and sheds of Mr. McComb and Mr. E. Phalen, situate in the same yard.

JOHN MCGHEE.

He thought if a Coroner's Inquest was held so that persons could be examined under oath, information might be obtained that would lead to the conviction of the guilty parties.

Mr. McComb addressed the Council, relating the circumstances of the several attempts to fire his buildings.

Police Constable McGhee said he believed an enquiry would do good, but he did not think an inquest would lead to the conviction of any one.

After a short discussion Mr. Menzies moved, seconded by Mr. Hartley,—That a reward of $100 be given for the apprehension of the parties who set fire to Mr. McComb's premises.

The Mayor said that from the statements made to him, as Mayor, he believed that an inquest would bring out evidence that would lead to conviction. The circumstances were very suspicious.

Moved by Mr. Paterson, seconded by Mr. Yelland,—That the Mayor be instructed to take steps to have a Coroner's Inquest held on the late attempts to set fire to the premises of Mr. Geo. McComb, and that Dr. Bell act as Coroner, and that he be instructed not to exceed thirty dollars in costs.—Carried.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Mr. Paterson, Chairman of the Finance Committee, submitted the following report:

The Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend the payment of the following accounts:

That Geo. Loudan's request be granted, and that his statute labor tax be struck off, he being assessed for real estate.

John Edmison and Joseph Pine, asking a rebate of taxes on property destroyed by fire, would refer them to the Court of Revision.

John Ballantyne, asking a refund of taxes. The amount asked for has already been allowed.

Moses Rongea, asking to be relieved of water taxes, as he has never got any benefit. Recommended that the amount (56 cents) be remitted.

We examined the contract with the Gas Company and found it satisfactory, and recommend that the Mayor and Clerk sign the same.

We recommend that Mr. John McGhee's request, viz: that the Council pay the account of $28 for a suit of clothes be granted.

Mr. Paterson moved, seconded by Mr. Rutherford, the adoption of the report.

CONSTABLE MCGHEE'S UNIFORM.

Mr. McNaughton objected to the item of $22.00 for a suit of clothes for Constable McGhee. That officer had been engaged at $400 a year, with the understanding that he was to provide his own uniform. He was well aware of this when he made the engagement, and if he had not liked the terms of the By-Law making the appointment he should not have accepted the position. He had in the beginning of the year been paid $20 for a uniform, and now he had gone and ordered another suit at the expense of the town. He had also had three weeks holidays during the summer, which, when all put together, amounted to quite a nice sum.

Mr. Douglas seconded the resolution.

Mr. Hartley asked if this $22 was the same as had been voted some time ago.

The Mayor said this was another item. Mr. McGhee had performed a great deal of extra services during the past fall, and on that ground he held that he was entitled to some extra remuneration, and asked the Council to pay for this uniform.

Mr. Rutherford believed that Mr. McGhee had rendered a great deal of extra services to the town, assisting the Special Constables to keep order, and thought the town were getting off very easy. Mr. McGhee was an efficient officer, and looked well after the interests of the town, and he believed he should be dealt with liberally.

Mr. Douglas said he opposed the payment of this item at the meeting of the Committee. The Council had nothing before them to shew that extra services had been given. If Mr. McGhee's extra services were of so much value to the town there was another way of paying him. No doubt Mr. McGhee was an efficient officer, but this was not the way to remunerate him.

Mr. Yelland did not think Mr. McGhee fully paid for his services. If he thought Mr. McGhee was paid what he was worth he would oppose the payment of this item, but he did not think $400 was enough.

Mr. Hartley would rather fifty times over give Mr. McGhee an increase of $50 a year than have a bill come in for a uniform.

Mr. Paterson thought it strange that some would favor an increase of $50 a year in salary but objected to paying $22.

Mr. Chamberlain supported the item, as he believed Mr. McGhee entitled to the amount.

Mr. Douglas asked what extra services had been rendered.

Chief Constable Johnston said he could perhaps give some information. During the past three months they had to be on the streets till two and three o'clock several nights during the week, and several nights had been on duty till six o'clock in the morning.

Mr. McNaughton thought that Constables, like other people, had their busy times and their dull times. Mr. McGhee had had three weeks holidays during the summer, which should go to make up for his extra services.

Mr. Menzies moved in amendment to the amendment, seconded by Mr. Hartley,—That the clause in the report be withdrawn, and that Mr. McGhee put in an account for extra services.

The amendment to the amendment was put and carried, after which the report was submitted and adopted.

CLEARING SNOW OFF THE SIDEWALKS.

Mr. Rutherford moved, seconded by Mr. Douglas,—That this Council recommend to the incoming Council that some more efficient manner be adopted of clearing the sidewalks of snow.

Council adjourned till Friday evening.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Annual Meeting—Reception of Reports—Election of Officers—Grant to Secretary.

The annual meeting of the Horticultural Society was held in the Bank of Toronto on Tuesday evening last, for the reception of the annual reports, election of officers, and general business. The President, Mr. J. H. Roper, in the chair.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The Director's Report was then read and adopted:—

To the Members of the Peterborough Horticultural Society:

GENTLEMEN,—The Directors in making their annual report have nothing of a special character to lay before the members.

The past year was one very unfavorable as regards Horticulture, chiefly on account of the severe and continued drought during the summer months, everything being in a burnt and dried-up condition; the Directors at one time being afraid to announce that an Exhibition would take place. However, it was determined to hold the Exhibition as usual, notwithstanding the unpropitious character of the season.

Thursday, the first day of September, was the day appointed. The number of entries was in the neighborhood of 250, and although not so numerous as in former years, were quite up to the average in merit. The Exhibition, on the whole, being considered very creditable for such an unfavorable season. In accordance with the resolution adopted at last annual meeting, the market gardeners made their entries as ordinary members, and their exhibit added considerably to the success of the exhibition.

The amount of $137.50 was paid in prizes by the Treasurer on orders granted by the President and Secretary.

The Society's position as to the number of members on the roll (67), and the balance of cash in the Treasurer's hands, as shown by his report, the Directors are glad to report satisfactory.

In conclusion, the Directors desire to express the hope that the members and the public generally will in the future take a more lively interest in the Society's welfare, as it is one in every way worthy of support.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. H. ROPER, President. J. I. DAVIDSON, Secretary.

Peterborough, 10th January, 1882.

The following annual report was presented, audited, found correct and adopted:

FOURTH LINE, SMITH.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

CHRISTMAS.—The young men in this neighbourhood amused themselves to a great extent by shooting. Turkeys and geese were valued, and then put up to be won by the best marksman. Five cents a shot was the price paid for permission to fire at the target.

SOCIAL.—There was a very good time at the Mahse, on the Communication Road, on the evening of the 29th. Not so many were present as might have been had the roads not been so muddy. The receipts of the evening went towards making the choir more comfortable by the way of better seats. During the evening there were dialogues and recitations gone through with, to a satisfactory degree. The Rev. Mr. Ratcliffe had a present given him of a buffalo-robe and a pair of driving mitts.

ANNUAL FESTIVAL.—On the evening of the 5th January the Grangers held their annual festival. Formerly, it was free to all; but this year the members thought it best to have a certain fee for admission. Turkeys and geese were served out, accompanied by many fine assortments of cakes. The entertainment was all that was expected of the occasion. Songs were followed by recitations, and many speeches were "harmonized" by the Choir.

TEMPLE.—This institution is in a very healthy condition, owing to its numerous membership and the attention paid toward it. The Templars had a tea and a social not long since, when the sum of sixty dollars was handed in as the receipts of such. The programme of both nights were of such a nature as to reflect credit on the order and community.

SMITH.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Friday evening an amateur troupe from town held an entertainment consisting of song, dances, and a theatrical performance, in Millburn's School House. The audience was not a large one, and the "boys" did not make their fortunes. An order for two dollars would have broken their bank. The smell of tobacco was strong in the School on the following Monday.

A parlor social was held at Mr. Joseph Millburn's, on Thursday evening, December 23rd, proceeds to be applied in aid of the Sunday School. Though the evening was exceedingly dark, and the roads very muddy, there were between sixty and seventy present. An excellent tea was provided for the occasion, and an entertainment, consisting of music and readings, was given. Rev. F. Ratcliff gave a short but suitable address. About five dollars were received, and a very pleasant evening was spent.

ENNISMORE.

WEATHER NOTES.—December with the year has now come to a close; although a winter month the weather on the whole has been mild, the highest indicated by the thermometer was on the morning of the 1st, namely 25° and the lowest 11°. On the evening of the 31st the mean temperature of the month being 28° 19 above zero. Snow fell on 11 days to the depth of five and one-sixteenth inches, rain fell on 7 days making a total depth of water by snow and rain of six and one-thirty-second inches.

MR. MACKENZIE ON THE TARIFF.

Mr. Mackenzie's resolution to give up Lambton and accept the nomination for East York will be a matter for sincere regret to his old constituents, with whom he has held such intimate relations for nearly twenty-five years.

The reception tendered to the Hon. gentleman by the Reformers of Lambton shows that the old county is still loyal to the principles of Reform which it has advocated so long. In a party sense there would be nothing lost by Mr. Mackenzie giving up the representation of Lambton and taking that of East York; indeed, there would be a gain. But none can fail to grieve over the cause which makes such a change probable. Mr. Mackenzie has labored hard, and his health has become shattered. He first entered parliament as member for Lambton in 1857, and since that time has served his constituents with rare fidelity and ability, and gradually rose from being simply a member of his party to the position of leader and afterwards head of the Reform Government. The severance of such a lengthened connection between him and his constituents must be painful on both sides, but the state of Mr. Mackenzie's health is such that he cannot now undergo the hard labor incident to a contest in a large county like Lambton, and he prefers the smaller, more convenient, and in these respects more desirable constituency of East York, which he can easily carry without much effort. His speech at Watford on Thursday was mainly devoted to a review of the work of his Government, and a defence of its policy. With respect to the tariff his views are clear and decided. In the course of his speech he said:—"The people were told, and many farmers believed it, that if we only imposed 50 cents a bushel on wheat coming from the United States it would raise ours equally in Canada; that we would get as well the profit of carrying it to the ocean. Every farmer who reads the papers—and they all do that—has found that there is no difference in the price of wheat between here and Detroit or Chicago, or any other market in the same longitude as ourselves. Indeed it has been shown that the price of grain has been affected injuriously through a peculiar operation of natural laws which would take some time to discuss. Instead of being higher it is lower with us. As nineteen out of twenty of the producers of Canada are farmers, it is they alone who have to pay for the extravagances of the Government; for taxing the people to such an extent as to bring about four or five millions of a surplus. Now, a word as to the probable course of the Liberal party with regard to the tariff. A great many manufacturers that have been benefitted materially, and some wholesale men who are interested in having it retained, are afraid that if the Reform party come into office there will be an immediate reversion to the scale of duties previously existing. That would no doubt be just in one point of view, but it would be a course that no Government would or ought to take in another. I pointed out in 1874, in my speech at Hamilton, that the position a Government must assume was to adopt the tariff it found on taking office. The duties, however extravagant, must be considered in relation to any changes that have to be made, and so there must be a gradual advancement to what we consider a right principle—a revenue tariff. (Hear, hear.) On the other hand, it is a very great mistake to imagine that all the manufacturers are satisfied with the present tariff. I happen to know that in one city there is not a manufacturer but is suffering great loss from the existing duty. I happen also to know manufacturers in various parts of the country, of whom members have told men, who have lost thousands of dollars by this tariff without receiving any corresponding benefit. All these must be considered in relation to our new tariff when we are returned to power, as I have no doubt we will be. There will then be a gradual return to a sound system of fiscal legislation. This is the true course, and do not let any one imagine that it is possible for any Government to make such changes in an instant as would entirely reverse legislation upon which existing interests have more or less to depend."

Mr. Blake, in more than one speech, has enunciated the same views, and we believe that though he was in power to-morrow the present tariff would be allowed to remain untouched, except in so far as concerned the taxes which are a positive injustice to the working classes, and which now bear so heavily on them.

JOURNALISTIC PREFERENCES.

(Bobcaygeon Independent.)

Our esteemed contemporary the Gazette, of Fenelon, has evidently been troubled by some of the local goslings. They complain that they could not get what they wanted inserted in the Gazette, and they threatened that journal with awful consequences. Thereupon the Gazette spoke out right valiantly, and so very much to the purpose that it would be advisable for other local papers to read the article and make a note of it. The Gazette in the course of its article says:—

"We have not in this or any previous contest refused the use of the columns of the Gazette to any candidate or his supporters; but it is absurd to demand that we shall have no preference for the one we think the best. This paper is ours: no other person has any ground upon which to claim the slightest control of it, and we have a perfect right to fill every page from the north-west corner to the south-east with articles in favor of Mr. Dickenson if we think fit to do so. If Mr. Greene or any other man does not like the paper he has the right to refuse to take it; that is the only right he has, and if he exercise it we can soon get another name in place of his. We have just as good a right to get upon a public platform and abuse Mr. Greene for the manner in which he runs his saw mill as he has to abuse us for the manner in which we conduct the Gazette."

That's the sort of talk. Our contemporary is quite correct. The only right possessed by the public in journals is to buy them or not as they please. This should be clearly understood, and then trouble would be saved.

AFFAIRS IN IRELAND.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The Cabinet Council to-day unanimously agreed that the state of Ireland necessitated additional precautions in order to bring to justice persons engaged in supplying arms to the people. Forster will submit important documents relating to Irish affairs to the Queen on Sunday.

Despatches from Ireland show the great development of the latest form of lawlessness, namely, Land League hunts. A number of these were organized to-day, and quantities of game destroyed and preserves damaged. In some instances hunts were prevented by sending out large bodies of troops. The necessity for moving troops and weakening the hands of the authorities are the most serious consequences of this movement.

HAPPY CHILDHOOD.

MARY BOWLES MARCY.

Oh! keep the children in your arms,
They'll not be children long!
Too soon they'll hear the world's alarms,
And join the maddening throng.
The child now clinging to your neck,
The little lad upon your knee,
May suffer from life's war and wreck
When from your arms they're free.

Then kiss their eyelids gently down
To soft and sweet repose,
No dream comes to them of the frown,
No fear of future woes:
But all the night my visions bright
Dance round each childish head,
From light to dusk, from dusk to light
In fairy lands they tread.

Oh happy they who all the day
Can laugh and dance and sing!
Fresh dewdrops of a morn in May,
Fair buds just flowering!
When they are men and women grown
We'll miss their din and rack,
And would give the world, were it our own,
To have the wants back.

Chicken Cholera.

There is a disposition among farmers to throw up the sponge and submit calmly to the decree of inscrutable fate whenever any disease appears which bears the name of cholera. The losses by this disease called chicken cholera foots up an enormous aggregate in this country every year. It may seem a small matter but the good farmer is known chiefly by his attention to small matters. We give below a recipe for its prevention and suppression, which is recommended by high authority. We have had no experience with it, but it is not costly and can can be easily tried. Take three ounces of sulphuric acid and dilute in four gallons of water, and sprinkle the hen house and all droppings, from a common sprinkling can. This should be done at the outbreak of the disease and continued as long as there is a sick one in the list. Separate the sick from the well. Will not some of our farmers try it and report. — Winterset Chronicle.

Domestic Poison.

The English journals, in discussing the question of domestic poisons, suggest as a protection or remedy a law prohibiting the use of arsenic in the manufacture of any and all fabrics for domestic purposes — that is, in all those processes which leave the arsenic in the finished goods. It appears that the trade interests involved in this practice have been subjected to scientific investigation, and the alleged advantages in the employment of arsenic for wall papers, etc., are shown to be for the most part imaginary. Among the paper stainers the use of arsenical pigments is being abandoned, and in other industries also they are much less resorted to than formerly. But, notwithstanding this, and the well-known fact that two or three grains of the article will destroy life, the production of arsenic in England last year was nearly 5,000 tons

Useful Recipes, Etc.

BOSTON CARAMELS.—One pint bowl of Baker's grated chocolate, two bowls of yellow sugar, one bowl of New Orleans molasses, one-half cup of milk, a piece of butter the size of a small egg and vanilla flavor. Boil about twenty-five minutes. This should not be so brittle as other candies. Pour in buttered tins and mark deeply with a knife.

LEMON DROPS.—Upon half a pound of finely powdered sugar pour just enough lemon juice to dissolve it and boil to the consistency of thick syrup; drop this on plates and put in a warm place to harden.

A NICE SPRING DISH.—A nice little supper dish easily made is as follows: Heat and grease the muffin irons; take a dozen eggs, break an egg in each muffin ring; put pepper, salt and a lump of butter on each; then put in the stove; as soon as it is slightly browned remove with a fork, dish and send to the table hot. Egg muffins or shirred eggs you can call them. It is simple enough, and I believe original.

Two double kettles prevent danger of burning, and liquid boils quicker on account of heat on all sides.

When breaking eggs be careful not to let the yolk of the egg touch the sharp edge of the egg shell.

Tablespoonful of flour is to be piled high, but butter must be level with the edges of the spoon.

Dip bowl in boiling water before creaming your butter.

Always use knives for cutting, not for stirring or chopping.

White pepper should be used for delicate dishes.

In beating butter always take the back of your spoon.

Yeast is best kept in glass jars, covered.

EDUCATED FARMERS.

Lawyers, physicians, clergymen and literary men make the discipline of their intellect a constant study. They read more, think more, write more, than the laboring classes. The difference between the educated and uneducated portions of society is a real difference. Now a pound and lazy fellow may rail and swear at this, and have his labor for his pains. There is only one way really to get over it, and that is to rear up a generation of well-educated, thinking, reading farmers and mechanics. Your skill and industry are felt; and they put you in these respects ahead of any other class. Just as soon as your heads be felt as much as your hands are, they will bring you to the top.

Many of our best farmers are men of great natural shrewdness; but when they were young they "had no chance for learning." They feel the loss, and they are giving their children the best education they can. Farmer's sons constitute three-fifths of the educated class. But the thing is that they are not educated as farmers. When they begin to study they leave the farm. They do not expect to return to it. The idea of sending a boy to the school, the academy and the college, and then letting him go back to farming, is rags led as a mere waste of time and money. You see how it is even among yourselves. If a boy has an education you expect him to be a lawyer, or a doctor, or a preacher. You tacitly admit that a farmer does not need such an education; and if you think so you cannot blame others if they follow your example.

There is no reason why men of the very highest education should not go to a farm for a living. If a son of mine were brought up on purpose to be a farmer, if that was the calling which he preferred, I still would educate him if he had common sense to begin with. He would be as much better for it as a farmer as he would as a lawyer. There is no reason why a thoroughly scientific education should not be given to every farmer and to every mechanic. —[Henry Ward Beecher, in "Flowers, Fruits and Farming."

WHAT TO EAT.

SOME USEFUL HINTS FROM AN EXPERIENCED PHYSICIAN.

(J. Sinclair Holden, M.D.)

Two good hearty meals in the day are sufficient for health—one before going to work, and the other after work is over; that is, breakfast and supper, or what is the same, late dinner. Some lunch is needed between those meals, but this should be light. A heavy meal in the middle of the day may suit children, but if hard work has to be resumed, it interferes with the work, and the work with digestion. Hot, heavy suppers taken shortly before going to bed prevent refreshing sleep, and are among the most frequent causes of attacks of indigestion. At the same time an empty stomach is to be avoided; a few biscuits, or something equally light, is all that is required. Variety of diet is of importance to health; the stomach gets weary of a repetition of the same every day. Hurry at meals is to be avoided—eat slowly and chew well. Bodily toil and manual labor can be best supported by a vegetable diet, as bread, porridge, etc., with the addition of milk, eggs, butter and cheese; meat is much inferior to these as a supplier of strength. But it is very different with mental labor; here a mixed diet, with animal food in moderation, is best. Fermenting drinks will always have a place among articles of diet, though health can be maintained best without them. The most wholesome are those which contain the least amount of alcohol, such as good sound beer or claret; these, when taken moderately with meals, aid a weak digestion. The practice of drinking stimulants as aids to work is a serious mistake: it checks the desire for wholesome food, leads to excess, and sooner or later injures the health. Tobacco should not be smoked just immediately before or after meals, as it weakens digestion. Too much smoking is a harmful habit, causing nervousness, shaky hands, palpitation of the heart, want of appetite and sleeplessness; when any of these occur, tobacco should be left off, or used very seldom. The practice of boys learning to smoke cannot be too strongly condemned. They think it manly, while they are really injuring their health and growth, so preventing themselves from becoming manly. Excessive tea drinking is an evil not unusual among working women, producing ill-nourished mothers and weakly babes. Tea should not be taken more than once or twice a day, and should never take the place of a substantial meal. Health depends greatly on good cooking; the object of cooking is to render food digestible and attractive, and to give at the same time the greatest amount of nourishment with the least amount of waste. Every opportunity of learning and improving in this art should be eagerly seized.

THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

TAKE A GOOD BREAKFAST IN WINTER.—The breakfast we take in winter will determine our efficiency for work in the day, and will so influence our whole being for that period of time that no after meal can correct it. The breakfast in winter must contain more nitrogenous food than in summer; it is absolutely needed. You must store heat to furnish material for absorption and for maintaining vitality; add to this nitrogenous food something that will disengage heat from the blood and keep up temperature and you may defy the coldest day. Your face may feel it, your hands may feel it, but your body will be impervious to it and go on disengaging that inward heat which can alone stand against the temperature without. If this first meal has been properly attended to we may presume that vital action on be maintained in full force for five hours at least before it needs replenishing.

TO LOOSEN GLASS STOPPERS.—A very common source of trouble and vexation is the fixed stopper of a smelling-bottle, or of a decanter; and as in the case of all frequent evils many methods have been devised for its remedy. Some of these methods we shall enumerate. 1. Hold the bottle or decanter, firmly in the hand or between the knees, and gently tap the stopper on alternate sides, using for the purpose a small piece of wood, and directing the strokes upward. 2. Plunge the neck of the vessel into hot water, taking care that the water is not hot enough to split the glass. If after some immersion the stopper is still fixed, recur to the first process. 3. Pass a piece of list round the neck of the vessel, which must be held fast while two persons draw the list backwards and forwards. This will warm the glass and often enable the hand to turn the stopper. 4. Warm the neck of the vessel before the fire, and when it is nearly hot the stopper can be generally moved. 5. Put a few drops of oil round the stopper where it enters the glass vessel, which may then be warmed before the fire. Next take the decanter or bottle and employ the process No. 1, described above. If it continues fixed, add another drop of oil to the stopper and place the vessel again before the fire. Then repeat the tapping with the wood. If the stopper continues still immovable give it more oil, warm it fresh and rub it anew until it gives way.

DON'T SPOIL THE MEATS.—Any flesh heated sufficiently will, just like wood, be reduced to charcoal (carbon) and a little gaseous matter. The water and gas escape into the atmosphere; the charcoal will remain, unless heated sufficiently in the open air to form carbonic acid gas, when that will also go off, leaving only a little ashes. Well, in roasting, baking, grilling or broiling, and frying meats of all kinds, every minute's continuation of heat beyond just enough to coagulate the albumen, does something towards changing the meat into charcoal, and charcoal is innutritious and indigestible. Further, rare cooked, fresh, lean beef will digest and go into nourishment in two to three hours, while "well-done" beef and well corned beef need four to four and a half or five hours to digest in strong stomachs, and longer in feeble ones. Nine-tenths or more of families cook meats too much, for health, for good digestion, and for getting the best nourishment from them. It is a matter of habit. Rare cooked meats, "blood-rare"—that is, only barely well heated through—are far more digestible and nutritious, and when one "breaks himself into" the habit of eating them rare they will be more toothsome than if "well done." These are facts; act in accordance with them.

POOR PUFFY.

A doctor will sit down and write a prescription; time, five minutes; paper and ink, one-fourth of a cent; and the patient pays $1, $2, $5, $10, as the case may be. A lawyer writes ten or twelve lines of advice, and gets from $10 to $20 from his client. An editor writes a half column puff for a man, pays a man from fifty cents to $1 for putting it in type, prints on several dollars worth of paper, sends it to several thousand people, and then surprises the puffed man if he makes any charge.

THE ELECTRICAL GIRL WHO LIVES AGAIN

(London (Can.) Advertiser.)

It is now about three years since the Advertiser published the story of the Electrical Girl in the township of Romney. The tale passed through nearly all of our exchanges, and occasionally re-appears now. The story in brief was that the girl was so highly charged with electricity that she could not handle any article of steel. She was a veritable magnet, and needles, knives, etc., would cling to any part of her person. The publication excited a good deal of curiosity concerning the girl, and many people called upon her as it was generally known she was taken ill, and the local physicians were called in. She described her peculiar sensations. In her knee-joints severe pains were felt, shooting at intervals, as though a battery were at work and giving her intermittent shocks. The knee began to swell, and the pain spread to other parts of her body, generally becoming permanent in the joints. All the doctors could do was of very little avail. Occasionally slight relief would be obtained, but in wet or murky weather the pains would redouble in violence. Finally when the doctors had given up treating her, and regarded her simply as a physiological wonder, a tramp called one day at the house. While he was being given a meal he was told about and asked permission to see the girl. He had been a soldier in the Crimean army, and while working in the trenches around St. Petersburg he contracted rheumatism in its most severe form, and noticing that the girl's symptoms agreed with his, he pronounced her to be suffering from rheumatism. The parents of the girl were overjoyed, but were again cast down as they recalled the fact that the doctors had said they could do nothing for her. "Why," said the tramp, "do you want to bother the doctors about rheumatism? Get a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil. It cured me, and will cure any case. I know plenty of old soldiers who have been cured of chronic rheumatism by the use of St. Jacobs Oil." The advice was taken, and the so-called Electrical Girl is to-day prepared to add her testimony to the thousands of others who bear witness to the efficacy of the Great German Remedy.

To the Editor of the London (Can.) Advertiser:

DEAR SIR.—As you have given me a good deal of notoriety by writing of me as the Electrical Girl, I thought I would write to tell you of my condition * * * (Here follows the recital which is summarized above.) My parents obtained a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil, and to its effects I owe the fact that I am now able to walk without pain, and the swellings in the joints have all disappeared.

Yours very truly,
SUSAN J. HOFFMAN.

WHY IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

THE REASONS GIVEN BY A BOSTON MERCHANT WHO HAS STUDIED THE MATTER.

(Boston Journal.)

A reporter dropped into one of our largest retail establishments Wednesday and held a conversation with the proprietor.

"You have a great rush," remarked the reporter.

"Yes," replied the proprietor, "a big rush—partly because it is the holiday season, but mainly on account of advertising?"

"How can you tell whether advertising pays, and what papers are good mediums?"

"I can tell that advertising pays by stopping my advertisements. I've tried it. Trade drops, not at once, but the tide of purchasers flows some other way. The cash receipts tell the story."

"Is there any difference in the sharpness of the buyers—I mean do they haggle much over prices?"

"Oh, no; we sell at one price, and all the bargain-stores in Boston do the same. They will sometimes say they can buy such and such an article cheaper elsewhere. When they mention the place, we send and see if it is true, and if so, we mark our stock down."

"Suppose you should give up advertising?"

"Well, I should save a big pile of money the first year, but I should lose a bigger pile the next two years. You must keep the boiler heated if you want steam. If you bank fires too long, it takes time to start up. Advertising is the steam which keeps business moving. I've studied the matter."

CHURCH CONTRIBUTIONS.

(New York Letter.)

Mr. Beecher surprised his congregation on Sunday morning at Plymouth church by protesting against the smallness of the contributions. He said the amount of the collections had run as low as $75, and even specials, as that for the Home Missionary Society, with objects as broad as the continent, elicited only $200. A congregation of three thousand people, Mr. Beecher declares, should never contribute less than $500 on any occasion, and hoped that fewer five cent pieces would hereafter find their way into the baskets that are passed around. "If you don't do better," he said, "you shan't have any contributions at all; I'll take them at once upon whatever." This threat was made with a serio-comic air that elicited a hearty laugh from the assemblage. It was noticed, however, that when baskets were handed about directly afterward they came back more heavily laden than has been usual of late.

FACTS AND FUN FOR EVERYBODY.

If wit is badinage, what must it be in youth?

The physician's motto: "Have patients, and you will succeed."

When is a girl like a music book? When she is full of airs.

The best time to catch soft water is when it is raining hard.

AS USUAL.

The commercial traveller of a Philadelphia house while in Tennessee approached a stranger as the train was about to start, and said:—

"Are you going on this train?"

"I am."

"Have you any baggage?"

"No."

"Well, my friend, you can do me a favour, and it won't cost you anything. You see, I've two rousing big trunks, and they always make me pay extra for one of them. You can get one of them checked on your ticket, and we'll euchre them. See?"

"Yes, I see; but I hav'nt any ticket."

"But I thought you said you were going on this train?"

"So I am. I'm the conductor."

"Oh!"

He paid extra, as usual.—Progress.

HOW THE INDIANS NAME THEIR CHILDREN.

When an Indian baby is born the medicine man looks out the door, and the first object he sees furnishes the child's name. Hence "Sitting Bull," "Red Cloud," etc. If this rule wbe followed in Kansas City most of the children would be called "Mud-over Boot-tops." "Man-going-into-a-saloon," or Man-hunting-a-bearding-house."

THE DRUMMER'S OUTFIT.

There are 60,000 drummers in the United States. The armament of each consists of one diamond pin, four satchels and two iron clad trunks.

Another imposter has been exposed. He claimed to be a railway brakeman out of work; but when he went out of the room he did not slam the door hard enough to make the chairs dance, and was of course arrested.—Philadelphia News.

WHERE THE PARROT GOT LEFT.

A shoemaker on Congress street east has a parrot which has been taught to use various expressions, and the other day as a seedy looking individual slowly passed the spot the bird screamed out, "You're drunk! You're drunk!" The man halted, took a long look at the bird, and there was a touch of pity in his tones as he finally said: "You'd better go as it and learn the difference between a drunken man and a feller who can't raise enough money to make his breath smell."

TAKING HIM DOWN A PEG.

Colonel Woods, the oldest practising lawyer in Iowa, and familiarly known as "Old Timber," was once called upon as an expert to prove the reasonable value of certain services rendered by a brother attorney. On his direct examination he stated, in a rather careless manner, that he had been practising law in the Territory and State of Iowa for the last fifty or sixty years. Upon cross-examination, a young attorney undertook to have some sport at "Old Timber's" expense, with this result: "How long did you say you had practised law in this country?" "Fifty or sixty years, sir." "Well, will you state what was the character of your practice during the earlier part—say, for the first twenty-five or thirty years in the Territory and State?" "Yes sir, I was then what might be appropriately called an itinerant lawyer." "An itinerant lawyer! Will you be so kind, Colonel, as to explain to the Court and jury what you mean by the term 'itinerant lawyer?' "Certainly, Sir. In those days I used to travel around the circuit with the judge, and my business was to try cases for young gentlemen like you, who had brass enough to undertake a case, but not brains enough to try it."

A MISTAKE WAS MADE.

A young lady gave "her young man" a beautifully worked pair of slippers, and he acknowledged the present by sending her his picture, encased in a handsome frame. He wrote a note to send with it, and at the same time replied angrily to an oft-repeated dun for an unpaid-for suit of clothes. He gave a boy ten cents to deliver the package and notes, giving explicit directions as to the destination of each.

It was a boy with a freckled face, and he discharged his errand in a manner that should give him a niche in the temple of fame.

The young lady received a note in her adored one's hand-writing, and flew into the room to devour its contents. She opened the missive with eager fingers, and read:

"I'm getting tired of your everlasting attentions. The suit is about worn out already. It never amounted to much any way. Please go to thunder!"

And the tailor was struck utterly dumb when he opened a parcel and discovered the picture of his delinquent customer, with a note that said:

"When you gaze upon the features, think how much I owe you."

When the unfortunate young man called around that evening to receive the happy acknowledgement of his sweetheart, he was very ostentatiously shoved off the steps by the young lady's father.—San Francisco Chronicle.

VARIETIES.

Christmas and the New Year being over we would proffer the advice: "Let buy-gones be buy-gones."

The lost arts did not include steel pen making, an invention purely of the nineteenth century, Esterbrook's being superior, standard and reliable.

The less you think of the events of the past year, probably, the less you will have to regret.

RESPECT.—The Grey Hairs of old age demand and should receive respect—but the Grey Hairs of young people require attention—in the way of using Cingalese Hair Renewer. Sold at 50 cents per bottle. 47-1y

☞Remember! that Munro & Alexander will open out in Geo. Stethem's old Store on the 1st of February.

HONESTY.—It is commonly said that you cannot make an honest man believe that white is black and vice versa, but those who have grey hair, by using the "Cingalese Hair Renewer," will find that this apparent difficulty is overcome. For sale at 50 cents per bottle. 47-1y

The world will never progress far enough to believe that a man's black eye was caused by anything else than somebody's fist.

A VEXED CLERGYMAN.—Even the patience of Job would become exhausted were he a preacher and endeavoring to interest his audience while they were keeping up an incessant coughing, making it impossible for him to be heard. Yet, how very easy can all this be avoided by simply using Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Trial bottles given away at Taylor and Macdonald's drug store.

Advice to the young: When you are told a story, my son, never remark: "That isn't the way I heard it," etc. Don't you know that stories are told to give pleasure to the teller and not to the hearer?

WHERE IGNORANCE IS BLISS 'TIS FOLLY TO BE WISE.—Dr. Bliss, if not a success at probing for bullets, was highly successful in despatching bulletins; but the grandest bulletin of success is that which heralds the wonderful cures performed by Burdock Blood Bitters, that matchless tonic and blood purifier which acts at once upon the bowels, the Skin, the Liver and the Kidneys, while it invigorates and strengthens the whole system. 1-2t.

Just as the world in general is being alarmed over the suggestion that the heads of the masculine portion of humanity are becoming smaller, a suburban editor frantically inquires if the girls nowa-days have any foreheads.

THE SADDEST OF SAD SIGHTS.—The grey hairs of age being brought with sorrow to the grave is now, we are glad to think, becoming rarer every year as the use of Cingalese Hair Restorer becomes more general. By its use the scanty locks of age once more resume their former color and the hair becomes thick and luxuriant as ever; with its aid we can now defy the change of years, resting assured that no Grey Hair at any rate will come to sadden us. Sold at 50 cents per bottle. 47-1y

"When I review my past conduct," Carlyle wrote, in 1819, at the age of only 24, "it seems to have been guided by narrow and defective views, and worst of all, by lurking, deeply lurking, affectation." This might stand for the confession of thousands at older ages, if they would only be honest about it.

A PUBLIC MEETING should be called of the citizens of every city, town and village in the Dominion, to consider what should be done to prevent the hair from turning Grey—and falling out. If this important question received their earnest consideration they would unanimously decide that science had at last discovered something that would answer this purpose—and furthermore would recommend Cingalese Hair Renewer as being this something for restoring the hair to its natural color, and prevent its falling out. 50 cents per bottle. 47-1y

Alexander Stephens says he never married because he was "too proud" to ask a woman to nurse him. That need not have stood in the way, Alexander. Bless your soul, boy, you might have married some women who would have let you die any time time rather than wound your sensibilities by offering to take care of you.

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung disease by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medical properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent by letter, and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souviele's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply. 48-1y

They had been engaged to be married four years, and still he had not mustered up resolution enough to ask her to name the happy day. One evening he called in a particular frame of mind, and asked her to sing something tender and touching, something that would "move" him. She sat down at the piano and sang, "Darling I am Growing Old."

TIME PROVES ALL THINGS.—A good reputation, to be permanent, must be established upon a solid foundation. The articles of real merit rises to the uppermost level of success, not by being puffed into ephemeral notoriety, but by gradually winning its way to public confidence. Evidences of its worth become irresistible, until it finally attains a time-honored reputation which none will deny. Such is the case with Brown's Bronchial Troches, which have for thirty years been recommended by physicians, and are now used so generally, that they have become a pocket, office and household necessity with thousands who are troubled with Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Consumptive Diseases, and the various Throat troubles to which Singers and Public Speakers are subject. They will clear and strengthen the voice marvellously. 2-1in.

Assorted reflections for the season: Repentance is remorse discounted. Wit is merchandise that is sold but never can be bought. Hypocrisy almost always reveals itself by the excess of precaution taken to prevent its discovery, even as the only clue to the mole is the molehill. When a man is about to be told a secret he shuts the door. When it is a woman, she opens it to be sure no one is listening outside.

WOMAN'S TRUE FRIEND.—A friend in need is a friend indeed. This none can deny, especially when assistance is rendered when one is sorely afflicted with disease, more particularly those complaints and weaknesses so common to our female population. Every woman should know that Electric Bitters are woman's true friend, and will positively restore her to health, even when all other remedies fail. A single trial always proves our assertion. They are pleasant to the taste, and only cost fifty cents a bottle. Agents, Taylor and Macdonald.

"Minnie" wants to know "who sets the fashions?" Well, we don't want to boast, dear, or appear unduly conceited, or that sort of thing, but the fashion of wearing a spring overcoat, flavored at the elbows with benzine, clear through the Christmas holidays and along into next February—we set that one "ourself." We don't know who sets the others, as that is the only one we are deeply interested in, just now.

A CASE OF HYDROTHORAX CURED. From Dr. J. S. Humphrey, of Durand: Wis. "It is now over nineteen years ago that my attention was directed to your highly valuable PERUVIAN SYRUP, which at that time was, I believe, the means of saving the health, and probably the life, of a young lady who was said by her physician to have symptoms of hydrothorax (dropsy of the chest), from which disease her brother had lately died. She married at the age of nineteen, and for a long time had been unable to ascend a flight of stairs without stopping to take breath once or twice during the ascent, or indeed to take any active exercise without distress. She took the PERUVIAN SYRUP for six weeks, when all the beforementioned symptoms disappeared, and have not since returned. This case occurred in Potsdam, N.Y., in 1860." Sold by all druggists.

VISITING THE LITERARY EDITOR.

"Could I see the literary editor?" inquired a very pretty girl as she opened the door of the editorial rooms.

"I expect you could, miss," replied a young man, "if you were in his immediate vicinity, as he is not a fairy."

"Oh, I meant was he in here?" said the girl.

"At the present moment," was the reply, "the literary editor is attending a chicken-dispute, but I am keeping an eye on whatever pearls of thought come in during his absence. What is your racket?"

"I don't think I quite understand you, sir," said the girl.

"Are you a poet?"

"Yes, sir, that is——"

"Oh, I know you ain't a good one; they all say that. But if you've got a poem just stand over there in the corner and read it. I can get into the gait of the stanzas better that way.

The young lady appeared somewhat surprised at this method of receiving poetical gems, but tripped lightly to the place indicated by the young man, and read as follows:

I send thee back this shining band of gold.
Does it waken memories of honor sold?
Did'st thou think my soul had sunk so low
That I could wear thy ring and know
That to another was plighted thy troth?
Nay—'twould wrong us both.

"That'll do. Did you write it yourself?"

"Yes, sir," was the reply.

"It's tough," said the affable young man. "I can see that it dives and pitches around considerable, although I'm not a connoozer in poetry. Besides, she dosen't rhyme like she ought to. For instance, sis, take these lines:

That to another was plighted thy troth?
Nay,—'twould wrong us both.

"Now, 'troth' and 'both' don't rhyme. We'll have to fix that. How would this do?—

That to another was plighted the troth?
Thy love's more thin than chicken broth.

"That kind of eases her up a little, dosen't it?" and the young editor smiled affably in the general direction of the girl.

"Do you think you can print it next week?" asked the young lady, looking bewitchingly pretty as she spoke.

"Oh, you bet we'll print it. Stick her in a bang up place, too. Any time you grind out some slush just bring it to me, and I——"

Here the girl left, and went, sad and lonely, to her desk in the census office.

HOW TO SPOIL A HUSBAND.

Find fault with him.
Keep an untidy house.
Always have the last word.
Be extra cross on wash days.
Quarrel with him over trifles.
Vow vengeance on all his relatives.
Let him sew on his own shirt buttons.
Pay no attention to household expenses.
Give as much as he can earn in a month for a new bonnet.
Tell him, as plainly as possible, you married him for a living.
Raise a row if he dare to bow pleasantly to an old lady friend.
Keep the parlor for company and do not let him put his foot into it.
Get everything the woman next door gets, whether you can afford it or not.
Tell him the children inherit all their mean traits of character from his side of the family.
Let it out sometimes when you are good and mad, that you wish you had married some other fellow you used to go with.

A QUESTION OF MILEAGE.

Jones held an execution against a farmer, and when he called for a settlement the agriculturist took him out into a big pasture and pointed out a wild steer as the particular piece of property to be levied upon. Jones chased the steer around for a while, and then sat down, and taking out his book began to write.

"What are you doing there?" asked the granger.

"Charging mileage," replied the constable, without looking up.

"Do I have it to pay?" gasped the rancher.

"You bet."

"Then take this tame heifer here. I can't stand any such game as that."

FOR BALD-HEADED GIRLS.

The large mush-room-like hats that bother us all so much at church and at the theatre are worn only by bald-headed ladies; and, poor things, they are entitled to sympathy. With one of these hats and a set of patent frizzes, a bald-headed girl can make herself quite presentable.

A PROMINENT ACTOR'S BELIEF.

Letter from Dr. G. W. Strathy, so long known in Toronto as a most thorough and accomplished musician:

TORONTO, 28th Sept., 1881.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & CO.,

GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,
I remain Gentlemen,

Local News Record.

THE COUNTY COUNCIL.—As will be seen by announcement in our advertising columns the Council of the County of Peterborough meet on Tuesday, 24th of January.

OUR LITTLE ONES.—Our Little Ones for January has made its appearance, and is full of fine illustrations, as usual, besides containing attractive stories which tend to make children have a zest for reading.

OUR CITY FATHERS.—The last meeting of the Council of 1881, will be held to-morrow night in the Council Chamber, to wind up the business of the year. The first meeting of the new council will meet on Monday next to organize.

JUST opened, another lot of the celebrated Rock Island hand-made boots, also Russian and German felt boots, moccasins, overshoes, rubbers, slippers, women and childrens' wear in great variety. W. P. WALLACE. Lakefield. 48-tf.

CURLING.—It is rather remarkable that while in Canada there has been as yet little opportunity for indulging in curling, the players in Scotland are having a capital time, and many exciting games have been played, especially in the west and south. The ice is generally reported as being keen and clean, and the playing consequently is above the average.

DISTRICT L.O.L.—At the annual meeting of Peterborough District Loyal Orange Lodge, held on Tuesday evening last, the following officers were elected :—

Bro. John Smith	D.M.
" T. M. D. Croly	D. D. M.
" J. H. Campbell	D. Chap.
" John Sharp	D.S.
" H. Nesbitt	D.T.
" W. King	D.D. of C.
" J. George Brown	D.L.
" Robert Weir	P.D.M.

FIRE BRIGADE.—At a late meeting of the Peterborough Fire Brigade, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year :

BRIGADE OFFICERS.—Secretary, R. Clegg ; Treasurer, A. Clegg.

"ELECTRIC" HOSE COMPANY.—Captain, S. Clegg ; Lieutenant, M. McDonald.

"PROTECTION" HOOKS.—Captain, F. Wear ; Lieutenant, C. Rutherford.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE.—This work is before us, and those who send 10 cents to James Vick, Rochester, N. Y., for it, will be disappointed. Instead of getting a cheap thing, as the price would seem to indicate, they will receive a very handsome work of 130 pages, and perhaps 1000 illustrations—not cheap, but elegant illustrations, on the very best of calendered paper, and as a set off to the whole, two beautiful colored plates that are worth twice the price of the book.

MADISON SQUARE COMPANY.—Miss Helen E. Jennings, supported by the above Dramatic Company gave performances on Friday, Saturday and Monday evenings, producing "The Two Orphans" the first two evenings, and "The Lady of Lyons" on Monday night. Miss Jennings, Miss Vincent and Miss Wallace took their several parts with good effect, but with one or two exceptions the support was not what should be expected from a company where the leading parts are so well taken. The company are remaining in town for a day or two for the purpose of re-organizing and engaging a much stronger support.

CHAPPED HANDS.—The changeable weather that has been experienced for some time has been very productive of chapped hands and lips. The following receipt is a good one for the affliction :—"Scrape beeswax lightly into a small, wide-mouthed bottle until it is nearly full ; put in a small piece of tallow ; and fill with olive oil ; set the bottle far back on the stove, and as soon as the wax is melted remove it. This will be found very nice for chapped or roughened hands. It is healing if used on small sores and is good for sunburn. The ointment is much pleasanter to use if a few drops of some essential oil are added to give it a pleasant odor.

FOR WINNIPEG.—On Monday last, Mr. Geo. A. Morrison, who for the past few weeks has been in town straightning up his affairs prior to his permanent removal to Winnipeg, left town for that city, where he has entered into partnership with Mr. Walter Walsh, another old Peterborough boy, as real estate agents. Both members of the firm are well-known in this section, and if energy, industry and square, honest dealings are worth anything in building up a business in the Prairie City, we have no fear of the success of the new firm of Walsh & Morrison, and we have pleasure in recommending them to any one having business to transact in their line.

LITERARY SOCIETY.—The regular meeting was held last Monday, the President, Mr. Beck, in the chair. There was a full attendance and a splendid meeting. A motion to hold meetings weekly instead of every two weeks was lost. Two very happy and entertaining readings were given by Dr. Clark and Mr. Hatton, entitled "Shamus O'Brien" and "Attempts at Poetry" respectively. Mr. Orr read a bright and easy essay, entitled "Reflections on the Christmas Season," and Mr. Eastwood, a neat and careful dissertation on the fact that "Every man is the architect of his own fortune." Owing to the lateness of the hour, the debate was adjourned. The next meeting will be held Monday, the 16th, when an open debate will be held.

The open weather of the past weeks, and the consequent difficulty experienced by farmers in reaching market, has had its natural effect, and large stocks on store shelves will have to be carried over. The effect of this is now being experienced by the mercantile classes, who realize that no legislation can help their business, though it can do much to hinder. A snow-fall in December would have done more good than any N. P. that could have been devised.

RAILWAY APPOINTMENTS.—The Whitby Saturday Night says :—"Mr. J. F. Holden, eldest son of the late Jas. Holden, has received an appointment in the head office of the Midland Railway Co., Peterborough. He entered on his duties a week since. Mr. Henry Morris, another old Whitby boy, and who, for the past six months has had the management of the W. P. P. & L. R. business at the G. T. R. junction here, also leaves on Monday next, to take a position with his old chum, James, in the head office. Messrs. Holden and Morris are young men who will do credit to their native town wherever located. We exceedingly regret to loose them, but are better pleased to hear of their promotion. Whitby is likely to loose other desirable citizens by the recent amalgamation.

THE LINDSAY "POST," one of our most welcome weekly exchanges, has just entered upon its twenty-third volume. As it advances in age it increases in improved appearance, and its rapidly advancing circulation is the best evidence that under its present able management the public appreciate the efforts of the proprietor in giving them a real live local paper. A new improved cylinder press is about to be added to the plant by which a much larger sheet can be published. By-the-way the new press seems to be a bone of contention between the Post and Warder, the proprietors of both offices being anxious to obtain the same machine, but the Post man with his usual enterprise and shrewdness stepped in first and obtained the prize.

AN INTERESTING RELIC.—The Mail of Thursday last says :—"A few days ago one of the workmen engaged in digging a sewer opposite the works of the Toronto Bridge Company unearthed a relic of bygone days. It is an engraved plate of a coupon for five shillings issued by "the Colborne district," for the purpose of raising funds for the erection of a gaol and court-house at Peterborough. The metal was engraved at Stationers' Hall, London, England, and although there is no date on it, it is evidently sixty or seventy years old. The work is beautifully done, and makes a fine impression even after such a lapse of time. On one side there is the figure of a deer, and on the other an Indian chief and squaw. How the article ever reached the locality where it was found is at present a mystery. The plate is now at the premises of Messrs. Rolph, Smith & Co."

MOTHER SHIPTON'S SUCCESSORS.—This venerable old body having signally fizzled out in the prophetic line leaves room for new beginners, among whom might be noticed Mr. M. S. Junion, who is responsible for the following :—

The world shall come to an end—'tis true, in 1882 ;
The world itself shall no longer be in 1883 ;
The world itself shall be no more in 1884 ;
The world itself shall not survive in 1885 ;
The world shall vanish into nix in 1886 ;
The world shall burn in fires from Heaven in 1887 ;
The world shall end as sure as fate in 1888 ;
The world shall end if rhyme's a sign in 1889 ;
The world can not well be wound up in 1890, as there is no rhyme to let it die out on ;
But certainly to an end 'twill run in 1891.

This Society is in a flourishing condition, and is becoming stronger and more popular than ever.

ONTARIO PROHIBITORY ALLIANCE.—The third annual meeting of the Ontario Branch Dominion Alliance will commence on Tuesday, Jan. 17, 1882, at 2 p. m., in the Temperance Hall, Temperance street, Toronto. Reduced railway fares are being secured for delegates. All persons desirous of attending should forward their names as soon as possible to the secretary, Prof. George E. Foster, Hamilton, who will send out certificates to be presented at the railway stations when purchasing tickets. County or city alliances are entitled to send one delegate for every one dollar contributed to the funds of the Alliance. Any temperance or church organization is entitled to send one delegate for every two dollars contributed. The circular which has been issued urges a large attendance. The meeting will extend over Tuesday and Wednesday. Important subjects are to be dealt with. Any further particulars may be had from Prof. Foster, Hamilton.

TOWN COUNCIL.—We submit to the consideration of the council the advisability of holding their regular meetings either in the forenoon or afternoon. The business of the town is important and requires not the minds and energies of men jaded by the toilsome cares of a long day's business, but demands, as a right, that the thinking faculties of the town councillors should be fresh and strong. The position of councillors is one of trust and honor, and ought to be one of dignity, and when men undertake such trust they must not alone consult their own convenience, but must sacrifice a little of that time which is so essential to the proper conduct of our affairs. Not only would such meetings be more dignified and business-like, not only would the verbose mock-dramatic, self-gratifying speeches of some of the members be curtailed, but the affairs of the town would be better administered, and the scenes of rowdyism and cliqueism, which sometimes disgrace our council, would be stamped out, and instead of being considered as partizans and demagogues, speaking to imaginary audiences of the citizens, the councillors would gain the reputation of solid men advising and debating for the public welfare. In this matter we enlist the sympathy, not only of the majority of the right thinking business men of the town, but also of the outraged wives who burn the midnight oil, awaiting the tardy return of their over-verbose husbands.

A MURDEROUS ASSAULT.

Dr. Kincaid, M.P.P., the Victim of a Liquor-Crazed Assailant.

On Thursday evening last the citizens of the town were not a little shocked to hear that Dr. Kincaid had been nearly murdered by a drunken man named John Duggan, upon whom he had been called to attend, and who at the time was suffering from delirium tremens. One report was that he was fatally stabbed ; another, that his skull was fractured and that he was lying in an unconscious state, and that his medical attendants had very little hopes of his recovery. Fortunately these reports proved to be materially exaggerated. Upon enquiry from reliable sources it was ascertained that the Doctor had been savagely assaulted and had received four or five ugly and serious gashes on the side of the head, but that no fatal consequences were apprehended.

It appears this man Duggan, who has upon more than one occasion been lodged in durance vile as a dangerous character, had been drinking hard for some time, and that during the afternoon had become so frantic from the effects of liquor that the neighbors, fearing he might commit some act of violence, either upon himself or some member of his family, had sent for Dr. Kincaid, who it appears had visited him upon similar occasions, heretofore, and had quitted him through the medium of soothing potions. The Doctor at first refused to go, but upon entreaty finally consented. On arriving at Duggan's house he found him in an apparently crazy condition from the effects of drink. He told him that he had come to give him something to quiet him, but was ordered out of the house, and fearing an attack from Duggan, who was standing in a rather defensive attitude with an ordinary table knive in his hand, the doctor turned round to leave, but had scarcely got outside of the door, when he was pounced upon by his infuriated assailant who caught him by the collar of his fur coat and succeeded in throwing him to the ground, when he commenced striking him on the head with what it is thought must have been the knive which he had previously in his hand. Mrs. Duggan rushed out and succeeded in pulling him off, after which the Doctor got up and was proceeding towards the gate when he was again set upon by Duggan, but this time the Doctor came out best man, as being upon his guard, he dealt him a well directed blow which felled him, where he succeeded in holding him until assistance arrived, when he was carried in an exhausted condition to his buggy and conveyed home, where he was at once attended to by several of his medical brethren.

Duggan was shortly afterwards arrested by chief constable Johnston, and lodged in jail, where he is now lying to await his trial.

We are pleased to state that the Doctor is progressing very favourably, and expects to be able to take his seat in the Legislature next week.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Joseph McClelland, P.M.W., was elected representative to the Grand Lodge A.O.U.W., at the last regular meeting of this Society.

New Year's saw a great falling off in the number of "callers," both in Canada and the United States. The custom is going out of date and being superseded by that of sending Christmas cards.

We learn from the Rantioul Press that Mr. J. E. Rubidge, formerly of this town, has been obliged to resign his position with Mr. Gifford, owing to ill health, which necessitates a change of climate. Mr. Rubidge proposes going to Florida.

On the 1st of February, Munro & Alexander will have the best lighted and most convenient Store in Peterborough.

CONDENSED NEWS.

The national movement in Ireland is growing weaker. The leaders are quarrelling among themselves and trouble has also broken out in the Ladies' League.

A young woman of Alexandria, Va., acting under an inspiration that she was to die by fasting, deprived herself of food. After abstaining for forty-three days death put an end to her sufferings.

The Kansas State Grange has issued a paper on education proposing that the ordinary school curriculum be abridged, and that the time thus saved be devoted to such practical instruction as will give the children a taste for agriculture, a love of nature, and a sense of the dignity of farm life.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD completed his 69th year yesterday. His friends and admirers will regret to learn that he has lately had a recurrence of some symptoms of the illness which caused his trip to England for medical treatment last spring. In the inner circle in which the above facts are known much regret is expressed that Sir John had not further prolonged his stay in England, which was productive of much benefit to him.

A breach of promise case in Illinois will present a novel question for legal decision. The plaintiff was a good looking girl when the engagement was made. Two years of courtship passed. Then small-pox disfigured her face, and the defendant declined to marry her. He claimed that in view of her deterioration in personal appearance since he made the promise, he is not is law or honor bound to keep it.

The people who rejoice because Mother Shipton's prophecy that the world would come to an end in 1881, has failed in fulfilment have been too hurried in their rejoicing. A Hartford man comes along with the announcement that it is a mistake to limit the period of the dame's prophecy with the 31st december, 1881. He holds that the time should be computed under the old style, which would extend the year 1881 to the 24th of March next. So there are some eighty-odd days yet in which to fulfil the prophecy. What an uncomfortable bore this Hartford man is, to be sure.

A WORD IN SEASON.—An old merchant who had always been an extensive advertiser, was in the habit of saying (and practising upon the theory) that the most necessary time to advertise freely is when times are dullest. Accepting this as fact, the present is a good time to advertise. Before the holidays trade was brisk, but since it is not so brisk. Hence, some merchants do not advertise so freely. Here is the mistake. If there be any difference, advertising should be more brisk. If merchants have bargains to offer, now is the time to induce purchasers. It is now that purchasers watch for bargains, and bite a hook that is temptingly baited. And how much better is it that merchants who have goods with which to bait hooks should bait them, and sell the goods at small profits, rather than keep them upon their shelves, and invite damage from dust, or let them get out of fashion before they are sold.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

Fourth Parliament—Third Session.

THURSDAY, Jan. 12.

The third session of the fourth Parliament of Ontario was opened on Thursday last at three o'clock by His Honour the Lieut.-Governor, with the usual ceremonies.

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

His Honour, having taken his seat, delivered the following speech:—

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

It is with much pleasure that I once more bid you welcome to the metropolis of the Province, and that I congratulate you upon the encouraging circumstances under which you assemble for the performance of the responsible duties of which, as the representative of the people, you have been put in charge. The public revenue for the year has considerably exceeded the amount estimated; the year has been one of general prosperity, the result of the late abundant harvest, the general revival of trade in other countries, and the consequent demand for the products of our fields, forests, and mines; and the recent census has shown that the population of the Province has in the last decade increased by nearly 300,000, and amounts now to nearly two millions, notwithstanding the number of our people who, from various causes, have during several years past left the Province.

I regret that since your last session no progress has been made towards a recognition of the right of the Province to that extensive portion of its territory our title to which, notwithstanding the award of the distinguished arbitrators appointed by the two Governments, the Federal authorities have continued to dispute. The grave practical evils resulting from the dispute have, since you last met, been greatly increased by an Act of the Federal Parliament transferring to the Province of Manitoba, so far as relates to Provincial jurisdiction, the claim of the Dominion to the most valuable part of the disputed territory, including our organized municipalities south and east of the Height of Land. While the Bill was before the House of Commons I addressed to the Federal Government a despatch protesting, on the part of Ontario, against this part of the intended Act. A copy of my despatch, with other papers relating to the territory, will be laid before you.

I regret that I have to refer also to the disallowance of the Act of last session for protecting the public interests in rivers, streams and creeks. The competency of the Legislature to pass the Act was not questioned, and the Act was disallowed mainly upon the ground that the Minister of Justice did not approve of the mode or extent of the compensation which the Act gave to owners of property affected by the Act. The correspondence on the subject will be laid before you. The object of the Act is of such importance as well to those engaged in the lumber trade as the Province in general, and the duty of asserting the right of the Legislature to deal according to its own judgment with all matters within Provincial jurisdiction is so urgent, that a Bill for the same purpose as the disallowed Act will without delay be submitted for your renewed consideration.

I congratulate you that recent decisions of the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council have set at rest all question as to the right of the Provincial Legislature to legislate as our interests may from time to time require, on matters of internal trade, and in particular on the law of insurance. Some further provision seem now necessary in order to render effectual the legislation which had for its objects the securing of uniform conditions in fire policies; and I invite your attention to the subject.

I regret that the right of the provinces to property escheated for want of heirs—unanimously maintained by the highest courts in Ontario and Quebec, and acquiesced in by the Federal Government for several years, has—on a recent appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada by that Government in the name of the defendants in a well-known case, been negatived by a majority of the Judges of the Court. The case in litigation is but one of several cases of the same kind which have occurred since Confederation; and the constitutional question involved is so important, and some of the grounds on which the decision proceeds are of such far-reaching application, that I have lost no time in taking the necessary steps for obtaining a review of the judgement by Her Majesty's Privy Council. There is strong reason for expecting a favourable result.

I congratulate you on the general favour with which the report of the Commissioners appointed to inquire into the agricultural resources and requirements of the Province has been received by all classes interested in agriculture. I have anxiously considered what further means may be employed to aid this great industry, and to promote the welfare of the population engaged in it. During recent years in Great Britain and other European countries, and also in the United States of America, and in the Australian Colonies of Great Britain, great advantage has been found from the collection of reliable crop reports and other agricultural statistics. A measure to secure like advantage to this Province will be submitted for your consideration.

I have also to recommend to your consideration such changes in the law respecting the Agricultural and Art Association as may increase the usefulness of that organization, and bring its operations into harmony with the present needs and circumstances of the country.

A bill respecting Market Fees will again be submitted for your consideration.

Other measures which will probably be laid before you, and to which I invite your attention, are a Bill for Amending and Consolidating the Laws respecting Line Fences, Ditches and Water Courses; a Bill to provide by a general law for the erection of waterworks in cities, towns and villages; a Bill providing for the crossing of railway tracks by streets and roads; a Bill for the Inspection of Boilers, with a view to affording some additional security against explosions; a Bill to make provisions for maintaining and promoting the Public Health; a Bill for further simplifying the laws concerning Real Property and Conveyancing; a Bill to remove some defects in the law of Evidence; a Bill to place on a more satisfactory footing the Law of Libel in certain cases; and a Bill to facilitate the establishment of Free Libraries.

It having become necessary in the interests of settlement and revenue to place under timber licenses a few townships lying to the south of French River and Lake Nipissing, in the Parry Sound and Nipissing Districts. The activity of the timber trade last year afforded a favourable opportunity of selling at public auction the right to cut the pine timber in these townships, covering the limited area of 1,321 square miles; and it is gratifying to know that the result was most satisfactory, the sale having (among other advantages) increased the available means of the Province by nearly three-quarters of a million of dollars, besides adding to the revenue the annual rent to which the purchases are liable, and the dues on the timber which they may cut.

In consequence of circumstances not within the control of either Government, the accounts between the Province and the Dominion are still unsettled; and the money coming from the Common School Fund for local improvements in the counties in which the lands that produced the Fund are situate has not yet been received by the Province. In view of the prolonged delay, I recommend the payment of the principal (about $125,000) to the counties interested, out of the Consolidated Revenue of the Province, in anticipation of the receipt of the money from the Dominion.

The subject of constructing new Provincial buildings adequate to the growing requirements of the Province and the necessities of the public service has continued to receive my attention during the past year. Much more time than had been expected was consumed in procuring necessary modifications to be made in the plans received previously to your last session, and in the preparation of the specifications. This preliminary work has now been completed; tenders have been called for; and the result will be communicated to you.

The Public Accounts, showing the receipts and expenditure of the past year, and the estimates of moneys required for services of the current year, will be laid before you. The Estimates have been prepared with every regard for economy consistent with the public interest.

I cannot allow the present opportunity to pass without expressing in my own name, and in that of the people of this Province, the grief and indignation which, in common with the whole of the civilized world, we felt at the shocking and unprovoked murder of the late honoured and lamented President of the United States. By no community was President Garfield's death more sincerely mourned than by the people of Ontario.

In now dismissing you to the onerous and important labours in which for some time you will be engaged, I desire to express the hope that your deliberations and decisions will, as on former occasions, be such as to manifest your wisdom and your patriotism, and as will contribute to the continued developement of the varied resources of our great Province and to the increased well-being of its inhabitants.

His Honour then retired.

MR. MACKENZIE ON THE SURPLUS.

At his Waterford meeting last week Mr. Mackenzie said:—

I was excluded [from the Government of the country] because I refused to impose taxes on the people which I believed were unnecessary. Let me take an illustration. Let me suppose in the township of Warwick you have one, two, or three seasons of bad crops, as I have seen it. We will suppose that your council had a rate imposed on the year they commenced official life of half a cent on each hundred dollars; and suppose they determined that this was far too low, and that it must be increased to induce prosperity. You could build town halls and bridges and do many other things. Suppose they determined to impose a rate of two cents on the hundred dollars, and that the whole people went directly and supported the councillors that were raising the taxes, would'nt you think they had all gone mad?" A very good illustration and one which, our readers will remember, we have more than once used in these columns. Sir John A. Macdonald's cabinet is now in exactly the same position as a municipal council that levied two cents on the hundred dollars for taxation when only one cent was needed. How absurdly impudent it would seem if the council of any township should pursue such a course and then boast of the excessive taxation as an evidence of superior management. And yet this is precisely what Sir John and his friends are doing at the present moment. They take five millions out of the pockets of the people and then, with unparalleled assurance say: "Look at the surplus we have created by our statesmanship."

KINMOUNT.

SURPRISE AND PRESENTATION.—Last evening Mr. Henry Graham and family were surprised in their domestic quietness by a large party, who suddenly took possession of their comfortable home in such numbers that resistance was useless. Mr. G. and family showed themselves equal to the occasion by quietly submitting, while the party who came produced a large supply of the comforts of life, whereupon they regaled themselves with a bounteous repast, in which Mr. G. and family were compelled to take part. After this trying ordeal the whole party betook themselves to the parlor, where, after they had been somewhat quieted down by several musical renderings, the object of the raiding party became apparent. One of them stepped forward and with scarcely a preliminary remark read the following address:—

DEAR MISS GRAHAM,—We, the members of the Presbyterian church and friends in Kinmount, desire to express towards you our heartfelt esteem and regard. Please accept this trifling gift (here a purse of $9 was handed Miss G.,) as a slight token of our high appreciation of your services as organist. We also desire to convey to Mr. Graham and the other members of the family the assurance of the high estimation in which they are held by us as a congregation. That you all may long continue to be loved and esteemed is the prayer of all concerned, amongst whom please to recognize our pastor.

Miss Graham was completely taken by surprise, but on recovering her equanimity answered in effect: Dear friends, this has indeed been a surprise to me, and though I had no such thought as receiving a reward for my services, yet I assure you it affords me great pleasure to accept the gift which so strongly bespeaks your good will. It will ever be my endeavor to maintain the good will so kindly manifested on this occasion. After a pleasant evening the party retired, evidently feeling quite pleased with themselves and leaving Mr. Graham and family equally as well pleased in gaining re-possession of their home so easily.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

LAKEFIELD COUNCIL.

The first meeting of the council elect for 1882 was held in the Council Chamber on Monday night, the 16th instant. The room was crowded with ratepayers who had assembled in anticipation of some fun in connection with the appointment of municipal officers.

The members having taken the required declaration of office took their seats, the Reeve, R. C. Strickland in the chair.

Minutes of last meeting read and on motion adopted,

A petition signed by some 53 of the ratepayers was presented to the Council, requesting them to separate the office of Clerk and Treasurer (now held by Mr. Sanders). Mr. J. C. Sherin who presented the petition, spoke in favor of it.

A counter petition was presented by Mr. J. Griffin, signed by some 51 ratepayers, requesting that no attention be paid to the other but that the Council should make such appointment as they considered will be in the best interest of the village.

The Reeve called for the opinion of the ratepayers present and several gave their views pro and con.

It was moved by Coun. Hill seconded, by Coun. W. Cox—That the question of appointing a Treasurer and other officers be left over until next night. —Carried.

Mr. Geo. R. Shields appeared before the Council and requested information as to whether it was contrary to village by-law to hire his sleigh without his horse. Referred to Village Solicitor.

The Rev. Mr. Bell addressed the Council on behalf of Widow Clarkston, and asked the Council to grant her $10.00 as charity.

Moved by Coun. McWilliams, seconded by Coun. Hill,—That $10 be granted to Mrs. Clarkson as charity. —Carried.

George McIlmoyle presented an account for services as village constable amounting to $5.95.

Moved by Councillor McWilliams, seconded by Coun. Cox That an order be drawn on the Treasurer for $5 in favor of Geo. McIlmoyle in full of his account. -Carried.

A by-law to appoint two auditors, received its three readings and was ordered to be signed and sealed, the blanks were filled with the names of W. H. Casement and Dr. Caldwell, and the remuneration was fixed at $4 each.

Mr. Hull addressed the Council and ratepayers to the effect that he had been nominated without his knowledge, and that as soon as he heard of it he had resigned his license commissionship, and it had been accepted before the day of elections. He had received a notice from Mr. T. G. Nelson, the defeated candidate, forbidding him to take the seat, but he intended to retain it until unseated by the judge.

Mr. G. J. Galvin addressed the Council on the necessity of appointing an efficient village constable.

Moved by Coun. Hull, seconded by Coun. McWilliams that this council do now adjourn to the call of the Reeve. -Carried.

VILLAGE CONSTABLE.

As will be noticed in our Village Council report, Mr. G. J. Galvin spoke to the Council on the necessity of appointing a paid village constable who would do his duty, and his hearers coincided with him in his views, and we trust to see them carried out at the next meeting of our Village Fathers. For some time past complaints have been numerous, especially on the part of ladies, that they could not go out at night on account of the blackguard remarks made by boys and young men on our street corners, especially in the vicinity of the barber shop and post office. On Sunday evening it is even worse than week nights, and some parents will open their eyes, if some of these mornings they find their boys before friend Hull, as more than one person is determined to stop their cowdyism, cost what it may.

LAKEFIELD DAM.

About a week since, preparations were made to carry out the order in Chancery to lower the Lakefield Dam 11 inches, by knocking off the brackets, taking out the stop-logs and opening the waste gate. 4 or 5 days showed our citizens what to expect next summer, with navigation stopped and a half-drained marsh which would rival your famous "Spauldings' Bay," in making work for the doctors, not only in the village but in those parts of Smith and Douro near the lake. To the surprise of many the brackets were again put on this week and the water shut off, and it was hoped that at the last moment the Government had stepped in and were going to take control; but it seems that Mr. Hull had secured the use of the water for 4 months by paying the interest on the sum awarded by chancery. So the dam will stay up till May.

AGRICULTURAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Lakefield, Smith and Ennismore Agricultural Society was held in the Council Chamber in the village of Lakefield, on Thursday, the 12th instant.

Mr. Samuel McKibbon was re-elected President, Mr. J. C. Sherin, vice-President. Messrs. T. J. Nelson, Geo. W. Fitzgerald, Alex. Fitzgerald, John Garbutt, J. N. Telford, Dr. Caldwell, Thos. Young and John Isbister were appointed directors. Messrs. Casement and Wm. Graham were appointed auditors.

The report for the past year was read and adopted. It showed a balance of $102.-33. After the business called for was finished a meeting of the directors was held and M. S. Dean was re-elected Secretary and Treasurer.

ACCIDENT.

We regret to learn that Mr. James Wood, of this village, has met with a serious accident by falling off a saw mill at Wauhaushene where he was engaged at work. The last accounts place Mr. Wood as better but not out of danger.

HORSES.

Ross & Co. paid $283.00 for a team in the village, on Monday, to be use for cadging supplies to their shanties in Harvey.

NEW BRIDGE.

Mr. C. Wynne, of Peterboro', with a gang of men, is engaged taking down the old wooden bridge which connects the two sides of the village, and getting things ready to place the new iron bridge in position. While the bridge is down, teams we understand, will be ferried across the river on one of the small scows, but foot passengers will always be able to cross. All will be glad when the new bridge is finished as we will not then be troubled with the yearly interruptions to traffic to make repairs.

NOTICE.

Parties having accounts against the EXAMINER Office will oblige by forwarding them at once, in order that we may get our books closed up to January 1st. We are now balancing our books for the year 1881, and desire all who have any accounts due to this office for subscription, printing, or advertising, etc., to call in and settle up. We do not intend, and will not carry over into another year a lot of petty accounts which are owing to us and have not been paid through the thoughtlessness and negligence alone of the parties. It is an exploded idea that a printing office exists, "man knows not from whence," but they require the inevitable amount of solid cash to run the establishment with any degree of comfort and satisfaction. As we have heretofore sent out some accounts, and sufficient attention has not been paid to them, we now give notice that all such accounts will be placed in professional hands for collection. Such a mode of collection entails considerable expense to debtors and it is only as a last resort we like to make use of such means. We regret that we have had to collect accounts in court. We therefore hope that all will "come down" handsomely and save both themselves and this office unnecessary trouble.

Readers of the EXAMINER will confer a favor upon the Publisher, as well as on the Advertiser, and at the same time consult their own interests, by giving preference, when making purchases, to those who advertise in these columns.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 19, 1882.

Speculation in Manitoba.

A rage has set in all over the country with regard to the purchase of land in Manitoba. Every other day we read of some lucky speculator who has made his little pile, and the consequence is hundreds of persons all over the country are investing their hard-earned money in town plots, about whose situation or real value they know absolutely nothing. One suspicious circumstance about the fortunate dabblers in Winnipeg lots is that they never make less, by report, than thirty-five thousand dollars. If it varied a little we might be less credulous. That money has been made there we have no doubt, but it must be admitted when prices have reached $100 or $200 per foot for city lots, the crash is inevitable. Intending investors would do well to be careful and not accept implicitly the glowing reports put forth by auctioneers and land sharks concerning towns that have no existence as yet, except on paper. We fear many an unfortunate Martin Chuzzlewit will deeply regret his purchase of town plots in some Eden of the North-West. If our people wish to speculate let them procure farms, and leave embryo cities and towns to those who can afford to lose. Speculations, such as these last named, may turn out well, but, undoubtedly many will prove utter failures. There was a time when the same sort of rash enterprise in Ontario cost many their all. Fabulous prices were paid for lots along the Grand Trunk, which could now be purchased by the acre at very reasonable prices. The Toronto World has entered on a crusade against wily agents whom they represent as deceiving purchasers about lots in towns throughout Manitoba. If these statements are correct it is only right that an exposure should be made, and the public warned. At any rate, in this case "Hasten slowly" is a good motto, and investors would do well to make full inquiries, and take all needful precautions ere they allow the rash rage to lead them into trouble.

UNION PACIFIC RAILWAY.—This railway company, of which Mr. J. A. Richardson, of Millbrook, is Canadian Passenger Agent, shows the largest earnings of any railroad in the world—their earnings the past year being $29,617,000. They have four thousand miles of road in operation; nine hundred under construction, and have twenty-five trunk lines giving them business; nine at Omaha, eight at Kansas city, three at Leavenworth, and five at St. Josephs.

The Suicidal Mania.

During the last ten or twelve days our despatches show numerous cases of suicide as having occurred, or as having been attempted, throughout the Dominion. In Montreal, in one day, two attempts were made by unhappy women to rid themselves of their troubles by the use of poison. In one case the woman, after having taken laudanum and being interfered with, refused to take an antidote, and succeeded in swallowing an increased dose of the narcotic. By the greatest efforts her life was saved. The other was an exceedingly sad case. A young married woman, just arrived in the city, procured some hydrate of chloral, under pretence of using it for neuralgia. On her arrival home she took a large dose, and lay down to die. Fortunately her husband happened to return earlier than usual, and finding her unconscious, at once procured the services of a physician, who, with the greatest difficulty, succeeded in rousing her from the deadly stupor in which she lay. In this case family quarrels was the cause; in the other, strong drink is to blame.

Then we have the sad account of the suicide of Thos. Boustead, a son of Alderman Boustead, Toronto. The deceased was a young man of great intelligence, a brave and adventurous spirit who had seen much of the world; of a bright and genial nature, and greatly beloved by his acquaintances. No cause is assigned for the rash act. Owen Sound, a few days ago, was also the scene of a double suicide. A farmer, and an old resident, hang himself to a beam in his own barn. This shocking occurrence was followed by another attempt at suicide. Walter Elliott, a labourer, tried hard to cut his throat with an axe, and then battered his head with the same weapon, endeavoring to complete the work. His life is despaired of, his wounds being of the most serious nature. This was followed two days later by the news that a lunatic named Walsh had shot himself in a church at Ottawa during divine service. This, therefore, makes the sixth attempt at suicide within one short week, and as we have said, several of them have proved fatal.

Account for it as we may, there can be no doubt suicides are increasing in frequency. Professor Morselli, of Turin, has published a volume on the subject, in in which he presents some startling statistics. He shows that the proportion in every country is three or four men to one woman. Alcohol, he asserts, has much to do with self-murder. In Germany fifty-six per cent. of the suicides are owing to the use of alcohol. Italy has only had ninety suicides in twelve years through the use of alcohol, which is attributed to the fact that light wines are largely used there, and the fiery liquor of more northern countries is almost unknown. The rate of suicide rises as the state of civilization advances. Savages do not kill themselves except under stress of hunger or from fanaticism. City life has a bad effect—London, Paris and Berlin having an unhappy pre-eminence. The winter months have a less number of suicides, and June seems to be the most favored of all. As regards the influence of religion, Professor Morselli says, in Protestant countries the ratio is the greatest, being 190 to the million, while in Roman Catholic states the proportion is 58 to the million. In England, however, the ratio is not so great, being for the last forty years from 63 to 66 per million.

The great question, and the difficult one is, "how can we check this crime?" Undoubtedly the struggle for existence, the extreme activity of the human race, and the excessive use of stimulants all tend to increase the number of suicides. But the doctrines of the present day as regards future punishment, the infidelity that is rampant everywhere, the loose hold men have on the idea of responsibility towards God, the lack of genuine Christianity, and the tinsel and form and hypocrisy which seek to pass for the real thing, and which are far too prevalent among professed followers of the Saviour everywhere—these have much to answer for as regards all crimes, and especially the terrible one of self-murder. When people are rightly educated in holy things; when they have a right aim in life and their moral character possesses force and energy; when they realize their responsibility to God and their duty to their fellow-man, then, and only then we may hope that misery and sorrow will be manfully endured by all, and strength sought from the only source, till the end comes, and their waiting days have passed.

Editorial Notes.

THE Orange Sentinel for last week publishes a letter denouncing the Toronto Mail as now being edited by a Jesuit, and as recently assailing "William of glorious, pious and immortal memory." It also states that it is "in the hands of ignorant and money-grabbing proprietors."

THE newly-appointed General Manager of the Canada Pacific Railway, Mr. W. C. Van Horn, has gone to Moutreal. He stated in an interview that Bow River Pass had been chosen as the point at which the railway will enter the Rocky Mountains. He anticipated that the road will reach a point within a hundred miles of the Pass this year.

THE method of collecting revenue by means of stamps on bills and promissory notes, is becoming more objectionable to the business community than it ever was, and the Government is being memorialized to repeal the obnoxious duty. The Boards of Trade in Brantford, Hamilton, Montreal and other cities, have taken action in the matter, and doubtless the Government will see its way clear to abolish the tax, inasmuch as the revenue derived from it is not very large, as compared with the trouble and annoyance of it. The intention of the Act, of course, was that all persons making bills or accepting drafts should pay for the required stamps, thus distributing the tax over a great number of people. The simpler commercial dealings are the better, and we believe it would be generally satisfactory to have the Act repealed.

IN 1877 the failures in the Dominion numbered 1,892, the liabilities being $25,523,063. In 1878 this was reduced to 1,697 failures, with $23,908,677 liabilities. In 1879, after the N. P. was adopted, the failures rose to 1,002, and the liabilities to $29,347,937. Here is the statement in tabular form:

THE Huron and Ontario ship canal has probably received its quietus. Its sanguine, but somewhat out-of-date promoter, Mr. F. C. Capreol, applied to the Ontario Government for assistance, but Hon. Mr. Mowat wanted to learn the opinion of commercial men on the subject, and accordingly a meeting of the Toronto Board of Trade was called and after discussing the matter, came to the conclusion that the canal was a thing of the past and could offer no opinion favorable to it. A crazy scheme from the beginning, the world will probably hear no more of it.

A correspondent from Muskoka reviews the destitution in that district and the measures taken for its relief. The fires destroyed about $100,000 worth of the property of the settlers, and left about six hundred persons in need of relief, many suffering severely from lack of wearing apparel and bedding, and some even for lack of food. Besides assistance to supply their immediate necessities, aid will be required to furnish seed in the spring, implements and building material. A sum of about $10,000, it is thought, will be necessary. Thus far the Central Committee have received from municipalities and individuals about $1,700, all of which has been expended.

THE Globe says: "The report we publish this morning of a brief interview between our Montreal correspondent and Mr. Duncan McIntyre confirms the statements already made public: (1) That the Syndicate have now no intention of running their line to the Sault Ste. Marie; (2) that they propose to tap the lake route with their main line at Algoma Mills on the Georgian Bay; (3) that when the line is finished to that point they intend to put on a line of steamers to Chicago; and (4) that they expect to connect with the St. Paul end of the St. Paul and Manitoba Railway by means of a running arrangement with the Chicago and North-Western. Mr. McIntyre reaffirms the intention of the Company to run their main line close to Lake Superior in spite of engineering difficulties.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

With commendable promptitude the Ontario Government have already given notice of a number of Cabinet measures which they evidently intend to introduce as soon as the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne is disposed of. Whether the Assembly will now devote itself without delay to the consideration of these important Bills depends quite as much on the Opposition as on the Government. The following are notices of motion referred to:—

Mr. Wood—On Tuesday next—Bill to make further provision respecting the Bureau of Agriculture and Arts.

Also—Bill to amend the Agricultural and Arts Act.

Also—Bill respecting market fees.

Also—Bill for amending and consolidating the laws respecting line fences, ditches, and water-courses.

Mr. Hardy—On Tuesday next—Bill respecting fire insurance policies.

Also—Bill to make provision for maintaining and promoting the public health.

Also—Bill respecting the jury law.

The Attorney-General—On Tuesday next—Bill to provide, by a general law, for the construction of water-works by cities, towns, and villages.

Also—Bill for the inspection of boilers, with a view to afford some additional security against explosions.

Also—Bill for simplifying the laws concerning real property and conveyancing.

Also—Bill to remove some defects in the law of evidence.

Also—Bill to facilitate the establishment of free libraries.

Also—On Tuesday next—Select Committee to assist Mr. Speaker in the care of the library.

Also—On Tuesday next—Select Committee to prepare lists for Standing Committees.

Mr. Fraser—On Tuesday next—Bill to provide for the crossing of railway tracks by streets and roads.

Also—Bill to place on a more satisfactory footing the law of libel in certain cases.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

Wishing you every success,

TOWN COUNCIL.

The last meeting of the Council of 1881, was held in the Council Chamber, pursuant to adjournment, on Friday evening last. Present—His Worship the Mayor, and Councillors Cahill, McNaughton, Kelly, Yelland, Douglas, Rutherford, Menzies, Richardson, Hartley and Chamberlain.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From John McGhee, Building Inspector, with reference to the application of Toker & Co., asking to be allowed to erect a projecting sign.

ACCOUNTS.

J. R. Stratton	$ 8 00
Adam Hall	3 86
Jas. Stevenson	21 00

The accounts of Messrs. Stratton and Hall were referred to the Finance Committee.

The Mayor read the following letter received by him, which was referred to the Finance Committe.

To His Worship the Mayor elect, of Peterborough:—

SIR,—We are about starting a match factory in some locality where lumber can be got at moderate prices. Understanding that you are situated in a good lumbering country, we shall feel obliged if you will please answer the following questions:—

1st.—What is the price of good clear lumber?

2nd—Will your town give a cash bonus; if so, what amount to a factory that will employ from 100 to 200 hands?

3rd.—Can a Company be formed with a capital of $50,000. Our patent right and machines will be $30,000, leaving $20,000 to be subscribed by stockholders. If the town gives a bonus it will be so much less.

We have four machines ready. That is enough to start with. As they are on a new principle, each one will do more work and better; as much in one day as any of the old machines can do in four with half the hands. Each of our machines will run off from 150 to 200 gross per day, thereby giving a much larger dividend, besides controlling the market. No one can get our machines only through the company we form. We reserve the right of making the machines for the company, as they will have the patent for the Dominion, we cannot sell only through them and at their price. I may here state that only two persons have anything to do with it at present until a company is formed. We are corresponding with other places at the same time with a view of selecting a good locality.

Awaiting your answer,

I am respectfully,

F. WESTLAKE.

FIRE, WATER AND GAS COMMITTEE.

Mr. Rutherford, Chairman of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee, submitted the following report, recommending that a gas lamp be placed at the Court House, on Brock street, one on McDonel street, between George and Aylmer streets, one at the corner of Brock and Park streets, also one on Brock street, between Reid and Park streets.

Mr. Rutherford in presenting the report set forth the claims of the residents in the different localities to the lamps asked for and moved for the adoption of the report.

Mr. Cahill moved in amendment, that the report be received only. He thought it was a question not for this Council to deal with, but should be left to the incoming Council.

After a lengthy discussion in which all the Councillors took a lively part, it was Moved in amendment to the amendment by Mr. Menzies, seconded by Mr. Richardson,—That the report be amended so as to provide for the placing of one lamp in the 4th Ward and one in the 3rd Ward.

Mr. Cahill's amendment was declared carried.

COURT OF REVISION.

Mr. Rutherford, Chairman of the Court of Revision, read the following report, recommending:—That the assessment of Mrs. Scott, and the Wm. Hall Estate, (R. Nicholls,) be confirmed; that of W. Graham, $4.16; J. Pine, $4.15; John Edmison, $4.16; be struck off. John Heron and Jas. Coughlin, statute labour, confirmed; and that the matter of R. F. Tate, income, $5.75, be struck off.

The Mayor asked how the Committee had arrived at their conclusion in the case of Mrs. Scott.

Mr. Rutherford said the guide they had was the assessment roll, as well as the statement from the blue books, of the amount of stock held by Mrs. Scott.

Mr. Douglas said he was one of the committee who did not concede with the majority; Mr. Nicholls had told him the same stock was assessed to him as executor of the Wm. Hall estate. If so, it was unfair to tax it twice.

Mr. Menzies would support the report, as he believed from the records before them the committee had acted fairly.

Mr. Douglas moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Yelland,—That the report be amended by leaving the matter of Mrs. Scott's and Mr. Nicholl's over for further consideration.

The amendment upon being put was declared lost, and the motion for adopting the report upon being put was declared carried.

DISTRESS WARRANTS.

Chief Constable Johnston asked information from the Council as to what course he should pursue in reference to distress warrants for taxes which he had.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

GRANT TO CONSTABLE MCGHEE.

Mr. Rutherford moved, seconded by Mr. Yelland,—That a grant of $22 be given Constable McGhee for extra services.

This resolution drew forth another discussion similar to that of the meeting on Monday evening, and on a vote being taken it was declared lost.

ASSISTANT FOR TOWN CLERK.

On motion of Mr. Richardson, seconded by Mr. Yelland,—The Town Clerk was authorized to engage an assistant for the next ten or twelve days, owing to the extra amount of labor entailed upon him at commencement of year.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE TO CHIEF CONSTABLE.

On motion of Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Chamberlain,—Mr. Johnston, Chief Constable, was allowed two weeks leave of absence.—Carried unanimously.

VOTE OF THANKS TO THE MAYOR.

On motion the Mayor was requested to leave the chair, and Councillor Yelland asked to take it, after which

Mr. Kelly moved, seconded by Mr. Rutherford,—That the thanks of the Council are due and are hereby tendered to His Worship Mayor Smith, for his able and impartial conduct as the presiding officer of this Council during the past year, and also for his untiring zeal in the interests of the town.

Mr. Kelly in proposing the resolution, said it was one which he believed would be heartily endorsed by every member present, as His Worship had at all times been indefatigable in his efforts to promote the welfare of the town, and to show the utmost courtesy and attention to the members of the Council.

Mr. Rutherford felt pleasure in seconding the resolution. He believed the present incumbent of the Mayor's chair had given as great satisfaction to the people and the members of the Council, as it was possible for any one to do. The best proof of this was his re-election by acclamation, and he felt certain he would be equally as popular at the end of 1882.

Mr. Menzies was pleased to be able to testify to the satisfactory manner in which Mr. Smith had discharged the duties of Mayor during the year. He believed he had always worked for the best interests of the town and was assiduous in looking after its business. As a presiding officer his conduct to his colleagues was always marked by civility and courtesy.

Mr. Richardson also expressed his need of praise, and did not think a better person could be placed in the position. At first he thought Mr. Smith would have been an extravagant official, but he was happy to be able to say he found him exactly the reverse. In conversation with a number of the ratepayers he found they entertained the same views, and he would not be surprised if at the end of the present year he should be re-elected by acclamation.

Mr. Chamberlain said if there was one quality more than another which His Worship deserved credit for, it was for the patience exercised by him towards his colleagues at the council board. At all times and upon all occasions he had treated them with the utmost courtesy and rendered his decisions in the most impartial manner, and it gave him great pleasure to have this opportunity of testifying to the untiring zeal always displayed by Mr. Smith in advancing the interests of the town.

After other members of the Council had similarly expressed themselves, the Chairman pro tem, Mr. Yelland said before putting the resolution he wished to say a few words in reference to it. Both as Councillor and Mayor he had found Mr. Smith always ready and willing to work in the interests of the town. In fact he seemed to be all attention to the business of the ratepayers. They had sat together for many years at the Council Board, and he could honestly say he was more in love with him now than ever. (Laughter.) He believed Mr. Smith had always tried to discharge his duties faithfully and honestly, and to the best of his ability. His conduct in the Mayor's chair during the past year had won the respect and esteem of the Council, and he believed the resolution only expressed the genuine feeling of those assembled.

The motion was then put and carried unanimously.

Upon resuming the chair the Mayor acknowledged the compliment paid him in a few well chosen words.

THANKS TO RETIRING COUNCILLORS.

A resolution was then passed tendering the thanks of the Council to the retiring members—Messrs. Yelland, Chamberlain, Taylor and Hartley—for their untiring efforts in promoting the interests of the town.

After an acknowledgment by Messrs. Yelland, Chamberlain and Harley, Mr. Taylor being absent through sickness, the Council adjourned,

POLYGAMY IN THE NORTH-WEST.

Another of our North-West furies appears in the form of the proverbial polygamy practised by white men. Many instances can be given between Edmonton and Fort Walsh of white men receiving Government pay, who live with Indian women as their wives for a season, and ultimately throw them aside for better ones. Married men in Government employ, and enjoying good social positions in Ontario, have so disgraced themselves that they have for a time broken their marriage vows by living with Indian women, and when leaving the territory have left the women and half-breed children unprovided for. Such has happened in the past, and such is still going on. Surveyors, men employed on the reserves, Mounted Policemen, and others are participating in this worse than heathenish practice. There are men in excellent situations in the States and Canada, and some living here, who are respected by their friends and considered to be exemplary in morals, who have white ladies as their lawful wives while amongst us their Indian wives and children live in want and disgrace. The worst has not been told, but surely this is enough to arouse the Government to institute legal measures for the suppression of this vice. There is one means of cure and that lies with the young women of Canada. There are a large number of honest, hard working, and well-to-do farmers who would be glad to get wives. Good wages will be given to young women as cooks, dressmakers, and laundry maids. Those wishing to get good husbands will find them here with a snug little fortune to help them in housekeeping. It would be well that all the men on the reserves, especially the Indian instructors, be married men, and that their wives be employed with them as cooks or school teachers, or instructors for the female portion of the Indian tribes. A large amount of crime would thus be prevented; the Indians would not be compelled to complain of the white man's example, and the Canadain Government and people would not be disgraced. Affairs as they now are would be a disgrace to any country, and especially to a young nation possessing such examples of intelligence and morality as our Dominion boasts of.—[W. H. Williams.

SHE TOOK HIM AT HIS WORD.

HOW A FAITHFUL WIFE TRIED TO RELIEVE HER HUSBAND'S PAIN.

Wriggles had some teeth pulled lately, and took cold in his jaw, which swelled until it looked like a prize watermelon. He poulticed it and bandaged it, all to no purpose, and walked the floor several nights with it, quoting choice extracts from Bob Ingersoll's lectures, but all to no purpose; it kept on swelling. The other morning he remarked that he'd give $50 to any one that would hit him a tremendous thump on it suddenly without expecting it, to see if it would burst the swelling. The dear woman, smiling to herself, went and gathered a bootjack, and stepping up quietly behind the old man as he was trying to strain some coffee through his teeth, lovingly inquired: "Where does it pain you most Wrig?" "Oh, Lord! right here, right here," replied he, as he turned his jaw up and pointed to the apex of the protuberance. Taking a step back the dear woman raised the bootjack on high and hit him a regular bungstarter right in the centre of the calamity, and smilingly stepped back to await results. The old man's knees flew to his chin as he shut up like a patent rat trap, and with a hollow groan he rolled off the chair on to the floor. But he was up in a moment, and as he danced the can-can, with original variations, his wife smilingly asked: "Did it relieve you, dear?" And as he tried to howl out an answer old Mrs. Bry, who had just dropped in, beat a hasty retreat. And now the whole neighborhood has it that Wriggles has got 'em again. And as Mrs. Pry remarked, "That 'ere comit will be the death o' some o' these old baldheads yet, settin' up to watch it."

A MODERN LORENZO DOW.

The Rev. George O. Barnes, the mountain evangelist of Kentucky, a modern Lorenzo Dow, has been creating a sensation in Louisville, Ky., during the past week by his services at the Chestnut Baptist Church. He is a firm believer in what he terms faith cure, and at the conclusion of his services he calls up the afflicted, anoints them, and prays for their recovery, and assures them all will be well if they have faith. Mr. Barnes claims that God never damns, but it is the devil who does it, and, Barnes says, makes sickness and disease. God heals. Every day we see in the newspapers that it hath pleased God to remove our brother. God did'nt remove him. It pleases the devil to remove him. "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away," is a lie started by old Job when he was in deep affliction. There is not a bit of truth in it. The Lord giveth but the devel taketh away. God has so constructed us, Barnes continued, that though the devil may lay grief upon us, it soon wears out. Time heals us. The weeping widow will console herself in a year and a half by marrying another man. "Watch and pray." This divine injunction used to trouble me a great deal. I could'nt understand it. I would pray to the Lord and watch the devil; then pray to the Lord and watch the world and flesh, and then the devil would slip up behind and catch me, but thank God, I am over that difficulty now. I pray to the Lord and Watch him, too, and He protects me. He will not perish so long as I look to Him. Mr. Barnes caused people to look around at each other in amazement when he added, "The Devil"—"take away the first letter," he said, "and you have 'evil'; remove the second and you have 'vil'; the third and you have 'il'; the fourth and you have a word that sounds like hell itself; so you see, my friends, the devil is mean all the way through, and I don't intend to have anything more to do with him." At the conclusion of each hour's service he invites backsliders and sinners to come forward and have their sin-sick souls cured, after which he extends an invitation to the afflicted in body to come and be healed. If none come forward, he does not insist, but says they will do so before he is done here. He does not seem in the least discouraged at the apparent slow progress for God, but feels that he has done his best, and leaves the result with God.

WHAT VOLCANOES ARE NOT.

(Popular Science Monthly.)

"What is a volcano?" This is a familiar question often addressed to us in our youth, which "Catechisms of Universal Knowledge" and similar school manuals have taught us to reply to in some such terms as the following: "A volcano is a burning mountain, from the summit of which issue smoke and flames." This description, says Prof. Judd, is not merely incomplete and inadequate as a whole, but each individual proposition of which it is made up is grossly inadequate and, what is worse, perversely misleading. In the first place, the action which takes place at volcanoes is not "burning," or combustion, and bears, indeed, no relation whatever to that well-known process. Nor are the volcanoes necessarily "mountains" at all: essentially, they are just the reverse—namely, holes in the earth's crust, or outer portion, by means of which a communication is kept up between the surface and the interior of the globe. When mountains do exist at centres of volcanic activity, they are simply the heaps of materials thrown out of these holes, and must, therefore, be regarded not as the causes but as the consequences of volcanic action. Neither does this action always take place at the "summits" of volcanic mountains when such exist, for eruptions occur quite as frequently on their sides or at their base. That, too, which popular fancy regards as "smoke" is really condensed steam or watery vapor, and the supposed raging "flames" are nothing more than the glowing light of a mass of molten material reflected from these vapor clouds.

THE GALT SCHOOLS.

The Galt Reporter, speaking of the effect of the more kindly discipline now exercised in the schools of the county of Waterloo, says:—The relations between school teachers and their pupils in this part of the country seem to be of the most endearing kind, and in this respect to afford a striking contrast to the "good old days" when "we were boys together." Then the pupils used to express their "esteem" for their teacher by barring them out, sticking pins in the stools, stealing the rawhides, emptying their little bottles of—tea—and filling them with water, and by many other pranks they led the "grand old masters" anything but a peaceful life But now all this is changed. Instead of teasing the life out of their teachers, pupils in these days seem to take a pride in honoring them; and our columns to-day bear witness to the many tokens of affectionate esteem which have passed between pupils and their teachers.

FINE ART GALLERY

Photographs in every Style of the Art.

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced a remedy so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates the vital functions, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 19, 1882.

Town Council of 1882.

Our Town Fathers have now been installed into their offices of trust, honor and dignity, and the ratepayers of this place await their future conduct and measures, with watchful expectation. The work for the present year will be pressing and important, and we are glad to see around the Council table sit men of good business standing and habits, and of judicious understanding. We cannot too forcibly, nor too frequently impress upon the minds of the Council the necessity, advisability and importance of immediate and combined action towards the establishment of the Midland R. R. workshops at Peterborough. Other places are making strenuous exertions to get them, and if we win in the contest it will only be by making a united push and offering liberal inducements to the Company. These works would be a settled and permanent institution, and would be a great factor to the future solid advancement of the town, and their possession now would increase both our wealth and population. Another matter of importance which should gain the consideration of the Council is the building of the waterworks. The Company is formed and tenders are being asked for the necessary material to start operations in the spring, and it is the bounden duty of our civic authorities to give all just, reasonable and material assistance to the consummation of the Company's contract. In looking towards the commercial interests of the town, let us not overlook sanitary law and reforms. Spaulding's Bay has always been the fountain of malaria in that district, and decisive means to fill it up must now be undertaken. We are aware that the majority of the Council favor this project, and we can now hopefully look forward to the removal of this eye-sore. A new distribution of gas lamps should be decreed. All the ratepayers of the town, in proportion to their property or income, pay equally for this great convenience of light, and the ratepayers should rightfully demand that particular sections, owing to ward influence, should not have a superfluous number of lamps, whilst other quarters are altogether, or almost, deprived of any. We hope that in their deliberations, in their appointments and in their actions, the Councillors will be free from any political favouritism that they will remember they were elected, not by political strife, but by the united votes of Reformers and Conservatives, and that they are appointed to perform a duty and a trust, and not to stultify themselves and their office. It would be highly desirable to publish in coming years the Auditors' Reports. It is customary for Parliament to give all assistance in its power to the acquirement, by the people, of a knowledge of the expenditure of the public money, and our Town Council can well follow their example. The expense of printing would be small. Public and private men would be led to take a deeper interest in municipal affairs, and the Report would be invaluable to business men. We also hope that the Council will weigh well the advice we gave them last week as to holding their meetings in the day time, and we are confident that the affairs of our town will be administered more honorably and satisfactorily, and not only would our Councillors reflect honor on themselves and add material advantages to this town, but on retirement they could feel that they cringed neither to popular favor nor fear, but have always followed the dictates of their own consciences.

Disallowance of Manitoba Railway Charters.

Sir John Macdonald has after all determined to brave public opinion by disallowing the "Manitoba South Eastern Railway" charter. This Act authorizing the construction of this proposed line of road was passed by the Manitoba Legislature in its session of 1880, that is before the contract with the Syndicate was ever personally agreed to by the Dominion Government. That contract does not require the disallowance of any existing railway charter as part of the price demanded by the Syndicate. Why then has it been disallowed?

There is no power more clearly placed by the British North America Act within the competence of Provincial Parliaments than the power of chartering local public works. The Manitoba Legislature has as much right to grant a charter for the construction of a railway from Winnipeg to the frontier as the Ontario Legislature has to authorise the Midland Company to build the air line from Peterborough to Omemee, or the Ontario Sault Company to construct a railway from Gravenhurst to the Sault Ste. Marie. There is fortunately no dispute about this power and therefore we need not stop to argue the matter. The reasons for the disallowance were not made public in the Gazette, which announced the fact and have not been made public up to the time of this writing. They must be made known, however, sooner or later, and the Government may as well make up their minds that the fight on this question will be a sharp and decisive one whether it is to be short or long.

The recommendation to disallow the South Eastern charter emanates from the Minister of Justice. If the former has any personal interest sub rosa in the contract, as his apponents allege, his recommendation would be intelligible; assuming his freedom from guilty participation in the ownership of the Canada Pacific franchise the course he has as a politician chosen to pursue is simply inexplicable. The choking off of a possible rival is in contravention of his own arguments when the Syndicate contract was under discussion. He stated then over and over again that the Syndicate could not possibly have a monopoly because the Manitoba Legislature was not debarred from chartering roads to the frontier, and because there was then a charter in existence for a road to Hudson Bay, Sir John Macdonald on the floor of Parliament induced his recalcitrant followers to vote for the obnoxious and outrageous Syndicate bargain by telling them that Manitoba could not be "checked" in the matter of railway charters.

We expressed the opinion last week that if Sir John ventured to disallow any of these local charters he would make the greatest political blunder of his career. Now that he has done so we reaffirm that opinion. He has by his disallowance of the South-Eastern charter avowed his determination to give the Syndicate a real monopoly of all the traffic of the North-West. He has boldly told the people of Canada that, so far as he can accomplish it, for twenty years to come one railway company shall have the sole privilege of carrying out of that great agricultural region all the grain and staples it is capable of producing. The proposal is too outrageous to be tolerated and both the policy and its authors will be swept into oblivion by aroused and indignant public opinion. We expect the Manitoba Legislature to follow the spirited example set by the Ontario Legislature in the Streams Bill case and promptly re-enact the disallowed charter. There is no other course open to any people with a particle of spirit in them. The disallowance of the charter is an invasion of their constitutional rights no less than a most uncalled for and improper curtailment of their commercial freedom. No free people can afford to allow themselves to be thus trampled upon, and we very much mistake the temper of the Nor'-Westers if they sit quiet under any such wrong. It is safe to predict some lively passages of arms over this business when Parliament meets next month at Ottawa, but it is not safe to count upon any follower of the Government rising superior to his partisan subserviency and warning his leaders that they are committing political suicide. We shall see?

The infamous bread tax is bitterly resented in Nova Scotia. We observe in the Halifax Chronicle that "two schooners from Boston, brought nearly four thousand bushels of corn to that city. The Government of Sir John Macdonald impose a tax of $366 on this importation The people who consume cornmeal will have to pay this tax and something more, for the importers will not invest their $366 in the venture without a determination to make the consumer pay for the use of the money. This taxation of the bread of the poor is one of the great triumphs of the National Policy."

☞Don't forget that Munro & Alexander will be found Three Doors further North after the First of February.

The Muskoka Sufferers.

In referring to our report of the council proceedings on Monday evening, we find the following:—

"Moved by Mr. Denne, seconded by Mr Rutherford.—That the Mayor and Clerk be instructed to prepare a memorial and forward it to the Government, urging upon them the necessity of their assisting the sufferers in the Muskoka District."

"Mr. Denne said the reason he moved this was that the people of the town were now being solicited for aid, and as the Government received a great deal of money from that district, he thought they should grant the aid."

We see no reason why the Dominion Government should not vote a decent sum for their relief, and feel sure that it must be this Government that Mr. Denne wishes memoralized. It is as becoming to vote a grant to these sufferers as it was for to assist the poor in Ireland. No doubt, it may be that it introduces a bad precedent, and that it is better to trust to private benevolence in such emergencies. This may be quite true, but there are cases where strict laws of political economy will not hold. The Mowat Government has long since given its thousands to these sufferers, but did not parade their generosity on the house tops in order to make capital out of the prompt performance of a simple duty, and most generously relieved the necessities of the unfortunate settlers.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Daniel Buck, of Asphodel, one of the oldest residents in the township of Asphodel, died after a short illness on Thursday last, in the 63rd year of her age. Her funeral took place on Saturday last, and was a remarkably large one, evincing the great esteem in which the deceased lady had been held. A funeral service was held in the Methodist church, conducted, in the absence of the pastor, by the Rev. W. A. Pattyson.

LARCENY.

The larcenic propensities of some light-fingered gentry have been developing of late in this village, and several parties here have missed valuables of which they are earnestly desirous of becoming possessed of again. But the most bare-faced piece of theft ever heard of here happened on Sunday morning last, when some person deliberately stole from the sleigh of Mr. John Wildman, of Asphodel, a valuable shawl. The sleigh at the time was in the church yard, and the thief, therefore, must have been an adept at his business.

AGRICULTURAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Asphodel, Belmont and Dummer Agricultural Society was held in Norwood on Thursday last. The number, as usual, was small, and was composed of only those members who seem to take an interest in the society. The annual report was read by the secretary, Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, which was received and adopted. The report referred to the efforts of a committee appointed by the society to make enquiries anent available sites for permanent grounds for the use of this society, and submitted offers from Mr. Grover of the choice of four lots, and one from Mr. Mullins, ranging in price from $500 to $700 for five acres; but did not recommend the selection of any particular lot; all being alike as far as convenience is concerned. The report also mentioned that the committee believed that the councils of Norwood and Asphodel would give financial assistance to the purchase of grounds and the erection of buildings. A lengthy discussion took place upon this subject, but unfortunately nothing definite was arrived at, as no scheme whereby the consummation of this very desirable object could be effected, was suggested. The apathy of the society in this respect certainly reduces their receipts yearly, as considerable money is lost at each show by the want of, suitable and spacious grounds. The treasurer's report showed the finances of the society to be in a satisfactory condition. The total receipts of last year were $270.21; while the expenses were $259.27, showing a balance in the hands of the treasurer of $10.94. On motion a grant of five dollars was made towards making some repairs on the drill shed. The following gentlemen were elected officers for the current year: J. B. Pearce, President; James Stephenson, 1st Vice-President; Wm. Burgess, 2nd Vice-President; W. E. Roxburgh, Sec.-Treas.; Directors, Daniel Kelly, Hiram Reynolds, James Fleming, Frank Birdsall, W. G. Patterson, James Burgess, James Moore, John Boland and Charles Nicoll. Auditors, W. H. Stephenson and J. A. Butterfield.

SNOW.

We have had several instalments of "the beautiful" during the past few days, consequently there has been a slight revival in trade, the multiplicity of sleighs upon our streets, and the rushing in of stove wood from all quarters of the neighborhood. On the strength of what snow we have, a number of teams started on Monday morning for the shanties.

ACCIDENT.

On Sunday morning last, when Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood were driving home from church, as they were going out of the church yard their cutter capsized and both were thrown out. Mrs. Lockwood fell on her left temple and was seriously injured, besides sustaining several cuts and bruises about the head and face.

RABBIT HUNT.

A number of our Norwood hunters this week started back for a rabbit hunt. It is to be hoped that they will be more fortunate hunting the dear rabbits than they have in the past in hunting the deer. However, the chances are in favor of the hunters, as a closer shot can be obtained at the former than at the latter, and possibly there may be a slaughter among the innocents.

The reading of the minutes of the last meeting were dispensed with.

APPOINTMENT OF AUDITORS.

The Mayor appointed Mr. Edg. Pearse as one of the auditors, and on motion of Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. McNaughton Mr. John J. Hall was appointed the other.

A By-law confirming the appointments was passed through its several stages and signed by the Mayor and Clerk and the salaries fixed at $40 each.

APPOINTING STANDING COMMITTEES.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Alford,—That Messrs. Paterson, Rutherford, Douglas, Kelly, Denne, Poussette be a special committee to strike the standing Committees for the current year and that they report this evening.—Carried.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

A By-law confirming a grant of $100 to the Mechanics' Institute, passed by the late council, received its several readings and was duly passed.

THE MUSKOKA SUFFERERS.

Moved by Mr. Denne, seconded by Mr. Rutherford,—That the Mayor and Clerk be instructed to prepare a memorial and forward to the Government, urging upon them the necessity of their assisting the sufferers in the Muskoka District.—Carried.

Mr. Denne said the reason he moved this was that the people of the town were now being solicited for aid, and as the Government received a great deal of money from that district he thought they should grant the aid.

RULES OF ORDER.

A resolution adopting the present Rules of Order was moved by Mr. Cahill and passed.

REMOVING SNOW.

Mr. Rutherford brought up the matter of cleaning the sidewalks of snow, recommending the purchase of snow ploughs by the Council, and letting the work by tender. It would add but a very few cents to each one's taxes. He could never see the utility of building sidewalks for use eight or nine months in the year and let them remain covered with snow and unfit for travel the remainder of the year.

He would therefore move, seconded by Mr. Douglas,—That the Clerk be instructed to call for tenders for the cleaning of snow from all the sidewalks in town, and also asking for tenders and plans for the construction of two snow ploughs.

Mr. Paterson said in view of the amount now paid by the town for cartage and drawing the fire engine to fires, it would be well to consider the advisibility of buying a team for corporation work.

Mr. Rutherford quite agreed with Mr. Paterson, and would ask to have the suggestion added to the resolution.

Mr. Richardson thought the idea a good one and should be acted upon.

Mr. Poussette also agreed with the suggestion, as he believed it would be found economical.

The resolution was accordingly amended, and the Fire, Water and Gas Committee authorised to receive and open tenders and report to this Council.

THOSE GAS LAMPS.

Mr. Rutherford brought up the question of gas lamps as reported upon at the last meeting of the old Council but which at the time was voted down. He moved that the report be now adopted.

Mr. Douglas seconded the resolution.

Mr. Cahill and Mr. Denne objected to the proceedings as out of order, the matter not having been reported upon by this Council.

Mr. Poussette thought it quite in order for this council to take the matter up, as the question had been referred from the old council to this one.

The Mayor held the motion in order,

Mr. E. C. Hill was heard before the Council in reference to the placing of a lamp at the corner of Park and Brock streets. He had at his own expense erected a post and kept a lamp lit for a number of years, but he did not intend to furnish it any longer for nothing. As to the one at the Court House he did not want his petition classed with it. He thought the County should provide the gas lamps necessary for the Court House hill.

Mr. Denne thought the matter should be referred to a committee to report as to the manner in which the lamps in town were distributed.

Mr. Rutherford pressed his resolution.

Mr. Cahill contended the resolution out of order.

The Mayor held the resolution in order as the resolution at a former meeting referred this matter to the Council.

Mr. Cahill contended that the matter had not been properly brought before the Council as yet, and as the work could not be proceeded with for some time he thought there was no hurry in pressing it through.

Mr. Douglas held the same opinion now as he held before, that it was a matter which the old Council should have attended to but as they had not done so, he saw no reason why it should not be settled to-night.

Mr. McNaughton objected to proceeding with the work.

Mr. Paterson as a member of the Committee, said this question was one which had been up for some time past, and certainly Mr. Cahill could not say it was springing a mine upon the Council to now bring it forward, the lamps petitioned for were much needed and had been asked for long ago.

Mr. Richardson favored the application of Mr. Hill, as he thought he deserved it, but would not say anything as to the others.

Mr. Kelly thought it better to leave the matter over for some time.

Mr. Stevenson said the only lamps which the company could light at present was the one at Mr. Hill's and the one on McDonald Street, as in the former case the post was put up, and the other the main passed by it.

Mr. Denne moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Kelly,—That the lamp asked for by Mr. Hill be granted and that another be located at Smith Street Bridge.

Mr. Rutherford as mover of the original motion replied at length to the arguments advanced by the opponents of the report.

Mr. McNaughton objected to Mr. Denne's motion as out of order, as it involved an expenditure of money.

The Mayor held the objection well-taken.

Mr. Cahill moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. McNaughton,—That the matter be laid over for the present and that the lamp at the Court House be put up as soon as practicable and that the joint committee confer with the County Council with a view to the County sharing the expense of the same.

The amendment upon being put was declared lost, as was also the original motion.

Mr. Poussette gave notice of motion that he would move at next meeting to have the gas lamp at Mr. E.C. Hill's corner lighted.

THE FIRE INQUEST.

Dr. Bell, coroner at the lat efire inquest, reported that in accordance with the instructions given him by the Council, an inquest was held, but no evidence had been forthcoming to fasten the guilt upon any one, although it was generally believed some of the fires had been of an incendiary nature.

ESTABLISHMENT OF CAR WORKS.

Mr. Cahill gave notice of motion that he would at the next meeting move for the consideration of the advisability of the town taking stock in the proposed car-works.

PAYMENT OF JURORS.

Mr. Poussette gave notice that he would move at next meeting for the payment of the jurors at the late fire inquest.

Council adjourned for two weeks.

Munro & Alexander will have the largest stock of Dry Goods, Mantles, Millinery, Dress Goods Silks and Fancy Goods, that they have ever held, when they open out in their new premises.

SMITH.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

RECOVERING.—We are glad to learn that Mr. Parnell, who has been suffering for some time from inflammation, is slowly recovering.

ACCIDENT.—While Mr. Cooper, in the employ of Mr. J. B. Nicholls, of the communication road, was at work with a cutting machine, he struck his finger against the revolving knife, splitting the finger from the top to the first joint. The wound was so painful as to disable him for several days, but he is now back at work.

TRAMPS.—A tramp made it lively for some people in this neighborhood last week. After threatening to burn a few barns, and shoot a number of people, and being chased for a mile or so by a number of men and boys, he closed his career for the day by sleeping in a wood-shed, from which he was summarily ejected the next morning by the owner. He said that he had served one term in the Central Prison, and judging by his actions another term in the same institution is what he deserves.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

Of the Little Lake Cemetery Company.

And Election of Directors and Officers.

The annual meeting of the Little Lake Cemetery Company was held in the Council Chamber, on Monday last, at 12 o'clock, noon. The following were present :—John J. Lundy, Esq., President, in the chair, and Messrs. Robert Dennistoun, County Judge, Rev. V. Clementi, G. H. Johnston, C. D. Macdonald, James Stevenson, R. D. Rogers, Wm Eastland, W. H. Moore, Jas. Stratton, Charles Cameron, R. Kingan and W. Menzies, besides Messrs. Jas. Edwards, Secretary-Treasurer, and John Kelly, Superintendent.

THE DIRECTORS' REPORT.

The President read the following report, which was received and adopted :—

Report of the Directors of the Little Lake Cemetery Company for the year 1881, presented at the annual meeting, 16th January, 1882 :

Your out-going Directors would congratulate the stockholders of the Company as to the favorable position it has arrived at, closing the year with a large sum on hand, notwithstanding having spent nearly $1,500 during the year.

The gross receipts have been $2,312.30, add to which the balance at the close of 1880, $1,176.79, making a total of $3,489.09. The expenditure for the year has been $1,495.43, leaving a balance on hand 31st Dec., 1881, of $1,993.66, as will be seen by balance sheet.

A large number of lots has been sold, realizing some $1,068. A good share of permanent improvements have been made in cleaning and beautifying the lots, and the walks and roads.

The subject of purchasing lands adjacent to the Cemetery has engaged the attention of the Directors, but they have failed in accomplishing anything definite. They would, however, urge upon their successors to attempt obtaining more ground for burial purposes. The attraction is such that parties from a long distance, are desirous of "burying the dead" in Peterborough, and good eligible lots are being bought up rapidly. In the event of purchasing additional land, increased fences will be required. The present fences are very poor, and steps will have to be taken at an early day to renew them.

It is now nearly 30 years since the Cemetery was formed, on the 21st of June, 1852 ; there were 35 proprietors in the Company, 22 of this number have passed away to the eternal world, 13 only of the original number remain alive to-day. In view of the fact that we each have in our turn to depart hence, and the mutable state of everything under the sun, the voice of wisdom addresses us all : "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might, for there is neither work, knowledge nor device in the grave to whither thou art fast hastening."

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) JOHN J. LUNDY, President.

was then submitted and read, as follows :

Total number of interments, 146.

In presenting the financial statement of the receipts and expenditures of the past year, I respectfully beg to call your attention to some of the improvements which have been made during the year.

A large area of ground has been cleared of trees, stumps and stones, and the lots evenly graded, and seeded with the choicest of grass seed, and a large portion of the said grounds have also been terraced and sodded, which adds very much to the appearance of the lots so terraced. There have been 312 lots improved, which remain unsold, the proceeds of which, if sold, would exceed the expenditure of the past year. Also a number of the walks have been gravelled, and some 200 yards of gravel have been put on the principal roads, which adds very much to the comfort of travel through the grounds.

A large number of evergreens and ornamental trees have been planted, which are doing well, and will in a short time add greatly to the appearance of the grounds.

A yard fence has been built at the caretaker's house, and some repairs made to the building.

A number of rustic seats have been purchased and placed in convenient positions through the grounds, which have been very much used by visitors during the summer months.

The Committee have procured the use of a horse in the Cemetery, when required ; a wagon, cart and harness have been purchased, and a new stone machine has also been added, the purchase of these articles will lessen the running expenses in the future.

I might say that the amount received during the year has been sufficient to meet all the expenses incurred for improvements and salary.

The fence on the west side of the Cemetery is in a delapidated condition and needs repairing immediately in the spring. In this connection I would respectfully suggest that the Directors acquire the property for some distance west of the Cemetery, which, if acquired and improved, would greatly add to the beauty and general appearance of the grounds.

There being now sufficient funds on hand for those purposes, I believe that the present is a favorable time to purchase the said property.

I would also suggest that the Directors urge upon the Town Council the necessity of taking some steps to preserve Crescent street, which is annually wearing away from the action of the lake, the roadway now is quite narrow in several places, and the cost would now be very much less than a year or two hence.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
JOHN KELLY.

Peterborough, Jan. 16.

The report was on motion received.

DIRECTORS ELECTED.

Messrs. Stratton and Moore acted as scrutineers for the election of Directors for the ensuing year, and declared Messrs. Dennistoun, Clementi, Lundy, Stevenson, Edwards, Eastland, Stapleton, Carnegie and Hamilton elected for the ensuing year.

KEEPING THE CEMETERY IN ORDER.

Mr. Stratton said that he had once before appeared before the stockholders, advocating some little change in the management of the grounds, and he asked to be heard again on the same subject. He was not there to find fault with Mr. Kelly, for he had always behaved civilly and courteously towards him, and was only carrying out the will of the Directors in his management. What he (Mr. S.) sought, was to get the Directors to take the keeping of the whole grounds and grasses in their own hands for all time. It was a pity to see that the neglect of one or two plots marred all the lots in close proximity to the neglected lots. At present many stockholders paid yearly to have their lots kept in order, but death and removal would bring about some wonderful changes, and who knew how long present payments would continue ; he would therefore ask the in-coming Directors to consider the matter, and now that they had a large sum in the treasury, to look towards investing a portion of it, and then to provide for increasing the amount from year to year until the interest would be sufficient to keep the whole grounds neatly and in good order forever, no matter where owners or descendants might be. This would be appreciated by every one, and would meet with the approval of the stockholders generally.

Judge Dennistoun said he entirely agreed with the remarks of Mr. Stratton, and that he believed the Directors would fully consider the matter of dealing with this question, for he knew that several very handsome blocks were often injured by the neglect of one lot near them.

Mr. Clementi thought the time was not a fitting one for discussing the question, as new ground had to be purchased and new fences erected that would take all the money on hand, and he doubted whether the Directors could legally do as Mr. Stratton had suggested.

Mr. Stratton again suggested that if the way proposed could not be fully carried out that something could be done in that direction, and he was pretty certain that many persons would pay a lump sum down at once, if they had a guarantee that the grounds would be kept in order hereafter.

The Chairman, Mr. Stevenson, and others considered that something should be done in the direction proposed, and said that it appeared feasible and reasonable.

Mr. Kingan remarked that 12 o'clock was a very bad time for holding the meeting, as business men could not attend at that hour, and the consequence was that a few Directors met from year to year and voted themselves into office. He would therefore propose that the hour of meeting be changed.

Mr. Clementi said that no hour was fixed in the constitution for the meeting, and therefore it could not be changed, as it had no existence.

Mr. Kingan then proposed that three o'clock p.m. be fixed as the hour, and not leave it entirely to the Secretary.

Mr. Stratton thought that for the present it would be as well to leave the fixing of the hour to the Directors.

MEETING OF DIRECTORS.

At a meeting of the Directors, held immediately after, the following officers were elected :—

PRESIDENT.—Mr. J. J. Lundy, re-elected.

SECRETARY-TREASURER.—Mr. Jas. Edwards, salary $75, re-elected.

SUPERINTENDENT.—Mr. John Kelly, salary $500, re-elected.

AUDITORS.—Messrs. W. Eastland and J. J. Hall.

Moved by Mr. Brealey, seconded by Mr. Brownscombe.—That the Reeve be instructed to inform Messrs. Dennistoun, Bros. & Hall, that it is the wish of the Council for the law to take its course in this matter.—Carried.

OTTAWA, 4.—A well-known M.P. from the West is at the Russell House. His Scotch Tweed Suit from T. DOLAN & CO'S, Peterborough, is particularly nobby.

HALIBURTON, 5.—A large case of goods broke down the strongest waggon in the village. The case was filled with Clothing from DOLAN'S, of Peterborough.

WINNIPEG, 6.—Several Peterborough speculators arrived in the city to-day. They are all well-equipped with money, and are particularly noticeable for stylish suits made for them by T. DOLAN & CO., of Peterborough, Ont.

MADOC, 4.—A surveying party of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway passed through here Saturday. They report stormy weather but set the frost at defiance, having purchased their outfit of heavy clothing from DOLAN & CO., of Peterborough.

NEW YORK, 5.—A good-looking stranger is held here by the police, supposed to have been concerned in a recent elopement. He is evidently a Canadian, his Beaver overcoat having been made by THOMAS DOLAN & CO., of Peterborough.

IN HAPPY DREAMS.

CHRISTINA ROSSETTI.

I dream of you to wake, would that I might Dream of you and not wake, but slumber on;
To find with dreams the dear companion gone.
As summer ended, summer birds take flight.
In happy dreams I hold you full in sight;
I wake again, who waking look so wan;
Brighter than sunniest day that ever shone,
In happy dreams your smile makes day of night.
Thus only in a dream are we at one,
Thus only in a dream we give and take
The faith that maketh rich who take or give.
If thus to sleep is sweeter than to wake,
To die were surely sweeter than to live,
Though there be nothing new beneath the sun.

PRIZE FARMING.

From time immemorial prize-giving has been made a principal to develop excellence in some particular line. As a principle of emulation in schools of learning, it has always been in vogue. It has been applied in all the arts of instruction, and always with good success—except perhaps where carried to excess. In the course of nature it has at last reached agricultural pursuits, and now the Agricultural and Arts Association are giving prizes for the best kept farms. Last year, the prizes awarded gave universal satisfaction, and the prominence which the prize takers received through the columns of the press, cannot but be a powerful incentive to much greater efforts in this direction. Farming, in the past, has been too much of an occupation, and not enough of a profession. As the primitive industry and essential element of our national existence, it should naturally rank in importance as the most honorable. Those who are anxious to see agriculture taking its proper place amongst the pursuits of life will be glad to note the great advancement it has taken during late years. The improvement in the general class of farming, the successful establishment of agricultural fairs, the improvement in the breed of all classes of farm stock, and in the number and utility of agricultural implements, the dissemination of agricultural literature, the establishment of an agricultural school,—these, with many other features, are among the steps which lead up to the professional aspect of ruraldom. In our estimation, an important factor has been introduced in giving prizes for the best managed farms. If a scheme can be devised so as to make the idea generally practicable without leaving the small farmer always at a disadvantage as compared with the rich farmer, which is too often the case at the agricultural fairs, no thinking man can help falling in with it, and aiding it to the extent of his influence. The Agricultural and Arts Association is doing a good work in thus furnishing incentives for more systematic and successful farming. The following conditions, rules and regulations affect the award:—

The Judges shall keep a detail of marks awarded to each farm visited. They shall award to the best managed farm in each Electoral District a bronze medal, where three farms have competed, and instead thereof to the best managed farm in the group a gold medal, and to the second best farm a silver medal.

In addition to any other points that may be thought desirable by the Judges, the following shall be taken into consideration in estimating what is "the best managed farm."

The competing farm to be not less than one hundred acres, two-thirds of which must be under cultivation.

The nature of the farming, whether mixed, dairy, or any other mode, to be the most suitable under conditions affected by local circumstances.

The proper position of the buildings in relation to the whole farm.

The attention paid to preservation of timber and shelter by planting of trees.

The condition of any private roads.

The character, sufficiency and condition of fences, and the manner in which the farm is sub-divided into fields.

Improvements by removal of obstacles to cultivation, including drainage.

General condition of buildings, including dwelling-house, and their adaptability to the wants of the farm and family.

The management, character, suitability, condition and number of live stock kept.

The number, condition and suitability of implements and machinery.

State of the garden and orchard.

Management of farm yard manure.

The cultivation of crops to embrace manuring, clearing, produce per acre in relation to management, and character of soil and climate.

General order, economy and water supply.

Cost of production and relative profits.

The examination by the Judges to be not earlier than the 1st of July, and to be finished in September.

PRIZE ESSAYS.

The Association also intend giving prizes of $30 and $20 for the first and second best essays on each of the following subjects:—1st, Manures: their preparation, application and effect on growing crops, and in maintaining and increasing the fertility of the siol to which they are applied; 2nd, The Homestead: its arrangement and surroundings, with regard to convenience and comfort, comfort, combined with economy, healthfulness and picturesque appearance, including choice of site, dwelling house and offices, water supply, drainage, farm buildings shelter-belts, gardens and shrubbery. Competition on the first subject is to be restricted to practical farmers cultivating land within the Province of Ontario; quotation of analysis to be excluded and scientific and technical terms to be avoided as much as possible. The last subject is open to general competition subject to the following restrictions:—length not to exceed twenty-five pages of foolscap, written on one side only and to be sent in not later than the 1st of August, 1882. This is a very commendable arrangement, and it is to be hoped that our agricultural friends in this section will not be backward in attempting at least one of them.

SUCCESS IN FARMING.

To be successful in farming one must always be careful in selecting his seeds, use good judgment in selecting animals, keep his farm well cultivated and free from weeds, keep fences in order and take good care of tools. He must also, as an exchange says, be one who keeps out of debt, and has a contented mind, sends his children to school and takes one or more good papers devoted to farm and stock interests. A farmer who never reads is like a machine that is never oiled—it wears. He wears himself out, exhausts his land, and dies poor. One good suggestion found in a paper or book is worth to men more than half a life of trials when not made intelligently. Don't be afraid to read and acknowledge that you can learn from others. No one knows it all. Somebody knows something you don't. Let your aim be to acquire everything anyone can teach you, and it will put money in your purse, brains in your head, and influence in your presence.

THE FARM.

SUGGESTIONS OF AND FOR THE SEASON.

The beginning of the year should be a time for the balancing of the farm accounts. New books are opened, and, with the inventory taken, as suggested last month, the farmer knows how he stands. The first of January usually brings an end to the paper subscriptions, and, if not already attended to, the renewals should be made at once. It may be that some farm journal or family paper has come to sight that will need to be added to the list of those already counted as necessary. Farmers, as a class, are yearly reading more and more, and for a number of very good reasons. The improvements of farm machinery allow of more time for mental culture; and not the least of the reasons for an increased reading among the farmers is the better quality of the matter provided for them by the agricultural press. It may be that the insurance policy runs out with the old year, and this important safeguard against distress should be looked to. Only the best companies should be patronized; the rates for ordinary farm buildings should be comparatively low. A co-operative system of insurance has worked admirably in some localities.

It is now mid-winter, and much of the farmer's labor is to keep himself and wife and family, and the farm stock, warm and comfortable. For the household there will be a good supply of fuel needed. This does not mean that a sizable pile of green wood just from the living tree, and full of water is adequate. Dry, well-seasoned wood is the only kind that is either pleasant or economical to use, especially in the stove in early morning. The man who, with a large wood lot on his farm, does not provide a good supply of dry wood for the household, is not doing his duty. The slip-shod method of chopping wood on the day it is to be used, though it may give a freshness to the product, is a fruitful source of bad breakfasts and bad tempers, and it may be in extreme cases leads to harsh words and disgraceful actions. All this can be avoided by cutting a year's supply of wood during the winter and giving it the whole of the following summer to become thoroughly dried. In this way the cutting and splitting of the year's wood becomes a part of the regular work on the farm. The methods to be observed in harvesting this crop should be as systematic and economical as any other. Unless the land is to be cleared, the trees that are old and dying should be cut first, thus preserving the wood lot in good condition.

BILL OF FARE FOR EGG PRODUCTION.

"Fanny Field," whose exceptional achievements in egg production during the cold months has been chronicled in these columns, reports to the Prairie Farmer her method of feeding, about which some of our readers have inquired. Hens must be supplied with egg-making material and this must not be consumed as fuel to keep them warm. Success presupposes comfortable and clean quarters. Corn is fattening, but on this ration alone, even in abundance, "there will not be eggs enough to pay for the trouble of shelling the corn."

"My way of feeding fowls in winter and it works wonderfully well—is to give them a warm breakfast every morning, just as soon as they can see to eat, a few handfuls of grain at noon, and a full feed of grain at night. The warm breakfast is made of vegetables, turnips, beets, carrots or potatoes, boiled and mashed up with wheat bran; or oatmeal scalded with skim milk; or refuse from the kitchen boiled up and the soup thickened with bran; and when sweet apples are plenty, we boil them, and mix with cornmeal—sometimes one thing and sometimes another; we don't believe in feeding one thing all the time, and the hens don't believe in it either. I don't think that my biddies need the noon feed because they are hungry, but I give it to them to make them scratch for exercise and to keep them out of mischief. I scatter it around among the litter under the shed and let them dig it out. This 'lunch' is generally oats or buckwheat, and once in a while sun-flower seed. At night I generally feed corn; but if I could get wheat cheap enough, I should feed that at least half of the time. My fowls have water or milk by them all the time, and green food is supplied by fastening cabbage heads up where the fowls can help themselves. Sometimes, when somebody has time to attend to it, we give them a change in green food in the shape of raw turnips or sweet apples chopped fine."

"Two winters ago I took a new departure on the meat question, and now, instead of fussing to cook it and deal it out a little at a time, I just hang up a piece and let the fowls eat all they want. When they have meat within reach all the time there is not the slightest danger of their eating too much. I get cheap meat from the butcher, and I am sure I am paid twice over for the outlay. Crushed oyster shells, gravel, charcoal and crushed raw bones are kept in the house all the time. This raw bone is an excellent thing for fowls, and would be the last article for food that I would think of dropping from my biddies' bill of fare. Where the crushed oyster shell cannot be obtained, lime in some other shape will do just as well. One of my neighbors had two of the rooms in his home plastered this fall, and he saved all the old plaster for his hens. The poultry raisers who neglected to get a supply of gravel under cover before the ground froze up, must do the next best thing—feed their broken dishes to their fowls. Break them into bits of a suitable size, and it will do just as well as gravel. I believe in salting all the soft food, and I used to put in a dash of pepper, sometimes mustard or ginger, once in a while, and I honestly thought the fowls were benefitted thereby; but doubts are creeping in, and I am very much inclined to drop everything except the salt.

WHAT THE FARMER SHOULD STUDY.

The farmer should study the laws of concentration. He should learn how to concentrate his crops into the best paying articles. Does he consider that butter, cheese, beef, pork and mutton represent only a certain amount of grass, hay and grain that the farm produces? That, instead of selling the raw commodities, he can, by putting them into these articles, get much better returns for his products? His study should be how to transform the raw products of his farm into something that is concentrated and that will bring him the most money. What he raises has to go to some market. By condensing it, little freight will have to be paid, and thus much will be saved. A farm should be a factory for changing the raw products into articles for general consumption that have a commercial value the world over—that are of the best quality, that keep well and sell well, and bring prices that will pay for the skill, labor and capital employed in producing them.

A GREAT FRAUD.

FARMERS BADLY TAKEN IN AND SWINDLED—OCCASION FOR INDIGNATION.

QUEBEC, Jan. 13.—A great fraud was committed at the expense of farmers in Kamouraska county last fall. A well dressed sharper, under the assumed profession of a grain dealer, went from farm to farm to purchase oats at 50c. per bushel, to be delivered in January. Contracts were signed in duplicate, and it appears that the duplicates in the purchaser's hands were nothing else but promissory notes which have been transferred to other parties in Montreal, who want the immediate payment. The farmers' surprise and excitement at the reception of the notices can hardly be expressed. It appears that over 80 car loads of oats were ready for shipment, the farmers having thrashed their oats with diligence to fulfil their contract and receive their well-earned money. The farmers of St. Anne, River Ouelle, St. Denis and Kamouraska have been the most imposed upon. Those having sold for instance 400 bushels of oats have signed notes for $400.

PERSONAL CHARACTER.

HOW IT IS SHOWN IN THE FACE.

Round-eyed persons, says the Phrenological Magazine, see much, live much in the senses, but think less. Narrow-eyed persons on the other hand, see less, but think more and feel more intensely. It will be observed that the eyes of children are open and round. Their whole life is to receive impressions. It is only when childhood is maturing toward man or womanhood that thought comes, if it comes at all. But what is it that most leads to reflection? Experience. Our errors, our short-comings, our failures—these teach us to think before we act, to consider each step, to weigh every motive. When, therefore, the upper eyelid—for it is that which has the greatest amount of nobility—droops over the eye, it indicates not merely reflection but something painful to reflect about. Hence the length or drooping of the upper eyelid betokens confession and penitence.

The drooping of the half of the eyelid from the outer angle to the center indicates the disposition to confess one's faults to parents or seniors, to a "father confessor," or to the Supreme Being. The drooping of the half of the eyelid from the inner angle to the center betokens the disposition to repent and to "do works meet for repentance." Closely allied to these signs are those of prayerfulness and humility. The former is indicated by the muscle which turns the eye directly upwards, as represented in pictures of the Madonna. Prayerfulness is usually large in connection with the sign of confession, and humility in connection with that of penitence; the reason of which is, that between the faculties of penitence and humility there is the same close connection as between confession and prayer. One who has more prayer than humility has the eye turned habitually somewhat upward, so that the upper part of the iris is a little covered by the upper eyelid, and so as to leave a slight space between the iris and the lower lid. The reverse is true of one who has more humility than prayer.

The faculty of truth—that is the love of it—is indicated by the muscle which surrounds the eye, causing folds and wrinkles. Justice is indicated by the muscle which cause perpendicular wrinkles between the eyebrows. Fullness and wrinkles under the eye, for which some persons are remarkable, indicate the love of mathematical accuracy; and wrinkles curving upward from the outer angle of the eye and eyebrow indicate probity of personal truthfulness. There are three degrees of the faculty of justice. The first is a kind of exactness of strict honesty in small money matters which some people would call closeness, and is indicated by a single perpendicular wrinkle or line between the eyebrows. The second is the disposition to require justice to others, and is indicated by two perpendicular lines or wrinkles, one on each side of the center—a very common sign. The third degree is conscientousness, or the disposition to apply the rules of justice to oneself, and is indicated by three or more wrinkles or lines, especially noticeable, extending above the eyebrow when the muscle is on motion. The love of command is indicated by one or more short tranverse wrinkles across the root of the nose, exactly between the eyes. It may be seen in great military commanders, in masters and teachers, and in those generally who are fond of exercising authority. In those who are wanting in the power to command, and have no desire for responsibility, this sign is also absent. The faculty of command frequently acts with that part of justice which reprimands, or requires others to do right, and both together produce that frowning and lowering brow which is so terrible to evildoers, or to those who love to be approved rather than condemned.

HOW THE TAXES MOUNTED UP.

MR. BLAKE IN COBOURG.

It has been charged against the Mackenzie Government that the staff of civil servants in the House was too large in 1878. There were 390 such servants. When the gentlemen said this was too large a number, surely when they acceded to power they would reduce the number. What was the fact? The number of servants in 1880 had become 432, and for this year the estimate was for 490 servants, or 101 more than under Mr. Mackenzie. (Cheers.) Instead of the customs receipts being thirteen millions as estimated, it was eighteen and a half millions last year, or five and a half millions more than they estimated it themselves. This year it is likely to run up to twenty millions. So in spite of their pledge that further taxes should not be imposed the people were obliged to pay a larger percentage for everything they used. (Applause.) But they had a surplus and demanded credit for it. If they had made it working overtime, fished it from the sea, or taken it from the clouds and put it in the treasury, then he would recommend a vote of confidence, but the surplus came from the pockets of the taxpayers. (Cheers.) They wanted to pay such a rate as was required, but they did not want to pay more for the pride and glory of looking down to Ottawa and reflecting. "It is true we pay more in taxes than is necessary, but it is part of the five or six millions in the big bank at the capital. (Laughter and Cheers.) About $640,000 of that surplus came from the coal tax (loud cheers), and about 65,000 from the tax on breadstuffs. (Cheers.)

TEAS! TEAS!

CHINA and JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic use, there is none perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand in the aggregate than TEA.

Notwithstanding the increased demand yet the price of TEAS is lower to-day than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have procured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

FIRST:—A more extended and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea producing countries.

SECOND:—Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and

THIRD:—Increased and closer competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grade, modes o adulteration, and tests for detection, see "ads" to follow.

Meantime we offer JAPAN TEA at 40c. per pound. NONE BETTER. TRY IT!

THE EFFECTS OF CULTURE.

OR HOW AN EAST-LOCKPORT YOUNG GIRL ASTONISHED HER PARENTS.

A few months ago the daughter of an East Lockport old man who has grown comfortably well-off in the small grocery line, was sent away to a "female college," and recently she arrived home for the holiday vacation. The old man was in attendance at the depot when the train arrived, with the old horse in the delivery waggon to convey his daughter and her trunk to the house. When the train stopped, a bewitching array of dry-goods and a wide-brimmed hat dashed from the car and flung itself into the elderly party's arms.

"Why, you superlative pa!" she exclaimed. "I'm ever so utterly glad to see you."

The old man was somewhat unnerved by the greeting, but he recognized the seal-skin cloak in his grip as the identical piece of property he had paid for with the bay mare and he sort of squat it up in his arms and planted a kiss where it would do the most good with a report that sounded above the noises of the depot. In a brief space of time the trunk and the attendant baggage were loaded into the waggon, which was soon bumping over the hubbles toward home.

"Pa, dear," said the young miss, surveying the team with a critical eye, "do you consider this quite excessively beyond?"

"Hey?" returned the old man, with a puzzled air; "quite excessively beyond what?

"Oh, no, pa, you don't understand me," the daughter explained. "I mean this waggon and horse. Do you think they are soulful?—do you think they could be studied apart in the light of a symphony, or even a simple poem, and appear as intensely utter to one on returning home as one could express?"

The old man twisted uneasily in his seat and muttered something about he believed it used to be used for an express before he bought it to deliver pork in, but the conversation appeared to be travelling in such a lonesome direction that he pitched the horse a resounding crack on the rotunda, and the severe jolting over the frosen ground prevented further remarks.

"Oh, there is that lovely and consummate ma!" screamed the returned collegiate, as they drew up at the door, and presently she was lost in the embrace of a motherly woman in spectacles.

"Well Maria," said the old man at the supper table, as he nipped a piece of butter off the lump with his own knife, "an' how'd you like your school?"

"Well, there, pa, now you're abou—I mean I consider it far too beyond," replied the daughter. "It is unquenchably ineffable. The girls are so sumptuously stunning—I mean grand—so intense. And then the parties, the balls, the rides, ho, the past weeks have been one sublime harmony."

"I s'pose so—I s'pose so," nervously assented the old man," as he reached for his third cup, "half full"—"but how about your books—readin,' writin', grammar, rule o' three—how about them?"

"Pa! don't!" exclaimed the daughter reproachfully; "the rule of three! grammar! It is French and music and painting, and the divine in art that have made my school life the boo—I mean has rendered it one unbroken flow of rythmic bliss—incomparably and exquisitely all but."

The groceryman and his wife looked hopelessly at each other across the table. After a lonesome pause the old lady said:

"How do you like the biscuits, Maria?"

"They are too utter for anything," gushed the accomplished young lady, "and this plum preserve is simply a poem in itself."

The old man rose abruptly from the table, and went out of the room, rubbing his head in a dazed and benumbed manner, and the mass convention was dissolved. That night he and his wife sat alone by the stove until a late hour, and at the breakfast table the next morning he rapped smartly on his plate with the handle of his knife and remarked:—

"Maria, mé an' your mother have been talkin' the thing over an' we've come to the conclusion that this boardin' school business is too utter all but too much nonsense. Me and her consider that we haven't lived sixty odd consummate years for the purpose of raisin' a curiosity, and there's goin' to be a stop put to this unquenchable foolishness. Now, after you've finished that poem of fried sausage an' that symphony of twisted dough nut, you take an' dust up stairs in less an' two seconds an' peel off that fancy gown an' put on a caliker, an' then come down here an' help your mother wash dishes. I want it distinctly understood that there ain't goin' to be no more rhythmic foolishness in this house so long as your superlative pa an' your lovely an' consummate ma's runnin' the ranche. You hear me, Maria."—Lockport Union.

LOVE'S COMMANDMENTS.

(From the Portugese.)

The first is, Rose, that there must not be
One loved by you in all the world but me.

The second is for you to render plain—
You must not swear to love me, dear, in vain.

The third is Sundays, and, when I incline,
Nights thro' the week, to keep them wholly mine.

To honor you in all your walks and ward,
Comes forth—to honor you thro' all my days.

The fifth is, you shall never kill my rest,
Nor tear with jealous thoughts my faithful breast.

The sixth is—so for you alone they shine—
Steal no sly looks at other eyes than mine.

The seventh—well, where true love holds his throne,
He scorns to dream of any but his own.

The eighth—bear no false witness, bad or good,
Of me; be silent, as wise maiden should.

The ninth is—ne'er compare your neighbor's lover so
With me that I with some discredit show.

The tenth is, covet not another's cashmere shawl,
But wear with patient grace what to your lot may fall.

☞Bargains are to be had at Munro & Alexander's during all this month, as they will open out in their New Store on the First of February.

A WOMAN'S STUDY OF HUSBANDS.

We hear much about the art of winning a husband. Let us take a step further, and make a study out of keeping a husband. If he is worth winning he is worth keeping.

This is a wicked world, and man is dreadfully mortal. Let us take him just as he is, not as he ought to be. In the first place, he is very weak. The wife must spend the first two years in discovering all these weaknesses, a mesh for every one, and the secret is hers. Is he fond of a good dinner? Let her tighten the mesh around him with fragrant coffee, light bread and good things generally, and reach his heart through his stomach. Is he fond of flattery about his looks? Let her study the dictionary for sweet words, if her supply gives out. Does he like to hear her talk about his brilliant intellect? Let her pore over the encyclopedia to give variety to the depth of her admiration. Flattery is a good thing to study up, at all hazards, in its delicate shades; but it must be skillfully done. The harpy who may try to coax him away will not do it absurdly.

Is he fond of beauty? Here's the rub—let her be bright and tidy; that is half the victory. Next, let her bang her hair (metaphorically) and keep up with the times. A husband who sees his wife look like other people is not going to consider her "broken down." Though it is a common sneer that a woman has admitted that her sex considers more, in marrying, the tastes of her friends than her own, yet it must not be considered ludicrous that a man looks at his wife with the eyes that other people do. Is he fond of literary matters? Listen to him with wide open eyes when he talks of them. A man doesn't care so much for a literary wife if only she be literary enough to appreciate him. If she have literary inclinations, let her keep them to herself.

Men love to be big and great to their wives. That's the reason why a helpless little woman can marry three times to a sensible, self-reliant woman's none. Cultivate helplessness. Is he curious? Oh, then, you have a treasure; you can always keep him if you have a secret and only keep it carefully. Is he jealous? Then, woman this is not for you; cease reading; cease torturing that fretted heart which wants you for his own, and teach him confidence. Is he ugly in temper and fault-finding? Give him a dose of his own medicine, skillfully done. Is he deceitful? Pity him for his weakness, treat him as one who is born with a physical defect, but put your wits to work—it is a bad case. It is well not to be too tame. Men do not waste their powder and shot on hens and barnyard fowls; they like the pleasure of pursuing wild game—quail and grouse and deer.

A quail is a good model for a wife—neat and trim, with a pretty, swift way about it, and just a little capricious. Never let yourself become an old story: be just a little uncertain. Another important fact is, don't be too good; it hurts his feelings and becomes monotonous. Cultivate a pleasant voice, so that this very mortal man may have his conscience prick him when he is jeopardy; its pleasant ring will haunt him much more than a shrill one. It is hard to do all this, besides taking care of the babies, and looking after vexatious household cares, and smiling when he comes home; but it seems necessary.

"To be born a woman is to be born a martyr," says a husband who for ten years has watched in amazement his wife treading the wine-press of her existence. It is a pitiful sight to some men. But if the wife does not make a study of these things the harpy will, to steal away the honor from his silver hairs when he is full of years, and the father of sons and daughters.

At the same time, guid wife, keep from trying any of these things on any other mortal man but your own. These rules are only evolved in order to "keep a husband." The poor weak creature would rather be good than bad, and it is woman's duty to help him by every means in her power.

AN ETERNAL LEAP YEAR.

Among the Cossacks of the Ukraine, leap year is eternal. When a young woman feels a tender passion for a young man, she seeks him at the residence of his parents, and addresses him as follows:—"The goodness I see written in your countenance is a sufficient assurance to me that you are capable of loving and ruling a wife, and that your good qualities encourage me to hope that you will make a good husband. It is in this belief that I have taken the resolution to come and beg you with all due humility to accept me for your spouse." She then addresses the father and mother, and solicits their consent to the marriage. If she meets with a refusal, she declines to leave the house, and such conduct is usually crowned with success. The parents of the young man never put the young maidens away if they still persist in their stay, believing that by doing so they would bring down the vengeance of Heaven upon their heads.

P. T. BARNUM FALLS INTO LINE.

Scanning our various exchanges we notice especial distinction given in prominent New York dailies to Barnum, Bailey & Hutchinson's strong endorsement of St. Jacob's Oil as a pain-reliever. They, too, have fallen into line, it would seem.—Cincinnati (O.) Enquirer.

Is money enough for two.

Advice to wives—Man is very much like an egg; keep him in hot water and he is bound to become hardened.

TIMELY WARNING.—Now is the season for sudden colds and distressing cough, treat them with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, it cures influenza, asthma, croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, and all pulmonary complaints leading to consumption. 3-2t

A gentleman named Page, proposing to a lady with a pair of gloves, wrote: If you from gloves will take the letter G. Then love remains, and that I send to thee.

RHEUMATIC REMEDY.—There is no better cure for Rheumatism than Hagyard's Yellow Oil used according to directions on the bottle. It also cures Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites, Bruises, lameness, and all wounds of the flesh. All dealers sell it, price 25 cents. 3-2t

"Very odd," said the compositor, as he stood mournfully gazing on a mass of pi; "very odd, indeed. Stewed tripe for breakfast and stewed type for dinner."

"DON'T GIVE UP THE SHIP," was the memorable words of Commodore Perry. We repeat, "dont give up the ship," poor, despairing invalid, but try Burdock Blood Bitters. It cures others, why not you? It renovates, regulates and tones all the organs of secretions, and restores lost vitality. 3-2t

A Connecticut woman claims as her husband a man who swears he never married her. This proves that when a man married he should chalk it on the wall. He may forget it if he don't.

LAME BACK.—Lumbago, Kidney complaint, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, and all pain and inflammation are speedily cured with Hagyard's Yellow Oil. Croup, sore throat, colds, burns, scalds, bruises, frost bites, chilblains and all wounds of the flesh are quickly healed by Yellow Oil. 3-2t.

"How do you think my beard is coming on?" said young Fitzalmode to a friend. "Letting it grow, aren't you?" "Yes, I think it will give me a mature look, you know." "Perhaps so. But don't you think it shows a tendency to turn in and clinch on the inside of your face?" No further conversation.

FREE OF CHARGE.—All persons suffering from Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Loss of Voice, or any affections of the throat and lungs, are requested to call at Taylor & Macdonald's drug store and get a trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, free of charge which will convince them of its wonderful merits and show what a regular dollar-size bottle will do. Call early.

Style for winter—without pretending to be an authority in the matter of street etiquette, we would suggest that during the prevailing cold spell, bald-headed gentlemen be excused from lifting their hats to their lady friends. Let them cultivate a sweet smile and a graceful wave of the right hand in the air and pass on.

HAD SUFFERED MANY PHYSICIANS and grew no better but rather worse. Mr. D. H. Howard, of Geneva, N. Y., after dismissing his physicians, tried nearly half a gross of the various blood and liver remedies advertised, with no benefit; when one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters cured him of paralysis and General Debility. At the advanced age of 60, he says he feels young again, and is overjoyed at his wonderful recovery. 3-2t.

I waited anxiously with dread unfeigned—I held my breath, my utterance was choked—My muscles twitched, my ev'ry nerve was strained—With humid tears my handkerchief was soaked—Till, in a moment, agony was eased—I quickly turned my head aside—and sneezed!—Old Sneezar.

HOW TO CURE A COLD.—Upon the first feeling of chill or shivering remain indoors if possible, bathe the feet in tepid water, gradually increasing the heat as long as it can be comfortably borne, drink freely of warm ginger tea or sage tea, to induce perspiration, and take Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam according to directions on the bottle. Hagyard's Balsam cures coughs, asthma and bronchitis. 3-2t.

No, young man, it doesn't hurt you a particle to sow your wild oats. Go ahead and sow as many as you wish; but it's the gathering in of the crop that will make you howl. And you have to gather it, too. If you don't it gathers you, and one is a great deal worse than the other. Go on and sow your wild oats, but you keep away from this office during harvest time.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED.—In these times of quack medicine advertisements everywhere, it is truly gratifying to find one remedy that is worthy of praise, and which really does as recommended. Electric Bitters we can vouch for as being a true and reliable remedy, and one that will do as recommended. They invariably cure Stomach and Liver Complaints, Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary difficulties. We know whereof we speak, and can readily say, give them a trial. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by Taylor & Macdonald, agents.

"I don't miss my church as much as you suppose," said a lady to her minister who had called upon her during her illness, "for I make Betsy sit at the window as as soon as the bells begin to chime and tell me who are going to church, and whether they have got on anything new."

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, the great remedy for consumption. This well-known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years; and when restored to in season, seldom fails to effect a speedy cure for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, influenza, whooping cough, hoarseness, pains or soreness in the chest or side, bleeding at the lungs, liver complaint, etc. Beware of counterfeits! Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. Butts," and the printed name of the proprietors, "Seth W. Fowle & Sons, Boston." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing. 50 cents and $1 a bottle. Sold by dealers generally.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY.—The annual meeting of the St. George's Society was held last night. Particulars in our next.

PERSONAL.—We are pleased to see Dr. Kincaid so far recovered from the effects of the late assault upon him as to be able to attend to his duties. He will take his seat in the Legislature this week.

THE PULPIT.—The pulpit of the Baptist Church was occupied last Sunday by the Rev. Mr. Walker, of Galt, and that of the George-street Methodist Church was filled by the Rev. Mr. Pedley, of Cobourg.

VITAL STATISTICS.—During the last six months of 1881 the number of registrations made with the Division Registrar (Mr. C. D. Macdonald, Town Clerk) was as follows:—Births, 105; Deaths, 55; Marriages, 36.

JUST opened, another lot of the celebrated Rock Island hand-made boots, also Russian and German felt boots, moccasins, overshoes, rubbers, slippers, women and childrens' wear in great variety. W. J. WALLACE, Lakefield. 48-tf.

INDISPOSED.—We regret to learn that the Rev. G. C. Workman, the popular junior pastor of the Methodist Church in this town, is at present suffering from illness. With his many friends, we hope that ere long he may be restored to health.

ONE OF THE FORTUNATES.—We congratulate Mr. Charles Walsh, of Winnipeg, (now on a visit to his old home, Peterborough,) on the result of an investment made by him in Winnipeg a few days before leaving, clearing over $1,000.

"THE MISSING LINK."—The tenders for the construction of the link on the Midland between Peterborough and Omemee were opened on Monday last. Out of the eleven presented, that of J. H. Beemer, of Montreal, is likely to be accepted. The matter will be definitely decided in a few days.

PRESENTATION.—Mr. Jeremiah McCarthy, ex-Reeve of Enniskmore, and at present a Councillor of that municipality, was lately the recipient of an address, accompanied by the present of a watch and chain, from his friends in the township, as a tangible expression of the esteem in which he is held by his fellow-citizens. Mr. McCarthy made a suitable reply.

OBIT. We regret the duty of chronicling the early demise of Richard S. Moore, M.D., of Mount Vernon, Indiana, and son of J. W. Moore, Esq., of this town, at the age of 38 years. His death occurred on the 3rd ultimo, and his remains were brought to Peterborough for interment, arriving here on the noon train on Thursday last SIX WEEKS AGO, at the suggestion of a friend, I began taking DR. WHEELER'S Compound Elixir of Phosphate and Calisaya for Dyspepsia, which has troubled me for some time, and had impaired my general health. Under its use, improvement was rapid, and I am happy to state that I have entirely recovered. ALEX. MCKIBBON, Italian Warehouse, Montreal.

RETIRED.—Mr. E. Phelan having disposed of his hotel business to Mr. Snowden, of Bobcaygeon, has settled down for private life, and has purchased the half-acre lot on the corner of George and Charlotte streets, immediately south of the Market, where it is his intention to reside. The price paid, we are informed, is in the neighborhood of $3,000.

THE RINK.—We are requested to announce that the management of the Rink have engaged the Fire Brigade Orchestra Band to play at the Rink each Friday evening during the season, so that good music may be expected. As the Directors have spent considerable money this year in preparing both rinks, it is to be hoped they will be liberally supported; and we are glad to be able to state that the tickets are selling very readily. The ice is in excellent condition.

SENTENCED.—John Dugan, who committed the assault upon Dr. Kincaid, as reported in last week's EXAMINER, was, on Monday last, brought before the Police Magistrate. After hearing the evidence, the Magistrate committed him for trial befort the County Judge. On Monday he was tried before His Honor Judge Dennistoun. He pleaded guilty, but said he did not intend to do the Doctor any harm. He was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment in the Central Prison at hard labor.

CHURCH LITERARY ASSOCIATION.—A meeting was held on Friday evening last in the basement of the George-street Methodist Church, for the purpose of forming an association for mutual literary improvement and church work. Quite a large number was in attendance, and a very enjoyable evening spent. The entertainment consisted of readings, recitations, singing, etc. During the evening the following were elected officers:—Rev. J. Shaw, President; Dr. Clarke, 1st Vice-President; T. B. Braden, 2nd Vice-President; J. Emmerson, Sec.-Treasurer. The meetings of the Association are to be held fortnightly, and promise to be both agreeable and profitable.

On the 1st of February, Munro & Alexander will have the best lighted and most convenient Store in Peterborough.

JOURNALISTIC CHANGE.—Mr. James Robb, of the Stratford Herald has sold his business to Mr. J. M. Moran.

GOOD PAY.—The Rev. E. P. Hammond got $300 for his stay in Hamilton. Mr. H. works for nothing, but some regular ministers would gladly accept such remuneration.

DISGRACEFUL.—The freeholders of Hamilton have expressed the opinion that they will not interpose to prevent the Mechanics' Institute Library from being handed over to the sheriff for disposal.

P. P. H.—The committe of the Peterborough Protestant Home regret to say that until farther funds are at their disposal all out-door relief will cease after Tuesday the 31st inst. On behalf of the committee, J. Roger, Secretary.

TEMPLE PENNY READINGS.—The second of a series of Penny Readings under the auspices of Peterborough Temple No. 340, I.O.G.T., will be held in the Orange Hall, on Thursday, 26th of January, when a very interesting programme will be presented. Admission five cents.

Dr. Kincaid, M.P.P., left last evening for Toronto to attend Parliament; but he does not intend to neglect his professional duties as he will be at home from Friday until Tuesday of each week. In the meantime Dr. Alexander will promptly attend to all calls—night or day—left at the office.

ACCIDENT.—On Thursday of last week, while Roger Davidson, son of Mr. William Davidson, was sleighriding down the hill on McDonel street he ran into the lamp post at the corner of College street, receiving a severe cut on the face, which necessitated the attendance of a medical gentleman, and the application of six stitches. He is progressing favorably.

"PICTURESQUE CANADA."—Mr. E. R. Dodds is now in town delivering the first parts of this work to those who subscribed during the first canvas. Those who subscribed recently will have theirs delivered in due course. From the first two numbers the work promises to be all that has been claimed for it and is sure to meet with rapid sale.

AN IMPROVEMENT.—The West Durham News appears now as an eight page paper. During the last few years the News has made several changes and none appear to better advantage than the last one. All the leading weeklies are one by one bowing to the inevitabe, and we wish the enterprising proprietors, Messrs. Gale Bros, continued prosperity.

ONTARIO BUSINESS COLLEGE.—The Belleville Ontario says:—The stream of fine young men that pours out of Ontario Business College at the close of a session arrests the attention of passers by. It represents all parts of Canada, the United States, and the West Indies. The attendance is the largest in the history of the College, now 13 years established.

THE FIRE INQUEST.—In pursuance to instructions from the Town Council, Dr. R. Bell, corner, held an inquest on Friday last to enquire into the circumstances connected with the late attempts to set fire to the property of Mr. George McComb, on Simcoe street. A number of witnesses were called, but no evidence was forthcoming to fasten the guilt upon any person, although it appeared evident that the fires bore evidences of incendiarism.

NEW FIRM.—Mr. John C. Sherin of Lakefield, having lately decided upon giving up the mercantile business, the Messrs. Madill Bros. have purchased his stock and business, and are now offering bargains it the several lines which they handle in order to clear them off, prior to receiving their new spring stock. The new firm are enterprising, energetic business men and will no doubt increase the very large trade done by their predecessor. We wish them success.

BIOGRAPHY OF HON. GEORGE BROWN.—We print the following from the Huron Expositor, as it answers similar enquiries in this section: "During last winter several of our subscribers ordered through the publishers of this journal "The Biography of the Hon. George Brown." The money was duly forwarded to the Globe Printing Company, and we were not aware until recently that the books had not been received by those for whom they were ordered. On making enquiries we learn that the work is now in the hands of the printers and will be ready for distribution in a few weeks. The delay has been caused by the illness of the Hon. A. Mackenzie, who is the author of the work. We make this explanation so that those who have subscribed will know the reason for the unexpected delay in the delivery." Subscribers therefore may rely upon getting their books in due time.

ST. LUKE'S PAROCHIAL ASSOCIATION.—This society gave an excellent entertainment in the school room, Ashburnham, on Monday evening last. The building was crowded, the admission fee being placed very low, and the mode in which the audience received the various selections gave abundant evidence of their hearty appreciation. Mr. Bradshaw occupied the chair, and announced the items on the programme, introducing the performers. The orchestra, under the leadership of Mr. A. Brault, gave some beautiful pieces of music and were heartily encored. Readings were given by Miss Grundy, Dr. Clarke and Mr. A. St. A. Smith. Songs were rendered by Miss Stratton, Mrs. Soanes and Mr. Galletly. A banjo solo was given by Mr. F. Clarke. Where all did well, it would be invidous to make distinction. The next entertainment will take place on Monday evening, January 30th, and we advise our readers to attend.

THE AMY LEE COMBINATION.—The satisfaction with which the performance of this Company was received on Tuesday evening of last week has induced two or three of our play-going citizens to endeavor to secure their return, and we are pleased to see that they have been successful, having arranged for their re-appearance both this and to-morrow evenings—Thursday and Friday—with a change of programme on each occasion. We feel certain those who were present at their entertainment last week will not allow the opportunity to pass without again hearing them, while those who did not participate in the treat on that occasion should not fail to attend. Peterborough bears the reputation of a good "show town," and we will be greatly disappointed if the committee who have interested themselves in securing such an agreeable entertainment for our citizens will not be sustained handsomely. Everywhere this Company is greeted with enthusiastic and crowded houses, and the metropolitan press speak in the highest terms of the "Two Medallions" as an entertainment calculated to please every one. Reserved seats can be secured at Davidson's.

At the annual meeting of the Montreal Telegraph Company, on Thursday, the resolution authorizing the Directors to carry the appeal, in the case of Low against the Company, to the court of last resort, was carried by a stock vote of 40,000 shares against none.

A PLEASING MEMENTO.

On Saturday last, Mr. A. White, the popular General Traffic Agent of the Midland Railway, was, on behalf of the Canadian Press Association, presented with a very elegant ebony cane, with a solid gold head, handsomely engraved with the following inscription:—

"Presented by the Canadian Press Association to Mr. A. White, of the Midland Railway, for kind attentions on their annual excursion. 1881."

The presentation was made in a parlor of "The Oriental," by Mr. J. B. Trayes, of the Port Hope Times, ex-President of the Association, accompanied by Mr. J. G. Macdonald, of the Review, and Mr. Stratton, of the EXAMINER. Mr. Trayes acted as spokesman, and alluded in very flattering terms to the kindness shown by Mr. White to the members of the Association, and the pleasure it gave him to be thus able to give tangible expression of the high esteem in which he was held by the members of "the Fourth Estate."

Mr. White returned thanks in a few well-chosen remarks, referring to the pleasure it afforded him to be with the members of the Association on their trip of 1881. He would not soon forget their genialty and good-fellowship on that occasion, nor the handsome souvenier with which he had just now been presented on their behalf.

The Midland is to be congratulated on having such an excellent and painstaking official as Mr. White upon its staff, as no matter what the pressure of business may be, he is always courteous, ready and willing to give any information, and to do what may be in his power to meet the requirements of the public.

Munro & Alexander will have the Nicest Millinery Room in Peterboro', when in their New Store. ☞Mantles and Mantle-making will receive a very large share of their attention.

Ald. Boustead's son committed suicide at Toronto on Monday by blowing his brains out with a revolver. He had only lately been married to a Miss Gallagher, of Ingersoll. In his younger days he ran away from home, lived a dissipated life, travelled nearly all over the world, fought with the Turks in the Turco-Russian war and sowed wild oats generally. Lately he has been endeavouring to repair his system by morphine injections, and it is supposed, in one of his melancholy fits, committed the rash deed.

HASTINGS.

PRESENTATION.—The Star says that prior to the departure of the pupils of the Fourth Senior Class, in the Hastings school, they presented their teacher, Mr. D. Robertson, with an address, accompanied by a beautiful writing desk. He was also the recipient of a silver dish and two pickle stands from the remaining pupils. Miss Sinclair, another teacher, was presented with a work box.

PROGRESSING.—Mr. D. Daley, the young man we referred to in our last issue, as having his leg amputated in Chicago, arrived home on Friday, 30th ult. He bore the fatiguing journey remarkably well and is progressing favourably.

HANDSOME SUMS.—The christmas offerings in St. Mary's Church in this village amounted to $142.00; in Campbellford, $215.00; and in Warkworth, $125.00.

SAD ACCIDENT.

On Monday last, Mr. John Boland of Aspodel, met with an unfortunate accident by which he had one of his legs broken. He was leaving his own premises with a load of hay for Peterboro, and was going through a snow-drift when his load overturned, and in falling, Mr. Boland's leg caught between the rack, while his body went over the sleigh, thus breaking the leg. Dr. Ford fortunately was in his neighborhood at the time, and was immediately called in, and skillfully set the injured limb.

A SAVAGE.

A most diabolical attempt was made in this village on Monday evening of last week to outrage a young girl. The latter was returning home about 10 o'clock in the evening and while passing the old saw mill, near the small crossing over the Ouse, a young man rushed forward and caught her, when a severe struggle took place between them. However, her cries were heard by some neighbors, who at once rushed to the place indicated by her outcries. The assailant, on finding himself frustrated both by the resistance of the girl, as well as by the approaching footsteps, speedily made his escape, but not before he had succeeded in tearing off a great deal of the clothing of his intended victim. The rascal unfortunately made good of his escape, as, after a diligent search, no traces of him could be found in the country.

A NEW RINK.

A new rink has been opened in this village with a new wrinkle. Three enterprising young lads,—ages about 14 respectively—have leased a small plot of ground, upon which ice has formed to the extent of about 200 x 60 feet. This extensive rink the boys keep constantly clean from snow and charge the small fee of one penny for a day's skating. One unfortunate lad on Saturday last having entered upon the forbidden ice without the necessary "spondulix," was ruthlessly taken by the proprietors by the neck and ears, and at once made a terrible example to others inclined to avoid paying up. This is the first year for some time the Norwoodites have been without a decent skating rink, and the loss among a few is apparently seriously felt. Let the seniors give the three enterprising juniors their hearty encouragement and co-operation.

OBITUARY.

The funeral of Mrs. A. Lewis, mother of Mrs. P. P. Cope, of this village took place on Wednesday of last week. Her illness, though not protracted, was a painful one, which she endured with great fortitude and christian resignation. She was much respected here, and held in the high esteem of a large circle of friends and relatives. Her eldest son is a prominent and wealthy citizen of London, Ont., and has for several years held the honorable position of Mayor of that city. Mrs. Lewis died at the ripe old age of 75.

AGRICULTURAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society was held in Norwood on Wednesday of last week. The attendance was fair, but not as large as it should have been. The Directors' report, compiled and read by the Secretary, Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, was received and adopted. The report contains some interesting information; it speaks of the general success of the fall exhibition of 1881, in all its departments, and improvement in some over former years. The entries numbered 718, while the receipts at the gate amounted to $187.42. It recommended the holding of Ploughing Matches annually, and states that, at the one held formerly by the two ridings last fall, the East Riding took two of the three first prizes, and eight of the fifteen awarded. It also gives some interesting statistics regarding the dairying industry of the riding, but only four factories being mentioned. The Norwood cheese factory last year produced 80,486 pounds of cheese, from 279 standard cows, realizing $8,336; the South Dummer factory 56,892 lbs, 196 standards, and realizing $5,939; the Belmont factory 45,000 lbs, 150 standards, and realizing $5,000; and the Narrows factory 20,000 lbs, 75 standards, and realizing $2,000. These returns will show that these four factories have been doing good work and, on the whole, realised profitably to their patrons. The Treasurer's report shews that the revenue of the society for the past year has been $1,074.78, and the expenses to have been $1,054.63, leaving a balance of $20.14, with $48 of the last years' prize list still unpaid. The following gentlemen were elected officers for the current year: P. M. Grover, President; Wm. Burgess, 1st Vice-President; David Rose, 2nd Vice-President; W. E. Roxburgh, Secretary-Treasurer, re-elected; Directors,—John Gillespie, A. R. Kidd, Thos. Blezard, Chas. O'Rielly, Wm. McIntosh, Frank Birdsall, John Breckenridge, David Forsyth, Hugh Nelson; Auditors,—W. H. Stephenson, and S. A. Butterfield. Messrs. John Boland and D. Forsyth were appointed delegates to the annual meeting of the Provincial Association in Kingston. A motion, requiring that the local society and the place in which the annual exhibition is held, guarantees along with the $100 usually granted the society, against any loss which may occur, and at the same time allowing the surplus of that exhibition to the local society, was lost, very few of the members agreeing with the terms of the resolution.

COLD WAVE.

A cold wave has waved over Norwood, and will long be remembered by the severity of its coldness. On Monday at half past six the thermometer stood 26° below zero, and at nine o'clock at 20°. A fierce wind accompanied this unwelcome wave and fiercely took hold of ears, noses and other exposed parts of those who were compelled to face Jack Frost in all his strength and vigor.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

ENGLISH CHURCH GRAVE YARD.

Public indignation is again aroused by the continued interments in the above grave yard situated on our principal street and in the midst of the village, and at the careless, if not to say criminal, negligence to the interests of the public welfare shown by those in charge. Time and again attention has been called to the subject, both in private and through the press, but all to no purpose. The majority of the church wardens and influential members reside on the outskirts of the village, or beyond the corporation and do not care two straws what the sanitary condition of the village may be so long as their own doors are clean. Numerous sites can be obtained for a moderate sum, at a short distance from the village, and now that money is cheap there should be no difficulty for such a wealthy and influential body to secure one at their free will and not wait until they are forced to do so. Our member for West Peterboro', who is a member of the medical profession, and who fully understands and values the benefit of sanitary regulations, can confer a benefit on his constitutents in this place as well as in many other villages in Ontario similarly situated, by using his influence to have the Act relating to burials so amended as to include incorporated villages in its provisions. So far, Lakefield has not been troubled with any serious epidemic, but there is no knowing how long we may continue to do so, and it behoves us to use all means in our power to keep the sanitary condition of the village in such a state as will guard against the propagation or spread of disease.

BUSINESS.

Business in the village has been very dull for the last week or two notwithstanding the good sleighing. Word that the bridge was coming down has caused a great deal of the Smith and Harvey trade to go to Peterborough; while the Burleigh and back country people who had grists stopped at Young's Point and done their trading there. We trust that the contractors will hurry forward the work on the iron bridge and lessen the inconvenience to our business men and others as much as possible.

COLD.

Vennor's cold wave struck Lakefield on Saturday night, or rather Sunday morning, and caught many unprepared as it looked more like rain than frost on Saturday evening, and now many mourn the loss of plants and vegetables. Sunday was the coldest and most stormy day of the winter so far, and on Monday morning the mercury registered 23° below zero at 7, a. m.; 10° below at 11, a. m.; 27° at 10, p. m.; and 33° below at 7, a. m., Tuesday, the readings were taken from a first-class tested instrument, being on northern exposure.

LUMBERING.

Large numbers of teams may be seen passing through our village on their way back to the lumber shanties; many with loads, others going back to draw logs. The snow has been so late coming the lumbermen will have to rush things to get their logs out of the woods, of which there seems to have been a large number cut, the winter being favorable for cutting and skidding.

NEW STATION.

The new station built by the M. R. R. in this village was occupied by Mr. Dixon, the station master, for the first time last week and now all trains arrive at and depart from it. It is a great change from the dirty, delapidated old building which has done duty as a station for so long, and the change will be appreciated by both employees and the travelling public.

RUNAWAY.

A few days since a team owned and driven by Alex. Singleton, ran away owing to the cutter upsetting. They started some two miles down the river road, in Douro, and continued their mad flight up and down several of the village streets. At the post office corner they ran one each side of the telegraph post, wrecking the cutter and cutting one of the horses pretty badly. They were finally caught and kept until the owner claimed them. When the cutter was upset Mrs. Singleton was thrown out and got severly injured.

Munro & Alexander will have the Nicest Millinery Room in Peterboro' when in their New Store. ☞Mantles and Mantle-making will receive a very large share of their attention.

AN EXPLANATION.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—I have been informed by several persons that an opinion prevails among a number of the ratepayers of this place, that, when approached some time since by the Chairman of the Board of P. S. Trustees with regard to a reduction of my salary as teacher, I had intended making that reduction, had I not been advised to act otherwise. I wish to state, in justification to all concerned, that I did not consult with, or receive any advice from any person, outside of the school board, with regard to my salary; nor did I ever give an opportunity to any one (except the board) to offer such advice until I had given my decision to the chairman. I did not at any time think of accepting a reduction, and if any misapprehension was possible it must have arisen from my not giving an answer at once to the chairman. My hesitation, however, arose, not with any indecision with regard to the reduction, but as to whether it would or would not be most prudent for me to place my resignation immediately in the hands of the board.

THE SUPERIORITY OF PHOSPHATES to Hypophosphites can be demonstrated easily by the invalid taking alternately any standard preparation of each for one or two months. Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya will radically benefit seventy per cent. of consumptive and scrofulous cases, while only thirty per cent. will tolerate any form of Hypophosphites, owing to their deranging the stomach. The Phosphates in our food are derived from the phosphatic deposits in the earth, now so extensively used as fertilizers, their function in both the animal and vegetable kingdoms being to determine growth and development. 4-1t

OUR TORONTO LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

TORONTO, Jan. 24th.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE FESTIVITES.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson are doing all they can to popularize their regime in Government House here. The Lieutenant-Governor himself is somewhat rough spun, has no ability and is quite devoid of anything like taste; but he is generous and free from priggishness. Mrs. Robinson is an accomplished lady and fills her high social position with great tact and success. The fancy dress ball given by them the other evening was the most brilliant affair of the sort ever held in Toronto, and ranks next to the one given at Ottawa a few years ago by Lord and Lady Dufferin. It is open to the same objection, however, namely, that it leads to a wasteful expenditure on the part of many who can ill afford it. There were not a few present at Government House on this occasion who will have to carry a load of irritating debt for a long time to come on account of expenditures incurred in attending the ball and other entertainments of a "high-toned" kind. The evil, however, is an old one and is not likely to be got rid of in a hurry.

THE SESSION.

The present session has begun well and promises to continue lively. The debate on the address is so far the best that has ever taken place at the opening of a session, except, perhaps, the one which resulted in the downfall of the Sandfield Macdonald Government. The speaking is of a higher class and is better sustained. Some of the speeches have been very good, particularly those of Mr. Pardee and Mr. Ross on the Government side. The Opposition have on the two leading questions a very bad case and they evidently feel it. They have been driven to take their stand on a position strongly antagonistic to Provincial rights and jurisdiction. If the people of Ontario want to bring about the abolition of their Provincial Parliament they can easily go a long way in that direction by endorsing the attitude assumed by Mr. Meredith and his followers. If they wish to preserve the exclusive jurisdiction of our own Local Parliament over our own Provincial affairs they need only continue to extend the control of them to men like Mr. Mowat and his colleagues.

WANT OF CONFIDENCE MOTIONS.

At this writing it is not known at what precise time the debate on the address will close, but it is known that the Opposition intend to move certain amendments to the address. The result of the division on these amendments is, of course, a foregone conclusion, but there will no doubt be some strategy displayed in the wording of the motions and the efforts of each side to put the other at a disadvantage. The real issue, however—that of Provincial rights against Dominion aggression cannot be obscured, and the Liberal leaders may be trusted to keep it as prominent and well defined as possible. The session will probably last a little longer this year, instead of shorter, but the difference cannot be much either way.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 26, 1882.

Mormonism.

The direct allusion to the present condition of Utah, as regards the odious crime of Polygamy, in President Arthur's message has once more drawn attention to the Mormon question. But the difficulties in the settlement of the matter are by no means slight. These latter-day saints, as they choose to call themselves, are active propagandists. They have active "missionaries" in Great Britain, and for the four months of last year succeeded, we are told, in attracting to their peculiar tenets no less than fifteen hundred persons. These have been drawn chiefly from the agricultural districts of Lancashire and Lincolnshire, and also from the great manufacturing centres of Birmingham and Manchester. Several emissaries from Utah are also about to engage in a proselytizing tour through Norway and Sweden. We know that in Canada, at least in former years, agents were active in backwoods districts, and did not hesitate to spend money freely for the promotion of their cause. We remember one district in Western Canada where a Mormon missionary was wonderfully successful, and we have been told of a preacher from Utah who boldly sought to make converts not a hundred miles from Allandale Mills, in this county. People say civilization and the railway train are the great enemies, or rather foes, of Mormonism, but it should be remembered the railway trains frequently carry fresh recruits. The main objection to Mormonism is not as some suppose, on religious grounds, but on the ground of polygamy. The United States laws cannot touch men because of the absurdity of their belief, no matter how extravagant it may be. Nor can they punish men for unbelief, unless the person is guilty of some direct contravention of their laws. Statutes exist for the punishment of the odious crime of polygamy, which is revolting to the moral sense, and at the same time a plain violation of the Christian commands. But these laws, as far as regards Utah, have seldom been enforced, since it has been found almost impossible to procure sufficient legal evidence to convict the offenders. Marriages in Utah are performed in secret, and wives are incompetent to testify against their husbands. Apart from their fanaticism and the tenacity with which they cling to their barbarous doctrines, Mormons are temperate and industrious citizens. Internally, as a State, they may be weak, and the women especially may revolt against the iron system under which they have been brought up. Misery and degradation and horrible suffering must be the lot of the unfortunate victims, and the ignorant and superstitious importations from the old world may there sink lower in the social scale. Yet it cannot be denied that in Utah Mormons are all powerful, and in Idaho and Arizona they are rapidly increasing. It seems a monstrous thing that such a relic of heathenism should exist in a country so boastful of its enlightenment and freedom. But to attack them would seem like persecuting them for their religion many say, and why should they suffer for holding what they believe to be true? Remedies, strong remedies, ought to be applied, for the foul blot is a disgrace to any civilized country, but it is far easier to describe the disease than to settle on a cure. Mormons are by no means cowardly or helpless. They are strong, politically and financially, and past experience shows that they have not a little nerve and obstinacy. As open rebels they could easily be managed, but it is not quite the same when they remain passive and apparently peaceful. The argument is used that civilization, and the aggressive forces of education and Christianity, are the best agents in undermining this baneful system. It is asserted that only in this way the root of the evil can be touched, and that while all other plans may seem to defeat or weaken for the time being, this only can completely destroy it. Perhaps this is the case, but since Mormonism exists now only through active and zealous propagandism, since recruits are obtained throughout the slums and purlieus of the great European cities, and among the lowest and most depraved of earth's inhabitants—this process of stamping out must of necessity be extremely slow and disappointing, even if it should eventually succeed. Though the measures may seem somewhat severe, and apparently tyrannical, we should rather feel inclined to favor Willett's bill to abolish the Legislature of Utah and substitute a Council appointed by the President to govern the territory, or the scheme of Maginnis, to divide it among the adjoining States—Nevada, Colorado and Idaho—where polygamy is penal. How a Christian government can permit this deadly upas-tree to flourish and send out its baneful branches over the union, and allow men to openly and flagrantly violate its laws and overturn the relations of society, and still be utterly unable, with all their power and wisdom, to cope with the difficulty or point out a remedy is a somewhat startling circumstance in this boastful nineteenth century.

Recently a foreigner—a Mr. De Rupert, who has resided in the West for a number of years, gives in a volume of travels his impressions of Mormonism, and suggests how it should be dealt with. He analyses the history and belief of the Mormons, and recommends that the strong arm of the law should be brought to bear upon them as polygamists—punishing such without mercy or discrimination. As the result of such a course he says "there "would be threats, curses, and cries of "'persecution,' but no riot would ensue, "no blood would flow. The Mormons "have too much good sense; they think "too much of this world's goods to at- "tempt resistance against fifty millions "of people." He also recommends that the Government should facilitate emigration to Utah, that the population of Gentiles may speedily exceed that of the saints in the territory.

The Small-Pox Epidemic.

Despatches from various parts of the United States indicate a somewhat alarming spread of this loathsome and terrible disease. The officer of the National Board of Health, Washington, says the deaths from small-pox at Philadelphia during the past year number between 1,200 and 1,400; at Chicago, 800 or 900, and at New York, 600 or 700. All the agents in the West are asking for vaccine matter, and the disease seems to be spreading with fearful and terrible rapidity among the Indians there. From all parts of Illinois cases are reported; at Pittsburg the disease is increasing, while at Port Jervis, New York State, so great is the alarm that the churches have been closed. Buffalo papers tell of a large number of cases in that city, and the alarm is spreading throughout the States generally. Doubtless there is some exaggeration in the press reports, but even allowing for a certain amount of exaggeration, enough remains of fact and reality to cause Canadians to take all necessary precautions against the inroads of this fearful disease. It is well-known that the plague can be spread most rapidly, even through the mail, and already in one Canadian town—Hamilton—a case has occurred. Of course it is not our purpose to excite undue alarm, but rather to speak a word of warning, knowing that prevention is better than cure. The great centres of the West, such as Cincinnati and St. Louis, with their large emigrant populations, appear to suffer most, and wherever the disease spreads it is chiefly among immigrants, and always among the unvaccinated. In our Dominion we may say there is practically perfect immunity from the dire plague, and unless in localities where the people have social and business relationships with the American cities, or where there is a constant stream of travel passing through from East to West, no danger need be apprehended. At any rate it is the part of wisdom to take due precautions. Steps should be taken to prevent immigrants who come through the States from spreading the disease, by placing them under quarantine. Efforts should be put forth in every town and city to provide hospital accommodation and suitable nurses for any cases that might occur, to effect complete isolation, and so hem in the disease and confine it within certain limits. And the population, both in town and country, should guard themselves from the inroads of the disease by vaccination, which has been proved to be an efficacious remedy, and which has the double merit of being both simple and inexpensive. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Every one who wants a large selection of the Newest Goods, and appreciates Low Prices, will call on Munro & Alexander—when they are in their New Store. Their stock in the Spring will be magnificent.

The Hamilton Board of Trade is also urging the repeal of the vexatious Stamp Act. At a recent meeting the following resolution was passed:—"That in the opinion of this Board the present is an opportune time to repeal the Bill Stamp Act, the small amount received by the Government from this tax being far from commensurate with the annoyance and trouble caused by the said Act to the commercial community."

Editorial Notes.

It appears to be understood that the Ontario Government will take means to enforce their authority over the territory which the Dominion Government has had the hardihood to add to Manitoba in defiance of the award of the arbitrators, law, precedent and justice.

Christmas was merrily celebrated in an Iowa town. A number of business men started out to call on their friends, and at each stopping-place they added to their company those whom they there visited. By noon the squad had become a small army. The march was continued till night-fall, when nearly all the male residents of the town were in the line.

The woman suffrage movement, after years of discouraging rebuffs, appear to have caught its breath once more and is making another forward dash. In the United States Senate it has had unexpectedly favorable consideration, and Governor Long, of Massachusetts, in his message to the Legislature, recommends the passage of a law giving the ballot to women, and it is said that the Legislature is disposed to try the experiment.

Some of the Tory papers confess that a general election is near at hand and advise the friends of the monopolists to prepare for a contest. The warning should be taken by the Reformers, and in time. Neglect to organize early caused the loss of several seats to the Reform party at last election, and as there seems little reason to doubt that Sir John Macdonald will spring the elections on the country in the ensuing summer there is no time to be lost.

The Guelph Herald, about as uncompromising a Tory journal as any in the west, shows the strength of the current of public opinion. Speaking of the paragraph in the Speech at the opening of the Ontario Legislature referring to the disputed boundary matter, the Herald says: "Therein we admit we are quite in "sympathy with the Ontario Govern- "ment. The territory in dispute is right- "fully ours, and Manitoba has no right "to it. This is a matter in which Pro- "vincial rights ought to be maintained at "all hazard."

How great has been the success of enterprises for sending frozen meat and butter to England from the Australian colonies does not yet appear. There have certainly been cargoes which have arrived in fine order, but serious trouble has been found on the long voyage under the burning sun of the Indian Ocean. For the London Christmas market a large shipment was made from Sydney early in November, so that the shippers would still appear to be confident of the ultimate success in this trade. The cargo in question comprised eight thousand sheep and five hundred lambs, with a quantity of butter weighing sixty-six tons.

Assessors will soon be on their rounds making up their rolls. One provision in the Assessment Act requires a non-resident owner of property who desires to have his name on the assessment roll and voters' list to give notice in writing, setting forth his full name, place of residence, and post office address, to the clerk of the municipality, on or before the 30th of January in each year, that he owns such land, describing it, and requires his name to be entered on the assessment roll therefor. The clerk then makes up a list of such non-resident owners of unoccupied land and delivers it to the assessor to be placed on the roll. Hitherto, the Globe believes, it has been the practice to re-enter the name each year after it has once been put on the roll without a fresh request; but we have heard of an instance where the other course is being taken. Our friends who are non-resident owners of unoccupied lands should see that they give the proper notice in time, and care should be taken not to allow any manufacture of Conservative votes by assessing non-residents who have omitted to give the required notice.

THE MONTREAL CORN EXCHANGE.

THE DUTIES ON FLOUR AND GRAIN.

The Montreal Corn Exchange is not pleased to observe the decrease in the export flour and grain trade that has been caused by the duties imposed on grain in the alleged interest of Canadian farmers, and have recommended the Government that they be abolished. Business in 1881 has decreased 25.31 per cent. compared with 1880, and in the annual report of the Exchange, just published, the following passage occurs:—

The duties of fifty cents a barrel on flour and fifteen cents per bushel on wheat are not equitable. The shipment of United States wheat in bond through Canada to European ports was expected to remove an obstacle to trade in that article, and the grinding-in-bond arrangement was intended to give Canadian millers the benefit of manufacturing a particular kind of flour for exportation, so that any disadvantage that might arise from the unequal duties on wheat and flour might be obviated; but this result has not been obtained, for an opinion is gaining strength that the grinding-in-bond arrangement has been constructed to mean that the bond for United States' wheat brought into Canada may be cancelled by the export of its equivalent in flour from Canada wheat or even by the shipment of Canadian wheat. It is hardly creditable that the Custom authorities would permit such acts to the injury of fair dealers, as well as the loss of revenue. The committee has no information direct on the subject, but enough has been said among produce merchants on 'Change to justify a reference to it, for so loose an interpretation of the bond would be injurious to the revenue and unjust to trade by giving a monopoly of a desirable kind of flour to the larger millers. If there are difficulties in the way of carrying out the law in its true intent and meaning, the best plan would probably be to abolish the duties on breadstuffs altogether, and thereby place the whole mercantile community upon an equal footing as regards the import and export of breadstuffs, a condition which does not exist at present.

HON. T. B. PARDEE AT LAMBTON.

Referring then to matters of Provincial Legislation he remarked that up to the time of the Tory Convention in Toronto, scarcely a charge had been heard against the Government of Mr. Mowat, but since that gathering there had been a few complaints. The chief one was that they were trying to centralize in the Government the powers which should belong to the municipalities, and when those who made this charge were challenged to name an instance they replied that the Government had taken to themselves the power to appoint commissioners who should grant liquor licenses in the various municipalities. The truth was that in making a charge of this kind the Conservative party were simply trying to cover up their own sins and shortcomings (Hear, Hear); for there was every indication of an organized and determined effort made by the Conservative party at Ottawa to usurp the rights and powers conferred upon the province by its constitution and to centralize them in the Government of the Dominion. (Here, Here.) As one illustration of this determination he would refer to the Rivers and Streams Act. That measure provided that anyone making improvments upon streams upon which timber might be floated should not have full control over the stream, when perhaps there were scores of others for whose timber it was the only outlet. It would be an absurd and unjust privilege to give a man, who made a few slight improvements upon a particular part of a stream, absolute control of its whole course to the detriment of all others who wished to float their timber upon it, and it would besides involve a most serious loss to the largest item of the provincial revenues. The Ontario Government took the view that by paying a proper compensation to the person making the improvement all others who wished to could float their timber. But just because the word was given that the toes of a prominent member of their party in eastern Ontario would be tramped upon by this provision, the Conservatives first tried to defeat the bill, and failing in that they threatened to have it disallowed in Ottawa, and the threat was carried out. It was a new and rather an alarming doctrine that a few gentlemen sitting in secret conclave at Ottawa could review the legislation of the Provinces upon its merits and disallow any measure which they might consider improper or obnoxious to their political friends. (Hear, hear.) He contended that the Legislature of Ontario was as absolute in the exercise of those powers which had been granted by the B. N. A., as the Dominion Parliament itself, and that the Government at Ottawa had no more right to review Ontario Legislation on its merits than the Ontario Government had to review and disallow Acts which might be passed by the House of Commons. If the view entertained by the Government at Ottawa was the correct one then our present position was worse than under a legislative union, because in the latter case we would at least have the advantage of having our members upon the floor of the House to discuss our legislation and maintain our rights. No attempt had been made in Mr. Mackenzie's time to interfere with the legislation, though an attempt had been made to show that an analgous case had occurred with regard to a bill from the New Brunswick legislature. In reality there was no analogy between the two cases, because in the latter case the local Government had themselves reserved the Bill and asked the Government to review it and say whether it should become law or not. The speaker then referred to the course of Sir John Macdonald's Government in setting aside the award of the boundry arbitrators, and thus depriving Ontario of an immense area of land rich in timber and minerals, and much of it fit for agricultural purposes, and remarked that so afraid were the Conservatives in the Ontario Legislature of doing anything in opposition to Sir John Macdonald that they were willing to sacrifice the sacred rights of the people rather than interpose any objection to his anti-provincial policy. They might rest assured that if ever the Conservative party came into power in Ontario they would act subservientlly to Sir John Macdonald in these matters—and the people would, therefore, have to look to the Reform party, both at Toronto and Ottawa, as those who would strenuously guard against any invasion of their rights. Another charge sometimes made against the Ontario Government was that they squandered the people's money, but the best answer to that charge was that notwithstanding the large amount expended for the benefit of the people in various ways, they still have had on hand their old time surplus of nearly $5,000,000. (Loud cheers.)

IN MEMORIAM

OF MR. JAS. GALLON, OF OTONABEE, WHO DIED JAN. 6, 1882, AGED 79 YEARS.

(For the Examiner.)

The opening year had just begun—
His journey with the old year done—
When to this came man's mortal foe,
And in the grave hath laid him low.
With earthly things he now is done—
His course is ended; his race is run.
Changes through life he often had—
Some brought him joy, some made him sad;
But like one of the Apostle race,
Things adverse he could boldly face.
Quick and reserved was he always,
And careful what he had to say;
To whomever he should be near,
You could depend on what he said.
His mind and manner, friendly bent,
Made him beloved where e'er he went;
Few in the township better known—
Once a year through it he has gone,—
All found on the assessment roll
He nearly on them had to call.
And for the office was so fit
One like him will be hard to get.
In Village Keene few now remain
That were in it when he to it came.
Each in their turn have gone, alas!
To the land of forgetfulness.
To lie there in their narrow bed
Till the last trump awake the dead—
The prisoner of death to restore
To life, to live—to die no more.

SMITH.

(From Our Own Correspondents.)

PARLOR SOCIAL.—A second Parlor Social in aid of the Sunday School in S. S. No. 3, Smith, was held last Friday evening at the residence of Mr. M. Sanderson. Tea was served from 6 to 8 o'clock, and over a hundred sat down to the tables. As soon as tea was over the meeting was called to order and an excellent entertainment, consisting of Readings, Recitations, Songs and Instrumental Music was given. The choir gave a number of excellent pieces, while the singing and playing of Miss Walsh drew forth an enthusiastic encore. The only thing to mar the pleasure of the evening was, that a number of young men, among whom were two teachers, who ought to know better, and a number of young ladies, having formed a somewhat exclusive party in one corner of the room, kept up such an incessant talk, that parties near them were not able to hear any of the entertainment. We think when young men want to do their courting at a social they should go out of the crowd. The meeting broke up at about 11 o'clock.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The newly elected Council of the Township of Smith, namely: M. Sanderson, Reeve; T. E. Fitzgerald, Deputy-Reeve; Jas. Middleton, H. C. Garbutt and Wm. McIlmoyle, Councillors, met at the town Hall, Bridgenorth, on Monday the 16th January. After making the necessary declarations of office and qualification, and depositions them with the proper officer, the Reeve calls the chair. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. On motion of Mr. Fitzgerald, seconded by Mr. Middleton, —John Black was appointed Auditor for the current year. The Reeve appointed Andrew Young as the other auditor. Moved by Mr. Fitzgerald, seconded by Mr. McIlmoyle,—That S. McKibbon be appointed Assessor for the current year. —Carried. The following claims were ordered to be paid:—G. W. Mann, for road scraper, $5; T. E. Fitzgerald, for road scraper, $5; and John Young for support and attendance for George Parsons, $12.63. The Council then adjourned till Monday the 30th.

FOURTH LINE NEWS.

PRESENTATION.—Mr. Graham, Superintendent of the Sunday School was the other evening presented with a handsome chair, and Mrs. Graham with a Butter Cooler and knife accompanied by the following address:—

MR. GRAHAM:

We have long felt your usefulness in our midst as a helper in this good work; and to show our esteem for your services, we, your fellow workers and neighbors, join in presenting to you this chair, accompanied with a butter-cooler and knife for Mrs. Graham. [We would have you look upon them as a small token of our regard for your care, and to encourage you for the future in this grand work.

On behalf of the S. S. { CORNELY McDONALD (Signed) { ELIZA SCOTT.

Mr. Graham was much surprised on hearing the above address. He was in no way expecting the like; but after a short time he made a very suitable reply, marking out his motives which were for the good of the cause.

SCHOOL.—Quite a number of large scholars are now in attendance, who are endeavouring to review work which they have gone over during past winters and to learn practical work. Mr. Kidd says that the average for the school week ending on Friday, 20th, was 69. How is that for numbers? "But the same old bricks are in the wall, the bell swings to and fro."

WOOD.—The farmers have been smiling at the price they have been getting for fire-wood; Owing to the snow staying away so long, they have been able to get a good price for it. They have not done a great deal yet in the way of getting out wood for next season.

TEMPLE.—The Templars are getting the temple painted and brushed up in such a way as to make it look more attractive. They expect some visitors from the lodges during the winter, when sleighing comes.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency, and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is of acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it. The test of half a century has proven its certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, JAN. 26, 1882.

The Warden.

The County Council met on Tuesday, and as will be seen by the minutes, unanimously elected Mr. Henry Collins, Reeve of North Monaghan, Warden. This action of the members of the Council must be very gratifying to Mr. Collins, and it certainly is a strong manifestation of appreciation of his labours as a member to promote the interests of the Council. Without making comparisons we may say that the late Warden, (Mr. M. Sanderson) Reeve of Smith, has done signal services to the County during the time he held the office. His judgment was good, and his perseverence, and caution were valuable to him in the bringing to a successful issue a suit to wrest unjustly from the County a large sum of money, $75,000; and the perseverence with which Mr. Sanderson worked this case up, till he succeeded in defeating it, is a lasting memento of his worth and wisdom. Mr. Sanderson, and all the members, in acknowledging Mr. Collins, claim to the honors of Warden for this year, show that they are actuated by no selfish or political feeling in the discharge of their duties to each other and in acknowledging personal claims, and one of the best ways to frown down the attempts of the Conservative caucus at Toronto to introduce politics into municipal affairs is to ignore such advice and to do their duty fearlessly, and await results. Mr. Collins, it is true, is a Conservative, but not one who is likely to use his position to do a political wrong; and we feel certain that at the end of his term of office, it will be found that he will not have betrayed a single trust imposed in him, or to have done an act that would shake the confidence of either friend or opponent in his intentions. We believe also in allowing the honors to go round in the order of merit, and it is not displeasing to find that the Reeves and Deputy-Reeves of the Townships see this as we do. This is another feature that should not be lost sight of. All wisdom and work is not centred in one party, or one man, we mean municipal wisdom and work, and it affords a little relief to find Reformers setting an example, as they have always had to do, of forgetfulness of political feeling in the election of Mr. Collins by acclamation, and we are mistaken if we do not find that Mr. Collins can appreciate this course of conduct.

School Grant.

We would suggest to the Chairman of the School Board the advisability of calling a meeting of the Board and having a committee appointed to wait on the County Council and solicit some tangible assistance from them towards the maintenance of the Collegiate Institute. There are a large number of pupils attending the Institute from the county and there would be more if the annual grant from the county was again restored. The pupils express considerable dissatisfaction at being compelled to pay such a large fee monthly, and the Board cannot maintain the Institute for a less sum. Why not take immediate action?

Provincial and Dominion Jurisdiction.

We are glad to see that the Ontario Government and their supporters in the Legislative Assembly have taken their stand firmly and unmistakably on the maintenance of Provincial independence, as it is guaranteed to the various members of Confederation by the British North America Act. The immediate occasion of the present assertion of this independence in the case of Ontario, is the disallowance of the Act passed last session to protect the public interests in rivers and streams. The plea on which this Act was disallowed is, that it was retroactive in its operation; that it interfered with a case then, and still, pending in the Courts, and that it expropriated the property of individuals without providing adequate compensation. We need not stop to point out how inaccurate a description this is of the Streams Act, because even if the latter were all that it is alleged to be, the Dominion Government had no right to interfere with its operation. The Act deals with "property and civil rights," subjects which are by the British North America Act declared to be under the "exclusive" jurisdiction of the Local Legislatures. These bodies are elected specially to deal with these and other matters referred to them, and Sir John Macdonald may as well make up his mind that no outside interference with their determinations will be tolerated.

Sir John has recently disallowed a local railway charter in Manitoba, and, as we expected, the promoters of the line have already given notice of their intention to apply to the Manitoba Legislature for a new one. Mr. Norquay, the Premier of that Province, is on a visit to Ottawa just now. He is placed by the action of the Dominion Premier in a most uncomfortable position, from which he will find great difficulty in extricating himself. If he opposes the renewal of the charter he will inevitably be wrecked by it sooner or later, and yet, as a good Conservative, he must obey the behests of his chief. Like all other trimmers and time-servers, he will find himself without sympathy in his hour of need; what we, and all who have the true interests of Confederation at heart, hope for, is that the people of Manitoba will take their stand as firmly on the maintenance of their rights as the people of Ontario are determined to do. This is not a matter which concerns one Province alone, and it is fortunate that, as both of the above Acts were to be disallowed, they were disallowed about the same time.

Sir John Macdonald's record on this disallowance question is one of which his admirers have little reason to be proud. He was the first Minister of Justice of the Dominion, and in that capacity it fell to his lot to create the first precedents in dealing with Provincial Acts submitted to him. Very shortly after Confederation he drew up a memorandum, in which he laid down the principles which ought to guide himself and his successors in the exercise of the disallowance prerogative. In it he specifies three grounds, on either of which it would be proper to disallow a local Act, namely, (1) unconstitutionality; (2) interference with Dominion legislation, and (3) interference with Dominion policy in matters of Dominion interest. Before the establishment of the Supreme Court of Canada it was not improper for the Dominion Government to check legislation by Provincial Parliaments on subjects outside of Provincial jurisdiction, but since the creation of that Court there has been no need for any such action. The Supreme Court has been ready enough to call in question the rights of Provincial Parliaments without getting any assistance from the Government.

No one, however, would object to the exercise of the disallowance prerogative if it were kept within the limits laid down in Sir John Macdonald's memorandum, and while he was Minister of Justice himself he did keep it strictly within those limits. During his tenure of that portfolio he was repeatedly asked to disallow private Acts passed by the Ontario Legislature. One of the earliest of these was an Act altering the will of Mr. Goodhue, of London, and in that case the petitioners alleged that the alterations affected injuriously the interests of certain parties mentioned in the will itself. If ever there was an Act which should have been disallowed on the ground that it was retroactive, it was this one; and yet, Sir John dismissed the application with the remark that he could not interfere with it because it dealt with matters entirely within Provincial jurisdiction. For a similar reason he declined about the same time to disallow an Ontario Act legalising a municipal By-law granting a bonus to the Grand Junction Railway, and to all applications of the same kind he persistently returned the same answer. One very important case came up for discussion in the House of Commons, and on that occasion he re-affirmed, in the strongest language, his view of the mode in which the prerogative of disallowance should be exercised. The subject then before the House was the New Brunswick School Act, which the Dominion Government had been asked to disallow on the ground that it curtailed the privileges enjoyed by the Roman Catholic minority prior to Confederation. How plausible this request was, can be seen from the fact that, while "Education" is one of the subjects specially assigned to the Provincial Legislatures, the rights of minorities are carefully guarded by the British North America Act. And yet, in the debate on the school question, Sir John spoke as follows:—

"The hon. gentleman (Mr. Anglin) had complimented the Dominion Government to a certain extent on the absence from all interference in the actions of the Local Legislatures since Confederation. As the officer primarily responsible on such subjects he could only say that he had taken uniform care to interfere in no way whatever with any Act passed by any of the Provincial Legislatures if they were within the scope of their jurisdiction. There were only two cases, in his opinion, in which the Government of the Dominion was justified in advising the disallowance of a local Act—first, if the Act was unconstitutional and there had been an excess of jurisdiction, and second, if it was injurious to the interests of the whole Dominion. * * * The Government of the Dominion could not act and they would have been guilty of a violent wrench of the Constitution if because they held a different opinion, they should set up their own judgment against the solemn decision of a Province in a matter entirely within the control of that Province. * * * The Constitution which had hitherto worked so easily and so well, could not survive the wrench that would be given if the Dominion Government assumed to dictate the policy or question the action of the Legislatures of the different Provinces on subjects reserved by the British North America Act to those Legislatures."

After such a record on the exercise of the prerogative of disallowance when he was in power before, how can Sir John's flagrant violation of the rights of Ontario and Manitoba be explained now? This is a question his supporters are more concerned about than his opponents, and that it is no easy one to answer, the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature are now finding out to their cost. One thing is clear: the British North America Act undoubtedly contemplates the exclusive right of Provincial Parliaments to deal with the subjects assigned to them, and as the prerogative of disallowance has been shamefully abused, the agitation now raised must not be allowed to cease until it has been properly limited by the same power which conferred it—the Imperial Parliament. If some remedy is not found then, to use Sir John's own words: "The constitution, which has hitherto "worked so easily and so well, cannot "survive the wrench" which has been given to it.

MUTUAL AID SOCIETY.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—Will you kindly permit me through your valuable paper to deny a charge made against me: that I am only a tool in the hands of some life assurance company, when I try to show the falsity of the Mutual Aid Society. Permit me to say that I deny the charge in toto, for I am not in sympathy with life insurance companies, as a whole, but in particular cases they may be good. But, sir, my opposition as to the Mutual Aid is this, and this alone: First, the way in which it appears to be got up is a mystery to the most of us Grangers, for certainly it is not a Grange institution; but, from anything I can gather, it was got up by James Rennie and Dr. somebody, in Toronto, who saw that, in order to make it a success, they must get the Grange in-to it. They accordingly set to work to get S. W. Hill, Past Master of the Dominion Grange, J. P. Bull, Treasurer of Dominion Grange, and A. Gifford, Secretary of the Ontario Provincial Grange. One of these they made Manager. Now, sir, they can work; but to make it a real success one of these gentlemen must get out among the Grangers and give a lecture for the good of our order, and he must be sure and bring in the Mutual Aid, and appoint one of our members in every county as an agent to induce his brethren to become members of this new and cheap way of life insurance. To induce agents he promises to give them four dollars for every application accepted by the Board. This he faithfully does, which causes my second objection. This is bringing our Grange back into the old rut which we have been trying to get out of, namely, those pocket-draining agents which swarm our land, and which our constitution says we don't want; and, sir, if this was all we might let it pass without critisism; but, then, there is a head agent over these local agents. What he gets I do not know, but it is likely to be $1 per member, or $1,000 per year; and $1 to the local doctor who examines the applicant for insurance, taking six of the eleven dollars given as first instalment, and leaving five dollars to pay their head doctor and members of the Board. I fear there will be little left for the good of the members. I also object to the manner in which death calls are made, namely, one dollar per death, of which we are told there will be only eight to the thousand members. I think that the death rate ought not to be less than fifteen to the thousand members, instead of eight; and I hold that the only thing mutual in this association is the payment of death calls, for the members have no voice in the Board whatever. They are self-appointed and are without control. They may vote whatever salary they please to themselves and their agents, and no one has any right to question their doing so. Now, sir, with these facts before me I could not conscientiously stand by and see my brethren drawn into this trap without raising my voice against it. Another reason for my opposition to this Mutual Aid Society is, that I feel confident that they will not be able to meet the expectations of their members, as proposed in their prospectus. To show this I give the following statement:—Suppose them to have a membership of one thousand, and their death rate be 8 in the 1,000, as they assert: 1,000 members at $11 each will pay $11,000; as stated above, the agent gets $4 each; the doctor $1, and the head agent $1—which amounts to $6 for each member, or $6,000, leaving $5,000 for other expenses of rent, taxes, salaries of Board, &c., &c. But let us suppose that the officials will be so generous as to work without salary—although I fear it is too strong a supposition, the statement would stand thus:—

RECEIPTS.
From members fees	$5,000
Death assessments at rate of 8 in the 1,000	8,000
Total of these	$13,000

with which to pay death calls. On eight members, at say only $2,000 each, the company would evidently not be able to pay $16,000 with $13,000. The very first call could therefore not be met, and successive years would be still worse, as may easily be seen by following this out.

Of course it is in the interest of agents to work so long as they are well paid, but a year or two of experience will show that the agents will be better paid than the friends of deceased members will be. I will not take up any more of your space at present. Thanking you for inserting this communication,

I am, yours &c.,
THOS. JOHNSTON.

JOHN HACKETT,

SIGN OF GOLDEN LAMB, GEORGE ST.

THE BOUNDARY AWARD.

Hon. T. B. Pardee in the Legislative Assembly.

Turning now to the boundary question, he said the people were naturally excited upon this subject and took a deep interest in it, affecting as it did, half our territory, consisting of 100,000 square miles rich in minerals, forests, and agricultural resources, but notwithstanding all this, he unhesitatingly said that he placed far greater importance upon the full power to legislate, and the maintenance of our Provincial and constitutional rights unimpaired, than he did upon this vast and expansive region. Still they could not overlook the importance of this question. What would be the result if the Province were deprived of this territory? It would be reduced from the proud position of the of the Dominion to the position, so to speak, of a third-rate power in the confederation. Quebec, Manitoba, and British Columbia would have a larger territory, and would take precedence of us in this respect, yet hon. members opposite were prepared to defend the Dominion Government in this gross outrage. (Cheers.) Hon. gentlemen opposite took the ground in opposition to the contention of the Goverment in this matter that Ontario was not deprived of any territory, and that the fault lay with the Mackenzie Government in not declaring the award to be binding before it was made. In other words, they blamed the Mackenzie Administration because they had not so bound Sir John Macdonald hand and foot as to make it impossible for him to refuse to ratify the award. (Hear, hear.) The dispute was referred to arbitration, to able men in whom the whole country had confidence, and who were of more than Canadian fame, and this Government and the Government at Ottawa agreed that their decision should be final and conclusive. He read from a report of the committee of the Privy Council as follows: "That the determination of such three referees be final between the parties."

PREMIER PROVINCE

MR. MEREDITH—That is not the original minute.

MR. PARDEE—Of course it was not the original, but it was the reference which gave the arbitrators power to act. His hon. friend was trying to elude the force of it. Why, then did they not agree that the award should be final and conclusive and on the very first opportunity turn round and abrogate that award so far as they could?

A THREE CORNERED FIGHT.

Hon. gentlemen argued that the Dominion Government could not by any legislation change the boundary line without concurrent legislation on the part of the Local Government. But what was the Dominion Government doing? Were they not refusing to permit our officers to have control of the territory which had been awarded to us? Were they not keeping possession of it as far as they could? And not satisfied with that, they were complicating matters still worse by providing that the jurisdiction of Manitoba shall extend to the western boundary of the Province of Ontario. What was the effect of that action? It should be noticed that it was only the jurisdiction that was transferred. The control of the lands, the forests, and the mines was still retained by Sir John and his Government, who probably reasoned that between Monitoba and the powerful Government at Ottawa they would be able to keep Ontario out of her rights. The only right conferred upon the Province of Manitoba was that of spending her money for the administration of justice in that district. Where was the necessity of transferring the territory to Manitoba at all, if that Province was not to have the forest and mineral wealth which belonged to it? Everything pointed to the conclusion that the Dominion Government, influenced by animosity to Ontario, and pressed by the feeling of jealousy which prevailed in another Province, had determined to shirk the responsibility by changing the venue, making the quarrel one between Ontario and Manitoba, and making it ten times as difficult as it was before to get a settlement. (Cheers.)

A CHANGE OF BASE.

Hon gentlemen opposite seemed to be changing their position on this subject from what it was two years ago. At the last session, and at the one previous, they joined in protesting against the the Dominion Government keeping us out of our territory. They did not then stand up in defence of that Government, but they joined in protesting against the action of the Dominion Government in this respect. That resolution, to which every Conservative member of the House except one gave his assent, was as fellows:—"That this House deeply regrets that notwithstanding the joint and concurrent action of the respective Governments in the premises, and the unanimous award of the arbitrators, the Government of Canada has hitherto failed to recognize the validity of the said award, and that no legislation has been submitted to Parliament by the Government of Canada for the purpose of confirming the said award." They did not then defend the Government of Canada for not legislating on the question, nor did they charge the Mackenzie Administration with neglect of duty, but they blamed the present Government at Ottawa for not submitting legislation to the House for a ratification of that award. (Cheers.) Whence the change? Why did they take a different stand now? Why did they now say, firstly, that the fault all lay with the Mackenzie Government; and, secondly, that Ontario was not going to lose anything at all. The present position of the Opposition was a most extraordinary one. What they said in effect was, what mattered it if Ontario should loose one-half her territory—it would still belong to the Dominion? He supposed that if in a few months the Dominion Government should decide to take the other half, these gentlemen would still offer no objection. The position of these gentlemen reminded him of the story of a Dutchman, who had two pigs that he was unable to keep and provide for. He applied to his neighbor, a Yankee, to take the pigs on shares, offering to give him one of them if he would keep the two for three months. The shrewd neighbor replied, "At that rate I suppose you would give me both the pigs if I keep them six months?" "Oh, yes," replied the Dutchman, "I suppose that would only be fair," and so he bargained himself out of both of his pigs. (Loud laughter.)

THE OPPOSITION'S GENEROSITY.

The hon. member for East Grey (Mr Lauder) had said he would tell his electors that he did not care for a few miles of Ontario, so long as it goes to a sister Province, and so these gentlemen were trying to affect a spirit of generosity at the same time that they sought to relieve Sir John of his embarassing position. If the leader of the Opposition believed that the award set forth the correct boundary lines between Manitoba, and he says he does, why did he not have the courage to say so? Why did he not throw off his party allegiance for the moment, even if it were to be detrimental to his leader at Ottawa, and stand up for the rights of his Province? One hundred thousand square miles of valuable territory was too much to lose when a few days ago 100 miles of timber in that district ware sold for a bonus of a quarter of a million of dollars. And yet in the face of all this the hon. gentleman would not come to the front and enable the House to bring sdch a pressure to bear upon his friends at Ottawa as would force them to ratify that award. The Opposition talked a great deal about the Reform side seeking to throw a fire-brand into the conflict. All that the Government side had said in this connection was that lesser grievances than this had caused war. The party on his side of the House were a who believed in redressing greviances by constitutional methods. The war and the weapons in this case would be the general elections and the ballot-boxes; and if the leaders of Conservative opinion in the Province would do their duty in the matter, a speedy settlement would no doubt be secured. The Attorney-General had referred to the speech made by Sir Alex. Campbell in the Senate on the award, where he said:—"It will be observed by the map that on the east we do not lay down a line in the same sense as we do on the south-east and north, but suggest a dotted line as what the boundry line between Ontario and Manitoba will be, as the present Government believe the law establishes it." That dotted line came down to Fort William, on the shore of Lake Superior. The Government of Ontario had been for years in possession of the district south of the height of land, and had spent hundreds of thousands of dollars on it in the administration of justice, and in making roads, surveys, and other improvements. Admitting, for the sake of arguments, that they were not owners of the district, but that it was Dominion property, they at least were entitled to be regarded as favourably as squatters would have been. Would it not have been more fair and honest for the Ottawa Government to recognize this claim at least, and to have preferred Ontario to another Province in disposing of the territory? Did not their course in this respect show active hostility to the Province of Outario? Why should they prefer Manitoba, who had never spent a dollar in that territory? But he denied that Ontario's claim to the territory was that of a squatter or that it was anything less than that of owner, and if it had not been for political considerations the Dominion Government would have passed a law giving the district to Ontario instead of to Manitoba, (Cheers). The hon. member for Glengary (Mr. McMaster) boasts of being a son of Glengarry. He (Mr. Pardee) would say to him that he was not a true son of Glengarry or he would not consent that Ontario should be unjustly deprived of one mile of her territory. And, sir, he not only consents to this act of depriviation, but he kisses the hand that did the wrong. (Hear, hear.) From the views held by hon. gentleman, what might the country expect if they occupied seats on the Treasury benches? They would undoubtedly surrender at discretion not only Ontario's constitutional rights, but also one-half of her territory rather than join issue with their friends at Ottawa. (Applause)

LAW-ABIDING PARTY,

SHIRKING THE QUESTION.

In another branch of the debate a desire was manifested by hon. gentlemen opposite to censure the hon. member for North Perth for introducing a discussion on the National Policy into this House. Perhaps it was not desirable that that subject should have been introduced, though it was not inferred that they were afraid of discussing it with hon. gentlemen opposite. But his hon. friends had an object in trying to fasten the responsibility of introducing this disussion upon the Government. He recollected, however, when his hon. friend's colleague from East Toronto (Mr. Morris) had felt it his duty to move an amendment to the Address in this House regarding the National Policy, and if he was justified in doing that surely the member for Perth was justified in referring to it. The leader of the Opposition was a delegate to the recent Tory Convention held in Toronto, and no doubt a serious conversation took place there between the two leaders. (Hear, hear.) He could fancy his hon. friend saying to Sir John, "Now, what about this veto and Boundary question? The people of Ontario will not submit to be robbed of their territory. Something will have to be done to get over the difficulty." They could hear Sir John reply, "I am unable to deal with this question, my Quebec friends will not allow me. If I did I would have to go out of office. The Opposition leader says, "Oh, that will not do. I had rather surrender all Ontario than have that happen," and Sir John proceeds. "So far as the veto is concerned I have allowed that to go too far, but if you can entangle the Ontario Government with this N. P. business, then we can get over everything." (Laughter and applause.) His hon. friend no doubt took his cue from that, hence his desire to attach such importance to the speech of the member for Perth. He had no doubt that his hon. friend had also said to Sir John, "There is nothing against this Government; we cannot attack it on its merits. We must, therefore, raise the cry of the N.P., though the difficulty is to connect the Ontario Government with it. But we will raise the cry, and when we go to the country we will endeavour to sail into power upon the strength of it." The leader of the Opposition ought to be able to formulate some charges against the Government if he expects the electors to support him. He should not raise issues aside from local affairs, and although the Ministry would not fear to meet him on either platform, it was a damaging course from a statesmanlike point of view to mix up Dominion and Provincial issues. (Applause.)

ANOTHER CHANGE OF BASE.

If he recollected his hon. friend's speech at the Convention aright he took grounds somewhat inconsistent with his former pretensions. The hon. gentleman had previously been one who held that there was too much party in this House, and that it would be far better, and more in the interests of the country, if our legislation could be freed from party considerations. On that occasion, however, he seems to have abandoned his "no party" predilections as applied to the Local House, as he pointed out to his hearers, that in order to defeat the Local Government they must stand true to party, and that it was just as necessary to defeat this Government as it was to maintain Sir John in power at Ottawa. The position, he ventured to say, was, in a political sense, a humiliating one, as his hon. friend by this appeal had virtually admitted that he had no charge against the Government which would induce the people to turn it out of power, and practically conceded that the Government upon its merits had, and deserved to have, the confidence of the country. He would, once more, before taking his seat, make an earnest appeal to his hon. friends opposite, to stand true to Ontario's rights and interests, which were of such vital importance to her future existance and welfare—rights and interests which overshadow all party considerations, and for which any man and any leader would be justified, if necessary, in severing from his party in order to maintain them.

The hon. gentleman then resumed his seat amid loud and prolonged applause.

CANADIAN SELF-RESPECT.

The old heroes of 1812, who are yet feebly moving about on the Canadian soil that is so dear to them, must have had sorrow in their hearts when they were told the other day that Sir John Macdonald, the leader of a great party in the country, had publicly stated that he would prefer annexation to the United States rather than that we should ever try the experiment of self-Government of Canada by the Canadians. If England were to propose to us that we should to-morrow try that experiment in friendly and close alliance with her, Sir John would rather see us absorbed by England's greatest rival, with our identity lost, and our national aspirations blotted out for ever. If our country was worth fighting so bravely for seventy years ago, surely it is worth trying to keep together a little while longer now. Half a continent lies at our feet, with its boundless prairies and vast solitudes. "Lone," indeed, is that land to-day, but not doomed to eternal desolation like the waste places of Asia and Africa. It is awakening from a slumber of centuries and its beautiful expanse of green invites the human race to a new field for energy and ambition. The disposal and contro of that suspendous region are additions to the magnitude to the responsibilities that are already resting upon Canadians. The future is opening up before us with a promise of national greatness. Let us trust in it, and in ourselves. Let us be more self-dependent, more independent of Downing Street rule, more determined to achieve complete control of the use of the Queen's name and prerogative, to regulate our own affairs in treaties of commerce as well as in matters of legislation. Let us not be daunted by the hysterical shriek of "veiled treason," that comes so glibly from the prudish loyalty of Canadian "jingoism." Let us be true to ourselves, and none can call us disloyal. To a nation, as to an individual, Shakespeare's noble words may be applied:

"This above all—to thine own self be true,
And it must follow, as the night the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man."

Robert, eldest son of Mr. Wm. Adams, of Emily, met with a severe accident on Wednesday. He had taken dinner to the men who were chopping in the woods and while they were eating the young man took up an axe to chop and by some means put an ugly gash in one of his feet.

A railroad collision, accompanied by great loss of life occurred Friday night on the Hudson River railroad near Spuyden Duyvil. The rear end of an express train with a large number of New York legislators on board, was run into by the locomotive of another train, and the disaster made more disastrous by two of the parlor cars catching on fire. Many lives were lost including that of Senator Wagner.

A tragical event occurred in the Basilica at Ottawa on Saturday. It appears that service was being held in the basement, principally attended by ladies. A man named Walsh who had been suffering from delirium tremens, was present, and, with a companion, disturbed the proceedings. A constable was sent for, and on his arrival, Walsh shot himself in the temple and dropped dead. He had previously threatened to take his life.

The magnitude to which the seed business has grown in this country is an indication of the extension and cultivation of a finer taste for the useful and the beautiful, and an evidence that our people are becoming more appreciative and intelligent citizens. We cheerfully hail all who further these most desirable ends. Foremost of all are the great seedsmen of Detroit, Mich., D. M. FERRY & Co., who by untiring energy and a genuine zeal in their business have done more than any other house in the country to spread the knowledge and cultivate the taste for intelligent gardening. Send to them for their Illustrated Seed Annual for 1882—sent free to all who apply—and which none who love the beautiful should be without.

PETERBOROUGH PRESBYTERY.

We are indebted to the Rev. Mr. Bennett, Presbytery Clerk, for the following minutes of the meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough held in Cobourg on the 16th instant:—

The Presbytery of Peterborough met at Cobourg on the 16th January. Twelve ministers and six elders were present. It was unanimously agreed that no further steps be taken towards the separation of Norwood and Hastings. It was reported that Mr. Fleming was making satisfactory progress in the study of Greek and Hebrew. From papers laid on the table it was shown that the Temperance Hall at Apsley had been secured as a permanent place of worship for the the Presbyterian denomination. Upon motion of Mr. Bell, it was resolved that all Session Records be produced at next meeting for examination. The Rev. Mr. McKay of Woodstock, being present, was invited to correspond. A circular was read anent the claims of Manitoba College and was, in the meantime, laid on the table. The matter of drawing the attention of the congregations, within the bounds, to the circular of Dr. Reid, regarding the General Assembly Fund, was remitted to Mr. Windell, who has charge of said fund. The report of the Home Mission Committee was read and ordered to be engrossed with the minutes of Presbytery. Upon motion of Mr. Bennett, the remit on the sustentation and supplemental schemes was referred to a committee to consider and report at next ordinary meeting of Presbytery. An application was made by the members of Oak Hill congregation for reunion with Garden Hill and Knoxville. The Clerk was instructed to take the usual steps in such cases and to cite all the parties interested to appear at next ordinary meeting of Presbytery. It was agreed to grant to Oak Hill the liberty of supplying their own pulpit until the question of union be finally disposed of. There was laid on the table a call from the congregation of Cobourg, addressed to the Rev. R. P. McKay, of Scarboro', in the Presbytery of Toronto. The call was signed by two hundred and five members and one hundred and thirty-three adherents. An accompanying paper guaranteed a stipend of $1,200 per annum, in monthly instalments. There is also a manse. The call was sustained as a regular gospel call and ordered to be transmitted to the Presbytery of Toronto. Commissioners were appointed to represent the Presbytery and congregation in prosecution of the call. The next meeting of the Presbytery was appointed to be held in St. Paul's church, Peterborough, on Tuesday the 21st March, at two o'clock in the afternoon. A letter was read from Mr. Windell, tendering the resignation of his charge. Commissioners were appointed to visit the congregations and to cite them to appear for their interests at the meeting in Peterborough. Mr. Cleland reported regarding the state of the Synod and Presbytery Fund. The difficulty between Bethsada and Alnwick in the matter of the proportion of salary to be paid by each congregation was remitted to a new committee. The congregation at Campbellford obtained leave to sell a portion of Church property, as applied for.

THE WAY TO END MORMONISM.

The question is not so much between this theory and that, this remedy and that—it is whether congress and the country are in earnest in their purpose to uproot the evil. It is absurd to argue that polygamy cannot be crushed out—if the country is ready for the work. But every year that the let-alone policy is kept up, the difficulty of dealing with the question will increase. It would seem that the time was fairly ripe for grappling with the evil—an evil which manaces not only our social and moral, but our political institutions. The utterances of the President, the bills introduced in congress, and the quickened interest in the public discussion of the question, all point in one direction. Let Mormonism once be convinced that the nation is in earnest, and half the battle will be won.

WHAT HE WAS.

One afternoon a stranger, observing a stream of people entering a church, approached a man of gloomy prospect who was standing near the entrance, and asked.

"Is this a funeral?"

"Funeral? No," was the sepulchral answer; "it's a wedding."

"Excuse me," added the stranger; "but I thought from your serious look that you might be a hired mourner."

"No," returned the man, with a weary, far-off look in his eyes; "I'm a son-in-law of the bride's mother."—Brooklyn Eagle.

GATHERINGS IN THE HEAD.—From Rev. Nathan Hubbell, Methodist preacher at Harvard, Delaware Co., N. Y. "Although an entire stranger to you I have received so much benefit from the Peruvian Syrup that I cannot withhold my testimony in its favor. At different periods in my life I have been afflicted with gatherings in my head, which discharged daily, either from one or both ears. Beside the disgusting character of the complaint, it was at times attended with excruciating pain. I had recourse to both the Allopathic and Homœopathic treatment, but in vain. The last attack had troubled me nearly a year, when at the session of our Annual Conference, held at Newburgh, in April last. I saw a certificate from some one who had been cured of a similar complaint by the use of the Peruvian Syrup. To be brief, I purchased a bottle at the nearest drug store, and before it was half gone my trouble had entirely ceased, and at this writing, nearly two months later, has not returned." Sold by all druggists.

HERE, IN OUR OWN TERRITORY.

It can almost be asserted that St. Jacobs Oil works wonders. Shortly before the New Year, when I visited my family in Mitchell, I found my son Edward, a lad little more than ten years old, very sick. He suffered with rheumatism, and so terribly, that he was perfectly stiff in his limbs, could not possibly walk and had to be carried from place to place. At once I sent for some St. Jacobs Oil, used it according to directions, and in a few days could see evidence of considerable improvement. On the tenth of this month I again visited my family and was astonished to find him well and hearty. He once more has fresh color in his face and can go to school again. Whenever the old trouble threatens to return relief is immediately secured by the use of the celebrated St. Jacobs Oil. From sheer joy over this result I cannot withhold recommending St. Jacobs Oil to suffering humanity as a true benefactor. SCHOOL HEADACHES.

Scholars are frequently twitted concerning the headache that invariably afflicts them in school, and which never comes when they remain at home. This complaint, like spring fever, is ridiculed by those inclined to believe all children eager to shirk study. When we consider, however, the defective ventilation of our common schoolhouses, which are not as well provided with fresh air as our jails and prisons, it is small cause for wonder that children gape and yawn through recitation, and have heavy and aching heads. The sanitary condition of public schools in this particular is abominable. Ventilation must either proceed from windows, causing colds to those whose backs are exposed to a draught, or through dusty flues that fill the current with impurities. It is impossible to send a delicate child to the common school and have it pass through a term without sickness. Families who can ill afford the outlay are compelled to put their children in private schools to insure them the supply of oxygen every one should breathe to be healthy.

TIGHT CRAMMING.

"How came you to fail in your examination?" asked a tutor of one of his pupils; "I thought I crammed you thoroughly." "Well, you see," replied the student, "the fact was you crammed me so tight I couldn't get it out."—Exchange.

DO NOT BE DECEIVED.—In these times of quack medicine advertisements everywhere, it is truly gratifying to find one remedy that is worthy of praise, and which really does as recommended. Electric Bitters we can vouch for as being a true and reliable remedy, and one that will do as recommended. They invariably cure stomach and Liver Complaints. Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary difficulties. We know whereof we speak and can readily say, give them a trial. Sold at 50 cents a bottle. Taylor and Macdonald, agents.

HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO.:
DEAR SIRS,—I have now much pleasure in stating that since I began to wear the Holman Liver Pad (about one year ago) I have enjoyed good health, although for several years previous I was a sufferer from biliousness and Torpid Liver. I earnestly recommend all bilious persons to give the Pad a trial as I have known many to have done so with the most gratifying results.
Yours truly,

A. NOTMAN, HOLMAN LIVER PAD CO.:
DEAR SIRS,—I shall ever remain a strong advocate of the Holman Pad. Its effect on me has been truly wonderful, since the third day after putting it on I have been as well as ever in my life. It seemed to arrest my trouble at once.
I have not worn it now for about two months and the symptoms have not as yet returned. I expect to keep a Holman Liver Pad in my possession as long as I live.
With sincere regards yours, etc.,

NO SECT IN HEAVEN.

Talking of sects till late one eve,
Of the various doctrines the saints believe,
That night I stood in a troubled dream,
By the side of a darkly flowing stream.

And a "Charonman" down to the river came;
When I heard a strange voice call his name.
"Good father, stop; when you cross this tide,
You must leave your robes on the other side."

But the aged father did not mind,
And his long gown floated out behind,
As down to the stream his way he took,
His pale hands clasping a gilt-edged book.

"I'm bound for heaven, and when I'm there,
I shall want my book of Common Prayer;
And though I put on a starry crown,
I should feel quite lost without my gown."

Then he fixed his eyes on the shining track,
But his gown was heavy and held him back,
And the poor old father tried in vain
A single step in the flood to gain.

I saw him again on the other side,
But his silk gown floated on the tide.
And no one asked in that blissful spot,
Whether he belonged to "the Church" or not.

Then down to the river a Quaker strayed,
His dress of a sober hue was made;
"My coat and hat must be all of gray,
I cannot go any other way."

Then he buttoned his coat straight up to his chin,
And steadily, solemnly waded in,
And his broad-brimmed hat he pulled down tight
Over his forehead, so cold and white.

But a strong wind carried away his hat;
A moment he silently sighed over that,
And then, as he gazed to the farther shore,
The coat slipped off, and was seen no more.

As he entered heaven, his suit of gray
Went quietly sailing away—away,
And none of the angels questioned him
About the width of his beaver's brim.

And after him, with his stately mien,
Came Wesley, the gallant old gentleman,
But he smiled, "Dear me, what shall I do?
The water has soaked them through and through."

And there on the river, far and wide,
Away they went down the swollen tide,
And the saint, astonished, passed through alone,
Without his manuscripts, up to the throne.

Then gravely walking, two saints by name,
Down to the stream together came,
But as they stopped at the river's brink,
I saw one saint from the other shrink.

"Sprinkled or plunged, may I ask you friend,
How you attained to life's great end?"
"Then, with a few drops on my brow."
"But I have dipped, as you'll see me now.

"And I really think it will hardly do.
As I'm 'close communion,' to cross with you;
Your bound, I know, to the realms of bliss,
But you must go that way and I'll go this."

Then straightway, plunging with all his might,
Away to the left—his friend to the right,
Apart they went from this world of sin,
But at last together they entered in.

And now, when the river was rolling on,
A Presbyterian church went down;
Of women there seemed an innumerable throng,
But the men I could count as they passed along,

And concerning the road, they could never agree,
The old or the new way, which it could be,
Nor ever a moment paused to think
That both would lead to the river's brink.

And a sound of murmuring long and loud
Came ever up from the moving crowd,
"You're in the old way, and I'm in the new,
That is the false, and this is the true,"—
Or, "I'm in the old way, and you're in the new,
That is the false, and this is the true."

But the brethren only seemed to speak,
Modest the sisters walked, and meek,
And if ever one of them chanced to say
What troubles she met with on the way,
How she longed to pass to the other side,
Nor feared to cross over the swelling tide,
A voice arose from the brethren then:
"Let no one speak but the holy men;
For have ye not heard the word of Paul,
'Oh, let the women keep silence all?'"

I watched them long in my curious dream,
Till they stood by the borders of the stream,
Then just as I thought, the two ways met,
But all the brethren were talking yet,
And would talk on, till the heaving tide
Carried them over side by side;
Side by side, for the way was one,
The toilsome journey of life was done,
And all who in Christ the Saviour died,
Came out alike on the other side.
No forms, or creeds, or books had they,
No gowns of silk, or suits of gray,
No synods to guide them, or Misses,
For all had put on Christ's righteousness.

GERRYMANDERING.

The Montreal Herald, in speaking of the contemplated gerrymandering, says: The meaning of the word "gerrymandering" is, by this time, pretty well understood by the people of Ontario. Almost everyone knows that it denotes the trick, easily accomplished by a Government sure of strong numerical support in Parliament—of so re-shaping constituencies by parings and additions as to make certain the election of candidates who will support the Administration. All that is necessary to the performance of the trick is to transfer a few desirable polling places from one riding which is adverse to another which is friendly, an operation which calls less for manipulative skill than for the audacity in setting at defiance the expressions of indignation which the public conscience prompts. It is only a Government with a strong backing Parliament which would venture to go into the disgraceful business, and in such case only when it despised public sentiment utterly. Of course it is necessary that from time to time the allocation of representation in Parliament should be readjusted in conformity with the principle established in this country—as the result of long and hard fighting—that the people should have a representation in the House of Commons according to number and nothing else. But it was never intended, never expected, that this readjustment should go on inch by inch, or give any existing Administration a chance of strengthening itself at the expense of voters practically defrauded of their franchise. There are pretty plain indications that this gerrymandering—and on a large scale, too—is in contemplation at Ottawa, and this on the eve of the meeting of Parliament. It would show more respect for the people of Canada, for the matter in one which affects the value of the vote of everyone who has a vote, were the Government, instead of clipping off a township here or there in any one constituency, to introduce a general measure, with last census as its basis, and applicable to the whole country.

REFORM IN GEOGRAPHY.

There is an attempt being made in some quarters to institute a much needed reform, that of teaching arithmetic in our public schools. This is a good move, and while they are at it, we suggest that of a reform in geography. We know pretty well advanced scholars in geography who can tell all about Africa, China, Asia, the oceans, mountains and big rivers, but they cannot tell which direction Des Moines is from Cedar Rapids. Whether Davenport, Burlington or Clinton lies east, west, north or south, how many townships there are in the county, and hundreds of other simple practical things about their own locality and state. Let arithmetic be reformed, but let geography go hand in hand in the reform.

Midland District Notes.

Clipped, Compiled and Condensed from County and other Convenient Contemporaries.

Lake Ontario is said to have decreased in depth 14½ inches in the past 57 years.

The annual races of Campbellford, are to take place on Crow Bay on the 8th and 9th prox.

There is a family residing in East Durham, the united height of three of the members being nineteen feet and five inches.

A boy named Connors, who went skating on the bay at Belleville, on Saturday, is missing. He is believed to have been drowned.

There has been a bad outbreak of diptheria in Minden. Two children of Mr. Munn have died of this terrible disease, and some others are in great danger.

Mr. T. A. Cosgrove, of Millbrook has been presented with a beautiful testimonial from the young ladies of his Bible class in connection with the Presbyterian Sabbath School.

Mr. Wm. McGhey on the boundry line between Ops and Emily lost a good horse on Monday night. It got its leg over the halter and in struggling to get free broke the limb so that it had to be killed.

The Reeve of Emily, Ops and Manvers have awarded the contract for the building of Brown's Bridge over Pigeon River to Thos. Stephenson, Esq. The bridge is to be completed by the 1st of July, 1882.

A man named Hostailing got his leg broke at Mr. P. O'Neil's farm, Asphodel, on Monday last, whilst engaged in loading logs on a sleigh. Dr. Clarke was sent for and set the fractured limb.

The Port Hope Times says that a number of young men of that town have entered into a solemn contract to attend church every evening, taking the different churches in turn.

We learn with pleasure says the Belleville Intelligencer:—There is a flattering prospect of the location in this city of an iron smelting establishment, which will be of large capacity and operated by a company possessed of ample capital.

On Wednesday a man was found dead on the Midland railway track about two miles south of Bethany. From letters on his person he is believed to be named McKay, a school teacher, from Cannington. Exposure is supposed to have been the cause of death.

The employees of the Midland Railway along the line subscribed toward a purse to the widow of the late Mr. Mongraw, an employee of the road, whose death occured a few months ago. The sum amounting to $81, was presented the other day.

Miss Mary Cogan of Lindsay, has received the medal and diploma given by the Marquis of Lorne to the successful competitor from the Loretto convent, Lindsay, and also the sum of $50 given by his grace Archbishop Lynch to Roman Catholics who obtain second-class certificates.

The Campbellford Herald says that Mr. W. R. Clark of Brighton township sowed seven acres with oats and put in the seed, one bushel and three pecks to the acre, with a Hoosir drill. From this acreage he threshed a short time ago the large amount of 463 bushels and eight pounds—over sixty-six bushels to the acre.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says:—On Tuesday a telegraphic message from Clare in Michigan, conveyed the sad news that Charles, youngest son of Mr. W. B. Read of this village, had been killed in the Michigan woods by a saw-log rolling over his body. The body will be brought home, and buried. The unfortunate man was only 23 years of age.

On Saturday, 9th inst., Mr. David Tierney of Norham, was rather surprised to see a fine deer leisurely walking along the gravel road, near Norham. Mr. Tierney, immediately gave chase on foot and captured the animal near the toll-gate, south of the village. The deer is quite tame and is evidently a domesticated one which has escaped from its owner.

Mr. Burk, an old man over 90 years of age, formerly of Cobourg, was robbed and badly beaten at his home in Cæsarea, township of Cartwright, last Sunday night. The old gentleman must have made a determined fight, as he is badly beaten about the head and face. The brute stole a horse from Mr. Elliot, magistrate of Cæsarea, to make his escape. He drove it to Hampton and then turned it adrift. There is no trace to him yet.

A few days ago as Mr. James Laidley, Omemee, was in the act of doing something to a clock high up on the wall, he met with a severe accident. He had placed a chair on the lounge and then got upon the chair which toppled over, throwing him heavily upon the floor, inflicting such injuries on one of the hip bones that he has since been confined to his bed, and Dr. Higinbotham, who was called in, states that it will be some time before he can get around again.

A carload of whiskey was left standing on the track at the Midland station Lindsay, the other night. Several boys, after taking in the situation, procured a gimblet and bored a hole in one particularly apoplectic looking barrel. They not only filled themselves with the liquid but carried off sundry bottles for "future reference." Two or three of the lads were rendered so helpless that they had to be sent home in a most disgraceful condition.

The Hastings Star says that our village was shocked on Thursday evening last, by the announcement of the sudden death of Mr. Walter Renwick. The deceased gentleman had been for some time past in very poor health, but which neither relatives, nor friends viewed with uneasiness. Alarming symptoms of congestion of the lungs set in shortly after noon on Thursday, which terminated in death about 4 o'clock. The remains were interred in the Hastings Necropolis on Saturday evening.

PRESENTATION.—A very pleasing presentation took place in the County Council Chamber, Cobourg at the close of the session on Wednesday evening, to Jas. R. Barber, Esq., of this town. Last June the members of the Council had a trip as far as Peterborough, and the year previous as far as Hastings, and members of the Council, in order to testify their appreciation of the kindness shown them, bought a most beautiful and costly ring from Mr. George Pringle, and presented the same to Mr. Barber.—Sentinal-Star.

Mr. D. C. Trew will represent the bird fanciers of Lindsay at the annual show of the Midland poultry association, to be held at Peterboro the end of this month. Mr. Trew will exhibit two pairs of black cochins and two pairs of houdans. They are all fine fowl. The cock bird of the houdans is the "Java Chief," from Oak Park, Ill., and has won many prizes in competition in that state. Mr. Trew keeps good stock, in fact the best procurable, and has been extremely successful in breeding a fine class of fowls. We expect to see him return laden with trophies and at least a good medal fastened to each coop.

THE DECEASED WIFE'S SISTER AGAIN.

THE CATHOLIC CLERGY APPROVE OF THE BILL IN ITS AMENDED FORM—THE ANGLICAN CLERGY STILL OPPOSED TO IT.

The Roman Catholic clergy have come to an understanding with regard to the Bill to legalize marriage with a deceased wife's sister. The objection of Bishop Lafleche, of Three Rivers, to the effect that the church does not recognize the right of the State to legislate upon the subject of marriage, was strongly urged against the bill introduced by Mr. Girouard at the last session of Parliament and it was held that it was defective in form, inasmuch as it declared that marriage was permitted "between a man and the sister of his deceased wife." It is understood that the bill which will be presented at the next session will meet this objection by repealing purely and simply the laws prohibiting such marriages. These laws, as regards the Province of Quebec, are found in article 125 of the Civil Code, and for the English speaking provinces in the Statute of Henry VIII, of 1533. This modification of the bill has received the sanction of the Archbishops of Quebec and all the bishops. The clergy of the Church of England, however, are opposed to the bill and at the last Synod obtained a new affirmation of the old canons of the Church of England. The lay members of the Synod it is claimed intend supporting the bill, and hold that the resolution of the Synod is not binding until confirmed at a subsequent meeting.—Montreal Star.

EIGHTY CENTS A DAY.

(From the Globe.)

The civil servants of Ontario petition for increased pay on the ground that the N. P. has increased the cost of living. The Quebec Government railway laborers have been ordered to accept 80 cents per day or leave the service. This is equivalent to an official declaration that laborers can be had for the price offered, that the average wage of labor has fallen to 80 cents a day, while the cost of living has increased. The assertion of the Ontario civil servants is true, as every family man and every housewife in the country knows; that the Quebec Government believes its official declaration of the rate of wages to be correct is proved by the fact that it gives the men no option but to leave the employ or take 80 cents a day.

Is this the realization of the promises made to labor by the authors of the N. P.? Workingmen were told that they need not care though prices would be increased by a protective tariff, for it would give them two dollars where they were getting one. Were laborers in the country between Quebec and Ottawa forced to accept eighty cents a day during Mr. Mackenzie's regime. We know that the average rate was never less than one dollar a day, and that laborers for the Dominion Government, with permanent places and sure pay were not employed then at less than ninety cents a day in the very district traversed by the Quebec Government railway.

☞Bargains are to be had at Munro & Alexander's during all this month, as they will open out in their New Store on the First of February.

HOUSEHOLD RECEIPTS.

POUND CAKE.—Mix five cupsful of flour, three cupsful of sugar, one and a half of butter, one of milk, ten eggs, and two teaspoonsful of baking powder.

CANNED SAUSAGE.—Make the sausage into small cakes and fry until done; fill the can up with the cooked cakes, pour boiling lard over the top, and seal the same as fruit.

WHITE CAKE.—Mix the whites of eight eggs, two cupsful of sugar, three of flour, half cupful of butter, three-fourths of a cupful of milk and two teaspoonsful of baking powder.

PICKLE FOR BEEF.—To eight gallons of water add eight pounds of salt; two pounds of brown sugar; one quart of molasses, and four ounces of salt-petre; heat and skim, and put on cold.

SPICED BEEF.—Take a good piece of beef with some fat; boil till very tender in slightly salted water; chop quite fine and spice with ground cloves, allspice, and pepper. Mix well, and salt more if desired. The quantity of spice must be regulated by taste. Press firmly into a pan or jar, and in a few days it will be ready for use.

TO BOIL SALT BEEF.—Put it over in cold water and let it come to a boil slowly. Skim it well. If very salt, turn off this water and add fresh; then let it simmer or boil slowly for four hours, if a large piece. That which is not eaten hot should have a weight put upon it to press it while cooling; this will make it cut smooth when cold.

TREATING RANCID BUTTER.—A way that has never been known to fail is to cut the butter into pieces about a pound each, wrap each piece separately in clean white cloth, then enclose all in a nice white bag, or large cloth, and bury the whole a foot or more in the ground, the deeper the better. After a week or two according to the rancidness of the butter, unearth, wash carefully, re-salt, and it will be found to be sweet and wholesome. I have so treated butter which was too rancid for cooking, and when put upon the table after such treatment, it could not be told from fresh butter.

STEAMED BEEF.—Take an old tin plate, punch it full of holes, and invert it in the bottom of your kettle, which fill partly full of water. Cut your meat off the bones in good-sized pieces. Save the bones for soup or gravy stock, and pack the meat tightly in a small tin pail, without water. Salt and pepper it, and if you like, add a little of either, sliced onion, catsup or summer savory; or a little of all these. Now cover with a crust made as for rich biscuits or shortcake, put on the cover of the pail and set the pail itself on the inverted tin in the boiling water. Cover over the top of kettle and boil from three to six hours according to quantity and age of meat, being sure to keep a supply of water in the kettle.

SAUSAGE.—For thirty pounds of meat chopped, take half a pound of fine salt, two and a half ounces of pepper, two teacupsful of powdered and sifted sage. Take the skins of the leaf fat, put away until your sausage is ground and seasoned; put the skins in some warm water, take one out, put on a table, scrape with an old table-knife until all the fat is off, and it is as large as you can get it; let it remain on the table all the time. Make a large round cake of sausage as much as you think the skin will cover; put it into the skin as light as you can. After you have finished putting them up in the skins, get a needle and thread, whip over the edges and both ends (sometimes where there is a large hole you can patch in.) Take a strong string, tie one end, and hang up in your smoke house.

TEAS! TEAS!

CHINA and JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic use, there is none perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand in the aggregate than TEA.

Notwithstanding the increased demand yet the price of TEAS is lower to-day than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have procured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

FIRST:—A more extended and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea producing countries.

SECOND:—Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and

THIRD:—Increased and closer competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grade, modes o adulteration, and tests for detection, see "ads" to follow.

Meantime we offer JAPAN TEA at 40c. per pound. NONE BETTER. TRY IT!

SANDERSON'S

LIKE A CLOCK.

BY H. C. DODGE.

A man is like a clock, we know
Because sometimes he's very "slow."
Sometimes he's "fast" and has a trick
Of "running" all the "time" on "tick."
He runs his "face" to get a treat,
And, like a clock, he'll often "beat."
Sometimes he carries quite a "weight;"
He's seldom "early;" often "late."
In banks sometimes, we have been told,
Cashiers lay "hands" on people's gold.
And make the "best time" ever shown
In "striking" out for parts unknown.
A clock winged up will go, but stop
"Winond up" will "stay" "six" or "eight" spells.
Sometimes a clock is love with fun,
And every night "run down" to call;
But, like French clocks, he never "goes"
Till "started," not by "hand," but toes.
A clock's "works" often times are bad;
So are a man's, and that is sad.
Both clocks and men have too much "brass,"
Both need "repairs"—men most, alas!
Some clocks need hanging to show plain;
Likewise some men—if they're insane.
Men who are "second hand" don't "go"
Till whis-"key winds them up," you know.
And like toy-clocks that children play.
Need "winding" fifty times a day.

JOSH BILLINGS' PHILOSOPHY.

SOMELY TRUTHS TOLD IN THE VERY HOMELIEST LANGUAGE IMAGINABLE.

If you will sit down and wait, yung man, at least one half ov the good things ov life will at sum time eddy around near yu, while the more yu chase them the more they will break into a run.

All ov natur's works ar a part ov a orfekshun ov a plan. She makes no mistakes, creates no vacancys, and guesses at nothing.

Ideas are what wins, but if a man hain't got but one, he is very apt to run that one into the ground, and take himself along with it.

Lather proves nothing. Wise men laff, and idiots grin all the time.

Cunning is a weak imitashun of wisdum and is liable at enny time to merge into fraud.

Happiness has no abiding place, but often is very near at hand, like the old woman's spektakles. After hunting for them hi and lo, she found them at last safe on her nose.

Gravity is becuming to a phool at all times, but only to a wise man state ockashuns.

Very meany seek knowledge, not so much for the truth as fur the speekulashun that is in it.

Heroism is simple, and yet it is rare. Every one who dus the best they kin is a hero.

Baty is a dangerous gift. The vanity it inspires, and the base flattery it attrakts, its possessors are not to be envied.

Charity makes no mistakes that she kan be charged with.

Good breeding is the only thing that kan make a phool endurable.

Servitude is so unnatural that an honest servant is the rarest ov all things.

There is great art in knowing how to give without creating an obligashun.

As selfish and ill-bred as the mass ov mankind are, I prefer to live with them rather than go into solitude and try to live with myself.

Gratitude is a word that yu will find in the dickshunarys, but yu will not find much ov it anywhere else.

If a man has got the right kind ov religion he kan pick up a creed enny where that will fit it.

A true friend is one whom yu kan chide for his faults, without giving offense, and who, without giving offense, kan chide yu.

Nature has never made ennything perfekt, and she luvs variety so well that she never has made enny two things just alike.

Indolence is a quiet malady, but it has eat up more foundashuns and tipt over more superstruktures than wild ambishun ever has.

Abstinence should be the exsepshun, and temperance the rule.

Munro & Alexander will have the largest stock of Dry Goods, Mantles, Millinery, Dress Goods Silks and Fancy Goods, that they have ever held, when they open out in their new premises.

HOW HE WAS CURED OF SWEARING.

John came in and inquired whether dinner was ready, and was told it was not.

"Well, why in the devil isn't it?" said he.

"Because," she coolly replied, "the wood was so ——— wet that the fire wouldn't burn."

"Why, Mary, what is the matter with you? Are you crazy, or have you been drinking?"

"Neither," she replied, and quietly proceeded to put on dinner.

The beef didn't melt like butter between their teeth—it rather resisted all attempts at mastication, like so much India-rubber; and John finally blurted out:

"What makes this ——— beef so infernal tough?"

Mary looked up archly and replied:

"Well, John, I suppose you went down to the butchers and, without knowing the difference, picked out a piece of some ——— old stag that hadn't been fed for a month."

John jumped up, looked at his wife in dismay, and wanted to know what such language from her lips meant.

"It means just this, John; you are the head of the family, and just as long as you think it manly to swear in my presence I intend to do the same! If you don't like to hear it you know how to prevent it."

The cure was radical, and to this date Mary has never been compelled to administer another dose of the prescription.

THE DUMMY ENEMY.

HOW TWO MEN SUCCEEDED IN BUSINESS.

(San Francisco Post)

"Archibald, my boy," said old Mr. Diffenderfer, the high commission merchant, the other day as he called his son into his private office, "my dear boy, I have just executed the deeds by which I retire from business to day, and leave you sole active partner in the wealthiest house on the coast. Naturally you expect me to give you some timely counsel for your future business guidance."

"Kerect!" replied young D., who was a member of the Bohemian club, and knew it all.

"You probably suppose that I wish to enjoin upon you frugality, temperance, integrity, and punctuality as the sure means of success. Not at all. Those virtues are all very well for the copy book, but the only real requisite to success in life—especially in this state—is a really good, unpromising dummy enemy."

"A what?" queried the scion of the house of D., as he put his feet on the desk and lit another cigarette.

"Why, a first class, bitter, unrelenting dummy enemy. Something like my dear old friend Guffey, for instance."

"Why, I thought you were down on that the worst way."

"That's just the point—that's just the joke of it," said old D., with a chuckle. "Fourteen years ago I met Guffey on the steamer, coming round here from New York. We had both failed in trade—I in Boston, he in Philadelphia—both of us fairly driven out of business by the usual slanders, jealousies and underhand defamation peculiar to—well, to everywhere."

"Why didn't you go into partnership?" asked the junior.

"I'll tell you. After talking the matter over Guffey and I agreed that the only way for a man with a small capital to get along was to have some trusted friend on the outside who would keep him posted as to the doings of his enemies. Some one whom they could talk to, don't you understand?"

"I catch on," remarked the youth.

"So we agreed to act as each other's dummy enemy. And from the day that we stepped off the steamer down at the wharf, Guffey and I have never spoken to each other, except on the 1st and 15th of each month, when I visit him in disguise to compare notes.

"Well, by Jove."

"It was a fact, though. Every time my enemies—and everybody has them; they sorter grow somehow—put up a job on me, or lie about me, or try to injure me in any way, they go to Guffey and attempt to rope him into the plot. He sympathizes with them; says I'm the most infernal old wretch unhung, and then sits down and writes me the particulars. Good scheme that, eh?" and the old merchant laughed until he was black in the face.

"Well, I should smile," grinned the other.

"Of course I do the same for Guffey. Why, I can't tell you how many thousand times I've scowled at him on the street, and remarked to whoever I was walking with: 'that's the miserable scoundrel, Guffey. Look at the airs he puts on because he is rich. I'd like to break his rascally head with a club!"

"Was Guffey rich, then?"

"Why, no; of course not, at first. It was a part of our scheme, don't you see, to brace up each other's credit under the cover of abuse. For instance, I'd apply for a big discount at some bank, and the cashier would slip around to Guffey for information, knowing he'd give away all my weak points. Guffey would scowl, and say:

"'Well, I suppose the old villain is solid enough, but d—n a man who'd turn his mother-in-law out of doors on a cold winter night. The old beast! I wonder they haven't tarred and feathered Diffenderfer years ago. They say his grandmother is in the poor house. With all his money, too, just think!'

"Why certainly, a bank cashier doesn't care for grandmothers. What he is after is stingy old capitalists, and other Muldoons. Why, Guffey once borrowed fifty thousand dollars because I privately told McLane that G. had swindled the government on a half million contract. Mac had him up to dinner the very next day. Think over what I have said, my dear boy, and go thou and do likewise."

And promising to look carefully around up at the club, which was cram full of dummies of all kinds, young Deffenderfer dived into his ulster, and hastened to get up on Kearney street before the matinees let out.

TOUGH WIND STORIES.

HUMOURS OF A WESTERN NEWSPAPER FUNNY MAN.

Robert Burdette, the bright and particular star of the Burlington Hawkeye, lectured in New York the other evening on "Home; or, Advice to Young Men." He diligently forbore from advising anything. And yet he did say something about young men going west. They ought to go west if it was only to experience what a wind storm was like. People in the east had no idea of wind, at least not until they had heard him lecture. He described one of his visits to Omaha when the wind was shaking that city up. As he started for the hall where he was to speak he remarked to the agent accompanying him. "The wind is rather demonstrative this evening." "Not this—" The agent did not say that; he was going to, but a man on the other side of the street shot at him. He remarked instead that it was not blowing very hard at that time, and just as he finished he was taken up in a whirlwind and never came down. Mr. Burdette knew he never came down because he had his fee in his pocket. He was then caught in a blast himself, which luckily took him in the right direction, and as he neared the hall a tornado lifted him right up to the platform. Once in his own arena he resolved to prove to his auditors that he could not be outwinded even by the blasts of Omaha. He managed to forget the end of his lecture, and kept on talking and the wind kept on blowing until nearly daylight, when an elderly gentleman in the audience arose and excused himself. He said he would very much like to hear the conclusion of the speaker's remarks, but he was compelled to go out and bury himself. Mr. Burdette hoped the others would follow, and that the janitor would come and hand him the key and ask him to lock up when he got through. None of these things happened, however, but the man who owned the hall came and set fire to it. He was not an extravagant man, but he could better afford to build another hall than to pay taxes on that one until that lecture was completed.

A Card.

To all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I will send a receipt that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. This great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the Rev. JOSEPH T. INMAN, Station D, New York City.

VARIETIES.

Mother may I go out to skate?
Yes, my darling Julia.
But don't you try the figure 8,
For it will surely foul you.
Just as you make the blushing whirl
To show your springy muscle,
The boys will see a foolish girl
Sleigh-riding on her bustle.

It is a curious fact that no man in the world wants to be rich; he only asks for enough, and surely that is a reasonable request.

TIMELY WARNING.—Now is the season for sudden colds and distressing cough, treat them with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, it cures influenza, asthma, croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, and all pulmonary complaints leading to consumption. 2-2t

"Yes," he said to his confidential friend, "I am engaged to her and I suppose I ought to be very happy, but somehow I am worried about a former attachment of hers. There's that infernal blackguard, Jones, who"——"Why, bless my soul! you stupid fellow, she hates him like poison." "Yes, yes, I know—that's what troubles me. She hates him too bitterly not to have loved him once."

RHEUMATIC REMEDY.—There is no better cure for Rheumatism than Hagyard's Yellow Oil used according to directions on the bottle. It also cures Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites, Bruises, lameness, and all wounds of the flesh. All dealers sell it, price 25 cents. 3-2t

A bickering pair of Quakers were lately heard in high controversy, the husband claiming: "I am determined to have one quiet week with thee!" "But how wilt thou be able to get it?" said the taunting spouse, in that sort of reiteration which married ladies so provokingly indulge in. "I will keep thee a week after thou art dead," was the Quaker's rejoinder.

LAME BACK.—Lumbago, Kidney complaint, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, and all pain and inflammation are speedily cured with Hagyard's Yellow Oil. Croup, sore throat, colds, burns, scalds, bruises, frost bites, chilblains and all wounds of the flesh are quickly healed by Yellow Oil. 3-2t.

Mamma, when I noticed all the people after they came into church this morning lean their heads down against the back of the pew in front of them, I did just as they did and leaned mine down too." "That was right, my dear; and you uttered a prayer like a good little boy?" No, mamma, I counted ten."—Brooklyn Eagle.

The minister who opened the supreme court at Auburn, Me, with prayer the other day closed his petition with the words: "And at last may we become dwellers of that better land where there are no lawyers, no judges and no courts. Amen." This seems to be a little rough on the legal fraternity.—Hartford Post.

"DON'T GIVE UP THE SHIP," was the memorable words of Commodore Perry. We repeat, "dont give up the ship," poor, despairing invalid, but try Burdock Blood Bitters. It cures others, why not you? It renovates, regulates and tones all the organs of secretions, and restores lost vitality. 3-2t

An acquaintance from the country, having visited some friends, and being about to depart, presented a little boy—one of the family—with half a dollar, in the presence of his mother. "Please, is it a good one?" asked the little fellow. "Of course it is," replied the gentleman, surprised. "Why do you ask?" "Because I'd rather have a bad one, and then they'll let me keep it. If I get any good money it goes into the bank, and I never get it again."

HOW TO CURE A COLD.—Upon the first feeling of chill or shivering remain indoors if possible, bathe the feet in tepid water, gradually increasing the heat as long as it can be comfortably borne, drink freely of warm ginger tea or sage tea, to induce perspiration, and take Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam according to directions on the bottle. Hagyard's Balsam cures coughs, asthma and bronchitis. 3-2t.

A writer in a January magazine says the earth would be heated more than one hundred and ninety thousand degrees by being suddenly stopped—that is, "it would at once become more than sixty times as hot as melted iron." Any man who, knowing these facts, attempts to stop the earth ought to be severely dealt with. He would burst up all the coal dealers, and throw sleigh and skate manufacturers into bankruptcy.—Norristown Herald.

HAD SUFFERED MANY PHYSICIANS and grew no better but rather worse. Mr. D. H. Howard, of Geneva, N. Y., after dismissing his physicians, tried nearly half a gross of the various blood and liver remedies advertised, with no benefit; when one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters cured him of paralysis and General Debility. At the advanced age of 60, he says he feels young again, and is overjoyed at his wonderful recovery. 3-2t.

When you feel that you really must "take something," said an enthusiastic temperance lecturer, "just take a walk."

A country newspaper tells this story of a new boy in one of the Sunday Schools: The precious youth was asked who made the beautiful hills about them, and replied that he did not know, as his parents had only moved into town the day before."

BRILLIANT SCIENTIFIC TRIUMPH.—Thousands cured of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma and lung disease by Dr. M. Souvielle's Spirometer, an instrument which conveys medical properties direct to the parts affected. These wonderful instruments are used in all first-class hospitals, and prescribed by leading physicians. Full directions for treatment sent by letter, and instruments expressed to any address. It is only since Souviele's invention that lung diseases are no longer feared until their very last stage. Write for particulars to M. Souvielle, ex-Aide Surgeon of the French Army, 13 Phillips Square, Montreal. All letters must contain stamp for reply 48-1y

SHE THOUGHT IT WAS JUST TOO LOVELY.

An Oil City young man was reading in the Derrick about recent doings in the Arctic regions, and his best girl was sitting near by, watching—the wagging of his moustache as the words rolled out. She was evidently more deeply absorbed in the moustache than in the story. He continued:

'She arrived at the mouth of the river Lena about three months ago. The Jeannette was crushed—'

'What?' quickly asked the girl, starting up.'

'Jeannette was crushed by—'

'Oh, but wasn't that just too lovely! Only think to be completely crushed!'

'What are you talking about dearest?' asked the young man in surprise.

'I was saying how grand it was to be crushed. Did you say it was Lena or Jeannette that was crushed?'

'Jeannette of course.'

'Oh, how I wish I had been the Jeannette's place.'

Then business necessitated turning down the gas, and the meeting closed the harmony.—Oil City Derrick.

D., well known in the eastern section of the county, has commenced the practice of his profession in this town, and has opened out an office on Hunter street, nearly opposite the "Oriental." Dr. O'Shea comes to town highly recommended, and we bespeak for him a share of public patronage.

ENTERTAINMENT AT BETHANY.—A dramatic and musical entertainment will be given in the Town Hall, Bethany, on Wednesday evening, February 1st, when a very interesting programme will be presented. McLean, Brayshaw & Co. have leased the building on Simcoe street, known as Helm's Foundry, and have added to the former plant new and improved machinery, and are now prepared to fill all orders which may be entrusted to them. The members of the firm are practical and competent workmen, well posted in their business, and will, no doubt, be able to give their patrons entire satisfaction.

DEBATING SOCIETY.—The regular meeting of the society was held last Monday, the President, Mr. Beck, in the chair. Three new members were added to the roll. A motion to hold meetings weekly was allowed to drop. Mr. A. E. Dixon and Mr. K. Snyder favored the members with excellent readings, after which a debate open to all the members of the society on the question, "Should compulsory voting be adopted," was held, Mr. F. W. Haultain leading the affirmative, and Mr. W. A. Stratton, the negative. The speeches on both sides were well prepared and were constitutional and practical. In support of the affirmative Messrs. Orr, Campbell, and Hatton assisted their leader; while Mr. F. A. Hilton supported the negative. The chairman, in summing up, expressed his difficulty in deciding, but on the arguments gave the decision to the negative.

Munro & Alexander will have the Nicest Millinery Room in Peterboro', when in their New Store. Mantles and Mantle-making will receive a very large share of their attention.

SOCIAL AND PRESENTATION.—One of those popular gatherings entitled Parlor Socials was held at the residence of Mr. James Wilson, Otonabee, on Wednesday, the 18th inst. The funds were in aid of St. Mark's Church, and a considerable number of the members with their friends were present. A sleigh load went down from Peterborough, and added greatly to the enjoyment of the evening by rendering songs, duets and readings all of which were heartily received. In addition to these performers, Mrs. Metcalf, Mrs. Scollie, Rev. C. H. Marsh, and Misses. Dixon, Moscrip and Wilson took part in the programme and met with fitting appreciation from those assembled. A pleasing feature of the entertainment was the presentation of a silver locket and chain to Miss Graystock, who for the past three or four years has acted as organist of St. Mark's church without fee or reward. Mr. Bradshaw, acting as chairman, in making the presentation, read the following address, prefacing it with a few words expressive of his own gratitude as Incumbent of the church.

DEAR MISS GRAYSTOCK,

The members of St. Mark's congregation and their friends take this opportunity of thanking you for your unwearied diligence and the zeal you have displayed in aiding in every way within your power the Church's work, and especially the musical part of the services. For some years past you have acted as organist undertaking the work as a labor of love and carrying it on steadily and heartily, thereby contributing not a little in making our service of praise what it should be, united, reverent and devout. As a slight token of our appreciation of and gratitude for your services we beg your acceptance of the accompanying locket and chain, trusting you may long be spared to continue your work as organist of St. Mark's Church Otonabee.

Signed on behalf of the congregation and others.

ANTHONY TAYLOR,
ROBERT SCOLLIE.
W. J. DIXON.

Votes of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Wilson for their kindness in granting the use of their house and their liberality in providing refreshments, brought the proceedings to a close.

ENNISMORE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The following is the address presented to Jeremiah McCarthy, Esq., ex-Reeve of Ennismore, as announced in last week's EXAMINER, but which was received too late for insertion. The address was read by Mr. M. Collins, and the watch presented by Mr. P. Killen:

ADDRESS.

To Jeremiah McCarthy, Esq., Reeve of Ennismore:—

DEAR SIR,—As your term of office as Reeve of Ennismore to-day expires, and you declined the honor of being again nominated, we, the ratepayers of Ennismore, cannot permit the present occasion to pass without manifesting our esteem for you, and expressing to you our entire satisfaction at the courteous and cheerful manner in which you have always discharged the onerous duties which you were called upon to perform as Reeve of our township. Your career during the last thirty years as a member of the Ennismore Council has been characterized by honesty, impartiality, and a strict adherence to the laws regulating the discharge of your duties. We know that you have performed the labors of your office according to the dictates of your own conscience, and we feel satisfied that your judgment has always accorded favorably with that of the great majority of the ratepayers. We have not been insensible of the rectitude with which you have watched over our interests as Reeve of our township, and as our representative in the County Council, and would request your acceptance of this small tribute as a token of the respect and esteem which we entertain for you personally, and we also request that you wear it as a memorial of the gratitude which we owe to one who has served us so long and faithfully.

Signed on behalf of the ratepayers and contributors.

P. KILLEN,	J. NUBSE.
M. COLLINS,	P. GALVIN.
J. N. TELFORD,	J. O'CONNOR.
C. O'CONNOR,	R. DAVIS.
P. COSGRIFF,	B. D. SULLIVAN.
M. CAVANAGH,	P. CROUGH.
E. CAREW,	P. L. SULLIVAN.

THE REPLY.

Mr. McCarthy, who was enthusiastically cheered on coming forward, said: Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I am at a loss for words adequate to express my heartfelt gratitude for the address just read, and for the beautiful watch and chain with which you have just presented me, and I can assure you that I will wear it close to my heart as long as I live, and leave it to those who come after me as a precious legacy. When, at the late election, I was honored with the confidence of the ratepayers by being placed at the head of the poll, I took occasion to express my hearty thanks for the honor conferred upon me. But whatever may have been my feelings of obligation then, I am now laid under still greater obligations for this latest honor. Since first elected to the Council of Ennismore, in 1852, it has been my aim to do my duty justly, fearlessly, and without affection. I cannot express my thanks in any more hearty manner than I have done; but I can say that I esteem and will ever consider my being placed at the head of the poll, in conjunction with this present, as the best and highest mark of consideration which I have ever received from the ratepayers of Ennismore, and I trust that it will act as a still greater incentive to me to prove faithful to the trust that has been committed to my care, and make me strive to co-operate all the more heartily with the members of the Council in advancing the interests of our township. In conclusion, I would say that I hope the present Reeve and Council may act so that, when the year, upon the threshold of which we are now standing, comes to an end, we may leave our places, feeling that we have worked honorably and well, and aided by our efforts the onward progress of our township, and contributed our share towards its improvement and better government.

THE WEATHER.—At sun rise on Monday, January 23, the thermometer was 26° below zero; at sun set 18° below zero. On Tuesday morning, January 24, at sun rise it was 33° below zero.

THE POULTRY EXHIBITION.

The Sixth Annual Exhibition of the Midland Central Poultry Association is being held this week, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and is one of the most successful exhibitions yet held by this association, and the members who have worked so assiduously to promote it are to be congratulated on the success which is awarding their efforts. THE MIDLAND SYSTEM.

Ottawa to be the Eastern Terminus of one of our Greatest Railways.

The History of a Great Enterprise—Ottawa to be the Depot for a Great Western Traffic—Bright Prospects for the Capital.

The question of a second through route from Ottawa to Quebec appears to be at last practically settled by the recent amalgamation scheme of the Midland Railway. As was stated in yesterday's Free Press the chief officers of that company are in the city, and have finally located their line to, and terminal facilities in, Ottawa, using jointly with the Canada Atlantic Railway Company, the the Stewarton property, recently acquired by the latter corporation for their Ottawa terminus. In addition to this they have arranged to erect a commodious Union Station on Elgin street, together with such other buildings, etc., as may be required to accommodate the immense traffic that it is anticipated the Midland Railroad will be able to send via Ottawa to the seaboard and to the Eastern States of the American Union.

HISTORY OF THE SCHEME.

To a great many of our readers the name of the Midland Railway is scarcely known, but as it is in the near future likely to largely increase the business of this city, we give a brief sketch of the history of this road from its inception up to the present moment. As early as 1856 the Midland Railway was built between Port Hope and Lindsay to accomodate trade of what was then the pine supplying district of that region. A few years later a branch was extended to Peterborough, and shortly after this the main line was extended from Lindsay to Beaverton, on Lake Simcoe. Here the enterprise hung fire, but the traffic on the road was enormous, as the entire region was covered with excellent pine lumber, large quantities of which were being manufactured and shipped. About the year 1875 the proprietors of the road decided to extend their line to Midland City, on the Georgian Bay, and operations with that object in view were commenced accordingly.

UNDER A CLOUD.

Owing, however, to the depression in trade the management got into difficulties, and were unable to complete the line beyond Waubaushene. The depression in trade continued and the company became gradually involved in financial difficulties, which culminated in the winter of 1878-79, when it looked as if the concern would have to be wound up in bankruptcy. Fortunately, however, there was one man who had faith and confidence in the earning power of the Midland Railway. He had sufficient enterprise to advance the necessary money to relieve the company of its most pressing difficulties, and also to enable it once more to renew its traffic service, which had come to a standstill, as at that time the whole of the employees of the road, after repeated strikes, had finally resolved to work no longer unless there was a change in the management made by which they would be guaranteed their wages. The tradesmen, also, who supplied material for the company had come to a similar decision months before.

BRIGHTER DAYS.

The man who came to the front at this critical period was Mr. Geo. A. Cox. He advanced large sums out of his own personal means, and inspired renewed confidence in the hearts of all connected with the road. From the summer of 1879 up to the present date, under his able management the Midland Railway has gone on steadily improving, until its traffic receipts have more than doubled in that short period. Mr. Cox grasped the fact that reckless competition meant ruin, both to the company and to the public, in whose interests the railway was built. Shortly after he had placed the Midland Railway in reasonably good order, which at that time was a task of no small difficulty, he looked around him for the best means of cutting off competition, while at the same time continuing to adhere to the policy he had enunciated, and under which the interests of the shippers and manufacturers along the line of the road were considered to be identical with those of the company he represented. His first important act in this direction was the arrangement of

A POOLING SCHEME

with the Whitby, Port Perry and Lindsay Railroad, a line which had been in direct antagonism to his own, the result of which was unsettled rates and very poor service on the part of either company. This arrangement being effected, and being found to the great surprise of many shippers to operate to their benefit, Mr. Cox then took up the larger and more important scheme which will now unite Toronto and Ottawa by a direct route—that is the amalgamation of the following companies into one system under the name of the Midland Railway of Canada: Midland Railway proper, 142 miles in length; Toronto and Nipissing, 115 miles; Victoria Railway, 56 miles; Whitby, Port Perry and Lindsay Railway, 46 miles; Grand Junction Railway, 91 miles; Toronto and Ottawa Railway, 114 miles.

A BIG SCHEME.

His first step was to secure the Grand Junction Railway, and the move having been effected, he was enabled to make a financial arrangement under which the other companies named were brought into the amalgamated system upon terms which were satisfactory to the original proprietors, and which are likely to be of great benefit to the central district of Ontario. In the past the companies named above were under separate management, and operated independently, so that in shipping freight, say from Toronto to Haliburton, a merchant had to pay first a local freight rate to the Toronto and Nipissing Railway; then a local freight rate to the Midland Railway, and again another freight rate to the Victoria Railway; whereas they now have only to pay one freight rate between the two points mentioned. This is based upon and every one familiar with freight rates is perfectly well aware that the larger the haul on one system of railways, the smaller the rate is per mile in proportion to the distances. These remarks will apply equally well to Ottawa, when the Midland Railway reaches our system as we should then only have one company to deal with between this city and Toronto. In addition to being placed in direct communication with the important centres of population now secured by the Midland Railway, we may confidently anticipate that Ottawa will be able to obtain a fair share of the business of such points as Peterborough, Lindsay, Uxbridge, Orillia, Waubashene, Millbrook, Port Hope, Whitby, Belleville, etc., which has hitherto had necessarily to be transacted at Toronto owing to the direct communication which that city had with these points.

FACILITIES FOR WESTERN TRADE.

The Midland Railway has its terminus on Georgian Bay, at Midland City, what is admitted one of the best harbors in Canadian waters, and fully equal to that of Halifax. They have erected there one of the largest elevators in the country, and have ample wharves and shipping accommodations. They have established a line of steamers to ply between Midland, Prince Arthur's Landing and Duluth, and also a second line to ply between Chicago, Milwaukee and Midland. These steamers will form a chain of communication for the enormous traffic which will be poured from the west to the east their share of which will be simply limited by the quantity they are able to accommodate. As the Midland Railway Company will undoubtedly carry this traffic on their own rails as far as possible it is certain that the whole of this business will be brought to Ottawa for transhipment to the Canada Atlantic Railway under the arrangements which were consummated yesterday.

A NORTH-WEST CONNECTION.

In addition to the sources of trade spoken of above, Mr. Cox, Messrs. Gooderham and Jaffray, and the other proprietors of the Midland Railway are virtually the promoters of the Ontario and Sault Ste. Marie Railway, and they intend to build a line from some point on the northern end of the Midland system to the Sault Ste. Marie and thence to connect with the Northern Pacific Railway for Manitoba and the vast grain fields of the North-West. Arrangements are already being made with the Northern Pacific Railway to extend their line so as to meet the Midland system at Sault Ste. Marie, and a charter for a company to construct a bridge over the river at that point has been applied for. The Sault Ste. Marie Railway will be about 425 miles in length and will run through the best lumber district now retained by Canada, and a district which is abundantly supplied with mines of iron and copper of the first quality. The whole of this traffic will seek an outlet in the east, and will, thefore, necessarily come to Ottawa to be distributed via the Canada Atlantic Railway, which will convey it to the seaboard and various eastern points. From the above it will be seen that we shall have at this city the eastern terminus of a railway of about a thousand miles in extent, passing through the heart of Ontario, and draining the very finest agricultural, mining and lumbering regions. We are having prepared a map of the Midland and Sault Ste. Marie lines which we will present to our readers at an early date, when we will also give some more detailed particulars as to the sources and classes of trade which will be transacted on them, and how they will be likely to effect this city. Free Press, Jan. 26.

Munro & Alexander will have the Nicest Millinery Room in Peterboro' when in their New Store. Mantles and Mantle-making will receive a very large share of their attention.

OUR TORONTO LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

TORONTO, Jan. 31st.

THE DEBATE ON THE ADDRESS.

The longest debate which has ever taken place in the Ontario Assembly came to a close on Friday evening. The usual course now-a-days is to get the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne disposed of as quietly as possible, in order that the regular work of the session may be begun. This year the Opposition foolishly departed from that sensible practice and they have suffered accordingly. Having so bad a case as they had on the Boundary Award and the Streams Bill, it was in an unusual degree unwise in them to keep up an argument on them for two weeks; for the more either of these matters is discussed the more clearly the people will see that Sir John Macdonald has been guilty of an invasion of Provincial rights and the more certain the Opposition here are to suffer for what he has done.

THE SESSION

bid fair, with the two weeks spent on the address, to be a tolerably long one. There will be little but routine for the first half of the present week, and it will probably be eight or ten days before the Treasurer will deliver his budget. The Streams Bill is sure to be discussed at some length when it is again introduced, and there is certain to be another debate or two on the Boundary Award. As the Dominion Parliament meets in about ten days the sessions will be found overlapping almost throughout.

RAILWAY MATTERS.

The interest taken in railway plans and combinations is just as keen as ever. The Syndicate have declared that they have no interest in any enterprise but their main line. This does not alter the fact, however, that members of the Syndicate are largely interested in the Credit Valley and the Ontario and Quebec, and people very naturally regard them as Syndicate lines. They are, of course, in opposition to the Grand Trunk and, therefore, the building of the Ontario and Quebec is looked upon here as a great boon. The Midland combination is favourably regarded, chiefly, because it is thought to be essential as a basis on which to erect the Ontario Sault scheme, and because the latter is a very popular project

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

The failure of the grand jury to return a true bill in the criminal libel prosecution of Mr. James French by ex-Ald. Baxter, is a heavy blow to "ward bossism." The statements made against Baxter by French were of the most truculent kind and they will now be repeated and "rubbed in" at every opportunity. The new Council bids fair to play the part of a new broom and there is plenty of room for a steady display of energy during the whole year.

BEREAVEMENT.

We regret to have to announce the death of Mrs. John Isbister. She retired a few evenings since in good health and spirits, but about an hour after, awoke her husband and informed him she was faint. Medical aid was at once called in, and in turn consultations sought, but all of no avail, as she continued to sink, and died on Monday morning. Mr. Isbister has the sympathy of not only the village, but also of the surrounding country, as was shown by the large number who turned out to the funeral on Wednesday.

THAT BACK COUNTRY MURDER.

You will have noticed in the daily Globe and Mail, of Tuesday, that the same story, with slight variations, viz: that the body was found in a pork barrel in place of under a brush heap, was telegraphed from Ottawa. Some person must be in a position to affirm or deny the truth of the statement, and it is strange that Messrs. Gilmour or their manager does not do so, as they must have seen the printed reports.

LAKEFIELD BRIDGE.

After to-day (Wednesday) all traffic will be suspended over the Lakefield Bridge for about three weeks. A scow has been prepared by Mr. Wynne, and will be under the charge of careful men, who will take all teams, &c., across when required, free of charge, from daylight until 10 p.m. every day. The scow is large and safe, so that no one need be afraid to use that means of conveyance.

OTONABEE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the Otonabee Agricultural Society was held at Keene, on Thursday the 19th inst. The financial report places the society in a healthy condition. A motion was passed to the effect that those desiring to become members must do so before the first of August, if they wish to join at the rate of $1.00 a year, as after that date the secretary was instructed to collect $2.00 as membership fee. After other routine business the election of officers took place, resulting as follows:—President, W. Armstrong; Vice-Presinent, A. Gillespie; Secretary, J. M. Drummond; Treasurer, Geo. Read. Directors, Thos. Blezard, M.P.P., H. Nelson, J. A. Bennett, A. Nelson, A. Matchett, D. Moore, W. Drummond, W. J. Millar, Thos. Thompson. Auditors, Jas. Stewart and W. Laing. Com.

FOURTH LINE, SMITH.

TEMPLE. Election of Officers took place on Friday and their names are as follows: Thomas Young, W.C.T.; Mary Maggie Young, W.V; Donald Alf. Kidd, W.S.; James Bowie, W.F.S.; Jennie McEwan, W.T.; William Graham, W.C.; Israel Scott, W.M.; Bessie Paul, W.D.M.; Eliza Scott, W.I.G.; Robert Bell, W.O.G.; Mary Scott, R.H.S.; Jane Archer, L.H.S.; Isaac Archer, W.A.S.

MARMORA CIRCUIT.

A few days ago the friends of the Methodist Church of Canada, worshipping at the Springbrook appointment, held a meeting and unanimously agreed to proceed during the approaching summer to build a church at the said appointment. The site was chosen and in a few minutes $500 was subscribed. It is proposed to build it of brick at a probable cost of $1,500.

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 2, 1882.

Free Libraries.

We have been furnished with a draft Bill relating to the establishment of Free Public Libraries, which is shortly to come before the Ontario Parliament, and which was briefly alluded to in the Speech from the Throne. The originator of this Act is Ald. Hallam, of Toronto, who has given much time and labor to the consideration of the question, and who, for some time past, has kept it well before the public through the press. It need hardly be said that such libraries already exist in England, and are supported there by means of a small tax levied on all ratepayers. The first movement in this direction in Britain was made by Wm. Ewart, in 1849, who, after much opposition, succeeded in getting a Select Committee of the House of Commons to enquire into the then existing state of public libraries. Upon their exhaustive report an Act was based in the year 1850, and Manchester was the first town in the United Kingdom to establish a free library under its provisions. It, however, was quickly followed by others, until now, scarcely a town of any importance exists which has not availed itself of the privilege. It should be explained that the Imperial Act is permissive, and the rate must not exceed a penny in the pound.

A glance at the extent of a few of these public libraries in Britain will give the best idea of their utility and importance as public educators, and of the advantages which accrue through their establishment and use. Birmingham has at present 86,000 volumes, though a fire created sad havoc there in January, 1879. The monthly average of volumes lent out is 35,000, and the number consulted for purely reference purposes is on the average 21,600 per month. The expenditure, met by the rate above mentioned, is about $30,000 annually, and this supports the library and also meets the original capital cost. Manchester has an immense library, with seven divisions, and containing, like nearly all the others, a large number of purely reference volumes. The total number of books is 147,631, while over 70,000 are lent out every month. The cost of the newspapers, magazines, etc., in the reading-room department, alone is about $3,000 annually. Bradford has about 30,000 volumes, situated in different parts of the town for the better convenience of the inhabitants. In 1880, the issues were 1,081,871, and the cost of new books and annual maintenance is about $15,000. In Liverpool, the history of the institution has been one of continual progress. The average daily consultation in the reference department is over 2,000. Over 400,000 books are lent annually, besides magazines and weekly periodicals, the last alone averaging 760 per day.

We can hardly estimate the value and importance of such institutions, and the vast improvement they are calculated to make, not only in the mental culture of the citizens, but in their moral and social standing. Free reading-rooms like these are the best kind of counter attractions to the billiard rooms and saloons. Every good book put into the hands of a man is a powerful lever to elevate him to a higher condition of life, and to enable him to measure more accurately what should be life's aim and object. Without the free public library the rate-supported school system is incomplete. To crown our excellent method of education for the poor as well as the rich, we only want the library, supported like the school, by a uniform tax. Our young men are only beginning to learn, only realizing the benefits of education, when school has to be given up. What methods of self-improvement and advancement are then put within their reach? They may graduate in the bar-room or on the street, but an enlightened and progressive government should be willing to supply them with other and higher means of culture and progression. It has been truly said that "the foundation of a public library has in all ages of the world constituted a claim on the grateful remembrance of posterity, and added distinction to the place in which it has been established." We therefore trust that the Bill which Mr. Hallam has introduced, and which in its main features closely resembles the English Act, may not only become law, but that its provisions may be speedily brought into operation throughout Ontario.

It provides that the Council of every city, town and incorporated village in Ontario shall, on a requisition signed by not less than one hundred ratepayers in cities, sixty in towns and thirty in villages, by resolution, empower and direct the Mayor or Reeve to issue a proclamation convening a public meeting, in order to determine whether or not this Act shall be adopted. The matter may also be settled by ballot by the ratepayers of any such municipality. The Board of Management shall consist of the Mayor or Reeve, the Chairman of the Board of School Trustees, and seven members, who shall be appointed by the Council and by the School Boards. The rate of assessment permitted by the Act is not to exceed one-half of a mill in the dollar. Such are the chief outlines of a Bill which has the merit of simplicity and comprehensiveness, and which, if it pass into operation is destined to become a great boon to the working classes, especially in villages, where it has been found impossible to establish Mechanics' Institutes, and in cities, where only a small minority can meet the annual cost of membership in these, otherwise, excellent institutions.

Postage on Newspapers.

An article in the EXAMINER on cheaper postage, very recently, has attracted some attention, and the press generally are moving for modifications in the existing law, especially as regards newspaper postage. It cannot be denied that publishers of papers throughout the length and breadth of Canada feel the injustice of the taxes unfairly laid upon them, and it need not be wondered at, if they press strongly for its removal. It is, perhaps, our loudest boast that we are fast becoming a newspaper-loving people. The aggregate circulation of the Dominion newspapers is, perhaps, the greatest in the world in proportion to our population. Not only is the school master abroad, but so is the newspaper. All lovers of our country must rejoice at every method which is adopted to advance the intelligence and raise the educational status of Canadians. Newspapers are well calculated to do this. They are excellent educators and by the thinking public are highly recommended as such—not for the family, merely, but in the school. The day is not far distant when they may take the place of readers in our schools. In the hands of an intelligent teacher they could thus be utilized with the best possible results. As it is, they are excellent public educators, and a tax upon them is unquestionably a tax on knowledge. Published as they are at an exceedingly low rate, and depending upon support not so much on their subscribers as their advertisers, it is unjust and unfair that publishers and printers should be compelled to bear the burden and cost of their circulation without recompense and without honor or reward. Let the government shoulder the burden, and no longer interpose this obstacle in the way of the free and ready circulation of these heralds of knowledge. Let justice be done to the poor printer, and then those in authority can claim the honor of making a progressive step, and one which will produce incalculable good and be the redressal of a grievous wrong. We call upon our confreres to press this question on the authorities, and to persistently agitate until their wishes are carried out. We believe if this be done unitedly, and with a will, the abolition of newspaper postage will soon prove an accomplished fact, and the printers will be relieved from an unjustifiable and grievous burden.

Every one who wants a large selection of the Newest Goods, and appreciates Low Prices, will call on Munro & Alexander—when they are in their New Store. Their stock in the Spring will be magnificent.

Editorial Notes.

THE debate on the address was this year of universal length, mainly on account of the mention of two somewhat exciting topics in the speech from the throne. With the disallowance of the Streams Act, we have dealt elsewhere at length. The other question is the refusal of the Dominion Government to ratify the Ontario boundary award. As time passes the value of the territory of which we are thus deprived becomes more clearly apparent. The timber alone is worth many millions of dollars and the limits would sell high at auction. There is no reason why this Province should be deprived of that source of revenue in order that the Syndicate or Sir John's personal friends may get the privilege for nothing. The Mowat Government sell no berths except to the highest bidder at public auction, while the Dominion Government give them to political friends by secret compact. We hope to see Mr. Mowat send bush rangers at once into the disputed territory and put a stop to all trespassing on the land awarded to Ontario under the arbitration. There is a stipendiary magistrate already in the district and we have no doubt that he is willing to enforce the law if he is only put into a position to do so. The popularity of the Government at the next election will defend very largely on their promptitude and energy in ousting trespassers now.

LETTER FROM PETERBOROUGH.

We have been requested to insert the following communication which has appeared in the Irish Canadian, under the above heading—

To the Editor of the Irish Canadian:

DEAR SIR—There appeared in the editorial columns of your paper of last week an article entitled "A Good Example." Evidently the knowledge of the event which prompted you to publish such an article was derived from the Conservative local organ of the district, the Peterborough Review.

The bare fact of a Catholic becoming the champion of an Orange Master, in endeavoring to secure for him an office of honorable trust, might be considered scarcely deserving of newspaper comment. There are cases, undoubtedly, when such an act would well merit public notice; but whether such notice should be attracted by terms of praise or censure would of course depend on the circumstances of each case. To many of Mr. Cahill's friends, who are as intimately acquainted with the circumstances of Mr. Weir's appointment to the High School Trusteeship as the Editor of the Peterborough Review is, it seems that Mr. Cahill's conduct in that affair would not have lost any of its merit by the omission of the Review to parade it in public.

When a man is complimented for performing a duty, uninfluenced by religious prejudice, it should be known whether he is above or beneath acting according to such prejudice. He may eschew bigotry, either because of its wrongfulness or because it is inexpedient; but a man should avoid being a bigot without sacrificing his liberality to the bigotry of another; and he should as cordially despise fanaticism in others as in himself. It is wrong for one to permit himself to be actuated by unjust prejudices, and as equally culpable to afford opportunities to others to practice their illiberal principles. The accessory is often as guilty as the principal. There are occasions when a citizen, in discharging a public duty, in order to act justly among his fellow men must ignore all differences of creed. He should then not only be unmindful of his own religious persuasion, but should also be careful not to discriminate between those of others. For instance, when a Catholic occupies a position wherein it becomes his duty to aid in the appointment of a person to a public office, the duties of which in no way concern religion, he should neither select a catholic if unworthy, nor make the criterion of fitness for office the possession of the most rabidly-intolerant, anti-Catholic opinions. If there are many men more capable of fulfilling the duties of a vacant office than the Master of an Orange Lodge, it is difficult to understand why the latter should be preferred to the others.

In regard to the appointment of Mr. Weir, to fully appreciate Mr. Cahill's action the whole matter should be thoroughly understood. A Catholic has never been chosen in our town to fill the position of a High School Trustee. During last year, when the appointment of trustees was under discussion at the Town Council Board, Mr. Cahill proclaimed in unmistakeable language his intention to nominate a Catholic for the trusteeship when the next vacancy would occur. When the desired occasion arrived Mr. Cahill failed to nominate a Catholic, but instead came forward as the right-hand man of one of the most foremost of Orangemen in the county. Why? On quiet inquiry Mr. Cahill discovered that his intended Catholic nominee was very unacceptable to certain leading Tories; and that if he dared to bring such Catholic forward as a candidate, he would not only incur upon himself the displeasure of an influential Tory, but his action might also damage the future political an municipal prospects of his bosom friend, Mr. Mayor Smith. And Mr. Cahill would, of course, on no account put in jeopardy the position or influence of his fellow-political intriguer. Mr. Cahill then, to show that he could be all things to all men, was not content with surrendering up the chances of the gentleman whom he had publicly promised to support and remaining silent to abide the issue of events, but boldly thrust himself to the other extreme. He flung himself into the sanctified embrace of his political accomplice, who, by the way, is the Chaplain of an Orange lodge, and consigned to that exemplary individual his power and influence. Then it was that Mayor Smith conceived the scheme to bring into prominence his brother Orangeman, Mr. Weir. While Mr. Cahill canvassed the members of the Council for the Orange Master, Mayor Smith undertook the pious duty of persuading Mr. Weir to submit to the public indignity of being nominated by a Catholic. Mr. Weir yielded to the intercession of the Chaplain, and was duly elected a trustee of the High School as the representative of the Catholic ratepayers. The magnanimous liberality of Mr. Cahill became the admiration of his Tory friends and the theme of eulogy in the Tory press.

If Mr. Weir possessed any qualities which would peculiarly fit him for the office of High School trustee there would be no surprise that such an honor should be thrust upon him without his seeking for it; but he has never exhibited the least public interest in the management of the High Schools; and there were many men willing to accept the position who, both by education and experience, were pre-eminently more worthy to be appointed than Mr. Weir.

To those who know the spirit of intrigue with which Messrs. Smith and Cahill manœuvre affairs to their own purpose, one sentence in your article appeared singularly apt. When you said: "Our chief fault with the Orangemen is that they permit themselves to be used by demagogues and office-seekers," it would seem that you made a covert allusion to the manner in which Mr. Weir obtained his appointment.

A reply from Mr. Cahill might disclose to liberal-minded Protestants how genuine his action was in the appointment of Mr. Weir. He will then inform the public, as he already has informed private individuals, that the reason he proposed Mr. Weir for the trusteeship was because of that gentleman's uncompromising bigotry. He will then expose what part the Chaplain of the Orange lodge acted to induce Mr. Weir to accept the nomination. He will then also divulge to the Catholic ratepayers who were the Town Councillors who refused their support to his intended Catholic nominee; and whether he canvassed the Councillors as zealously for his co-religionist as he did for the Orange Master. After he performs this disagreeable duty he will deserve a panegyric from his friends of the Tory press.

Yours, &c., M. D.

GUITEAU FOUND GUILTY.

At Washington on Wednesday one of the most memorable trials on record was brought to what the world will recognize as a fitting conclusion with a just verdict of guilty against Charles J. Guiteau for the murder of President Garfield. The trial has been long, and the manner in which it has been conducted has caused much criticism, perhaps as emotional in its nature as the criminal claimed his crime to have been. The circumstances were such as to demand that every latitude be given to the prisoner, who it must be remembered was not only by public opinion believed to be a crank, but was acting as his own counsel and was besides being tried for his life, in which latter situation it is a traditional and worthy custom to afford every latitude to the prisoner. That men being tried for their lives are not as a rule demonstrative is because they are generally too deeply impressed with the solemnity of the occasion or are too thoroughly insane to be able to comprehend the peril in which they are placed. We may be very sure that with the eyes of the world upon him such an able man as Judge Cox would not have permitted his court to be turned into a bear garden had he been able to prevent it, and still have preserved for the accused that liberty of defence which was what remained to him of the liberty of the subject as he stood in the dock. The conduct of the case on both sides has been singularly able. Scoville, the brother-in-law of the criminal, did his share of the work of defence with unexpected ability, but the case he had to plead was hopeless. It did not need Judge Porter's power of denunciation to put the rope round Guiteau's neck, though his fiery speech at the end of the trial made a conviction doubly sure. By the mere fact of the jury remaining out less than an hour we may be very sure that they had thoroughly canvassed all the evidence and digested the speeches as the trial proceeded, arriving at a conclusion which was unanimous. This trial should destroy the plea of "transitory insanity" in murder trials, which might become dangerous to the welfare of the people, inasmuch as it is a plea which could be advanced in any murder trial, and be equally applicable to criminals, be their mental antecedents what they might.

COQUETTE.

"Coquette," my love they sometimes call,
For she is light of limb and heart;
What though she smile alike on all,
Is in her smiles she knows no art!

Like some glad brook she seems to be,
That ripples o'er its pebbly bed,
And prattles to each flower or tree,
Which stoops to kiss it, overhead.

Beneath the heavens' white and blue
It purls and sings and laughs and leaps,
The sunny meadows dancing through
O'er noisy shoals and frothy steeps.

'Tis thus the world doth see the brook,
But I have seen it otherwise,
When following it to some far nook
Where leafy shields shuts out the skies.

And there its waters rest, subdued,
In shadowy pools, serene and shy,
Wherein grave thoughts and fancies brood
And tender dreams and longing lie.

I love it when it laughs and leaps,
But love it better when at rest—,
'Tis only in its tranquil deeps
I see my image in its breast!

THE JANUARY CENTURY.

A PETERBOROUGH MAN JAILED FOR SMUGGLING.

From the Bradford, Pa. Era of the 18th of January, we clip the following. The persons implicated are well known here where they resided for years:—

Yesterday a case which has been patiently worked up for some time culminated in an arrest and the consequent exposure of a systematic scheme to defraud the Custom House. A Canadian farmer named Wm. J. Barrie, living near Peterborough in the Queen's Dominion, was the owner of two teams of horses and wagons, which he concluded to bring to the oil regions in the hope of finding plenty of work. Knowing that the laws of the United States would only admit free of duty one team for each immigrant, Barrie, in order to save an honest penny, induced his teamster, Robert T. Maicey, to go to the Custom House at Charlotte, N. Y., the port of landing for steamers from Port Hope, and swear that he was the owner of one of the teams and had owned and used them in Canada, whereupon they were admitted free of duty. Then the parties came to the Northern oil field, feeling secure and rather chuckling over the cute trick they had played on the customs officers. Through secret agents in the employ of the government purchases made in foreign countries and brought into the United States are pretty certain to be found out sooner or later and reported to the Treasury Department, where they are referred to the special agents for investigation. In this case information concerning the evasion of the customs was made in a letter to Mr. Galusha, custom house officer at Charlotte, exposing the whole affair, and bearing the signature, "Peter White, Bradford." In due time the letter was turned over to Dr. Heichold, who came to this city and trusted the details of "working up" the case to Detective B. J. Wilmoth. Knowing that a young man in the employ of the Corbett Sand Reel Co., named Norton Toole had come from the part of Canada from which the two suspected men hailed, the detective learned from him that Maicey lived in the city, and going to the house found Mrs. M. at home. She identified the Peter White letter as being in the hand-writing of Toole, who it seems, was on bad terms with Maicey, and said that she had posted it. At Mr. Wilmoth's solicitation she wrote a letter to her husband then in Richburg, telling him to come home as she was sick. As he did not come, the detective found it convenient to make a trip over there, found his man, and reiterated the message of Mrs M. Upon learning that Maicey had no money, the detective paid his fare to this city, where having him safe in his clutches he advised the man to make a clean breast of it. Upon being confronted with the proofs, Maicey made an affidavit before U. S. Commissioner Berry Thursday night, to the effect that he had sworn falsely at the Custom House that the team in question was his own, and that he had fraudulently signed the name of Robert Thomas to the papers.

It was then learned that Barrie had taken away the team from his man, who had thus perjured himself for his employer's sake, the teamster failing to perceive the manifest power he held over Barrie. With his two teams the latter went to Ridgeway in search of work, and from there was traced to the construction gang now working on the railroad extension near the big bridge at Alton. Yesterday morning Mr. Wilmoth drove to a railroad hotel known as the Forest House, some distance below Alton, found his man, and returned to Bradford in triumph yesterday afternoon, bringing his prisoner and team of smuggled horses. Barrie was put in the lockup, and will this morning be taken to Albany, where he will plead guilty and throw himself on the mercy of the United States District Court there in session. He intimated his willingness to do this rather than be examined before the United States Commissioner, as he, being a stranger, would be unable to procure bail. The team and wagon are confiscated and will be sold.. In all probability Maicey will be detained as a witness on the part of the government.

Barrie has since been released on bail, and Sheriff Hall has received notification from the authorities that they have taken from him a set of harness and a buffalo robe, which were stolen here last fall.

COUNCIL MEETING:—The members of Council for 1882 met at Town and Agricultoral Hall at 11 a.m., January 6th, when Arch. R. Kidd, Esq., as Reeve, and Messrs. David Drain, David Kelly, Geo. Kirk and Jacob White, as Councillors, made and subscribed the statutory declarations of office and qualification before the Clerk, and organized as Council. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Mr. Robb's report of timber sold off roads received and filed. On motion about four cords of wood belonging to Council were sold to Rev. Mr. Fox for $6. The Clerk was instructed to notify the Collector to abate $3.68 as arrears of taxes to Mrs. Jas. Calder, the owner, Mr. McCue having paid $5.03, the Council abating the interest, $1.65. A statute labor tax of $2 was abated to Elias Cross, jr., on certificate of Matthew Sedgwick that the work was done. The Clerk was instructed to notify the County Treasurer to withdraw part S. W. ¼ lot 2, con. 10, from sale of lands for taxes. A statute labor tax of $2 was abated to Collector for Alex. Ferguson, jun. On motion Wm. Snelgrove was appointed Auditor. The Reeve nominated John Wason, jun., as associate Auditor. On motion James Robb was appointed Assessor. Orders granted:—James Robb, as Wood Ranger for 1881, $3.00; F. W. Wilkins, balance of surveying account, $4.13; J. R. Stratton, for printing blanks, &c., $30.00; Richard Nicholl, Deputy Returning Officer, $3.00; John G. Speer, do., $3.00; Thomas Campbell, do., $3.00; William F. Darling, do., $3.00; John Elliott, use of house for election, $2.00. By-laws passed: One re-enacted to confirm the sale of part of the 5th Concession line, and one to appoint Auditors and Assessor. Council adjourned to meet in Warsaw on 10th February next.

VITAL STATISTICS as registered for Dummer for 1881:—Births, 34; Marriages, 8; Deaths, 19.

THE ONTARIO BANK.

Our readers will be pleased to learn the result of the meeting for the election of directors of the Ontario Bank, has resulted in the re-election of Sir Wm. P. Howland as President, and Lieutenant-Col. Gzowski as Vice-President. The Hon. Mr. Simpson and Mr. Nicholls, of the late Board, declined re-election, and the Hon. C. F. Fraser and Mr. C. A. Massey were chosen to fill their places. The Board, as constituted, is a very strong one, and with the aid of Charles Holland, Esq., the new General Manager, the Bank has a very promising future before it. The shareholders who desired the permanent prosperity of the institution, voted in a body for the present Board.

In the course of his speech at the adjourned meeting of the shareholders, Sir W. P. Howland said:—"Before placing in your hands the resignation of myself and co-directors, I desire to read to the meeting two letters addressed myself. The first is from Mr. R. Nicholls, of Peterborough, who writes:—

'DEAR SIR,—Having heretofore intimated to you my desire to retire from the Board, in consequence of ill-health and long absence from home, be good enough to do me the favor of omitting my name from the list proposed for the new Board as candidates for re-election, and oblige.'

In connection with this I desire to state that Mr. Nicholls is kind enough to say that he will be quite willing to give his valuable advice to the new Board, as a local director at Peterborough. It would be an inconvenience to him in his state of health to come up here and attend the meetings of the Board, and the desire on his part to reside for a portion of the year in a milder climate than we possess, causes him to decline being a candidate for re-election; but to whoever may succeed us, I may say that Mr. Nicholls' thorough knowledge of the business in the locality mentioned is extremely valuable to the bank, the business of which is very large and very important in his neighborhood. It is very desirable to have the advantage of Mr. Nicholls' long experience and sound judgment, and I hope, sir, that he will consent to act in that capacity."

THE CANADA PACIFIC RAILWAY.

The Canada Pacific syndicate are pushing forward their work with commendable energy. As many erroneous statements were current with reference to their doings and intentions, they have issued an official circular with a view of setting all speculation at rest. They expect to lay 500 miles of the main line west of Winnipeg this year, and also to complete the Pembina Mountain branch. Work on the Rocky Mountain passes will be commenced from east and west in 1883. Work will be prosecuted at various points between Callander and Thunder Bay, so as to complete this portion of the line in five years if possible. The Sault Ste. Marie branch will be got into running order without delay. The Thunder Bay section west will be equipped and worked as soon as completed. The Syndicate will own no railways east or south of Montreal, or west of Perth. This means that no attempt will be made to direct traffic to Portland or Boston, nor will the Syndicate construct the Ontario & Quebec line from Ottawa to Toronto, nor own the Credit Valley and the Occidental.

MANITOBA SPEAKS OUT.

The Winnipeg Free Press says: "It may as well be understood first as last that, if the Parliament of Canada will not uphold the rights of our Province, those rights will be maintained at any cost by our people. A monopoly will not be submitted to, and every attempt of the Monopoly Government to enforce its improper purposes will be counteracted by the energetic and determined resistance of the people of Manitoba. We are voicing the feeling of the Province when we speak in this way" The Legislature will pass another Act granting a charter to the Winnipeg and South-Eastern Company. What then? Will disallowance be repeated? And if disallowance should again ensue, would in not be the duty of the Winnipeg and South-Eastern Company, chartered by the Manitoba Legislature, to build their line at any rate? Manitoba can no longer submit to unjust dictation about her local affairs from people, who are two thousand miles away."

And the Globe, speaking the undoubted sentiments of the great bulk of the people of Ontario—and of all who place Provincial rights before party servility—adds:

The Manitobians may rest assurred that the "people two thousand miles away" who sympathise with the gross outrage on the Prairie Province are nearly all in Sir John Macdonald's Cabinet. In struggling for her constitutional rights Manitoba will fight the battle of all the Provinces and have their hearty good-will. The continuance of the monopoly which the South-Eastern Railway would somewhat weaken is no less opposed to the general interest and wish than to the interest and wish of Manitoba.

FARM NOTES.

Sunflower seeds, fed in small quantities, impart a beautiful gloss to the plumage of poultry.

Remember this, that apples keep better in damp, moist cellars, than in dry ones. In the latter they become dry and shriveled; in the former plump and juicy.

Keep the fowls warm and dry, feed some warm food and give them a variety of it. Take out all the old hens and keep only young ones, and the egg basket will be well filled, even at this season.

A correspondent of the Scientific American reports success in growing potatoes on the top of the ground, in rows two feet to three feet apart, covered with sawdust six to twelve inches thick.

A veterinary writer condemns high mangers for horses, claiming that they irritate the throat and create a tendency to heaves. He says the manger should be on a level with the feet, as that is in accordance with nature.

The weight of hens eggs ranges from fifteen to twenty-four ounces per dozen. A weight of twenty-two and one-half ounces may be taken as a fair average for good-sized eggs, although a weight of near four ounces is not unknown for single specimens of eggs.

Stable manure is preferable to any other fertiliser. No farmer can afford to waste his manure. All of it should be saved and utilised. In many cases farming would be more profitable if less land was cultivated with higher fertilization. One acre highly manured should pay better than three but half manured and half cultivated.

It is the opinion of many that a fowl fattened quickly will make a far more juicy and toothsome meal than a chick. One thing is certain, a three-year-old fowl will make much better broth for an invalid than a six months' chicken.

Pigs thrive so much better when kept clean and comfortable, that it is surprising any farmer should let them wallow in filth. A dry, warm bed, with the same food, will add one-half more weight to a pig over and above one that is kept in filth and wretchedness.

According to Dr. von Liebenburg, all air dry soils, at the same temperature, radiate heat equally. He insists strongly on the injurious effect of any agency that lowers the temperature of the ground in spring, as that will certainly influence the quantity and quality of the crop.

Design and Work says that grease for belts, which renders them more adhesive and more durable, can be obtained by mixing oil of rosin with 10 per cent talc. The grease is spread on the belt with a brush several times, or until the leather will not absorb any more. The operation is repeated after some weeks, a smaller quantity of grease being used. The belts acquire more flexibility and resistance, adhere better to the drums and do not slip. The greasing is only required every few months.

Potato culture is reviving in every part of the United States. In Ireland the acreage has risen since 1880 from 823,000 to 854,000, notwithstanding the increase in beans, rye, oats and peas. In Scotland there was also an increase, though not large. In England 23,000 additional acres were put under this crop. Wales, this summer, had 42,400 acres devoted to the potato, against 39,000 acres in the preceding year. The total increase is put down by some agricultural statisticians at 60,000 acres.

The composition of buckwheat has been examined by M. G. Lechartier. He states that the proportion of mineral matter in the straw increases with the weight. The straw may indeed become richer in phosphoric acid than the grain, differing thus completely from that of the other cereals. The straw of a crop of buckwheat may contain more mineral matter than does the grain The sum of the principal fertilizers removed from the soil by an entire crop is much more considerable than for a crop of wheat containing the same quantity of grain.

STICK TO THE FARM.

We need in the country, and on the farm, the very class of wide awake and energetic boys that at the beginning of each winter season thoughtlessly hurry off to the large cities with a view of obtaining some more "genteel" occupation than that of farming. The promised "diploma" from the business college is the "ignis fatuus" that lures him from a pursuit in which he is sure to make a good living, and if diligent, ultimately secure a competence. It is a fatal mistake on the part of thousands of farmers' boys to suppose that after a few months' study in a commercial college they will be fitted for a position in some first-class wholesale establishment, supersede some of the old clerks, and march right on and become head book-keeper and then partner in the establishment. No greater mistake could be made. Actual business is so different from the mere theory of it, that it is necessary to completely drop the latter from the mind before it is able to grasp in detail the former. Real success in any business depends upon experience—the beginning at the bottom and step by step working one's way up.

A few days observation in a large city at the present time will at once reveal the startling fact that thousands of clerks, book-keepers, messengers, agents and professional young men are out of work, and are daily seen seeking employment, or are eagerly watching the "Want Column" in the leading city dailies in the vain hope that there may be an opening for them. There are by far too many who are looking for easy and lucrative positions whose services will never be required to fill them. Their name is legion. Better stick to the farm, where brain work is needed as much as elsewhere, and command success by deserving it. Cultivate the soil deep and thoroughly. In the meantime cultivate the mind, make farm life pleasant and attractive and it will be sure to be profitable in the best sense of the word.—Farm and Fireside.

ONE-SIDED EMIGRATION.

As the census table show, the Atlantic states contain a larger number of women than men, a larger proportion of the latter than former having emigrated westward. The last census of England reveals the fact that the number of women there exceeds that of men by about a million. Again is seen one of the results of one-sided emigration, sex considered.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

IT is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

Provincial Legislation.

The Opposition in the Ontario Assembly, very unwisely, as they now know, undertook to defend in the debate on the address the disallowance of the Act to protect the public interest in rivers and streams. That statute is one which the Ontario Legislature had a perfect right to pass and which, therefore, the Dominion Government had no right to disallow. It related to the regulation of one of our most important industries and the state of the law is such that the passage of some Act of the kind is an absolute necessity.

The grounds of disallowance were (1) that the statute was made retroactive, (2) that it interfered with a suit then pending in the courts, and (3) that it expropriated private property without adequate compensation to the owner, Retroactive legislation is so common that to specify that as a reason for disallowance is absurd. Acts of Parliament frequently interfere with pending litigation without being disallowed on that account. It is simply false to say that the Streams Act does not secure the owners of river improvements ample compensation for their use by others. The only plausible reason for the disallowance is that Mr. McLaren, one of the parties to the suit in question, is a wealthy and influential Conservative in Lanark and that Mr. Dalton McCarthy, his counsel, is an active and able politician.

Why the Ontario Opposition should have felt bound to defend the act of disallowance is a mystery. They vote against an amendment made up largely of Sir John Macdonald's own remarks on the New Brunswick School Act, to have disallowed which, he contended, would have given a fatal wrench to the constitution. If Mr. Meredith was ever to strike out a line for himself, that was his chance. He has chosen, however, to condone the most unwarrantable interference with Provincial rights of legislation. He has aimed a deadly thrust at the functions of the House of which he is a member, and he will find that by so doing he has forfeited the respect of the better men of his own party. Henceforth he must continue to be the mere echo of his chief at Ottawa, and Sir John's political history shows the amount of leek-eating in store for him. The position is not a pleasant one for the Opposition, but why do they submit to it? Is there any course possible for Sir John Macdonald to take which his followers would not consider the right one? If at the late banquet he had talked up independence instead of describing it as "veiled treason," he would have been just as enthusiastically cheered. Mr. Meredith may as well make up his mind that the course he is taking on both the question of disallowance and the boundary award will bring him into the contempt which is the coward's due.

That Challenge.

The N. P. Editor of the Review is what the late Artemus Ward would call an "Amoosin Cuss." It has been our good fortune to get many a hearty laugh at his borrowed N. P. wisdom. The perfect satisfaction he seems to enjoy in the repetition of what he calls N. P. items, conundrums, &c., is delightful; but if any one desires to see him at his best, watch him, with invoked and ponderous wit, thump what he calls the wise man of the Globe. With what relish he shows up the weak and foolish twaddle that individual indulges in. The odd thing is that the Globe man does not seem to mind the thumping a bit. Now, however, our friend is indulging in a new role, he is breathing out notes of defiance, and challenging the world at large to the proof. A recent Review concluder an article with this passage: "We defy them to point out a prosperous agricultaral population, that has not more or less mixed up with it a manufacturing population, go where they will. Will they accept the challenge?" This sounds bold; it is however, more like the bray of a jackass than anything else. Will the Review be kind enough to point out any agricultural population whatever, prosperous or otherwise, that has not more or less of a manufacturing population mixed up with it. We await the "wise man's" answer.

On the 1st of February, Munro & Alexander will have the best lighted and most convenient Store in Peterborough.

Editorial Notes.

Under the head of "postage reform," the Ottawa Free Press quoted approvingly an article on "cheaper postage," and mentions the EXAMINER as being "among the journals that have taken a practical view of the newspaper postage question." We trust this matter will not be allowed to drop, but that our confreres throughout the Dominion will keep the ball rolling till the goal is reached, and the newspaper postage tax becomes a thing of the past.

Sarnia Canadian: "What makes wood so high," asked a cautious citizen, who wanted a load of wood at the old prices, of a group of farmers on the market last Saturday. The youngest of the crowd spoke up: "It's the N. P." We leave our farmer friends to say how far the "youngest of the lot" was correct in his remark, and to what extent the growing scarcity of cordwood and the bad roads and worse weather of the past few weeks affected the price of wood; but we call the attention of the consumers who have to pay for the necessaries of life out of their earnings to a fact that not only the "youngest of the lot" but the oldest must of necessity admit, and that is, that if they ask themselves the question, "what makes coal so dear?" or woollens, or cottons, or stoves, or furniture. or anything else that is required in the household, and the same answer will apply: "It's the N. P." If there is any merit in a fiscal policy that makes dear everything a people find it necessary to purchase, then the N. P. can lay claim to the laurel.

AT Mr. John Charlton's political meeting in North Norfolk he called attention to the charge frequently made that the Liberal party has no policy. He enumerated among the other planks in the Liberal platform "first, the determination "to make war upon monopolies; second, "to secure the prudent management of "public affairs; third, to lessen and "equalize taxation; fourth, to check our "rapidly swelling expenditures; fifth, "to cease running into debt; sixth. to "protect the several provinces from "Federal encroachment; seventh, to protect the settlers of the Northwest by "discountenancing speculation and making settlement a condition of sale; "eighth, to maintain a good and stable "currency; ninth, to dismiss useless "Civil Service employees." Mr. Charlton has represented North Norfolk for 10 years, and in that time has attained a leading position in the party counsels.

CHINA is among the oldest civilized nations. It has a history to which that of any European nation is but a span, and it has during this period preserved its independence and unity. It has succeeded in controlling and supporting a population within its territory, to which that of this country and Great Britain is but a handful; but it is a country of competitive examinations, for places in the civil service. At a triennial examination for such places held in Canton lately, there was 10,160 competitors for places in eighty-two degrees. The examinations last from thirty-six hours to three days, and it is no easy task to win one's way to rank and power through a series of these tournaments. Yet there is no lack of ambition to do so, and the desire to excel is the strong feature in their civil service. It would be an interesting inquiry to determine what effect the civil service has had upon the unique and phenomenal success of that country..

OTTAWA.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

In political circles the question that is mostly debated just now is as to the time that the present Parliament will be dissolved and a new election called. Very many knowing people think that this session which opens on 9th Feb. next will be the last session of this Parliament, and that as a matter of course a new election will be held during the coming summer or fall as may best suit the powers that for the present rule us. It were well to be ready and to keep ready. The Syndicate will be the death of the men who created it. You see the Syndicate is run by a number of very clever commercial men, men much cleverer in matters commercial and financial, than the men who run the Government. These men acted with consummate tact and commercial wisdom at the start. They had evidently made up their minds to manage all their Syndicate concerns on a purely commercial and money making basis. Patriotism or country did not enter into their calculation, and in any conflict as between their interest and the general interest of the country the public interest will of course go to the wall. But in all cases when the public interests and the financial interests of the Syndicate run in harmony matters will be well managed so far as the Syndicate is concerned. The Syndicate people were far-seeing, and so to speak long headed, they therefore stipulated for the largest powers they could get. And what did they leave unasked for? They evidently foresaw that should they run their business on a business basis and with the main idea to make money they would sooner or later find themselves in a conflict with the Government. They therefore left

NOTHING TO ASK FOR FROM THE START.

Of late they have made quite a stir in this locality by their arrangements in connection with the St. Lawrence and Ottawa Railway which they now control and some other arrangements in connection with the Canada Pacific. Their arrangements from a money making point of view are sound, but they are far from popular. While the St. Lawrence and Ottawa was run by an independent company, it was in a sense an opposition to the Canada Pacific so far as the connection of the Grand Trunk with Ottawa is concerned. Fares were kept down and things were healthy for the public, but presto, the Syndicate get control of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa, up goes the fares and trains cease to run in opposition to each other. Who says this is not commercially sound? Then again the St. Lawrence had a depot at each end of the city. As the Canada Pacific depot was in the west end and had all its offices and officials there, their management practically closed the east end depot so long used and consolidated at the west end. This was also sound from the cash point of view, but the east end, commonly known as lower town, don't like it. Then again, the Syndicate gentlemen did not want their officials scattered all over, so they removed their head office from Brockville to this more central point. The head officials of the Brockville road had always been resident at Brockville, so the Brockvillians do not look kindly on this move. Then again the lumbermen up the Ottawa do not see why they should have to pay the Canada Pacific as much for freight on a barrel of pork drawn a hundred miles, as they do the Grand Trunk to bring it from Chicago to Brockville seven or eight times as far, but the Syndicate says:—gentlemen, our rates are cheaper than you can team it up to the Mattawa and you must pay us. These upon the whole, small matters only, clearly indicate the spirit which moves and actuates the Syndicate and small blame to them. They intend to

GRIND EVERY DOLLAR POSSIBLE OUT OF THE PEOPLE

of this Dominion and to use the large powers they have got to that end. But it is not them the people must hold responsible but Sir John Macdonald and his servile majority in the Parliament, who gave the power into their hands and did not guard the interests of the people. As the grasping policy of the Syndicate becomes more and more apparent, as it undoubtedly will, the eyes of the public will be opened and on them awakening they will curse the Syndicate and the men that created it. In view of the foregoing, the question simply is: How long can the Government wait for the awakening? Until 1883, I think not, and because I think they cannot afford to wait. I think they will not, but that they will try and ride the N. P. back into power again next summer. Time will tell.

THE GOVERNOR GENERAL LOOKS WELL

and healthy. He has brought his sister with him, Lady Balfour, to do the honors of Rideau Hall. She and her husband attended St. Andrew's Church yesterday where the Governor-General has a pew, and is, I believe, on the church roll. The lady Balfour is not handsome nor imposing, a pleasant looking lady with auburn hair. The husband is a plain looking man above the average height but otherwise very much like the average man one meets in society. It is proposed to make the social circle which revolves around Rideau Hall decidedly lively once the session opens, as Lent comes early and what is done must be done quickly.

I suppose we may expect to see some of the Ontario M. P's a little restive this session and things may be more lively. We in and trampled upon by the Dominion Government and have them shirk legislation which is right and in the public interest, simply to please some of their friends without any show of right or reason. Ontario has struggled for her rights and will again, if need be.

When the session opens I will write often as I now have time to attend the House and make careful notes of what I see and hear. Before closing I cannot refrain from complimenting you on the really first rate paper you get out. It is only surpassed by the Globe and hardly equalled by any other paper I know of.

A motion for the adoption of the report drew forth a lengthened discussion, when it was Moved in amendment by Mr. Poussette, seconded by Mr. Wilson,—That the report be not adopted, but that a lamp be placed at Mr. Hill's corner, and that the the whole matter of gas lamps petitioned for be referred to the Fire, Water and Gas Committee, to report.

JOHN DOUGLAS, Chairman.

Mr. Douglas moved the reception of the report.

THE OLD BURIAL GROUND.

H. Collins, Esq., Warden of the County addressed the council in reference to the old Burial Ground. He said the matter had been up before the County Council and a report presented by the Joint Committee. The matter was now in the same position it was this time last year. The County was willing to act with the town in the matter of disposing of the property and purchasing other grounds, but it appeared a number of the townspeople favored keeping it as it was. The Agricultural Society was anxious to know what was going to be done in the matter, so that in the event of them not being able to occupy it longer, they could look for other grounds.

The Mayor read the report of the Joint Committee presented before the council on the 4th of July last.

Mr. T. E. Bell, as a representative of the Agricultural Society, addressed the council, on the matter of the Agricultural grounds. The Society had a very liberal offer from Lakefield, where there were spacious and convenient grounds, and if some arrangement could not be effected with the town he was not prepared to say but what the offer might be accepted.

Mr. Menzies moved, seconded by Mr. Rutherford.—That the Joint Committee of this council be authorized to arrange with the Joint Committee of the County Council and the Agricultural Society, to arrange with them about the Old Burial Ground, and report to this council.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Poussette,—That this council are desirous of giving the Agricultural Society every facility for holding their annual show, and that the use of the Burial Ground referred to by the Warden of the County, be granted to the Agricultural Society for holding their spring and fall shows.

Mr. Collins said he was rather stirred up by the remarks of Mr. Bell, as to taking the County Show to Lakefield. It would be a disgrace to move the annual county show away from the County Town. He had been sometimes accused of working against the interest of the town but he defied any one to point to a single act of his derogatory to to the town during the many years he had been a member of the County Council. He was satisfied what was of benefit to the town was of benefit to the country, and vice versa.

After Messrs. Poussette, Rutherford, Richardson, Menzies and Cahill had expressed their views upon the wisdom and necessity of giving every assistance to the Society, although different opinions were held as to the way in which it should be done, the amendment was put and declared lost, as was also the original motion.

The matter was on motion of Mr. Rutherford re-considered, and on Mr. Cahill's amendment being put, it was declared carried.

APPOINTMENTS FOR THE YEAR.

On motion, the By-law providing for the appointments as reported on by the committee was read a first time, and on motion the council went into committee of the whole on the second reading, Mr. Paterson in the chair.

The By-law was taken up clause by clause with the following results:

For Assessor.—Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Kelly,—That Messrs. McGrath and Lundy be appointed as Assessors.

In amendment, moved by Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Richardson,—That Mr. Toole and Mr. McGrath be the Assessors.

After a discussion the motion was declared carried, and the blanks filled in accordingly.

The question of salary brought forward another division.

On Mr. Rutherford's amendment the salary was fixed at $140 each.

The 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th clauses of the report were passed without amendment.

The 11th clause was amended by fixing the salary of the Chief Constable at $575.

The 12th and 13th clauses were passed without change.

The remaining clauses, relating to the appointment of Town Physicians, brought forth a prolonged discussion, many of the Councillors expressing themselves greatly surprised at the Committee's treatment of Dr. Kincaid, who had for so many years given universal satisfaction. Those in favor of the new arrangement supported it, not because they wished to discharge Dr. Kincaid, but that they thought his Parliamentary duties would prevent him from attending to those of Town Physician. After explanations all round, it was Moved by Mr. Poussette, seconded by the Mayor,—That Dr. Kincaid be appointed Town Physician at the same salary as last year.

This motion was carried, and the By-law filled in accordingly.

A request from the School Board, asking the Assessors to take the school census at the time of making the town assessment, was adopted, and $10 additional granted to each of the Assessors for the extra labor.

In Council the By-law was read a third time, as amended, and finally passed.

STREET CROSSINGS.

Mr. Richardson drew the attention of the Council to the matter of street crossings, and suggested that the Street and Bridge Committee be instructed to procure some $20 or $30 worth of cedar logs and have them sawn into pieces and laid down in such places as crossings may be needed during the coming summer. He moved a resolution accordingly, and on it being put was declared carried.

PAYMENT OF JURORS.

Mr. Poussettee brought forward the resolution of which he had given notice at last meeting, providing for the payment of fifty cents to each of the jurors at the late fire inquest, but he failed to procure a seconder.

ADDITION TO FINANCE COMMITTEE.

Mr. Menzies name, was on motion of Mr. Rutherford, added to the Finance Committee.

THE GOLDEN LION.

A petition from Mr. Thos. Bradburn, asking to have the Council approve of his sign—"Golden Lion"—on George street, according to the By-law in that behalf.

Mr. Paterson moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly,—That By-law 395 be referred to the Finance Committee to consider any amendments required and report at as early a date as possible, and that the constables are hereby instructed to take no action on clauses No. 36 and 37 until further instructions.

Mr. Poussette thought it unfair now, when nearly everyone had taken down their signs, to allow Mr. Bradburn to maintain his.

Mr. Cahill moved that the application of Mr. Bradburn be referred to the Building Committee.

In amendment, moved by Mr. Poussette, seconded by Mr. McNaughton,—That the request be not granted.

The amendment was lost and the original motion carried.

TENDERS FOR WOOD.

A motion instructing the Clerk to advertise for 100 cords of wood was passed.

CAR WORKS.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Poussette,—That the question of assisting in the establishment of car works here be referred to a Committee of the whole Council, and that the Mayor be requested to call the Committee together at an early day, and also invite a number of prominent citizens to the meeting.—Carried.

TELEGRAPH POLES.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. McNaughton,—That the Street and Bridge Committee be directed to confer with Geo. A. Cox, Esq., to ascertain if some means could not be devised by which the telegraph poles might be removed off George street.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Treasurer was authorized to pay the pay-sheets of the Street and Bridge Committee, when certified to, and also to pay the orders of the Charity Committee.

Mr. George Chamberlain asked to be allowed to suspend a lamp over his door on George street, and his request was referred to the Finance Committee.

A motion placing the sum of $50 in the hands of the Clerk for the payment of small accounts was put and carried.

Council adjourned for four weeks.

Remember! that Munro & Alexander will open out in Geo. Stethem's old Store on the 1st of February.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

NORWOOD THANKFUL.

Your Norwood readers will be glad to learn that the county council, at its recent session, has granted the usual allowance to the Norwood High School, secured, too, through the perseverence of our popular Reeve, Mr Pearce. Nothing daunted, he brought this matter before the council several times, till he succeeded in his object. The grant is certainly a deserving one, as there are a number of pupils from distant parts of the County attending this school, and it is out of the question altogether to expect a small section to pay for the tuition of those who do not pay a cent towards the maintenance of the institution. Our people feel gratified to the members of the Council who supported the grant, but at the same time believe they only did their duty. The grant too comes all the more welcome, as some of Mr. Pearces opponents said the Council would never vote a grant to the Norwood High School as long as he represented them in the County Council. Their prophecies have not held good in this case.

A TEMPEST.

With other parts of the country, Norwood, on Thursday night last, was visited by a tempest of terrible velocity. Chimneys were blown down by the strength of the gale, and nota few houses of substantial structure were shaken by its force. Many people were startled in their beds, and thought their last moments had come. In the country some barns suffered more or less, and fences were strewn about as straws before the wind.

GONE AGAIN.

Once more the snow has left us, leaving us with bare roads and a break up of the rush of business our merchants were enjoying while the good sleighing lasted.

ARM BROKEN.

On Monday afternoon, Mrs. Joseph Crowthers, of this village, as she was going to her husband's workshop, close by, for shavings, fell and broke her left arm a little above the wrist. The injured arm was promptly set by Dr. Ford.

CORRECTION.

It appears that the statement regarding the outrage mentioned in last week's EXAMINER—though currently reported through the village—was an exaggeration, and perhaps, for the credit of Norwood, ought to be corrected. It now leaks out that the outcries were the outcome of a family altercation in which the public are not particularly interested.

ANNIVERSARY.

The anniversary of the opening of the Norwood Presbyterian church is announced to come off on Sunday next. The Rev. Mr. Torrance, of Peterborough, will conduct the services both morning and evening. The Rev. gentleman is favourably known here, and will draw large congregations on both occasions. On the Monday evening following the annual Soiree will take place, when, after the good things provided for the refreshment of the inner man, addresses are to be delivered by the Revs. Torrance, Sanderson, Campbell, Flemming and Sutherland. As our Presbyterian friends always make the anniversary of the opening of their pretty church a happy and enjoyable occasion, there is no doubt the coming one will be equally as successful.

FROM THE NORTH-WEST.

Mr. Thos. Drain, son of Mr. Hugh Drain, of Asphodel, has written several letters home giving details of the same old story, of profitable land speculation in the Prairie Province. The seat of Mr. Drain's speculation is Portage la Prairie, where he has profitably invested his money. He has already purchased eleven town lots, and sold three at a large advance on what he paid for them, and is holding the others over for higher bidders, and these he is quite confident will ere long come forward.

OBITUARY.

Margaret McMillan, eldest daughter of Mr. Wm. McMillan, of Dummer, died on Tuesday last. The deceased has been lingering for a length of time from a painful disease, bearing her illness without a murmur or complaint.

A sad gloom has been cast over our entire village by the melancholy death of Emma A. Griffin, only daughter of Mr. S. J. Griffin. Only a couple of weeks ago the deceased was in the enjoyment of youthful health and vigor, with the bright prospects of a useful and happy life before her, and was shortly to accompany her father to a Ladies' College to complete her education. She was highly esteemed in Norwood on account of her affabieness, and many other good qualities, and her death is regretted by all classes of the community. Mr. and Mrs. Griffin have the sincere sympathy of the public generally in their sad and untimely bereavement.

Among the many legacies bequeathed by the late Major D. Campbell, of Cobourg, was the handsome sum of $500 towards building a rectory house in Cobourg parish. This was willed prior to any steps being taken to erect the present handsome building, and which has proved a very acceptable addition to the fund.

MUTUAL AID.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—Please kindly permit me a few words in reply to a letter which appeared in your last issue, reflecting on the Mutual Aid, signed by Friend Johnston of Otonabee.

It is unfortunate for himself that he should have allowed his prejudice to "carry him so far before making himself acquainted with facts, and properly understanding the subject, but it is the opinion of the "most of us Grangers" that this bilious and uncalled for attack on our association will result in great benefit to the Mutual Aid. His first objection is based on the erroneous idea that James Rennie and Dr. Somebody, as he calls them, of Toronto, originated the scheme, but in order to make it a success, they had to rope the Grangers in. Now this assertion is false, and the insinuation borne on the face of it is mean, and unworthy a member of the Grange. For, by Squire W. Hill, past master of the Dominion Grange, who has made this system of life insurance the special study of his life, and other leading members of the order was the association introduced; but being convinced by wise and sagacious forethought, and past experience with kindred associations that it would be folly to allow this noble ship freighted with such a precious cargo, to sail on the ocean of human life chained to the fortunes of the Grange, compelled to submit to its successes and reverses, they proclaimed to all of sound body and mind, Grangers and non-Grangers, that here was offered all the benefits of life insurance at the lowest possible cost. This then being their settled plan of operation as far as membership was concerned, it was thought but just to those outside of the order, that non-Grangers should have a seat on the board. Accordingly three gentlemen whose characters in society were established as men of integrity, education and business ability, (Mr. Johnston's insinuation to the contrary notwithstanding) were chosen to represent those outside of the Grange. These with the four leading members of the Grange in Canada, constitute the board of the Mutual Aid. But Mr. Johnston says it is not a Grange institution. Now, sir, I say it is, strictly speaking, as much a Grange institution as the Fire Insurance or his own darling "Grange Trust," over which he has lost so much sleep, and on the success of which he has staked his all. He also speaks forbadingly of relapsing into the old rut from which we suffered so much from the machinations of "pocket draining agents," but before adopting the conclusion to which he has evidently jumped, he should institute a careful comparison between the system of Mutual Aid and that of stock companies. In regard to agents' commissions, and "thereby hangs a tale." He either does not know or is not honest enough to take into consideration the expense of printing, advertising, postage and other incidentals, necessary for agents to use in placing before the public the claims of a new association. But when disappointed ambition becomes soured, because their own great (?) abilities have not been recoguized to the extent they fondly hoped, they are often found endeavouring to extinguish a worthy object in a similar manner to that used by the famous Guliver when he extinguished the flames in the Queen's Palace in the land of Lilliput. He says he cannot "stand by and see his brothers drawn into his trap." While at the same time, "tell it not in Gath," he is stealthily engaged in placing a trap, maliciously sprung for the destruction of an institution in which many have no other provision and who will never make any other provision for their families in the event of death.

As to his figures which are a miserable caricature upon our system, I need not attempt to refute, for they carry on their face their own refutation. Our plan for paying death claims is simply this; when a death claim comes in, an assessment is at once made upon the members to pay that claim, no assessment can exceed $1.00 instead of a graded assessment of from $1 to $4 with a uniform death claim, of from $1,000 to $2,000 as in other companies. We think it more in accordance with well established business principles and more just to the young to adopt an uniform assessment of $1 and a graded death claim of $1,000 to $5,000, for particulars of which see our circulars how as to probable cost.

By reference to the report of the Superintendent of Insurance for the Dominion for the year 1879, we find the death rate among the twenty-three (23) companies doing new business in Life Insurance, in Canada, to be 6 94 100 per 1000; in 1880 the rate was 8 28-100. Upon this record it will be comparatively safe to reckon the cost of membership in our association. The average age of our members, so far, has been about 40—at this age Certificates are worth $3,000.00. Presuming we have a division full of 6000 members, each assessment would pay two claims. But reducing this by 25 per cent. on surplus to set apart as a reserve fund, we have 25 per cent. of $3,000.00—$750.00—leaving $2,250.00 to carry to the next claim, or $5,250.00 out of the assessment to pay claims with, which would pay one and three-fourth claims. Now, taking eight as the death rate per thousand (which is about the number quoted by the Inspector); on a membership of 6000 we would have 48 deaths per year—one assessment paying 1¾ claims—the cost when a class was full would not be more than 48 divided by 1¾—$27.42; this is the maximum figure it would cost a person 59 years old for $1000 insurance; a person 19 to 20 years old, $5000, at a cost of $27.42 per year; on the average age of 49, $3000 insurance for $27.42 per year, and this in instalments of $1 at a time. You will observe we have taken the average age of our members, and the death rate as given by the Superintendent of Insurance. For the first few years, or while the membership is small, the cost will not be quite so much, but about the same proportion of cost will apply to a membership of 1000 as to 6000, for as the number of risks increases the amount collected at each assessment increases, thus keeping the cost at about the same figure. You can very profitably compare these figures with those of Old Line Companies, where the expense runs from $25.00 to $60.00 a year per thousand dollars, according to age.

Now sir, this is as much of your space as I can reasonably ask at present. I might just say that for the proper fulfilment of their duties, the officers of the association have given guarantee bonds to the amount of $60,000.

Hoping that abler pens than mine may soon be engaged in defending the character of the management of the Canadian Mutual Aid.

WEDNESDAY.

The Council met pursuant to adjournment. All the members were present.

The minutes of yesterday were read and confirmed.

The Warden read the following letter from Dr. Kincaid, M.P.P.:—

PETERBOROUGH, Jan. 25, 1882.

To H. Collins, Esq., Warden:

DEAR SIR,—Being informed that a medical man had taken the very extraordinary course of applying for my position as Jail Surgeon on the ground that my Parliamentary duties may interfere with my attendance upon the jail, I beg leave to inform the members of the County Council through you that I am in a position to render the same services I have always done, as I will be in Peterborough three days in each week, and I have an able partner, Dr. Alexander, who will attend faithfully during the few days each week that I will be absent.

I remain, faithfully yours,
R. KINCAID.

—Referred to Committee on Appointments.

DOUBTS AS TO DEPUTY-REEVES.

The Warden stated that several members of the Council had expressed doubts to him as to whether Douro was entitled to a deputy-reeve or not.

On motion of Mr. Burnham, seconded by Mr. Strickland,—The matter of the right of townships to have deputy-reeves be referred to a committee composed of Messrs. Sanderson, Pearce and Strickland, with power to call for papers, etc., and take legal advice thereon, and report at a future meeting of the Council.—Carried.

RAILWAY LEGISLATION.

The Warden stated that Mr. W. Mills had suggested to him the propriety of the County Council appointing a committee to watch the railway legislation about to be brought before the Provincial Legislature, so that the interests of both the county and town may not suffer by any legislation which takes place, and also that this Council take some decided action in pressing on the Dominion Government the immediate construction of the Trent Valley Canal.

2. Your Committee would recommend with regard to the bridge over the north branch of the Deer River, that the Reeve of Belmont examine the same and report to the Warden whether the said bridge is over 100 feet long, and if so, and it be found that repairs are urgent, that the Warden take action in the matter.

3. Your Committee would recommend that no action be taken at present with reference to the piers of the Lakefield Bridge.

4. That no action be taken with reference to the letter from Messrs. Moore & Sawers in behalf of the Hague heirs with respect to the Lakefield Bridge.

5. That the County Engineer inspect the bridge over the river Ouse in Norwood and report to the Council in June whether the said bridge is over 100 feet long.

7. Your Committee would recommend that the action of the late Warden with reference to the Kinmount bridge be approved.

7. Your Committee would recommend that a grant of $50 be made to each of the municipalities of Burleigh, Galway, Harvey and Belmont, for the repair of the roads in or adjacent to the said municipalities, and that the Reeves be the commissioners for the expenditure of the same, and that they be required as such commissioners to make a return accompanied by proper vouchers of the same.

8. Your Committee would recommend that the County Engineer be instructed to inspect the Mud Lake Bridge and present a report upon its state at the June session of this council.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Jan. 28, 1882. J. LAING, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

SUPPLEMENTARY FINANCE REPORT

Mr. Golborne on motion, seconded by Mr. Fitzgerald, presented the following report:—

The Committee on Finance beg leave to report that they have again had the claim of Mr. Pope for compensation for the removal of the Mud Lake Bridge before them, and they have heard Messrs. Crowley, Trennum and Garbutt and examined the documents with regard to the same, and have came to the unanimous conclusion that Mr. Pope's claim should not be entertained.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JAS. GOLBORNE, Chairman.

THE LAKEFIELD DAM.

Moved by Mr. Kidd, seconded by Mr. Stewart,—That the Committee appointed to wait on the Dominion Government with reference to the Lakefield Dam be allowed to report.—Carried.

Messrs. Strickland and Burnham, members of the deputation, stated that owing to the county during the past year pressing on the Government the making of a survey for the Trent Valley Canal, the deputation had not as yet done anything in the matter, fearing that it might interfere at present with the Canal scheme.

Mr. Blezard, M.P.P., stated that the Commissioner of Public Works had sent his engineer and examined the matter. He had not as yet this session had an opportunity to confer with the Minister of Public Works, owing to his time being fully taken up in other matters. He expressed his willingness to do all in his power to press on the Government the necessity of something being done to satisfy all concerned.

Mr. Hull said that the matter of navigation between Lakefield and Young's Point is in dispute. He thought the Dominion Government should assume it. Last fall the Dominion Government had spent a considerable sum in removing large stones, so as to enable navigation at times to be proceeded with. He had no doubt that if the Dominion Government transferred their claim to the Local Government they would assume the dam and arrange the matter satisfactorily.

Dr. Caldwell, being present, was called on, and referred to the sanitary side of the question. He thought that the Dominion Government should either hand over their claim to the Local Government or fix the dam.

Mr. Burnham expressed himself as willing to press on the Dominion Government for them to hand over their claim, if any, to the Local Government.

Mr. Blezard thought that steps should be taken at once to press on the Government the advisability of having navigation maintained.

Moved by Mr. Strickland, seconded by Mr. Kidd,—That this Council ask the members of the East and West Riding of Peterborough to press upon the Local Government the necessity of taking immediate steps to protect their property at Young's Point from becoming a total loss, as it has been shown to this Council that such will be the case if the Lakefield dam is lowered, as ordered by the Court of Chancery, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to our local members of Parliament.—Carried.

At the suggestion of Mr. Blezard, the Warden and Clerk were instructed to forward a petition to the Government to the same effect as those forwarded to the Lieut.-Governor, with reference to Upper Canada College and agricultural instruction in schools.

MUD LAKE BRIDGE.

Moved by Mr. Crough, seconded by Mr. Mansfield,—That John N. Telford be appointed caretaker of the Mud Lake Bridge, in place of Mr. M. S. Dean.

Messrs. Sanderson, Crough and the County Engineer thought the bridge should be better taken care of than it had been last fall.

The motion was carried.

Moved by Mr. Laing, seconded by Mr. Stewart,—That this Council petition the Government to so amend section 492 of the Consolidated Statutes of Ontario as to place all municipalities in the county on the same footing with regard to the building and maintenance of all bridges crossing streams over one hundred feet in width, and that the Warden name a Committee to draft said petition.—Carried

COUNTY PROPERTY.

The Committee on County Property reported as follows:—

1. That the caretaker be instructed to procure a new stove for the Registrar's office.

2. That the Warden and Clerk be authorized to make the best arrangement they can for a supply of wood for the use of county buildings.

3. That the caretaker be authorized to procure the material necessary for re-shingling the wood shed as soon as he finds he can do the work with prison labor, and also to have the doors on the cells raised, and to procure a suitable lock for the female ward of the jail.

4. That the repairs rendered necessary by the recent storm be left in the hands of the Warden and County Engineer.

THOS. RORK, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

AUCTIONEERS.

Moved by Mr. Moloney, seconded by Mr. Mansfield,—That the County Clerk be authorized to furnish the clerks of the several municipal corporations of the County with lists showing the names of parties taking out auctioneer's licenses, and peddlar's and hawker's licenses in each year and the date of issue and expiration of such licenses, so that the people throughout the County may have easy reference to know who are legally qualified as auctioneers, peddlars and hawkers.—Carried.

A memorial to the Local Government was read and passed, requesting them to continue the grant to the Provincial Exhibition and offering suggestions as to amendments.

A By-law was passed confirming the payment of the accounts recommended in the Finance report yesterday.

SCHOOL GRANT.

Moved by Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Rorke,—That a special grant of $250 be given to the Norwood High School.

Mr. Pearce urged strongly on the members of the Council the necessity of giving this grant. He stated that it was made at his election a personal question with him, and it was stated by his opponent that this grant would never be given to the school as long as he (Mr. Pearce) represented the village as Reeve. This his opponent stated was told him by two members of the Council who had opposed the grant. He expressed his regret that any member of the Council should make Norwood suffer for his wrongs, and asked them all to vote for it.

The motion was carried on the following division:—

Yeas.—Walsh, Burnham, McCliggott, Strickland, Kidd, Pearce, Burgess, Rorke, Golborne.

Nays.—Moloney, Mansfield, Crough, Oliver, Laing, Sanderson, Fitzgerald, Stewart.

ICE.

Moved by Mr. Golborne, seconded by Mr. Burnham,—That the Clerk procure the necessary ice for the use of the Court House.—Carried.

Moved by Mr Burnham, seconded by Mr. Strickland,—That a resolution confirming the report of the Committee regarding the old cemetery, passed at the June session of the Council last year be rescinded, as the town have taken no action in the matter.—Carried.

Messrs. Sanderson, Fitzgerald and Stewart were appointed a committee to draft the motion mentioned in the above resolution of Mr. Laing's

The Council then adjourned.

TEAS! TEAS!

CHINA and JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic use, there is none perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand in the aggregate than TEA.

Notwithstanding the increased demand yet the price of TEAS is lower to-day than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have procured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

FIRST:—A more extended and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea producing countries.

SECOND:—Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and

THIRD:—Increased and closer competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grade, modes o adulteration, and tests for detection, see "ads" to follow.

Meantime we offer JAPAN TEA at 40c. per pound. NONE BETTER. TRY IT!

CURLERS' SONG—BY DR. SIDEY, EDINBURGH

Air—"When the kye come hame."

Come all ye brither curlers dear,
The toils o' day are o'er;
Here we are met wi' blithesome hearts,
As oft' we've done afore.
And when we've played wi' richt guid will
Our spell see true and keen,
We meet around this friendly board,
See cantie a' at e'en.

CHO—See cantie a' at e'en,
See cantie a' at e'en,
We meet around this friendly board,
See cantie a' at e'en.

The rich man sits in sumptuous hall,
And sips the fragrant wine;
His eated heart fails to rejoice
Ow're luxuries so fine.
But we hae joys to him unkent,
When wi' a trusty frien',
We meet around our social board,
See cantie a' at e'en.

Chorus—See cantie a' at e'en.

Let others work baith day and night,
Let scholars ean their lore,
Let merchants plan wi' busy brain
How to increase their store.
But we forget our toils and cares,
As if they ne'er had been;
We meet around this friendly board,
See cantie a' at e'en.

Chorus—See cantie a' at e'en.

'Tis then the lichtsome sang is sung,
Then brewed the steaming bowl;
'Tis then the merry jest goes round,
The flow o' wit and soul.
The gods themselves wi' longing eyes,
Look down on us, I ween,
And envy this pure earthly bliss,
See cantie we're at e'en.

Chorus—See cantie a' at e'en.

Then a' ye brither curlers dear,
Rejoice wi' micht and main,
And aye let's pledge our parting toast,
To our next meet again.
And when we've played wi' richt guid will
Our spells say true and keen,
We'll meet around this social board,
See cantie a' at e'en.

Chorus—See cantie a' at e'en.

PAINT ON THE FACE.

CAN WOMEN PAINT WITHOUT DETECTION—THE RESULT OF AN EXPERIMENT.

Clara Belle writes to the Cincinnati Enquirer the result of an experiment as follows: "Having read several accounts purporting to tell how the writers had been beautified by paint and cosmetics in professional hands, I wondered whether it was really a fact that a woman's face could be so deftly 'made up' as to defy detection. There was only one way to test the question, and that was to submit myself personally to treatment. So I went to the foremost 'beautifying bazaar' in the city, the one about which I had heard the most praise, and soon found myself in a small private room, seated in something like a barber's chair before a mirror, with a female operator. She began by making me take off the waist of my dress, and then she enveloped me in a loose muslin wrapper. Next she shampooed my hair thoroughly, and that felt cool and good. Then she dried it with a sponge, brushed it up from my neck and forehead, and dressed it after the fashion of the period, using a great deal of sticky bandoline.

She went for my eyes, bathing them from a liquid, which probably had belladona in it, for it enlarged the pupils and imparted a brilliancy. The next operation was to pull out a stray hair here and there on my neck, arms, and shoulders, with a pair of tweezers. Then she washed my face with a pale, rose-colored cosmetic, which dried rapidly while she rubbed it with a soft sponge. With a rabbit's foot, such as is used by actors, she put a higher tint on my cheeks, and some bright rouge on my lips and nostrils. With a brush she blackened my eyebrows, lashes, and underneath my eyes. The veins on my temples were delicately traced with light blue; and, finally, I was dabbed with powder. The operation was just what I expected, and I paid $5 for it. I was also invited to buy the various things which the undeniably skilful women had used on me. Well, my verdict on the result is simply this: No woman can paint without detection. Devotees of fashion may just as well abandon the contrary opinion, I looked into the mirror on getting out of my chair and hardly recognized myself. My face was greatly changed. My eyes shone, my cheeks glowed, and there was a brightness and piquancy that had not been there when I entered. But this, mind you, was in a somewhat dimly lighted room, where the work was softened and shaded. Ten minutes afterward I met myself in a street mirror, under the full glare of a noonday sun. Well, I was simply disgusted. The painted surface looked no more like human skin than it did like sole leather; the black around my eyes was like strokes of charcoal, my lips had the unnatural red of scarlet ink. I walked up to the glass and viewed my artificial countenance with a feeling of repulsion. It reminded me of some execrable portrait done in water colors. I hurried into a store and bought a veil, with which I covered the beautification. I then went straightway home and scrubbed my face until every trace of foreign substance was gone. My experience convinced me of the utter folly of paint as a beautifier, for by no possibility can it be put on without showing exactly what it is. Dry powder, and mighty little of that, is all that I would advise any woman to put on her face. If nature has not imparted beauty of complexion there is no use trying to make up the deficiency by artifice. It is far better to turn our ingenuity toward wearing our hair becomingly, for in that direction a great deal of comeliness may be commanded. But let pigments alone, unless you are content to be pretty in a ghastly kind of way and at the sacrifice of all outward indications of warm flesh and blood."

THE SCHOOLMASTER.

DEPICTED BY A MAN WHO KNOWS HIM.

The curiosity that I have to show you to-day, children, is perhaps the most wonderful in the collection. He beats all.

The schoolmaster, it is said, trains the young idea how to shoot. He is not himself given to shooting, however. He takes more delight in the rod than the gun.

The schoolmaster is not a military man, but his principal assistant is. The name of his assistant is Corporal Punishment. It is to be hoped that the corporal will soon be remanded to private life.

The schoolmaster is sometimes called a tutor, and occasionaly he is called an ass. On the whole, an astutor man is seldom found.

The schoolmaster thoroughly understands the rule of three, but always insists upon the rule of one. So you see his understanding is out of all proportion to his rule.

Although the schoolmaster is a ruler of boys, he has his own ruler. If he be no stick himself, his ruler always is.

The schoolmaster is a very inquisitive person. He is always asking questions. His is a question able calling.

The schoolmaster can be found in all classes. He is also given to classifying knowledge. I sometimes think I would be in his classify could.

The schoolmaster is good at figures. He would cut a pretty figure if he were not. He is the figure head of the school, or should be; but sometimes a boy gets ahead of him.

He is also good at spelling. He can stand a long spell in a good situation without flinching.

He is always correcting the errors of his pupils, and consequently has but little time to attend to his own.

The schoolmaster is not a man of war, but he often employs a monitor. He gets the monitor to see in his place.

Oh shun misbehaving children, or the see of the monitor shall overwhelm you.

The schoolmaster teaches the A B C, but he cannot make a bee see.

Every sort of ology is taught by the schoolmaster, but tautology is no better coming from him than from anybody else.

In a school of young rascals the schoolmaster is always the principal.

Some schoolmasters are actuated entirely by the law of love—love for their situations. Some entirely by hate—hate to give them up.

The schoolmaster loves to have callers at his school; but habit has so possessed him that he not only collars his scholars, but also scholars his callers,

I used to wonder at the schoolmaster during my school days, but my school daze will never return.—Boston transcript.

BRO. GARDNER ON NEGRO MINSTRELLY.

(Detroit Free Press.)

"I hev bin axed," began the old man, as the mercury in the thermometer hanging alongside the stove began to boil, "I hev bin axed what relashun de negro minstrel troupe b'ars to ne cull'd race. To return an off hand answer I should say dat it b'ars about de same relashun dat a hasty puddin' does to a ten thousand dollar paintin'. If dar am any relashun whatever I hev neber bin able to diskiver it. De cull'd man may dance an' sing, but he neber trabbles on his ignorance nor on de jokes an' gags ob de past generashun. If twenty cull'd men should put on wigs an' paint up to resemble twenty white men an' sot down befo' de public an' ask why an elephant was like a gimlet an' what was the difference between a clam on de sand and a sand on de clam, dey would be hooted off de stage. Yet, de public will see white men disguise deirselves as negroes and applaud de gags, an' jokes, an' conundrums dat de poorest African in Detroit would be ashamed to acknowledge. If de public hankers for sich shows, an' mus' hev 'em, let 'em go on, but doan' let white folks deceive deirselves or be deceived. Continer to call 'em negro minstrel shews, but doan't look fur de negro in 'em. He ain't dar. He's home in de busum of his family, warmin' his feet, learnin' de chillen' to read, an' tellin' de ole woman dat all flesh am grass."

THE DISPOSITION OF LOVE LETTERS.

Some people never know what to do with their love letters, and nearly every one has a different way of dealing with such missives. To the sentimental girl they are always very nice to have near because one always likes to read them over, on stormy days almost every girl overhauls her love letters and goes back and has a good time. The practical girl knows that love letters, while charming and innocent enough to her, in some cases might become more dangerous than a can of dynamite. That girl doesn't keep her letters and tie them up in a blue ribbon and let somebody else get hold of them and bring them into court some time or another. She knows too much for that. Away out in Iowa a girl has solved that love letter problem. She has done it, too, in a way which ought to be highly satisfactory to that portion of the human race which never writes love letters, should there be such. The Iowa young woman has all her letters bound in book form, and in that way she keeps them on her parlor table for the entertainment of visitors, along with the family album. This gives the young lady's fortunate visitors an even chance for a pleasant evening, for there is probably nothing more delightfully entertaining than a series of love letters.

CORNSTALKS AS FUEL.

An Iowa farmer, who has both coal and wood on his farm, warms his house with cornstalks, and claims that they make the best and cheapest fuel he can get. He uses a large stove, and burns the stalks in tightly-bound bundles, weighing about forty pounds each. A bundle burns three hours (without flame) in an air-tight stove. The large stove offers so much radiating surface that it does not need to be very hot. Five bundles a day, or 600 for the winter, suffice to keep the stove going and the room warm. The farmer, Mr. Ruggles, says: "I can bind up six hundred bundles of cornstalks in two days alone. I couldn't chop the wood to warm this room in a week. Then in the spring I have a load of strong ashes for my wheat field, while my neighbors have to cut up the same cornstalk, in the spring to get them away from the harrow. It makes me smile when I hear about these idiots up in Minnesota who have fifty-acre cornfields, and still go cold or buy coal. Why, I'd rather burn cornstalks than cut maple wood within sight of the house."

I was then in Massachusetts; and growing worse and becoming unable to attend to my business. I returned home, and commenced searching in earnest for some medicine which would restore my lost health. I consulted physicians, I tried many remedies, but obtained no help, but daily grew worse. I had a terrible cough, and raised a good deal of blood. I had profuse night sweats and severe pain in my side. I continued in this state for months, and became so weak that it was with great difficulty I could walk, when I was advised to try WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY, and to my great joy I soon found this remedy had arrested the disease. STEEL RAILS.—We are informed that the purchase has been completed of 8,000 tons of steel rails, for the complete equipment of the Midland and Toronto & Ottawa divisions of the Midland Railway of Canada. It is expected that the Toronto & Ottawa section will be in running order by the 1st of December next.

NEARLY A FIRE.—The carriage and blacksmith shop of Mr. Thos. Leplante had a narrow escape from fire on Friday evening last. The timely discovery and prompt action of those present, prevented damage of any consequence. The Brigade were promptly on hand, but fortunately their services were not required.

SKATING CARNIVAL.—The Carnival tomorrow night, promises to be in every way very successful. The management have spared no trouble in perfecting all arrangements, and from present appearances a large attendance and a good time may be expected. The prizes are on view in W A. Sanderson's window. A large number from neighboring towns and villages are expected to be present.

TRAFFIC RETURNS.—The Traffic of the Midland Railway for the week ending January 21, 1882, was as follows: Passengers and Mails, $4,051.99; Freight, $8,909.96; Total, $12,961.95 as compared with $7,460.77 for the corresponding week of 1881, being an increase of $5,501.18 and the aggregate traffic to date is $34,680.78, being an increase of $13,121.73 over 1881.

FOR WINNIPEG.—Messrs. George A. Mitchell and Charles Walsh, who for a few weeks past have been here on a visit to their friends, left on Monday for Winnipeg. They were accompanied by Mr. R. J. Stevenson, who goes to seek his fortune in the "Great Lone Land." Messrs. H. Denne, and W. H. Chamberlain, also left on Monday for Winnipeg, where they purpose investing in real estate.

PENNY READINGS.—Notwithstanding the unfavourable weather on Thursday evening of last week, the entertainment under the auspices of Peterborough Lodge I.O.G.T. was very successful, both as regarded the attendance and the excellence of the programme. Mr. H. Nesbitt, the popular Worthy Chief of the Lodge, occupied the chair, and discharged the duties in his usual happy manner. Owing to the low price of admission (five cents) and the excellent programme always presented, we are not aware of a more profitable way in which an evening can be spent than by attending the monthly entertainments of Peterborough Temple.

CURLING.—As stated in last weeks issue, the match between the Brockville and Peterborough Curling Clubs for the Royal Caledonian medal took place on Thursday last at Belleville, and resulted in a victory for Peterborough by 18 points. The Belleville Intelligencer says:—"On rink No. 1 the play was very keen, Brockville getting a good lead at the start, but the last end resulted in Peterborough scoring one shot, leaving the score a tie, so far as this rink was concerned. On rink No. 2 Peterborough started off with the lead and kept steadily increasing it, although Brockville scored a 4 and a 2 in succession. The score was as follows:

Majority for Peterborough, 18 shots.

On account of the very bad state of the ice, the proposed game between Belleville and Peterborough was postponed until a more favorable opportunity offers. The visitors were entertained to an oyster supper at Hambly's, where a couple of very pleasant hours were spent.

REV. PROF. REVNAN, of Victoria College, Cobourg, will preach in St. Paul's Church on Sabbath, the 5th February, both morning and evening.

SOCIAL.—A musical and literary social will be given in the basement of the George Street Methodist Church, on Friday evening, 3rd instant, at 8 p. m. A small admission fee will be charged. A pleasant evening may be expected.

NEW TAILORING ESTABLISHMENT.—Mr. Andrew McNeil, the popular cutter with Hall, Innes & Co. for the past five or six years, has determined on starting business on his own account, and will open on Saturday, 11th of February, in the shop one door north of P. Connal & Co's, with a choice stock of carefully selected goods in the tailoring and gents' furnishing lines. Mr. McNeil's reputation as a cutter, and his popularity with the public will certainly secure for him a large share of the public patronage.

A DESTRUCTIVE GALE.—On Thursday night last this town and vicinity was visited by at remendous wind storm, which has left traces of its destruction in more than one place. In town the principal damage done was to the Court House, the northern and southern sides of she west half of the new roof being completely torn off and left a total wreck. The damage to the building is estimated at from $900 to $1000. Early next day the work of repairing commenced and is being rapidly pushed forward and will be completed in a few days.

PAROCHIAL ASSOCIATION.—A meeting of this Society was held on Monday evening, Jan. the 30th, at St. Luke's School-room. The programme consisted of songs, readings and instrumental selections—all of which were well rendered, and met with thorough appreciation. The building was crowded in every part, and the large assemblage seemed to heartily enjoy the proceedings. The Incumbent, Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, occupied the chair, and announced that the closing entertainment for the present winter would take place in the School-room, Ashburnham, on Monday, February the 13th at 7.30 p.m.

B. C. CHURCH ANNIVERSARY.—The anniversary services of the Bible Christian Church, Peterborough, will be held on Sunday and Monday next, 5th and 6th of February. Sermons will be preached on Sunday, at 10.30 a.m. and 6.30 p.m., by the Rev. E. Roberts, of Toronto, and at 2.30 p.m. by the Rev. J. Shaw, Peterborough. Collection at each service in aid of the Trust Funds. On Monday, the annual public tea will be held in the lecture room of the church, and will b eserved from half-past five till eight o'clock after which the Rev. Mr. Roberts will deliver his interesting lecture, entitled. "A Boy who Rose to Renown." Tickets for tea and lecture 25 cents; for lecture only, 15 cents. The public are cordially invited.

LITERARY.—The regular meeting of the Literary Association was held last Monday. There was a good attendance. In the absence of the Secretary, Mr. Dixon acted as substitute. Witty readings were given by Mr. Little and Mr. Toole, entitled "The Boys." and "Breaking up a Church Festival," respectively. The subject—"Should the system of granting bonuses to manufacturers be encouraged?"—was ably debated, Messrs. Clarke and James upholding the affirmative, and Messrs. Eastwood and Beck the negative. The Chairman, after reviewing the arguments, decided in favor of the affirmative. Mr. Braden, critic for the evening, then delivered his report, after which the meeting adjourned.

ESTHER OWEN-FLINT.—The members of Peterborough Lodge of Oddfellows have, we are pleased to say, secured the services of the talented and popular young Canadian elocutionist, Esther Owen-Flint, who will give one of her unrivalled and successful dramatic and dialect recitations, with character impersonations, on Tuesday evening next, February 7th, in Bradburn's Opera House, when she will be assisted by the best local musical talent. The programme will be a choice one, both instructive and interesting, and has been selected so as to afford the artiste ample scope to demonstrate her versatility of dialect and impersonations. The very flattering compliments bestowed upon her wherever she has appeared convinces us that the citizens have a rare treat in store for them. A member of the Chicago press in writing of her entertainments, says:—

"There is a freshness and freedom, and withal a natural earnestness in her interpretations, which make them very effective. There are many public readers who, in default of true inspiration and genius, seek to cover their defects by an adherence to 'rules of arts,' but the difference is readily appreciated, without the soul there can be no true inspiration of character or sentiment, and though art culture necessarily refines and beautifies, it cannot create. Mrs. Flint's recitation of the 'Irish Woman's Letter,' in dialect and rendering is perfect. It is one of those touches of nature that moves an audience and brings to light the better part of humanity. This lady is versatile as she is natural. She leads her audience from 'grave to gay, from lively to severe.' We had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Esther Owen-Flint a few evenings since. Her programme was varied and delightful from beginning to end. She opened with 'The Wreck of the Hesperus,' and rendered this beautiful ballad of Longfellow in a manner we have never heard equalled. The picture of that terrible storm and dismal wreck is in our mind's eye still; the child's wail of terrified anguish yet rings in our ears. In response to an encore she gave 'The Sale of the Old Bachelor,' and the audience a moment before in tears, were now convulsed with laughter. The next selection was 'The Legend of Bregenz.' Her rendition of this heroic poem was vigorous and broadly dramatic, yet full of womanly grace and feeling. Other selections followed, and, as another encore, came 'Musthard.' Over this humorous description if the first visit of two Irishmen to 'Amerikay,' the audience laughed to their heart's content, and some even till tears glistened in their eyes We have seldom seen a more delighted and thoroughly satisfied audience."

Munro & Alexander will have the Nicest Millinery Room in Peterboro', when in their New Store. Mantles and Mantle-making will receive a very large share of their attention.

THE SECRET OF BEAUTY.—No cosmetic in the world can impart beauty to a face that is disfigured by unsightly blotches arising from impure blood. Burdock Blood Bitters is the grand purifying medicine for all humors of the blood. It makes good blood and imparts the bloom of health to the most sallow complexion. 5-2t

CHILBLAINS.—These troublesome complaints may be speedily cured by Haggyard's Yellow Oil, the great rheumatic remedy, which, as an external application and as an internal remedy has a wider range of usefulness than any similar preparation in the world. All druggists sell it, 25c. 5-2t

PERSONAL.

We are pleased to see Mr. George Taylor again on the street after a protracted illness.

The many friends of the Rev. G. C. Workman will learn with pleasure that he has so far recovered from his recent illness as to be able to be out again.

The Omemee Herald says:—"W. H. English leaves for Peterborough on 1st Feb., where he has rented a shop and dwelling. John McWilliams has also gone to Peterborough to reside.

Mr. J. G. Jopling, formerly of this town, has been elected President of the South Perth Agricultural Society. Mr. Jopling apparently takes a great interest in agriculture, and his recent address before the society proves that he is giving the subject considerable attention. His remarks are both interesting and instructive. Peterborough boys, no matter what part they are playing in this world's stage, seem to reach the top of the ladder.

The Canada School Journal says:—"The conclusion of the year's work in Smith's Falls High School has shown very satisfactory results. The indefatigable labor of Mr. J. A. Clarke, M.A., B. Sc., Headmaster, and his staff, have been appreciated by all concerned. Mr. Clarke was presented by his pupils with a handsome silver pen-rack, well stocked, accompanied by an address breathing a spirit of harmony and confidence." Mr. Clarke is well-nown in Peterborough.

The Winnipeg Free Press, of the 22nd, says:—"A Mr. Cane, who came some years ago from England to Peterborough, Ont., and thence to this Province, died very suddenly yesterday morning at the Sherman House. Though he had been more or less ailing for some time, yet no danger was apprehended, but yesterday morning he was found dead. He was still sitting on his chair, and had an apple in his hand. He is said to have been highly educated and respectably connected. Two of his sisters reside in Peterborough His age is believed to have been about thirty-four Though having no relations here he was not left without due attention and care. Mr. F. H. Scoble is superintending the arrangements for the funeral, which will take place to-morrow.

BIBLE SOCIETY MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Peterboro' Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society, was held in the Bible Christian Church on Friday evening last.

Dr. Fife, President of the society, occupied the chair. After opening services by Rev. Messrs. Joliffe and Shaw, the chairman stated the object of the meeting, and asked the Secretary to read the report of the Committee for the year. The report we regret we cannot give, but will give the statement of the Treasurer and Depositary:

OUR TORONTO LETTER.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
TORONTO, Feb. 6th.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

The past week has been outwardly a very dull one in the Legislative Assembly but no time has been lost for all that. The Standing Committees have been appointed and all the necessary steps have been taken to get the work of legislation fairly going this week. One of these committees is the one on standing orders, the duty of which is to see that all the preliminary steps with respect to private bills have been properly complied with. When it is borne in mind that the number of these bills is over a hundred some idea of the importance and difficulty of this task can be formed. It would never do to enter upon the consideration of a bill dealing with private interests, until it is first ascertained whether all the parties likely to be affected have been duly notified, and whether the bill and petition correspond. The necessity for inquiring into these and cognate matters is the cause of the delay in getting the Private Bills and Railway Committees to work. Meanwhile the Government are prepared to go on rapidly with their share of the legislative business. Mr. Pardee will move the second reading of the Streams bill to-morrow and Mr. Wood will bring down his budget on Thursday. As soon as other Government bills can be printed they also will be read a second time.

THE STREAMS BILL.

Notwithstanding the fact that there was a good deal of time during the debate on the address devoted to the discussion of the disallowance of this Act, there is likely to be some further speaking on the subject when the motion for the second reading comes up. It will then be discussed quite separate from the other topics referred to in the speech from the throne, and the real nature of the measure and the inexcusableness of its disallowance will be made to appear much more clearly than before. At the time when it was passed last year the Court of Chancery had decided in the Caldwell-McLaren case, that the owner of the improvements designed to make a stream passable for timber had absolute control of the stream. It was so clearly necessary to limit this control in the public interest, that the Government took up the matter and asked the Legislature to throw all Streams open to the passage of timber subject to the payment of reasonable dues to the owner of the improvements. Hence the passage of the Streams Act. Since it was passed the question has passed through two very important phases; the Act itself has been disallowed by the Dominion Government and the Court of Appeals has completely reversed the decision of the Court of Chancery. The disallowance of the Streams Act leaves the Statute law on the subject exactly where it has been for 25 years past, and the judgment of the Court of Appeals deprives the slide owner under that law of the power to collect the dues to which he has been heretofore regarded as fairly entitled. The Streams Act, which was necessary last year as a measure of relief for the owner of imprisoned logs, is now necessary as a measure of relief for the unfortunate slide owner who finds his hands effectually tied by it. Whether McLaren will object to the passage of an Act now clearly in his interest remains to be seen, but it will pass whether he objects or not. It is at first sight natural to expect that Sir John would disallow it again as promptly as it is passed, but under the conditions as altered by the Court of Appeal decision, he may choose to allow it become law, and thus get rid of an agitation for Provincial rights, which threatens to become troublesome, if not positively dangerous.

THE BUDGET.

The Provincial Treasurer will this year have a very pleasant task to perform. The revival of the lumber trade has largely increased the revenue from Crown timber, while a large lump sum has been brought into the Treasury by the recent auction sale of timber berths. The opening up of the Nipissing, Muskoka, and Algoma districts, by the Canada Pacific and Ontario Sault lines, will enable the Government to sell for settlement purposes, lands which were formerly a drug as free grants. The lots within a reasonable distance of these roads will be more desirable at a dollar an acre than they formerly were for nothing. In this way the $800,000 subsidy to the Ontario Sault line will be partially recouped to the Province, while the building of the railways will enable the Government to dispense with the construction of many miles of colonization roads that would otherwise have been necessary. By this somewhat unexpected turn of events the Provincial revenues will for years to come be largely increased and the great value of the timber of all sorts in the disputed territory, west of Lake Superior, will increase them still more as soon as the Province comes into possession.

COBOURG CENTRAL.

The annual meeting of the General Committee for the Central Exhibition for this district, to be held this ensuing year at Cobourg, took place on Wednesday of last week at Millbrook. After the reception of the President's address, the following were elected officers for the current year:—

PRESIDENT—W. J. Westington.
VICE-PRESIDENT—Major Howden.
SECRETARY—J. Cullis.
TREASURER—W. Riddle.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE—Maj. Deacon, T. M. Willan, M. Porter, M. Beatty, G. Cockburn, G. Carruthers, J. Pratt, J. Barnum, A. A. Burnham, S. Isaac, P. Hinman, R. Scarf and Johnston Beatty.
AUDITORS—J. H. Knight and E. Macnachtan.

STONY LAKE.

RECENTLY Messrs. John Drain and Thomas Doughty made for Jas. Robb, 660 feet of boom timber in one day. The day following, they made 612 feet and lined and scored it. An old man over 50 years of age, hewed it. The whole was made into a first class style for Mr. Robb, who believes in having everything finished in a workmanship manner. If any other 3 men can beat this, let us hear from them. —COM.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

LAKEFIELD'S REQUIREMENTS.

In nearly every newspaper you take up there will be seen notices or editorials, of meetings held in many of our Ontario towns and villages, for the purpose of devising ways and means of attracting manufacturers to locate with them. The unanimous opinion seems to be, that the surest and quickest means that can be taken to build up a town or village, is to secure all the manufactories possible, and that it pays to grant them for a term of years exemption of taxation, as an inducement to locate and employ both capital and workmen. While, we here have been behind the times in our efforts in that direction, there is no place in Ontario that offers better facilities for manufacturing purposes than Lakefield. We have a magnificent and inexhaustable water power; property can be obtained at a moderate figure; taxes are low; and we are at the foot of the navigation of a chain of lakes and rivers, which will supply all kinds of lumber and in any quantity at a low rate. Peterborough has every prospect of soon becoming an important railroad centre, and, Lakefield connected as it is with her by rail, and only nine miles distant, cannot help but share in the benefits conferred by the different lines, as we could ship our manufactured goods east, west, north, and south, with equal facility being in direct communication with the great commercial centres. But in order to secure factories, &c., our citizens must bestir themselves and keep up with the times in trying to secure every advantage that can be obtained, in place of doing as at present, waiting for fortune to drop into their hands—a gift which push and energy can alone secure. Lakefield offers unusual facilities for a Match, Pail and Hub factory or any wooden ware, Stave and Barrel factory, a Woollen mill, and a Tannery and with a little push on the part of our ratepayers all might be secured, and Lakefield would soon take the place her position and facilities entitle her to. Let us suggest that the Reeve call a meeting of the ratepayers to discuss the subject and once started let every one strive to keep the ball rolling.

SANITARY.

As the cold of our winter will soon pass away, many sources of disease will be laid bare to do their work of injury, and there is one to which I wish to call the attention of our Board of School Trustees, so that they can consider the matter and take such steps as will remove all sources of danger to our little ones who attend the school. The main drain from the water closets used by over 250 pupils who attend the school passes within 12 feet or less of the well from which all the drinking water is obtained. The drain is some 4 to 5 ft. beneath the surface while the bottom of the well is many feet below that. In the spring when the melting of the snow and rain flush out the closets the drain must be well nigh filled, and if from any cause the outlet were to become stopped and the sewerage drained back, it is hardly possible that the water in the well could help becoming contaminated; as it is, there must be more or less soakage, which will in time be communicated to the well, to be drank by the children. In a late number of the Sanitary Journal, a case was mentioned to show to what distance sewerage could taint water. "A well was tainted from some source, the water-closet was distant one hundred feet, it was cleaned out and a barrel of salt water poured in and in a day or two the well water was found to have a decidedly salt taste." Every medical man can recall instances of diphtheria and fevers being caused by the use of impure water, and although the water in the school well may never yet have been tainted, or if it has been or caused sickness, we cannot tell how soon it may do so. With that drain situated as it is, it is a constant source of danger to the little ones, and we consider that the trustees would be justified in going to the expense of digging a new well, (say on the south side of the school) and filling the old one up, and the ratepayers would bear them out in so doing when they know that the health, and perhaps life of their children is at stake. It should be attended to before the spring, as the ground is then full of water and will be more likely to carry impurities for a long distance than at other times, and the water-closets are also flushed out by the rush of water through the drain.

BRIDGE.

The workmen engaged have now got the old bridge pretty well taken down and as soon as the piers are finished the Iron work will be proceeded with. Planks are laid so that foot passengers can cross, but the foreman in charge will not permit children to do so for fear of accidents. The ferry is well patronized, being kept on the move from side to side, from daylight until 11 p.m. Three and four teams have been taken over at once without difficulty, and it is giving every satisfaction.

AT WORK.

In anticipation of a new election for village Councillor, Messrs. John Hull and T. J. Nelson are hard at work canvassing for votes and getting in harness for a hot contest, as both are prominent men and each is determined to obtain the seat if possible.

WOOD FAMINE.

Owing to the want of snow very little wood is coming into the village and many have great difficulty to obtain enough for present use, much less to obtain their summer supply, and as a consequence, prices rule high. A good fall of snow would soon lessen the difficulty and please every one.

RUNAWAY.

Dr. Caldwell met with a mishap on Sunday as he was returning from the country, by upsetting his cutter in turning too quick. The horse bolted and left the cutter in a very damaged condition, but, fortunately without injury to any one.

The regular meeting of Court Lakefield No. 43, will be held in the Union Hall on Thursday evening and it is hoped all members will be present as business of importance will be up.

NORWOOD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

MAGISTRATE'S COURT.

On Saturday last Mrs. Eliza Wynn, of Julien's Landing, Burleigh, was arraigned before Messrs. John Breckenridge and T. Murphy, for selling liquor without license. Inspector Drain preferred the charge. Finding that he had a pretty large web woven around her to prove his case, she pleaded guilty. She was fined $20, and costs $9.50, which will take off the profits of her illicit trade for some time to come. Mr. Drain is determined to prosecute parties violating the license law, to the utmost extent.

OBSEQUIES.

The funeral obsequies of the late Miss Emma Griffin took place on Thursday last, and without question was attended by the largest number of people ever assembled in Norwood on an occasion of the kind, many coming from distant parts of the county. The sympathy manifested for the bereaved parents was sincere throughout the large assemblage of people gathered together to follow to the grave the remains of one who was the only joy of her loving parents. Solemn services were conducted at the family residence by the Rev. Mr. Sanderson, who spoke feelingly of the sudden death of Miss Griffin, and referred in beautiful language to her usefulness, and the ready assistance she always gave where her powers as a vocalist would be valuable. He believed her end was peace, and that she died implicitly putting her trust in the Saviour. No death that has ever occurred in this neighborhood has seemingly touched so deeply the sympathies of the people generally. The deceased had only recently celebrated her eighteenth birthday.

REVIVAL SERVICES.

Revival services have been commenced in the Methodist church in this village. The meetings are largely attended, and an increased religious interest is manifestly awakened. They are nightly conducted by the Rev. Mr. Sanderson.

CHURCH ANNIVERSARY.

The anniversary of the opening of the Presbyterian church here was, as expected, a highly successful one in all its details. The Sabbath services, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Torrance, were of a most interesting character, and were largely attended. The sermons, both morning and evening, were eloquent and appropriate. The soiree on Monday evening sustained the reputation of our Presbyterian friends, in the rich and abundant supply of substantial edibles of all kinds provided for the refreshment of the inner man, and ample justice was done to these good things, and a very pleasant hour spent by a large number of people in partaking of them. After tea, a couple of hours was very agreeably enjoyed in listening to witty and eloquent speeches from the Rev. Messrs. Torrance, Sanderson, Sutherland and others. The choir of the church rendered admirable service in the rendition of a fine selection of sacred music. The proceeds netted the handsome sum of $95.

DIVISION COURT.

The regular sittings of the Norwood Division Court was held on Thursday last, His Honor, Judge Dennistoun presiding. Though the docket was a short one, the hearing of the cases occupied about four hours. The following are those disposed of:—

W. E. Murphy vs. David Arksy.—Verdict for defendant.

Hamilton Davis vs. E. B. Hayward.—Suit for damages for removing and taking possession of a quantity of lumber. Verdict for defendant.

James Fox vs. Richard Fox.—Verdict for plaintiff.

MISSIONARY SERVICES.

The annual missionary services in connection with the Methodist churches of this circuit will be held on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday evenings next. On Sunday, morning and evening, the pulpit of the Methodist church here will be occupied by the Rev. Mr. Shaw, of Peterborough, who will also conduct divine worship in the South Dummer church in the afternoon. On Monday and Tuesday evenings public meetings, having for their object the furtherance of the missionary cause, will be held both in Norwood and South Dummer. These meetings will be addressed by Rev. Mr. Shaw, Rev. Mr Sanderson and others.

OUR RAILWAY.

Our Norwood readers will be glad to learn that another step has been made to forward the railway which is to give them wealth and happiness in the future. No doubt the staff of surveyors who commenced work from the Midland station at Peterborough, on Friday last, mean business, and it is quite evident the company in whose hands is the construction of the Ontario and Quebec railway, intend to push the work forward during the coming season, with all the energy at their command. Matters look very favorable towards this end at any rate

APSLEY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

THERE were lively times in the village last week. On Tuesday the County Judge disposed of 7 cases before the Division Court. At night a number of Chandos Irishmen had a "bit of a spree." The spilled some blood and left a few black eyes as reminders of the melee. The following day Mr. Pratt, hotelkeeper, entered proceedings against the party, and brought 7 of them up before Jas. Golborne, Esq., who, on Monday disposed of the cases by fining 5 of them $10.00 each, and the other two $8.00 each. Two of them were also bound over to keep the peace for six months.

THE annual meeting of the Burleigh Agricultural Society, was held on the 4th inst. The annual report showed the society to be in a flourishing condition, there being a much larger balance in the hands of the Treasurer than any year previous. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, W. Hales; Vice-President, A. Brown; Sec-Treas., J. W. Ratcliffe. Directors, D. Lean, John Staples, D. Anderson, H Caldwell, F. Elmhurst, C. Lously, A. Sharp, W. Tucker and A McIlmoyl. Auditors,—Jos. Lously and John Young.

Synonyms for "Births, Deaths, and Marriges" continue to be multiplied by Transatlantic journals. One paper styles them "Babies, Brides, and Bodies;" another adopts "The Cradel, the Dungeon, and the Tomb;" a third "Buds' Orange Blossom and Cyprus;" but "Hatched, Matched, and Dispatched" still carry off the palm.

PETERBOROUGH, FEB. 9, 1882.

Crime and its Detection.

The frequency of murders and other terrible crimes in city and country, and the inefficiency of the police force of the Province is pressed upon us from time to time by the sad occurrences which the press is so often called upon to chronicle. Within late years there have been several heinous crimes committed, the perpetrators of which have not been so readily arrested as justice would demand. The machinery for the arrest of such criminals, especially in country places, is very defective, and the consequences are that in not a few cases, murderers have either got off Scot free, or when traces of the perpetrators have been discovered, there are no means to follow up the clue. The Sage murder at Brantford is a case in point. The chief of police has got on the track, but has to lie quiet, and so perhaps allow the criminal to escape, until application has been made to the Ontario Government for funds. Here, valuable time is wasted and a horrible murder remains unavenged while the perpetrator has every opportunity to make good his escape. Nor is this the only case. If a murder were committed in this county to-morrow there are no ready means of bringing the criminal to justice. Whose duty is it to follow the perpetrator and effect an arrest? To whom would the people look for aid? They might call in the help of some county constable, but such plain men who have no special training as police could be easily thrown off the scent by an experienced criminal. Nor could they, except by courtesy, procure help from the county town. The position of city or town policemen as regards the detection of crimes and the arrest of the perpetrators seems absurd. If they effect an arrest outside their own town limits, they, may obtain their carriage hire; but if they do not succeed in making an arrest, whatever expenses they may have incurred fall upon themselves. In fact it appears they have no jurisdiction, and as there are no county detectives or county police, it is evident the chances for the escape of criminals in county districts are largely increased. Policemen are not likely to interfere when they may toil and labor for nothing, and when at best their reward is but the luxury of doing good. County councils, we fear, are too parsimonious in these matters. The constabulary force is certainly inefficient in almost every county in the province, and as for means to ferret out crime, and put together circumstantial evidence, machinery of this sort is altogether wanting. We believe it would be beneficial if a police force on a small scale were kept up in every county—a staff of two or three good men—who should be paid not by fees, but by salary, and who would be ready on any emergency to undertake the work of detecting crime, and bringing the offenders to justice with the least possible delay. There can be no doubt that a perfect police system is a great factor in preventing crime and in preserving obedience to law and order. In connection with this important subject we notice the Attorney General has made an excellent move in asking for information from the various county officials as regards the present system of detecting crime and bringing the offenders to justice. Circulars have been sent to the county judges and sheriffs and others interested, and, so far as replies have been received, all assent that a change of some kind is necessary. The questions asked by the circular are whether the constabulary force in the county of the recipient is considered reasonably sufficient, or whether it is considered in the interests of justice this force as constituted requires to be supplemented by the appointment of detectives paid by salary instead of fees, or whether there is any reason for believing that criminals now escape detection or conviction who, under such an arrangement, might be brought to justice; and, if so, whether this evil exists to any considerable extent in the particular locality of the recipient. We sincerely trust that in our own county steps may be taken to procure legislation to effect a change for the better detection of criminals, and for the establishment of a small, but well-equipped and well-organized police force, whose duty it shall be to bring about this much desired result.

"Dishonest Merchants in Port Hope."

The Port Hope Daily Guide indulges its readers occasionally in a little mild fun, necessary no doubt, and very good as an attraction from the somewhat dry discussion of party politics. In a recent article it gives a nice little novelette about the sale of horse rugs in that enterprising town—how a spruce clerk in one of the establishments there tried to find a good and sufficient reason for the advance in price, and effect a sale thereof to an honest yeoman. The dialogue is just a little pointless, and the story is old; but still the readers of the Daily Guide will, we have no doubt, make due allowance, and take the horse rug story at its proper value.

The novelette, however, caught the attention of our N. P. Review editor, who, being of rather a serious, not to say morose disposition, immediately concludes this another piece of Grit rascality, and commences an article headed "Roguery Exposed," and, after quoting the little story in question, commences to berate the dishonest merchants of Port Hope for their extortion, and advises the farmers in the neighbourhood of that town to come this way and buy from the honest storekeepers of Peterborough. If it were not that our contemporary is too thick-witted to think of such a thing, we would imagine it was an advertising dodge, paid for by the honest merchants of Peterborough. But when the wise man goes on to say further that he has made inquiry from respectable storekeepers of Peterborough, and even interviewed lumbermen about the price of horse rugs, we give it up, and admit it would take the proverbial surgical operation to get a joke into his head. To keep him from exercising his wit on other towns and their affairs, we will give him the following "conundrum" to answer:—What honest wool-dealer in Peterborough told the farmers in 1878 that the price of wool was so low because Mackenzie was in power? and how much higher is wool now?

Editorial Notes.

THE $10,000, voted for a statue to Sir George Cartier, have it is said, been placed to the credit of Lady Cartier, who has drawn the interest thereon since the grant was made. If the money was intended as a gratuity to the widow, why was it not put that way? We look for an explanation next session.

THE deputation of York County farmers who waited upon Hon. Mr. Hardy in the interest of immigration to Ontario found that gentleman fully prepared to enter into their plans. They anticipate a scarcity of agricultural laborers, because so many young men have gone to Manitoba, and because the Dominion Government seeks principally to take immigrants to the Northwest. The railways are of course interested in carrying them as far as possible. Mr. Hardy said the labour bureau about to be organized would be a means of communication between farmers wanting hands and immigrants wanting work. Fifty thousand copies of the report of the English delegates had been sent to England to show the people what Ontario is like. He favored, too, the idea of putting an officer on the trains at Quebec to let the immigrants know that there was work for them in Ontario.

The Conservative journals are in high glee because Mr. Sylvester Neelon, M. P. P. for Lincoln, who is a reformer, has declared in favor of protection. Of course there are Reformers who are deluded on this question, either by mistaking their personal interest for the interest of the country, or by accepting without proper consideration the specious statements of the advocates of protection. But on the other hand there are Conservatives of intelligence who know that their wealth is reduced by the operation of the N.P., and their votes will fully offset those of the Reformers with protectionist leanings. Such a one is Mr. Joseph C. Kidd, of Cookstown, who writes to the Globe as follows:

SIR,—I would here say, in answer to remarks from a man in Stayner and others, that I entirely agree with the course you take in regard to the tariff. I bought a clock from a merchant, and I had to pay two dollars more for it than the same article cost before the tariff. He told me he could not recommend the Canadian manufacturer. I bought a reaping machine from Haggart Bros., and had to pay $110, that cost $80 before. I have to pay a third more for western corn for seed; we use it for soiling. Seed drills that cost $85 before now cost $100. Woollen goods, such as undershirts and drawers, formerly cost $1 per set, now cost $1.25, and wool that such articles are made from never was so cheap. I never voted Reform, but I am waiting for an opportunity to do so. We are running a man who was a strong Conservative, but is now opposed to the tariff. I think he will have a good chance to win. I have always found the Globe on the side of right. I did not agree with it politically, yet I liked it for its high moral tone, but now I am entirely with it politically.

A CORRECTION.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER;

SIR,—In your issue of Jan. 26th, your correspondent from Smith attempts to give you the particulars of a Parlor Social, held at Mr. M. Sanderson's, on Friday, Jan. 20th, and in his remarks he made an allusion to a "somewhat exclusive party in one corner," "who marred the pleasure of the evening." Would your correspondent inform the public what kind of a party is a somewhat exclusive party, especially at a Parlor Social, where people are supposed to be sociable?

Again, it would be worth a trifle to know how a sociable party could "mar the pleasure of an evening." But he takes a special interest in pointing out that in that "exclusive party" there were two teachers, who ought to know better. Why? How is that? Are teachers not allowed to talk at Parlor Socials? Should they take on themselves the task of frowning everyone into abject silence? I think not. I feel certain that your correspondent did not see the whole crowd (i. e. company), neither did he hear anything from that "corner," during the readings or recitations, of such a nature as to call forth a rebuke from the chairman. I hope your correspondent will excuse the "incessant talk" he heard, and the next time he writes for the public he ought to have a "friend" at his elbow to correct his "incessant" mistakes, while he "sings the Benediction" in an "innocent" humor.

Yours,
ST. RAIGH TEYES.

MUTUAL AID.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—I observe that an effort is being made by Thos. Johnston, Esq., of Otonabee, to create distrust in the public mind regarding the feasibility and soundness of the system adopted by the Canadian Mutual Aid. I regret this very much, and believe that if Mr. Johnston properly understood it he would not speak and write as he does. Although I am already carrying a heavy life insurance in other companies, I have looked into this very carefully with a view of becoming a member, and I am so well satisfied with it that I have paid my money and taken a policy. Under the system, there can never be any debt hang over the association, consequently with good management it can never become bankrupt. Our capital is our membership and our confidence in each other. We keep the money in our pockets until it is wanted and then only pay what is required. The Hon. S. C. Wood, Treasurer of Ontario, is trustee of the association, and holds bonds from the officers to the amount of $50,000 for the faithful handling of our money. I have no doubt whatever of the ultimate success of this association, and have no hesitation in recommending to all who are weak in purse this possible method of procuring a few thousand dollars at a minimum cost to leave behind for the care and comfort of their families in the event of removal by death.

I have seen a return lately from the head office which says the membership is now increasing at the rate of 100 to 120 per month. So we will soon have a flourishing institution capable of paying full death claims. I see it stated that it is not a strictly grange association. Well, as to that I cannot say, nor can I see what difference it makes so long as the system is sound and based on correct business principles. I am pleased to notice the board are very careful in accepting risks. In fact the whole management seems to be carefully attended to, and as far as I can ascertain they have my entire confidence. Thanking you for space, I am yours, &c.,

FARMERS' CLUBS.

MR. BLEZARD, M. P. P. BEFORE THE OSHAWA FARMERS' CLUB.

Mr. Blezard, M. P. P., for East Peterboro, being present, was asked to address the meeting. He said he was a stranger in a strange land, and must be excused from delivering a speech. There were no farmers' clubs in the county of Peterborough, but he thought there should be. Farmers did not all grow the same grains, and he thought by their meeting together and exchanging views, they must learn something. The crops in his section last year were good, in fact he never saw so good a wheat crop. The land in the township of Otonabee, where he resided, was very good—the best in the county, which he thought was borne out by the fact that the township assessment was one fourth of the whole county. The township was settled principally by Scotch, people of not much style, but all hardworking people. Their barley crop was good, but oats a poor crop. They grew no marrowfat peas except on the north shore of Rice Lake, where 30 to 40 bushels per acre were grown. Their farmers produced a lot of pork, but he thought it never paid them to feed hogs. He could make more by selling his peas. Their horses were inferior to those raised in this county, but the farmers were beginning to breed a better class. A good horse was never brought into his county. As a general rule he thought the county of Ontario had better horses, cattle and sheep than any other county in the Province. Last year he had occasion to look for stock, and travelled through this county. He found nearly every farmer had better stock than could be found in his county. They were now, however, getting some good cattle. Most of their farmers thought the breeding of good stock belonged to the rich farmer, which he thought was a mistaken idea. He would like to see some first-class horses brought into the county of Peterboro. He would do all he could to introduce them, and he thought it would pay well. Their farmers were opening their eyes when they saw their neighbors selling a horse for $200, when they could only get half that amount. He was not a speech maker, and making a man an M. P. P. would not make him an orator, but he was a farmer and would not exchange his trade for any other, adding, perhaps, some other time he might meet them, when he would be better prepared to address the Club. In answer to a question, the speaker said there were no blue peas grown in Otonabee, but he was thinking of introducing them. With them the marrowfat pea only produced a small pod though the straw was long. They did not grow much barley, formerly for want of a market. Cobourg was their market, and he had often drawn wheat 35 miles to that town. He grew principally White Russian wheat, which produced 17 bushels per acre. He sowed Arnecta wheat on 10 acres of black muck among pine stumps. About an acre was drowned out and the balance produced 127 bushels. On low land he would rather sow Arnecta and sell it at $1.00 a bushel than any other varietey, but would not sow it on high land. He plowed his wheat land immediately after harvest, and then again in the fall, and would not let a man plow the land in the spring if he did it for nothing.

RAILWAY RIPPLES.

The Campbellford Herald says that several extra trains have passed over the road during the week. The Junction's business is now something of importance.

Two new and large steam shovels have been placed in the Midland elevator in Port Hope to facilitate work. They run splendidly and greatly help shipment.

The Kinmount correspondent of the Independent says that Mr. A. White, of the Midland Railway, was here last week, and I interviewed him, and had a long conversation on the subject of the furnace. The Midland Railway very naturally takes a deep interest in the matter, and is prepared to second Messrs. Barry and Mills in every way in its power. The county of Peterborough ought to assist the project.

A collision occurred on the Victoria Railway, about 10 miles north of Lindsay on Wednesday. One of the coupling pins connecting some cars on a special worked out, and allowed them to run into a mixed train. Engineer Douglas, of the special, had one of his legs broken, both him and the fireman saving their lives by jumping. The engine of the mixed, and the van and two or three flat cars of the special were badly wrecked. No blame is attached to any of the officials.

The Lindsay Post says that some important changes in the staff of the Midland and amalgamating railways will take place as the result of the consolidation. Mr. A. White continues general traffic agent, but as his duties will be greatly increased, he may have a deputy or general passenger agent.....Mr. W. B. Ferguson continues superintendent—the right man in the right place.....Mr. J. J. Ross, the popular secretary of the Whitby line, becomes superintendent of the Grand Junction or Belleville division. His removal from Whitby will be greatly regretted.....Mr. A. Burton, for many years agent at Lindsay, becomes superintendent of the Whitby & Victoria division, from Whitby to Haliburton—Mr. Burton has been over 12 years in the service of the company and deserves the promotion, as he has the ability to fill it thoroughly. His many friends will congratulate him on the upward move..... The Nipissing section will remain under the superintendency of Mr. W. B. Duncan.....Mr. Samuel Wright will be the station agent in Lindsay.....Some other changes will be made in a short time .....It is expected that the new time table will go into force about the 15th of February.....A new station on a large and stylish scale will be built in Lindsay, somewhere in the south ward, south or south-east of the union station, and the main line run across the river to meet the Whitby line.

TEMPLE.—Quite a number of visitors from Carawell Lodge came to the temple on Tuesday, 31st. The entertainment for the evening was got up by the visitors. Tea was supplied by the members of 51. Bro. A. Young gave the party a short address of welcome, after which recess was given. During this time jokes went freely. Bro. Esterbrook was in the chair, while many select pieces were gone through with. The orguinette brought by the party added much to the amusement. Cheers for Lodge 51 were followed by cheers for Carawell Lodge, and then the wheels rolled on under heavy loads.

Messrs. OCTAVIUS NEWCOMBE & Co.,

GENTLEMEN,—After thoroughly testing the Upright Pianos you are now manufacturing, by playing on them and making a critical examination of the mechanism and workmanship, I have much pleasure in stating that on account of the following qualities, viz.:—brilliancy of the treble, sonority of the middle part, and power of the bass, and at the same time, equality of tone throughout, with agreeableness of touch, I consider them entitled to be ranked among the best instruments of the kind manufactured on this continent.

"CAR WORKS" MEETING.

Pursuant to a resolution passed at a late meeting of the Town Council, the Mayor called a meeting of the Council and leading citizens on Friday evening last to discuss the question of the town's assisting the proposed car works by taking stock therein. A very large number were present, and at eight o'clock, the Mayor took the chair and called the meeting to order. He read the resolution authorizing the meeting and briefly explained the object thereof. Owing to the town's present position in regard to its consolidated debt he was not certain whether they could legally take stock without further legislation, but as it was considered a question of much importance to the town, assistance might be given in some other way. Mr. Law, a practical Engineer and one who has had a great deal of experience in car building, was here at the instance of the promoters of the company and would be able to give details of the proposed works, &c. He would first call upon Mr. Cahill, the mover of the resolution, to give his views.

Mr. Cahill said his attention was first called to the matter by articles in the local papers, and upon consideration he felt it would be a good thing for the town to have such an establishment located here. When he learned that Mr. Cox had offered to take one-tenth of the stock, provided it was not less than $100,000 nor more than $200,000, and that other gentlemen of the town were also willing to take stock, the question suggested itself to him of the wisdom of the town taking $10,000 or $20,000 stock in the concern. At the meeting after the municipal elections, the subject had been broached, and since then he had been asked by several ratepayers to take further steps in the matter. He had thought a joint meeting of the Council and citizens the best way to have the matter ventilated, and had accordingly moved the resolution requesting this meeting. He was in favor of assisting the company by means of taking stock, as he believed such an industry would be of great benefit to the town. The car works in Cobourg paid out some $15,000 a month in wages, and if we could have a similar establishment located here it must be of vast benefit to the town.

Mr. Law was next called upon, and said he was here assisting the promoters of the company in trying to establish a company for the manufacture of cars. This, through time, would develope and increase gradually until the wheels, axles and springs were made here, and he had little doubt but that they would eventually manufacture their own iron. At present it was proposed to commence with from 150 to 200 men but would in time increase to 500 or 600. He knew of no better location between Toronto and Montreal than Peterborough for such works, as this town was destined to become an important railway centre, having so many lines converging here. As an example of the benefits of such an establishment to the town he said that works employing from 75 to 100 men would turn out from 6 to 8 cars per day, the wages paid out would be about $1,000 a month, while they would consume from $150,000 to $200,000 worth of lumber per year. Already between $40,000 and $50,000 of stock has been subscribed; others have promised to do so, and if the town gives the proposed assistance, the works could be placed in working order and running in 5 or 6 months. In answer to the Mayor as to who had taken stock, he said those who had subscribed and those who had promised, were Messrs. Geo. A. Cox, D. W. Dumble, Jas. Stevenson, John Burnham, Poussette & Roger, McKee & Davidson, John Hull, Geo. Dunsford, A. C. Dunlop, Geo. Hilliard, R. Rowe, R. Hall, T. W. Robinson & Co. and others, as well as a party in Montreal, named Macdougall, a manufacturer of car springs. As to the nature of the town's assistance, some favoured taking stock and others giving a bonus. He was in favor of the town taking stock, and had no doubt they would find it a profitable investment. In Pennsylvania he knew of works that had been running for 14 years, and had never lost a week. In fact the 18 car works at present in that State cannot supply the demand. The life time of a freight car in the past has been from 10 to 12 years, but with the increased weight of load now placed on them, it is reduced to 4 or 5 years, or in other words, the whole rollings stock will have to be replaced every 4 or 5 years. In Canada with its present railways, it is calculated that 200 cars are destroyed or go out of service each week, and as it is at present, the various companies cannot tell where to place their orders. Then, there is the Canada Pacific of itself, which will require an immense amount of freight cars. On careful calculation it is said it would require ten car works for ten years, turning out 8 or 10 cars per day, to meet the demand. This with the existing and projected roads can leave no fears of slack times in this industry for the next 10 or 12 years. The machinery and buildings necessary for works to employ from 175 to 200 men, would cost, he thought, from $40,000 to $45,000. Cars run in price from $450 to $600, with an average profit on each car of from $20 to $30.

Councillor Kelly suggested that instead of the town either bonusing the enterprise or taking stock that it give a free site and exemption from taxation for 21 years.

Mr. D. G. Hatton desired that something should be done to benefit the town. He believed the subscription of stock to be preferable to a bonus, and more likely to find favor with the ratepayers. The town would then be interested in the matter and have a representative on the Board. He thought $20,000 would be a fair amount of stock for the town to take. The gentlemen who had subscribed were all large ratepayers. They were willing to place their own money in the enterprise as well as pay their share of the taxes for the town's share. There would not be the least trouble in getting a market for all the cars that could be built, as every road was requiring them. As it is now, there was no certainty with grain dealers when they could get their produce moved. Oftentimes they were deterred from buying through fear of not being able to move it to market when they wanted. During last year he knew that hundreds of tons of hay, baled up in the back country, could not be got to market, owing to the fact that no cars could be obtained. The present roads in Canada can not be supplied with cars. Then there is the Canadian Pacific which will require an enormous amount of rolling stock during the next few years, and which will need constant replenishment. The Ontario & Quebec would also be another customer, and he felt confident in saying that before one year, that road would be running east and west from Peterborough, and that inside of a year and a half it would connect Ottawa and Toronto. This rolling stock wears out rapidly, and as the weight of loads are increased, the lifetime of a car will decrease. There was no danger of the market giving out. The question now is; "Shall Peterborough take advantage of its natural position to supply this want?" In time, this company will be able to extend its business and take in the manufacturing of wheels, axles and springs. Every one will admit that the town would be benefitted by manufactures. Then when we get an opportunity like this, let us not throw it away. When a man like Mr. Cox was willing to take ten per cent of the stock it was pretty good evidence of its being bona fide. Then there were Messrs. Dumble, Stevenson and others, all willing to put their money into it. Why should those who were unable to put their hands in their pockets and invest so much cash, not assist it in the manner of the town taking stock. We had had a law placed on the statute book, enabling us to aid manufactures. Let us take advantage of it, and if the law won't allow us to take stock, then let us give a bonus. Stock would be preferable, as we could hereafter sell out the stock and use the money to assist other enterprises.

Mr. Richard Hall wished to assist this enterprise and had taken stock in it. He was willing to pay his share of the taxes for the benefits which would be derived from it.

Dr. O'Sullivan was both willing and anxious to assist and would take stock in the company, as he believed it would benefit all classes of the community, either directly or indirectly. Besides providing work for our mechanics, laborers and artizans, it would attract outsiders to our town who would take advantage of our magnificent water privileges for establishing other industries.
